Nuclear leak danger feared

Hydro says rise in lake tritium levels 'no reason for concern'

By JUDI BOBBITT
 Staff Reporter
 AJAX-PICKERING - Levels of radioactive tritium in drinking water here climbed following a leak at the Pickering nuclear plant earlier this month. Although the highest level of tritium measured was well within safety guidelines, the community should have been alerted of the rising levels, says Sherrill Willard of Save The Ajax Waterfront Committee, which is fighting the location of a new water supply facility on the Ajax lakefront, not far from the nuclear plant.

Ajax gets ready for a festival

AJAX - There'll be something for just about everyone at this year's Ajax Family Festival.

The event, from Sept. 11 to 13 at the Ajax Community Centre, will include a trade show, teddy bear picnic, seniors' tea and a fashion show.

Proceeds from the festival go to local charities, such as the St. Andrew's Community Centre and Ajax Seniors' Friendship Club expansion funds, and the Ajax and Pickering General Hospital expansion fund.

The trade and home show will run each day on the floor of the old ice pad with some 75 booths featuring exhibitors from local businesses and services.

Hours are from 5 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free throughout the festival.

On Friday evening, Toronto Blue Jays mascot B.J. Birdie will appear.

The fashion show on Sept. 11, called Clothes Encounters of the Best Kind, will be held in the HMS Ajax Room, with doors opening at 7 p.m. and the show starting at 7:30.

There'll be women's and men's fashions and accessories, a number of draws and a raffle. Fashions will come from The House Boutique, Lingering Impressions, and Crossings Men's Wear.

Entertainment will be provided by Free Time, an a capella group.

Admission is $10, which includes a complimentary glass of wine or a soft drink, as well as crackers and cheese for each table.

On Saturday, Sept. 12, the craft show will be held in the HMS Ajax Room from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and admission is free. More than 50 tables will feature arts and crafts from local artisans.

The seniors' tea room and bake sale will be held in conjunction with the craft show.

Beginning at 11 a.m. in the west parkette of the community centre, the teddy bear picnic will entertain children of all ages. The Ajax McDonald's restaurant is sponsoring the event with free admission.

Ronald McDonald will be on hand, as will children's entertainer Dan Devion. Other activities will include face painting, a teddy bear hospital, jumping castles, a petting zoo, free draws and balloons.

You can take your lunch or buy it there.

In case of rain, the picnic will be held in the cafeteria of Harwood Secondary School on Falby Cr.

You can try your hands at games of chance at the Monte Carlo Night, which will run from 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. in the HMS Ajax Room. Admission is $2.

An auction sponsored by the Ajax-Pickering Board of Trade will be held on the trade show floor on Sunday, Sept. 13, at 2 p.m. Items to be sold will come from businesses with booths at the trade show.

Runnymede Developments is sponsoring the family festival.

Tickets for events requiring them are available at Dickson Printing in the Ajax Plaza or the office centre at the corner of Westney Rd. S. and Clements Rd. E., The House Boutique at 282 Monarch Ave., the Penn Centre Restaurant in the Harwood Place Mall, and Galbraith Jewellers and Gifts in the Ajax Plaza.

Cop topless after theft

AJAX - You've heard of the TV program Top Cops? How about Topless Cops?

Durham Regional Police say a Metro police sergeant who lives in Ajax reported the theft of 12 shirts and two pair of pants from the back seat of his car.

The bandit broke the rear window of the car, which was parked on Locker Dr., late Saturday or early Sunday.

New school hosts barbecue

AJAX - The town's newest school will host a community barbecue for its students, parents and staff.

Lincoln Alexander Public School, also known as Hermitage Public School, will host the event Thursday, Sept. 3 from 3 to 5 p.m.

The school is on Church St., across from Pickering High School.

Girl missing two weeks

PICKERING - A 13-year-old Pickering girl has been missing since Aug. 5.

Police say Jennifer Connery went missing from her home two weeks ago and hasn't been heard from since.

She is described as 5'2" tall, 90 pounds, with slim build, blonde hair, blue eyes, and braces on her top and bottom teeth.

She was wearing a boys' baseball shirt, white sandals and blue jeans. Anyone with information is asked to call police.

CAS strike may be over

By MARIANNE TAKACS
Durham Staff

DURHAM - A contract agreement has been reached that may bring Durham's Children's Aid Society employees back to work by Thursday morning.

The 80 Durham CAS workers have been on strike since Aug. 4, leaving the agency's management to provide essential services.

The tentative agreement was reached around 2 a.m. Tuesday morning, after marathon negotiating sessions that began Friday and included a 29-hour weekend session. The talks were guided by a provincially-appointed mediator.

"The negotiating committee is unanimously recommending acceptance of the package," says Canadian Union of Public Employees representative John Cherry, a member of the committee. He says the agreement was to go to the CAS workers for a vote at noon today. If it is ratified, emergency workers could be back on the job by Wednesday night, and the regular workers on Thursday morning.

Mr. Cherry describes the lengthy negotiations as "pretty tough for both sides".

Neither Mr. Cherry nor Mort Marder, executive director of the Durham CAS, would release any details of the agreement.

"We're satisfied and pleased," says Mr. Marder. "It was a tough struggle."

Barbecue aids Benji

AJAX-PICKERING - A barbecue and corn roast Saturday, Aug. 22 will aid Benjamin Britsky.

Benjamin, a local three-year-old, left for the U.S. Wednesday to try an experimental drug that could stop his body's rejection of a liver transplant. His family, with the aid of the community, has raised more than $10,000 for the trip.

Saturday's fund-raising barbecue will include live entertainment and will be held at a private residence at 130 Rossland Rd., Ajax, near the Harwood Ave. intersection, from 6 p.m. to midnight. During the event, donations will be collected. For more information, call Glen Wilson at 427-5825.

No health risk: Hydro

"I would've thought an advisory between Thursday and Saturday (following the leak) would have been worthwhile," she says, adding that local residents, particularly pregnant women, might have wanted to abstain from drinking the water. "The danger with this is we didn't know. We were drinking it when (the tritium level) was much worse than when (the Ajax water treatment plant) was closed."

But the tritium levels pose no health hazards to pregnant women or other residents, says Ontario Hydro spokesman Jack Muir. "There's no reason for concern," he assures, pointing out that allowable tritium levels are established based on the assumption a fetus is exposed to it.

The Ajax and Whitby water treatment plants were temporarily closed following the Aug. 2 spill of 3,000 litres of radioactive water into Lake Ontario. Initial testing immediately after the spill showed 10 becquerels of tritium per litre, well below the allowable limit of 40,000 bq/litre.

But subsequent testing over the following week showed tritium levels were climbing. The highest level recorded was 835 bq/litre, says Mr. Muir; the level is now going down and is below 100 bq/litre.

To put that in perspective, Mr. Muir says if residents drank 40,000 bq/litre — the maximum level allowed — for a whole year, they'd receive 50 millirems of radiation. The average Ontario resident receives between 300 and 400 millirems of radiation a year from natural sources such as sunlight and medical X-rays, he says.

Ms. Willard, however, says allowable tritium limits are too high. The recent spill represents three per cent of the plant's monthly tritium release limit, she acknowledges, but "If they went to the full amount we'd have cancer all over the place."

Mr. Muir says there's "no scientific basis for that (statement) at all." Allowable tritium limits are set by the Atomic Energy Control Board and anyone concerned with the limits can speak to the board, he says. "I don't think you need to terrify your neighbors to (get answers)."

Broken equipment caused tritium leak

PICKERING - Broken equipment was the cause of a radioactive water leak at the Pickering nuclear plant earlier this month, says Ontario Hydro.

Company investigations show a piece of broken strainer damaged a moderator heat exchanger tube, allowing 3,000 litres of tritium-contaminated water into Lake Ontario.

Hydro says it's the first time strainers have caused a problem in 21 years of operation and predicts there will be no recurrence. However, the company has launched an inspection program into the rest of the plant's strainers.

Approximately five hours after the tritium leak was discovered Aug. 2, the solicitor general's office was notified and the Ajax and Whitby water treatment plants were shut down as a precaution. The Ontario ministry of the environment has questioned the five-hour notification process and says it hasn't yet determined if charges will be laid in the incident.

Ontario Hydro says the leak represents less than three per cent of its monthly tritium-release limit as set by the Atomic Energy Control Board. The radioactive water posed no hazard to residents, the company maintains.

Victims' advocate seeks Reformers' nomination for Ontario Riding

Murdered woman's father wants tougher justice system

AJAX-PICKERING - The father of a young woman murdered by a criminal out of prison on mandatory supervision 12 years ago is seeking the Reform party nomination in Ontario Riding.

Ajax resident Don Sullivan, co-founder of the support group Victims of Violence, hopes to gain the support of the party's 820-plus membership when it votes Sept. 9 to choose a candidate for the next federal election.

The former Metro police officer is opposed to the Young Offenders Act and is critical of the criminal justice system, believing violent offenders receive sentences which are too "lenient" and drunk drivers are given an "easy ride". He also says the secrecy of parole board hearings too often result in a judge's original sentence being "circumvented".

"The right to safety of person and security of property is paramount before any rights of any convicted criminal can be considered," Mr. Sullivan says of his intent to "tilt the criminal justice system back towards the honest, law-abiding citizens of this country and away from the criminal element."

Mr. Sullivan chronicled his family's fight for justice following his daughter Pamela's murder in Ajax in the book Victims: Orphans of Justice. His fight with the federal government was the subject of a Reader's Digest story.

If elected, the Korean War veteran promises to support the claims of Hong Kong veterans and their families.

"I will push forward the claims of these brave Hong Kong veterans and their surviving family members," he says. "The government's past and present treatment of these brave people is a national disgrace."

Mr. Sullivan is second in command at the Port of Toronto Security Department, which provides policing for the federal docks in Toronto and the Island Airport.

He promises to take a stand on those "perks" given to federal politicians, including untaxed allowances or wages. While he will "push Reform Party policies unfailingly," Mr. Sullivan says he "will not be Ottawa's representative in Ontario Riding. Instead, I will be your Ontario Riding constituency representative in Ottawa."

The Reform Party will hold an all-candidates' meeting Tuesday, Aug. 25 beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Ajax Community Centre. Others who've so far indicated an interest in running for the Reform Party here are Whitby's Andrew Davies and Bill Foden of Pickering.

Probe continues in 401 death

was pulling a trailer with a sports car on it when the accident occurred in the westbound lanes around 3:30 a.m. Police are still searching for a van which they believe also hit the teen.

Const. Bill Muldoon says Mr. Vrzovski may have been disoriented after the vehicle he was driving struck a van.

The teen had reportedly been driving at a fast speed and was weaving in and out of traffic when he lost control and drifted toward the centre median. He then swerved back into the highway, colliding with a van driven by a pregnant woman.

The van was spun into the north field and the car went into a ditch before stalling and sustaining a flat tire.

Mr. Vrzovski apologized when the van's owner took him to the van. He also complained about a head injury, says Const. Muldoon.

The teen then walked southbound to the highway, where he reached the middle lane before being sideswiped by a vehicle and hit by the motor home.

There were no signs of alcohol or drugs. The investigation continues.

Steven Craig Sommerville

Escapee busted for bank jobs

DURHAM - A man wanted in connection with dozens of bank heists throughout Ontario, including several here, has been arrested by police in Toronto.

The OPP, backed by Metro Police, arrested 29-year-old Stephen Craig Sommerville at the Westbury Hotel just after midnight Thursday morning.

At large from Frontenac Institution near Kingston since January, he faces 43 armed robbery charges from Fredericton, New Brunswick, to Windsor. Total haul of the robberies, say OPP, is about $250,000.

Mr. Sommerville was the object of a large manhunt coordinated by the OPP and involving 20 police forces.

The most recent local heist Mr. Sommerville's suspected in was a robbery at the Canada Trust branch on Bayly St. in Ajax.

Editorial

Gearing up for dump battle

Approximately one month from now, 17 candidate dump sites in the region will be narrowed to five or six sites as the province continues its search for a Durham-only landfill.

Pickering residents would like nothing better than to see the seven sites in the town's rural area eliminated from consideration. But, faced with the very real possibility that won't happen, the town is gearing up for a fight.

A mayor's-citizens' task force against dumps has been formed and late last week opened an information office in the Pickering Town Centre. In the first three days of operation, hundreds of residents passed through its doors. The information centre's manager, Katariina Sillanen, urges residents to become informed about the dump issue.

"A lot of people in Pickering don't even know where the dump sites are," she points out.

At the information centre, across from Dominion, residents are able to see exactly where the potential sites are in relation to their own homes by viewing aerial photos. There's also information on the dump-search process, waste reduction, the issue of social equity and more. Residents can sign protest scrolls, form letters and petitions or use a computer to compose their own letters to provincial officials. If the centre doesn't have the information you want, staff will get it for you. More volunteers are needed to staff the centre and a training manual is now being put together.

Both residents and politicians say Pickering has done its share in hosting dumps, and they're hoping the provincial Interim Waste Authority will see it that way when considering the criteria of social equity. But Ms. Sillanen says residents will need to stand united and protest loudly to persuade the IWA to take a hard look at social equity.

The info centre is open weekdays from 1 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays from noon until 5 p.m. The phone number is 831-9189. The first step in getting involved is getting informed.

Non-users of public school shouldn't pay for it

To the editor:

How are we going to educate our children? There are two schools of thought on this subject.

One says that teachers must have authority, and that pupils must be disciplined and obedient. Obedience would be perfect, except that imagination, creativity, eagerness to learn dies in this scenario. The school becomes a jailhouse.

Another school of thought holds that to educate our kids, we only need to provide opportunity. The teacher is like a gardener, who makes available fertile soil, and the young plant can select the nutrients it needs. The plant will develop best, when it has the greatest possible freedom to choose the nutrients it needs. In other words total freedom is best. But might total freedom lead to chaos?

How then, do we reconcile two complete opposites in such a way as to provide an atmosphere in which our children will want to learn? We can force them to sit on a school bench for 12 frustrating years, but we cannot force them to drink from the fountain of learning. If, on the other hand, they want to learn, they can learn more in half the time. We will not be able to stop them. Perhaps the answer lies in freedom under responsibility.

The third element required to achieve reconciliation between the two schools of thought could be called compassion, or empathy, or love. A teacher who does not love his kids cannot be very effective. A teacher, who loves his kids, does not go on strike, he does not put loyalty to his union ahead of loyalty to his kids. He does not use his kids as pawns in order to get executive salary and pension far ahead of those parents who employ him. A teacher is really a facilitator, like the garden-

Nearly every parent you talk to is unhappy with the public school system in Ontario, and the taxpayers are angry about the cost of it. Only those who make a living from the system will defend it. Even the trustees, who are supposed to represent the parents and the taxpayers, will not admit that there are problems. It seems, that we elect these trustees, and immediately they become captives of the teachers' unions.

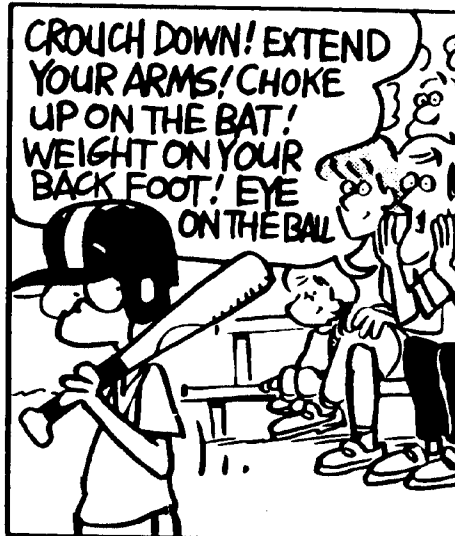

The responsibility for the education of our kids rightly belong to us, the parents. Gradually this responsibility has been taken away from us by so-called professionals, bureaucrats and politicians, who think they know better than we, what is best for our kids.

We must have the right to seek alternative schooling. It is neither fair, nor realistic, that those who are concerned enough to seek better schooling for their children, should pay twice. I recommend a voucher system for all private alternative schools of 80 to 90 per cent, and for those who choose to home school, 50 per cent of the cost of keeping a child in public school.

Cops hunt driver who hit teens, left scene

By SGT. GRANT ARNOLD
Durham Regional Police

DURHAM - Crime Stoppers and Durham Regional Police are asking for the public's help in solving a hit-and-run in Whitby April 30.

At 12:05 p.m. that Thursday, two 14-year-old girls were standing on the south sidewalk of Rossland Rd. E., just east of Garrard Rd., waiting for the signal light to change. When the light switched to green, both girls started to walk across Garrard Rd.

CRIME

A red car stopped in the through lane moved forward as the girls walked across the street. The vehicle ran over the foot of one of the girls and her friend ended up on the hood.

The female driver stopped her vehicle and asked the girls if they were alright. She then drove off eastbound on Rossland Rd.

The driver of the vehicle is described as female, white, 35 to 40 years old, with dark hair.

The vehicle was a new model red car, possibly a Pontiac Grand Prix.

Crime Stoppers and the Durham Regional Police hit-and-run squad would like to talk to the driver of the vehicle.

When you call Crime Stoppers, you don't have to identify yourself or have to go to court.

The Crime Stoppers phone number is 436-8477. That's 436-TIPS.

Sergeant Grant Arnold is the coordinator of Durham Regional Crime Stoppers.

CHANGES TO THE ONTARIO DRUG BENEFIT PROGRAM

The Ministry of Health is changing the Ontario Drug Benefit program, effective August 25.

The ministry asked an independent group of health experts to recommend changes to the program. As a result, some new drugs are being added, and others are being taken off.

Prescription drugs necessary for serious health conditions will continue to be available, at no direct cost, to those on the program. As well, over-the-counter products such as insulin for diabetes are still covered.

Among the products being added to the program are a new slow release drug to treat Parkinson's disease, and a drug for the treatment of shingles. Products like sunscreens, multiple vitamins and antihistamines are among those being removed.

In total, the changes affect a small percentage of drugs covered by the program.

WHY MAKE THE CHANGES?

The government is working to better manage health care spending. It now spends over $1 billion a year on the Ontario Drug Benefit program alone.

Costs have risen 18 per cent annually during the past 10 years. With these changes we hope to keep the increase to 14 per cent.

MORE INFORMATION?

The Ontario Drug Benefit program provides benefits to people 65 and over, and people receiving social assistance.

For more information on how these changes may affect you, call the ministry's toll-free Infoline.

Cloth diapers most economical

In these tough economic times it makes sense for parents to choose the reusable cloth diapers. From a monetary standpoint, a package of one dozen baby nappies can be bought for $20 in department stores and in some pharmacies and supermarkets. Initial cost to accommodate a newborn includes three dozen diapers, safety pins (once heralded as the greatest invention of its time), a diaper pail and several pairs of quality plastic pants. With the exception of plastic pants and laundry soap, this is a one-time purchase of under $100.

At present, Absolutely Diapers, a retail store specializing in baby needs located in Toronto's east end, has the largest selection of quality diapers. The store also offers a delivery order service. Custom-fit cloth diapers may also be purchased from a sales representative from Indisposables or Crabapple Cotton Diaper Company.

With the convenience of a washing machine doing a diaper laundry every three days, what could be easier? The use of a clothes line on sunny or windy days is the environmentally-friendly way of drying. Sunlight will also whiten and sterilize diapers.

When parents choose to use disposables, the cost to diaper the average baby from birth to toilet training is approximately $1,300. If leachate and landfill problems are a concern to parents, take note that a baby will use approximately 6,500 disposable diapers during this time and studies prove that 35 per cent of discarded disposables contain fecal matter. The studies conclude that "few", if any, of these diapers are rinsed or emptied into the toilet.

For parents who cannot conveniently wash diapers for a variety of reasons, a diaper service will offer the natural cloth comfort and provide a regular personalized home pick-up and delivery service at reasonable prices.

Lisa White, co-owner of Nana's Diaper Service in Durham, explains that Nana's offers personalized service by looping a colored thread through the baby's diapers.

This allows the diapers to wash thoroughly, yet keep each customer's diapers separate. Nana's washing machine can take up to five different loads at one time.

The newborn, infant, toddler, and large with extra absorbency are the four different styles of diapers that are available at this particular service. Nana's will also launder a customer's own diapers.

Recycler's Report

LARRAINE ROULSTON

Ms. White says she'll also accommodate visiting families who wish to use the service for a short period of time. "Another successful idea has been to provide a diaper service for an event where mothers could enjoy the time without the thought of disposable diapers filling a recreational trash barrel. Whenever a baby needs a diaper change, we do what we can," she adds.

Check the yellow pages for a Diaper Service and be sure to inquire about the detergent that is used.

Jessica Weir turns four years old

Name Dropping

KEITH GILLIGAN

Hello and welcome back to Name Dropping, the column that puts the special into occasions. We have a bunch of items again this week, so let's get going...

Friday, Aug. 14 was a big day for Jessica Weir, because she turned four years old. She had...

Jessica Weir

Beauty and the Beast party with all her special friends. Wishing Jessica a happy birthday, with lots of love, were Mommy and Daddy...

The birthdays come fast and furious in August in the Chaisson home. On Aug. 10, Laura Chaisson turned three years old, while on Aug. 28, her brother Kyle will turn one. Happy birthday greetings come from Mommy, Daddy, Matthew, their loving grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins...

Monday, Aug. 17, was a special day for Brandon Michael Cordeau, as he turned one. A party will be held at his Grandma and Grandpa Milling's home in Ajax. Helping Brandon celebrate his big day were his Mommy Kari, cousin Jessica, auntie Kelly, uncle Al, Grandma and Grandpa, and his pal Casey. Love and best wishes to "our big guy" come from the whole family...

It's official — Dale Hache is old. Dale turned 30 Saturday, Aug. 15 and sending along birthday greetings, with lots of love, was his Mom. A party was held at the Sapphire Bar and Grill to mark the occasion...

A little beauty with big blue eyes turned five years old on Aug. 2. A party for Christina-Lee Luehof was held on Aug. 8 at Bill's farm and there was a hay ride and lots of games with family and friends there. Birthday wishes came from sisters Jessica and Amanda, Mommy, Daddy, Oma, Opa, Nanna, Poppa, her aunts, uncles and cousins...

A Mommy and Daddy (Joanne and John Sauvé) want to wish their two beautiful children very happy birthdays. Son Sean turned two years old on Aug. 10, while daughter Ashley will be five years old on Sept. 24. Ashley and her friends and cousins will be going to Pizza Hut for a party. "We love you both very much," Mommy and Daddy say...

A family writes: "Carleigh O'Connell was one year old on Aug. 6, 1992. Wishing Carleigh a happy birthday are Mommy, Daddy, Granny LeBarr and all her friends and relatives who celebrated on Aug. 15. Happy birthday to Tess, who lives next door, as she celebrates her first birthday on Aug. 6, as well..."

Visitors have come from far and wide to stay at the Ashworth home on Falby Court in Ajax. Mary Agius has travelled from Crawley, West Sussex, England, while Emmanuel Gellef has come from Port Richey, Florida. They're here for a family reunion. Also here are J. Pirozzi and Scotty from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, the Nadons and O'Connors from Indiana and the Donats family from London, Ontario. Other family members come from Toronto and Ajax...

That brings us to the end of another edition of Name Dropping. If you have an item you want mentioned, call us at 683-5110 or write to 130 Commercial Ave., Ajax, Ontario, L1S 2H5. The deadline for submissions is 11 a.m. the Wednesday before publication. We're not responsible for lost or damaged photographs. Name Dropping is no longer running birth announcements. If you have a birth to announce, call the classified department at 683-5110.

Are you heating with oil or electricity? Convert to clean and efficient Natural Gas and save six to eight weeks to bring gas from the street to your house. So hurry, let us make your arrangements today.

With a Carrier humidifier, you may set your thermostat lower. That's because dry air causes evaporation of moisture from your skin, making you feel cooler than the actual temperature of the air. When you add moisture to the air, you feel warmer.

Our humidifiers reduce irritating static electricity and replenish moisture in the air, which can revitalize your plants, woodwork, and furnishings.

When heating and cooling unit components get dirty, they operate less efficiently and consume more energy. With a Carrier electronic air cleaner, parts stay cleaner longer. That helps keep your energy bills down and reduces system maintenance.

A1 Air Conditioning & Heating :

After 25 years of service opens Durham operation to serve you better

Carrier & United Technologies have designed the state of the art high- and mid-efficient furnaces and are world leaders with the 58SSC Weathermaker (high) and 58SSC Crusader (mid).

Condensing furnace technology takes the chill out of winter.

During heating operation, most furnaces create usable hot air with a component called the heat exchanger. Warm, leftover exhaust gases from the heat exchanger are piped outside, and they represent wasted heat. With condensing furnace technology, the Weathermaker uses two S-shaped heat exchangers. Together, they convert nearly all the gas you burn into usable heat.

HSI is the most reliable ignition system available

No matter how efficient a furnace is, it is of no use if it doesn't work reliably. That's why the Weathermaker features Hot Surface Ignition (HSI). HSI is the most reliable ignition system available, and it saves gas by eliminating the need for a standing pilot light.

Further enhancing the reliability of the Weathermaker is the microprocessor control board. This centralized electronic control oversees blower operation for smooth start-ups and monitors furnace functions to ensure top performance. It also allows for easy addition of a matched Carrier air conditioning system, air cleaner or humidifier.

Uncovering early tell-tale signs of roof damage

Blisters, cracks and curls are all some warning signs of a roof in need of repair.

By uncovering potential problems in the early stages, homeowners can help prevent more serious and expensive repairs later.

But how do you know what to look for in a roofing contractor? Here are some tips:

1. If most of the homes in your neighborhood are the same age, chances are your neighbors have had roofing work done recently. Ask them for references.

2. Ask the roofing contractor you call for names of satisfied customers you can contact.

3. Get all price quotes in writing. Quotes should include exactly what work needs to be done (gutters, flashings, cleanup, etc.)

Get in writing the maximum price and method of payment, too.

4. Before having any work done, make sure the contractor is fully insured.

5. If work is needed, make sure the contractor will issue a certificate identifying the shingle manufacturer and warranty stating the type of material installed. Also, a reputable contractor will supply his own workmanship guarantee.

6. You should get more than one quote on a job, so be sure to describe the job's requirements exactly the same way to each contractor. Make sure each estimate specifies similar shingles.

Choosing the right material

It's worth noting that if you and the contractor agree that your roof needs repair or replacement, you should research your shingle selection thoroughly.

Specific information to consider includes:

- The new shingles' warranty. The length of coverage and reimbursement costs vary with each manufacturer. The longest warranty may not be the strongest, so read it carefully.

- Durability. Organic-mat shingles typically carry a 15-year warranty, while glass-fibre mat shingles typically have a 20- or 25-year warranty. The new, laminated fibre glass shingles even carry 30-year warranties.

Glass-fibre mat shingles generally are more durable because the mat will not absorb water, so the shingles resist curling and blistering.

- Fire-resistance ratings. Most fibre glass shingles carry an Underwriters Laboratories Class A fire rating - the highest in the industry. Most organic-base shingles carry the Class C rating.

You should also consider esthetics when shopping for new shingles. Today's homeowners planning to reroof are more concerned with curb appeal and the increase in a home's resale value achieved with architectural shingles.

Architectural shingles give a roof texture and added depth, much like more expensive wood shakes.

If a new roof is not needed, take care of repairs as soon as possible to avoid any serious damage, especially to your home's interior.

The various types of roofing materials allows the homeowner to consider economics as well as esthetics.

Second hand shopping - first-rate decorating style

Summer's almost over, but yard sales continue to be big business.

While it's true that yard sales are a great place to find a bargain, don't underestimate the fact that someone else's trash can be today's decorating treasure.

You can call it shabby chic or second-hand style. But whatever the term, our throwaway society has renewed interest in decor from the past. This can be precious antiques, flea market, or swap shop vintage. In current design vocabulary, the key words are 'resourceful' and 'recycling'.

The philosophy is rooted in the 'green' thinking now a part of North America's consciousness, while the retrenching economy is forcing others to make do. Still others are shunning conspicuous consumption in favor of simpler pleasures.

Whether you're a genuine antique lover, or you simply want the 'shabby chic' look, yard sales shouldn't be overlooked.

Replacing Your Shingles

When was the last time you took a really good look at your roof? Are the shingles buckling or curling? Do you continually find small pieces of shingle material around your yard following a rainstorm? Have you noticed any damp patches in your attic or worse yet -- on your ceilings?

If so, now is the time to think about having your home re-shingled. You may want to limit your efforts to just repairing small portions of it, but if the condition is really bad, then re-shingling is the route you'll want to take.

This process -- one that many homeowners tend to put off until the damage is severe -- is relatively fast and straightforward, depending on the size of your roof, and whether any of the roof boards or the roof deck beneath the existing shingles have to be replaced before the new shingles can be applied.

When you have your home re-shingled, the existing layer is usually stripped off and a new one is installed. (However, new shingles can be applied over one existing layer if the surface is fairly flat, but a buildup of more than two layers is considered too heavy for most homes to handle and results in a bumpy, somewhat uneven surface.)

Most traditional shingles consist of pieces of felt or paper coated with asphalt and granules. They come in different weights and colors and can last anywhere from about 12 to 25 years (depending on the quality of roofing you choose). The granules wear off as the shingles age.

Get Several Quotes

Prices can vary from roofer to roofer, so get quotes from a few contractors before making a choice. Be sure to ask if the price includes disposal and cleanup costs, and have that written into the contract. With mounting tipping fees at municipal landfills, disposal costs for an average-sized roof can be fairly hefty.

The Honda Civic del Sol lets the sunshine in

SHAPE OF THE RISING SUN

By JOHN DUARTE

ROADTEST

You've got to commend the folks at Honda for the bit of marketing genius that was attaching the ever-popular Civic moniker to a totally new sporty two-seater.

With stylish good looks and peppy performance, the new Civic del Sol (as in coal) is set to become an immediate force to be reckoned with in the crowded sporty-car segment of the market.

The Honda Civic del Sol is an attractive machine. Its aerodynamic body design borrows lines from some familiar places. From the front, the sloping and rounded hood and oval headlamps have a look adopted by Mazda (one part Miata, two parts MX-3). The flat deck trunk, reminds of the Porsche 968 Cabriolet tested on these pages a few weeks back.

That familiarity in the body styling is not a bad thing. Let's face it, there are few truly distinctive cars on the road these days. And imitation is the most sincere form of flattery, after all.

The Honda Civic del Sol does, however, have a couple of design features not readily found on other cars in the market. There is the power back window, which drops into the body of the car, and the aluminum roof, which can be removed to turn the del Sol into a convertible of sorts. The lightweight panel — it weighs 10 kilograms (22 pounds) — is stored in specially-designed rack located in the trunk. The triangular B-pillar and roof support, with the window retracted, is reminiscent of the old-styled roadsters with the chrome rollbar behind the passenger cabin.

The look of the del Sol drew its share of glances even though the test car came in basic white. My guess is the looks would have been longer for the Captiva Blue or Samba Green. The del Sol also comes in red and black.

The surprise in all this is the room this sporty Civic has. You don't feel cramped in. There is ample arm and shoulder room in a car which doesn't look all that big when you are standing beside it. There is also a surprising amount of head room when the roof panel is in place. A fellow worker, who is well over six feet, found clearance was very comfortable.

Room is also not a problem in the trunk. One would think that after the roof panel is placed in its storage rack there would be little room left for anything else, but that is not the case. The design of the trunk is such that the roof panel and storage rack lifts out of the way and the loss of trunk space is minimal. Honda list the difference at 235 litres with the roof in the rack and 297 litres at full trunk capacity. Believe me, it is hard to notice and the high liftover is more of a hindrance in loading the trunk than the loss of space.

Inside, the ergonomics fall in line with the usual Honda efficiency. The layout of del Sol is similar to its Prelude cousin. The white analog speedometre and tachometre are attractively set against a back dash. The instrument panel is completed with gauges for fuel, temperature and the clock is conveniently set in the panel, not in the sound system display.

All controls are placed within easy reach, most at fingertip range. Fog light, rear defogger and hazard light switches are mounted at the top of the dash, which curves in contour with the steering wheel. Headlight and windshield wiper controls are on the usual stalks and cruise control operation is a thumb-reach away mounted on the steering wheel. Climate control buttons are mounted at the top of the centre panel and the sound system just below it.

The only interior design faults I could find are in the placement of the ashtray and cup holders. The ashtray and cigarette lighter are located beside the driver's right thigh. I'm glad I don't smoke or the burn marks could

The cup holders are just as precariously placed and seem like a bit of an afterthought. They are just behind the driver's position.

Honda has a hot new entry in the sporty car market

My right elbow would rest nicely in one holder. Can you imagine if there was a hot cup of coffee there? OUCH, again!

From a performance standpoint, the Civic del Sol falls a smidgen short of the vehicles in its class. The test car was powered by a 1.5-litre, single overhead cam engine, the standard powertrain available. The Si version comes with the 1.6-litre variable valve timing (V-Tech) powerplant available in vehicles like the Acura Integra GS-R.

The more powerful engine would undoubtedly make the del Sol a tad more exciting to drive, but I had no problem with the S version with its base engine configuration during everyday city driving. The del Sol was peppy enough and accelerated smoothly, whether it was from a standing start or getting up to highway speed on the 401 on-ramps. This is not a performance car and no one expects it to perform like one.

The base engine produces 102 horsepower, which is plenty when you consider the low curb weight of the del Sol. The V-Tech engine is capable of 125 hp at 6,600 rpm. You really don't need those extra 23 horses to enjoy this car, but I imagine the bigger engine makes this Civic even more fun to drive. Choosing between trim levels based on powertrain availability will depend on what you want the del Sol to do.

Adding to the driving enjoyment is the silky-smooth, short-throw five-speed manual transmission. A four-speed automatic is available as an option, but I can't think of why anyone would want to put an automatic in a car like this.

Where I would also opt for the Si trim over the S version is in the tire option. The Si gets bigger tires which would allow for a better grip in taking corners. The P175/70R 13s on the test car rode corners like one would expect a subcompact, not in line with a sporty vehicle the del Sol is trying to be.

Stopping power comes from power-assisted front discs and rear drums in the S model and all around discs in the Si. Sadly, ABS is not available on either del Sol.

Both trim levels of the Honda Civic del Sol are well stocked with standard features. The base price of $16,795 comes complete with power windows (all three of them), driver's side airbag, adjustable steering column, intermittent wipers and lockable storage bins in behind the bucket seats.

The Si trim adds the bigger engine, wider tires, 14-inch alloy wheels and power outside mirrors to the list of standard features.

The test vehicle featured deluxe carpets, front and rear mud guards, air conditioning and an upgraded sound system. Those options only boosted the price of the test car by $2,140.30 to $18,935.30.

This new entry in the sporty car niche replaces the CRX, which succumbed to slumping sales figures and is now merely part of Honda's history. The del Sol will soon make people forget the CRX.

As for the other entries in its market class, this newest of Hondas can certainly make people forget the competition. With a great new shape, its removable hardtop and retractable rear window, the Honda Civic del Sol is well armed to do battle with the best in the very volatile war zone that is the sporty-car under $20,000 segment.

Nissan makes work conform to human needs

Don't change the person's approach to assembling a product. Change the product instead.

That's the sentiment behind Nissan's drive toward design for manufacturability, a key element in the automaker's continued efforts to cut costs, boost productivity and remain sensitive to the environment as it competes in the rapidly fragmenting global marketplace, a top official said recently.

"The principle of design for manufacturability is to make work conform to human needs, rather than vice versa," said Kazutaka Kobatake, Nissan's general manager of production engineering. "At Nissan, we believe that people are essential elements of production. For that very reason, we regard the creation of an optimal working environment as the starting point of manufacturing."

Under the design for manufacturability system, Nissan first analyzes work operations on each individual part assembly line for a series of "human factors," such as the standard assembly time, ease of assembly, lower back load and the ration of one-touch installation jobs.

After evaluating the findings, Nissan then takes steps to make proper improvements on the assembly lines. The company also takes the process one step further by incorporating results into the structural design of a new model.

Armed with quantitative evaluation data, Nissan production teams implement specific measures to ensure "ease of manufacture" targets are met. Nissan production departments, for example, are already working with design specialists from the initial stage of vehicle development to help create design drawings that will assure ease of manufacture.

The aim of such activities is to achieve "optimum vehicle structures that make assembly tasks easy for anybody to perform without undue effort," said Kobatake.

Nicknamed "Final Zero" by employees, the joint effort is being vigorously pursued by production, engineering, assembly and design workers.

"We firmly believe that the pursuit of this principle will enable us to meet the large challenges on which the continued existence of our company is riding," said Kobatake, echoing the words of Nissan's new president Yoshifumi Tsuji.

Last month at his first news conference as president, Tsuji pledged "greater emphasis" on design for manufacturability as one of his top objectives, saying reduced number of components and common parts usage would mark Nissan automobiles in the future. His commitment to production follows the course set by his predecessor, and new Nissan chairman Yutaka Kume, and it seems to be an objective Tsuji is well-suited to complete.

"I believe that a product that is easy to build has been designed well," Tsuji said, "and that will also result in better productivity."

Tsuji has spent most of his career specializing in production control, plant engineering and product planning and is formerly executive vice president for product operations at Nissan.

Mazda 626 is stylish and affordable

By JIM ROBINSON

The people at Mazda Canada have been very busy in the last few months introducing no less than five new vehicles.

The first was the second generation version of the 929 luxury sedan clothed in the lithe new lines all flowing from the firm's decision to incorporate organic styling with open arms.

We had the new MX-3 Precidia followed swiftly by the awesome RX-7 twin turbo which has elevated itself to the supercar ranks.

Lastly, Mazda has unveiled the MX-6 Mystère and the new 626 which will be called the Cronos in Canada as it is in Japan.

A lot of people became happy and loyal Mazda owners thanks to the 626. It was soundly built with high quality materials/engineering plus it came with the Mazda warranty, at the time, a leader in the industry.

But styling was never as important with Mazda as it has become today.

The previous 929 and 626 in particular carried don't-rock-the-boat Japanese styling which was never bad, just nondescript. In Japan white is the favorite color by far. Imagine trying to find your white 626 in a sea of thousands of other similarly painted Nissans and Toyotas in the parking lot outside the Sumo championships!

The Mazda renaissance started with the perky, little Miata. Rounded, pugnacious lines with a wide hip line closing to a rounded tail caught everyone by surprise. Mazda couldn't make enough of them.

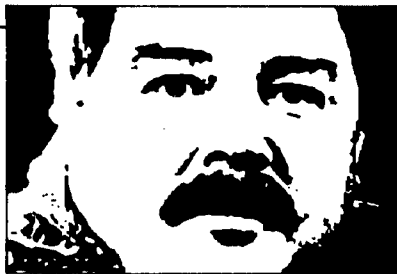

With the 929 and the MX-3, the stylists used the same hip line (at least I think they did) in creating cars which are generally agreed to be about as pretty (929) or as attractive (MX-3) as they come.

With Tom Matano (now on board at Mazda's Irvine, Calif., design studio) "organic" styling is being tempered with splashes of Euro-California influence. Matano worked on the new 3-Series BMW before applying his hand to the sister car to the Cronos, the MX-6 Mystère.

Mazda makes no bones about the 626 being formed in the image of 929, and why not? Particularly from the rear, the new 626 has that Jaguar-esque curve to the rounded rump.

Just how significantly different the 1993 version of the 626 has become is viewing it beside a 1992. The wedge, three-box look suddenly seems so dated.

The 626 comes in three mod-

els with a choice of two engines. There is the bottom-rung LX followed by the mid-range DX which I had for a week. At the top is the ES which is loaded with options as standard including the 164 hp, 2.5-litre V6 it shares with the topline Mystère LS. The other engine is a 2.0-liter, 16-valve inline four-cylinder producing 118 hp and 127 torques. Transmission choices include a four-speed automatic or a five-speed manual.

I asked Mazda for a DX with the four, five-speed and some of the options most people living in this area would want, such as power windows and locks, cruise, a half-decent stereo, and air conditioning.

The DX interior trim was up to Mazda's usual standards. In keeping with the organic flow concept, the interior is sculpted to make room wherever possible. This means a lot of plastics are used. On the DX it was tolerable, but on the LX it might be something you have learn to live with.

However, full marks for the layout and legibility of the instrument cluster. The mark of a good set of gauges is how quickly you can glance down and see how fast you're going as you drive through a radar trap. With the 626, I immediately knew I was in the "safe" area.

The seats are better than ever before. This is something I noticed in the Mystère as well. With full adjust, anyone can be comfortably seated. The back seats are also very roomy thanks to the cabin forward design. The rear seats split 60/40 giving access to a surprisingly roomy trunk.

I couldn't help wonder how this car, although much smaller, was styled on the 929 but has significantly more trunk room than its big brother.

The 2.0-litre engine is a willing performer. The close-ratio five-speed reminded me so much of the Miata's. Shifts are quick and clean, and you don't have to look down to see if you're picking the right gear during downshifting.

Mazda has done a lot of work on designing very stiff unibody chassis which depend on computer aided design suspensions. Ride at boulevard speeds is calm and relaxed; but there's a lot of sport built in this front drive car if you want to have some fun on a twisty road.

Prices start at $16,995 for a very basic DX. The LX equipped as this week's test car starts at $19,500 and came equipped with $1,500 worth of options such as power sunroof, power locks and windows. The ES, without leather, is priced at $24,645.

On the plus side is mileage. Transport Canada reports the four returns 6.6L/100 km on the highway and 9.4L/100 km in the city. I only had to fill the tank twice in a week, not bad when it takes me 160 km just to get to and back from work.

I think people will like the style of this car. In one of those new pearlescent blues, reaction from other motorists was certainly positive.

Mazda Canada says the new 626 Cronos is aimed at the "contemporary" family seeking a car which makes a style statement while being affordable to operate.

Based on that criteria, Mazda has certainly reached the target market it is aiming at.

Bungee jumping for those who can't

The United Way soared to some impressive heights when Enterprise Ford held a bungee jump fundraiser for the charitable organization.

United Way campaign director Anne Kinsella reported the event, held July 18 and 19 on the lot of the Oshawa automobile dealership, raised over $6,000.

"Everyone had a great time," Kinsella said, "and the event went off successfully and safely."

The driving force behind the event was Enterprise Ford's Don Switzer, who said he was looking for something which would really draw people.

"I was looking for a special event that would be so different that it would have a chance of being a success more than a failure," said Switzer. "I saw a video of bungee jumpers and thought it was the most ridiculous thing I ever saw."

"I knew right then that this was the event to stage," continued Switzer. "Whether it was a fad or whatever you want to call it, I felt this had the potential to be a big event and offered us an opportunity to try it."

Kinsella said people want to get something out of an event. It is no longer just a question of giving to charity.

"We saw this as an opportunity to give people a thrill and raise funds for the United Way," she said. "People want to get something for their money. If we can plan something that is totally different, the response is usually pretty good."

The organizers couldn't have picked a better weekend. The weather conditions brought a large crowd of on-lookers and an assortment of daredevils prepared to brave the drop from a gondola suspended 140 feet above the Enterprise Ford parking lot. The bungee jump set up was run by One Step Adventures and the crane was supplied by Motor City Crane.

Switzer said he was pleased with the fact that so many people attended, but the event could not have been a success without the sponsors.

"Well over 50 per cent of the success was due to corporate sponsors who believe in the United Way," said Switzer. "It is really nice to see businesses putting something back into the community."

aim high: adventurous decorators view ceiling as blank palette

If you enjoy decorating, and want to be unique, then this project is for you. In a sense, it is the last frontier for the home decorator who has already taken on all of the standard do-it-yourself ventures: decorating your ceilings, overlooked, and sometimes even forgotten, the ceilings of virtually new and newer homes are dull, barren and lifeless: essentially a blank palette for the adventurous decorator. Here are three great ideas to splash some style and color on your ceilings:

An easy-to-do enhancement, if you have a textured ceiling, is to add a highlight color to it. To do this, you select an accenting color in a flat sheen paint and apply it with a low pile roller. The low pile roller applies paint to the protruding portion of the texture, leaving the original color at the base unpainted, thus giving the ceiling a two-tone highlighted appearance.

Wallpaper borders are very much in style these days for walls, but can be very impressive, as well, on the ceiling. Run them around the perimeter of the room, on the ceiling, butting up to the walls, or move it in 8-12" or so.

For even more effect, use a border at both locations.

If your ceilings are textured, use a heavy duty wallpaper scraper to scrape off the texture where you plan to run the border. The combination of the textured ceiling outlined with a wallpaper border is very attractive.

The ultimate statement to make on a ceiling is to wallpaper it. Not just any wallpaper style can be applied on a ceiling, of course, but textured and embossed wallpapers are naturals.

Nothing enhances a ceiling more than classical embossed design which gives elegance and charm to any room.

A good source of classical embossed designs is found in the Anaglypta Wallcoverings collection from Crown Decorative Products.

Please see CLASSIC/PAGE 30

This sloped bathroom ceiling has been finished in a solid vinyl wallpaper and border by Sunworthy, available from Color Your World on Bayly St. in Ajax.

Value in your trash can

Nobody stuffs $100 bills into the trash, but, according to collectibles expert Tony Hyman, "If you have ever moved, settled an estate, or cleaned out the garage, you've thrown away things worth five times that much."

It's easy to make mistakes like these, according to Hyman, since items don't have to be very old or look particularly valuable to be worth money to today's collector.

Plastic radios, flashlights, toasters, peace buttons, business cards, Hawaiian shirts, flower frogs, sports programs, eyeglasses, credit cards, Vietnam war souvenirs, passports, celluloid bracelets, and company ID photo badges are among hundreds of the most popular collectibles.

Fishing plugs from the 1930s regularly bring $400. Used Dunhill pipes from 1950 have sold for $700, and an old peanut can has been sold for $21,000. Serious collectors pay top dollar for items they want.

"Picking up the phone and talking to an expert is almost always the best way to sell," says Hyman, author of the 320-page book, I'll Buy That! The secret to selling your trash for top dollar is knowing who to call.

In the past 10 years, the collectibles expert has advised millions of talk show listeners how and where to sell everything from glassware to shrunken heads.

It pays to be careful when disposing of bowls, buttons, banks, bottles, boxing posters, blueprints, bus driver hats and numerous other items each starting with the other 25 letters of the alphabet.

More than 3,000 types of collectibles and their buyers have been catalogued in the past 10 years. Recent additions include a doctor in Ohio who pays cash for pictures of funerals and an Indiana woman who buys spiral bound cookbooks.

I'll Buy That! is available exclusive by mail. Send $19.95 (U.S.) plus $4 shipping and handling to Collector's Clearinghouse, Box 699, Claremont, CA 91711.

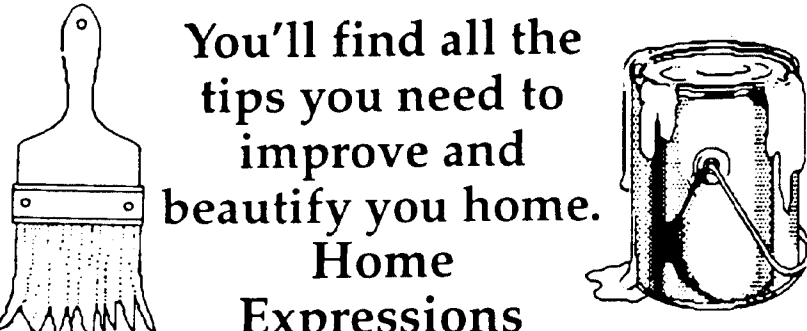

Mastercard/Visa orders only call toll free 1-800-543-7500.

Enquire about the free illustrated price guide covering 5,000 items plus a handy pad of form letters that make selling by mail as easy as filling in the blanks.

Classic Ceilings

The ultimate statement to make on a ceiling is to wallpaper it. Not just any wallpaper style can be applied on a ceiling, of course, but textured and embossed wallpapers are naturals.

Nothing enhances a ceiling more than classical embossed design which gives elegance and charm to any room.

A good source of classical embossed designs is found in the Anaglypta Wallcoverings collection from Crown Decorative Products Ltd. of England. A few excellent choices from the collection for ceilings are RD655, RD648 and RD148.

These wallcoverings are meant to be painted after installation. This allows them to be co-ordinated with the color in the room, if desired. If time-honored, basic white paint is used, you will achieve a classic look.

If you want to obtain an old-fashioned look on a ceiling, how about those old time plate ceilings, often used in modern restaurants?

To get the look, paper the ceiling with design RD148 from the Anaglypta collection. Next, seal it with Step One latex undercoat and then paint it with Metalclad aluminum paint. This gives a very bright tin-like look to the ceiling.

If you want to dull the bright shine and 'antique' its appearance, here's the procedure:

First roll on a coat of oil base varnish and allow it to dry for 24 hours. Do not apply it with a brush or over-roll, as you apply it. Brushing or excessive rolling will soften the aluminum color and cause an uneven appearance. Next, apply a coat of Oxford Brown solid hide stain, but wipe most of it off with cheese cloth before it dries. The stain will give the aluminum an aged look.

The final touch to a wallpapered ceiling, would be to frame it with a crown molding on the supporting walls.

Modern bathrooms antique look-alikes

In the last five years there has been a definite return to the antique look in bathrooms.

Pedestal sinks, resplendent vanities, striking faucets, all coupled with sophisticated and innovative decorating techniques that add up to the bathroom being an intimate retreat, perfectly suited to the current era of cocooning that consumers seem to be thriving on.

As trends evolve, white, for many, is retaining its popularity in home decorating. Clean looking, it is also an adaptable color, which can blend in any future decorating schemes, as tastes change.

One sure thing about great looking bathrooms. Elegance doesn't have to be expensive. So says Bob Pryor, owner of The Plumbing Store at 487 Westney Rd. S. in Ajax. Although the store has an abundance of copper and ABS pipe fittings, copper tubing and assorted items for all plumbing projects, it also houses some beautiful accessories in its a showroom.

Faucets by such manufacturers as Price Pfister, Kohler, and Delta, are some of the samples you will see.

Many of these faucets are brass, or white - finishes that enhance both the modern, and the antique look.

Custom home builders with whom Bob works bring in their blueprints so he can readily determine all the detail of their plumbing needs.

Along with supplies, installations can also be arranged. The Plumbing Store happens to be a haven for professional contractors, as well as the do-it-yourself/homeowner.

While it carries parts for repairs and stocks the in-house expertise is not to be overlooked. Bob and his father, Bud have 25 years combined experience in building and plumb-ing.

If you want to achieve an antique look in your soon-to- be-renovated bathroom, there's no shortage of pleasing products available.

And there is an abundance of resources and expertise in the area, to help you accomplish your goal.

A ROUND-UP OF THE AJAX-PICKERING SCENE

Rotary Park in Ajax was filled with the sounds of Cyril Way and the Round Midnight Band on Sunday, as the town's parks and recreation department held a Music in the Park session. Above, Steve Miller belts out a tune, much to the delight of Henk and Jill Kloek, in photo at right. Another Music in the Park session will be held Sunday, Aug. 23 as the Whitby Brass Band will perform from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. photos by A.J. Groen

Tea and tunes served in Ajax park Sunday

AJAX - You can enjoy an afternoon of tea and music Sunday.

The Ajax parks and recreation department and the Ajax Rotary Club are sponsoring Music in the Park Aug. 23, with the Whitby Brass Band providing the music.

The event runs from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Rotary

Park, on Lake Driveway W., opposite Parkes Dr.

Tea will be sold and proceeds will go to local charities.

If you're attending, take your own lawn chairs.

For more information, call the parks and recreation department at 427-8811.

Unforgiven Unforgettable

By JOHN DUARTE

Special to the News Advertiser

Long before audiences were familiar with names like Schwarzenegger, Stallone, Norris, McGal or Van Damme, Clint Eastwood made sure the riffraff in the movies walked the straight and narrow.

Unforgiven proves Eastwood, now in his mid-60s, can still kick butt with, and sometimes better than, the best of them.

Whether in westerns, as Dirty Harry Callahan or one of his other film personas, Eastwood's good guy is never afraid of what people will think of him. He shoots first and asks questions later. You could say the only good guy is the one still standing when the gunfire subsides.

Unforgiven is like that.

Eastwood is in fine form as retired gun for hire Bill Munny, who decides to turn to what he knows best to offer his family a better life. You see, since he gave up his gunfighting days and got married, he has been struggling to make a living as a pig farmer.

One day a young wannabe gunslinger comes to Munny's doorstep with news of how a young prostitute had her faced slashed and about the $1,000 bounty on the heads of the two cowboys who took part in the deed.

At first Munny is not interested, saying his killing days are over. But when he realizes he can't offer his son and daughter a proper lifestyle, Munny straps on his six shooter and heads off to convince his old partner to help him one last time.

Eastwood knows the genre well and his direction is impeccable. There are plenty of shots of wide-open country with the three cowboys riding along, peaceful as the calm before the storm. He knows people didn't die peacefully in western days — they bled and cried out in pain. He also knows the killers often feel as much pain as their victims.

For those reasons alone, Unforgiven is a great movie. But Eastwood plays another ace with the excellent casting of Unforgiven, from his own portrayal of Munny to the frazzled people of Big Whiskey.

Eastwood has grown along with the character of Munny and he knows the pain he is feeling. The actor is not afraid of showing the former gunslinger has a human side — he realizes he is too old for this lifestyle.

In support of Eastwood there are Morgan Freeman, Gene Hackman and Richard Harris. Freeman plays Munny's partner Ned, who goes along more to keep an eye on his friend than anything else. Hackman is excellent (when is he not?) as Big Whiskey's brutal lawyer. Harris adds a touch of wit to the movie as a gunman whose reputation exceeds his abilities. Also worthy of mention is Saul Rubinek as the biographer trying to put the final touches on a book about the frontier days.

Unforgiven is the best action movie to find

Clint Eastwood stars as retired gunfighter and hog farmer William Munny in Unforgiven.

its way to screens this summer. And Clint Eastwood is right in the middle of it, kicking butt in fine style

Eastwood makes Unforgiven unforgettable and as producer, director and star, he stands to make a few fistfuls of dollars more.

Olympian Lisa Flood takes break from pool

..but not for long as she's set to defend U.S. collegiate championship

By AL RIVETT
Sports Reporter

PICKERING - Lisa Flood is finally taking a well-deserved rest. Since arriving in Pickering last Monday after representing Canada and her hometown at the Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain, the 21-year-old swimmer is enjoying life away from the pool.

"I'm taking a break from swimming. I haven't been in the water since July 30," says Flood. "Classes start (at Philadelphia's Villanova University) Sept. 2 and swimming starts a week later, so by that time I'll have been out of the pool for about a month.

There were no medals for Flood at the Olympics; but she's not particularly bothered by that fact. More important to her was giving it her best shot, and making many new friends and seeing the sights during her time in Spain.

"It was definitely a thrill to be at the Olympics," says the Pickering Swim Club member. "Some people say that swimming at the Olympics is not enough, but you have to realize that it's a big step just making it there."

Competing against a strong field of international swimmers in the 100-metre breaststroke at Barcelona's Picornell Pool, Flood finished 14th overall, which included a sixth-place finish in the consolation finals of the event.

Swimming her first heat in the morning of July 29, she turned in her fastest 100-metre breaststroke in two years in one minute 10.96 seconds, but it wasn't enough to put her into the finals.

"I tend to be slower in the mornings and faster at night, but I knew I had to do something in the morning heat. I'm pleased with the results," she says.

Besides actually competing at the Olympics, participating in the Games opening and closing ceremonies will take a cherished place in Flood's memory of her time at the Olympics.

"The opening ceremonies were pretty thrilling. When we walked into the stadium, there were so many Canadian flags being held up at the same time all over the stadium," she says. "I thought of how many times I've watched the opening ceremonies on TV before, and now I was there. That was the greatest feeling."

Being in the crowd for Mark Tewksbury's gold medal swim was also a high point of the Olympics for Flood.

"It was really a thrill to see his face after he had won. He was putting his hands on his head --- he couldn't believe he had won. From where we were, our angle was bad (so she couldn't see the finish line), but when we saw the scoreboard, we all went crazy."

And, they didn't stop. Flood

'It was definitely a thrill to be at the Olympics.'

--Lisa Flood

Everyone on the main street, Las Ramblas, was partying all night and the (Olympic) Village was really crazy too."

While she's out of the pool for now, Flood makes it clear that she's impatient to get back to Villanova University and begin swimming in preparation for the NCAA swim season.

Flood was the champion in the 200-metre breaststroke at the NCAA National Championships at the University of Texas last year. She's hoping to repeat this year.

She'll also compete at the World Student Games trials in Buffalo in February and the conference and NCAA championships later in the year.

Pickering's Lisa Flood, 21, kicks up her heels in the backyard pool at her family's Pickering home recently. She returned from Barcelona last Monday after competing in the 100-metre breaststroke at the Summer Olympics. For now, she's taking a break from the pool, but will resume competitive swimming when she returns to Philadelphia's Villanova University in September.

Ajax ball Spartans out Pickering

●AJAX-PICKERING - The Ajax Spartans Canada Trust juvenile rep baseball team advances to the Eastern Ontario finals after sweeping its semi-final series against Pickering.

The Spartans defeated Pickering 5-2 on the weekend to take the best-of-three Eastern Ontario Baseball Association (EOBA) semi-final series two games straight.

Ajax will meet Peterborough in the EOBA final series. Dates and times are yet to be announced.

Pitchers Jamie Watters of Ajax and Shane Moore of Pickering were equally dominating both on the mound and at the plate. Watters and Moore both clubbed home runs for their respective clubs.

Tyler Matskiw, Watters and Gerry Brockman provided the bulk of the offensive punch for Ajax. Andy Rennick, Brockman and Jeff Levy had several key put-outs to keep Pickering runners off the base paths.

The Ajax Spartans, in addition to being in the EOBA finals, are preparing for the Ontario Baseball Association (OBA) 'A' Championship in Burlington on the Aug. 28 weekend.

Ajax Upper Deck Warriors take over first place in Motor City men's soccer ●AJAX - The Ajax Upper Deck Warriors men's senior soccer team is all alone in first place in the Motor City Soccer League's standings after a big win last Tuesday night.

The Warriors blanked a younger, inexperienced, cellar-dwelling Durham County squad 5-0 to take sole possession of top spot in the league.

Ajax's record improves to nine wins, two losses and two ties for 20 points, one point better than Oshawa Turul and Durham Celtic who are tied for second spot. Oshawa Adria is three points back of Ajax in fourth spot.

The Warriors took control of the contest from the outset, ending the first half with a 3-0 lead. Dave Gilpin opened the scoring with a header off a corner kick. Gilpin scored his second goal on a blistering shot from about 15 yards out. The final goal of the half was netted by Philip Allen who followed up the play and scored on a scramble in the crease.

Despite putting players in different positions in the second half, Ajax Upper Deck was still able to score two more markers. Strikers John Soler and Allan Graham tallied to end the scoring in the match.

The Warriors played Tuesday night in Oshawa against Oshawa City after our press deadline. The squad's next home game is against Oshawa Turul at the Ajax Community Centre's Monarch Park on Sunday, Aug. 23. Kick-off time is 4 p.m.

Sports Digest

Football Dolphins win one of three against Oshawa

●AJAX-PICKERING - The Ajax-Pickering Dolphins football squads won one of three games against the Oshawa Hawkeyes during the Brennan Bowl at the Oshawa Civic Stadium Sunday.

The Dolphins' atom squad defeated Oshawa 2-0 in the first game of the afternoon. Josh Samjass and Owen Kennedy had touchdowns for the Dolphins. Wes Demkiv added the convert.

Meanwhile, the Dolphins' pee-wees were downed 14-0 by Oshawa despite playing a solid defensive game.

The Dolphins' bantams were edged 13-6. Thoren Walker scored the lone Dolphins' touchdown.

The Dolphins open their Central Ontario Minor Football season against Markham Sunday.

Ajax Warriors win under-14 girls' tourney

●AJAX - The Ajax Warriors girls' under-14 select soccer team won the Durham Region Soccer Association's annual tournament in Uxbridge on the weekend.

Ajax blanked Whitby 2-0 to claim the championship Sunday. The Warriors dominated the game throughout with Whitby never able to mount a serious threat.

Elizabeth DiQuattro scored both goals for Ajax in the first half. Karine Plouffe recorded her second shutout of the tournament.

Ajax started off with a 3-0 victory over Pickering Saturday. Jamie Element and DiQuattro scored early in the first half. Di Quattro added another goal to close out the scoring. Pickering thoroughly shut down Pickering's offense with Plouffe earning a shutout.

Playing in the rain Sunday, Ajax managed to nip Oshawa 2-1. Meaghan McLaren scored from the opening kickoff and, soon after, Michele Murphy added a second goal. Oshawa pulled to within one goal late in the second half, but Ajax shut down Oshawa the rest of the way.

Racer drives home message that kids should stay in school

PICKERING - An Oshawa racer will be driving home a message to children at the Pickering Town Centre Thursday and Friday.

Randy MacDonald, a successful racer in the ACT/GM stock car series, will visit the Pickering Town Centre with his Stay-In-School display this Aug. 20 and 21 on the lower level, near Sears. One of his race cars — a Chevrolet Lumina — will also be on display.

MacDonald has become a spokesman for the Stay-In-School Program to encourage today's youth that, in order to succeed, they must get an education.

The event is being held in conjunction with the federal government's National Stay-In-School Initiative to reduce the 30-per cent Canadian drop-out rate.

Grand & Toy of Pickering will donate 10-packs of pencils and Hallmark in the Pickering Town Centre will donate balloons to the first 50 children who meet with MacDonald.

The Stay-In-School display goes from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. MacDonald will be available for autographs between 7 and 9 p.m. both days. Stay-In-School materials will be distributed.

Ajax Spartans drop ball series

AJAX - The Ajax Spartans Pickering Village Sports major mosquito rep baseball team ended its hopes of going to the Ontario playdowns after losing a best-of-three series to Peterborough two games straight.

The final game saw the Spartans fight back to force the contest into extra innings before bowing out in the 10th inning.

Kyle Sheppard and James David combined pitching duties and limited Peterborough to 10 hits, while striking out eight batters in the process.

Offensively, Brad Virostek stroked two singles, scored two runs and contributed an RBI. Other singles were clubbed by Evan Risko with one RBI. Jeff Baker with one run scored, Chris Taylor and Jeff Mitchell. James David recorded the last RBI.

In game one, a lack of hitting and a series of errors led to the Spartans downfall as the Peterborough squad went on to win 11-3. Risko and James David pitched solidly in striking out eight Peterborough batters. However, Peterborough pitching only allowed two singles by Risko and Virostek.

The coaching staff would like to thank sponsor Muriel Lee and all volunteers who helped in making the season an enjoyable and successful one.

PICKERING GENERAL, MECHANICAL AND ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS PRE-QUALIFICATION FOR ARENA ADDITION TO THE PICKERING RECREATION COMPLEX

The Town of Pickering plans to add an ice arena and meeting facility comprising of approximately 38,000 square feet to the existing Pickering Recreation Complex, 1867 Valley Farm Road, Pickering, Ontario.

The project consists of a single storey addition to the existing arena wing of the Complex, including modifications to the existing building to accommodate the new facility. Modifications to site services, parking lot and driveway will be included in the project.

Sealed pre-qualification submissions clearly marked as to contents will be received by the Department of Supply and Services no later than 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, August 26, 1992.

Interested general, mechanical and electrical contractors having experience in work of similar size and type are invited to submit a completed CCA Document No 11 and a letter from their surety and insurance companies, stating their bonding and liability limits.

Tenders will be invited from a list of pre-qualified general, mechanical and electrical contractors. Only approved pre-qualified contractors will be invited to participate in the tender call, the date of which is unknown.

Oral, telegraphed, faxed or telephoned submissions or modifications will not be considered.

Submissions received after the deadline, whether delivered personally, mailed or faxed will not be considered.

The Town reserves the right to select only those Contractors which they and their Consultants deem suitable and qualified to undertake the project, reject and/or not accept any or all submissions without explanation. The Town will not be accountable to proponents in respect of the selection of bidders.

Lower-Priced Homes Will Lead Housing Market Revival

Good things come in small packages -- especially in the residential real estate market where pent-up demand for affordable housing is shaping the nature and timing of a long-awaited pricing recovery. An influx of first time buyers who traditionally choose lower-priced housing has lit a light of hope that consumer confidence is on the mend but market gains will be small and slow.

"We're seeing a housing price recovery rolling in from the east coast, particularly the West," remarked Jim Moore, President, Canada Trust Realty Inc., in his company's most recent survey of home prices across Canada. But the big change in the market is happening at the low end, sparked by the government's RRSP withdrawal and 5 per cent down payment programs.

"Consumers are starting to realize that with today's mortgage rates and the time limit on the federal initiatives, they should be buying now. These are factors which have improved affordability, with the impact being felt at the lower end of the spectrum -- an increase in consumer confidence is required before higher-priced and executive homes start to move," he explained.

According to the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), the most affordable city for housing in the country is St. John's and the least affordable is Victoria, according to calculations which include taxes, heating costs and mortgage and house prices. Canada Trust Realty's survey indicates average house prices for attached and executive homes have declined $2,000 and $10,000 respectively in Newfoundland's capital city while the average cost of attached detached and executive homes in Victoria have risen dramatically by $67,000, $65,000 and $60,000 over July 1991 prices.

Lack of buyer confidence is still hurting the southern Ontario market. Toronto in particular, had a large number of speculative buyers who were burned badly influence prices when they start to come back. Says Moore, "Ontario's economy has been hardest hit by the recession and it will be the slowest real estate market to come back." In almost every Metro district surveyed, average house prices declined over the last 12 months from July 1991 levels (Attached & Detached -- down $19,000 average; Executive -- down $31,000 average).

The good news is the majority of the price declines were experienced in 1991 with generally smaller downward price adjustments. As well, some recoveries are being seen this year.

Real Estate Market Steady in Durham

During the month of April, 545 consumers decided to invest in home ownership in the Durham Region, show statistics released from the Oshawa & District Real Estate Board this week.

Says ODREB President Mark Smith, FRI, CMR. "The average price of homes sold in April was $151,979, that's up 3% from last month. We are seeing more activity in the homes priced over $150,000, perhaps due to current homeowners' moving up."

I feel that consumer confidence has returned, and that we should see more people entering the market. Both the Federal and Provincial governments have shown that real estate is key to economic recovery: the Federal government with the 5% Down Payment Plan and the use of RRSP funds towards the purchase of a home; and the Provincial government by not penalizing home ownership in their recent budget."

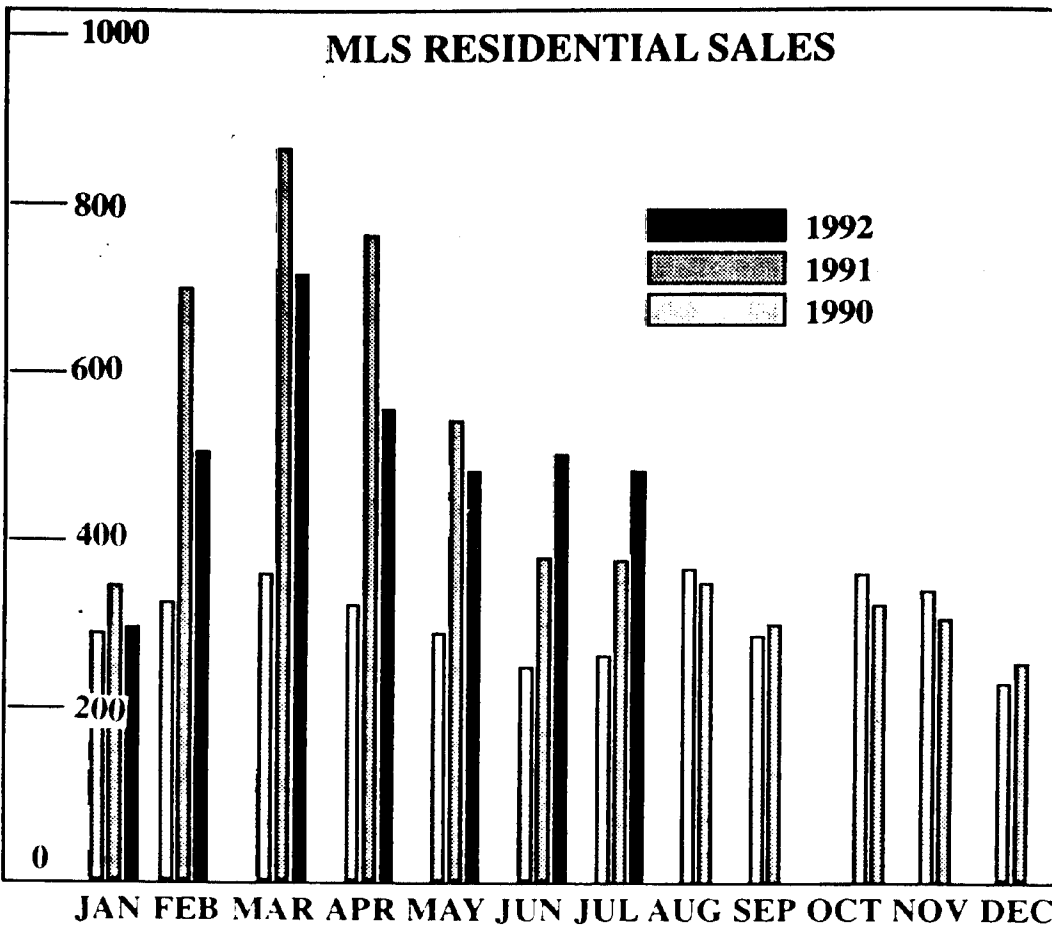

Homes sold were on the market for an average of 56 days, and went for 95.3% of their listed price.

"affordability has improved for over a year now," says Smith. "Opportunity is still there for those who wish to take advantage of the 4,200 active listings on the Multiple Listing Service®. People looking for a community to call home have lots of choice in the Durham Region: waterfront, city, farm properties, in all price ranges.

We have parks, museums, art galleries, and lots more to do in our area. Our Board recently participate in the "Focus on the Future" symposium, and are looking for ward to our future in the Durham Region."

The Oshawa & District Real Estate Board is a professional trade association which represents over 1,000 REALTORS throughout the Durham Region. REALTOR is a registered certification mark which identifies real estate licensees who are members of ODREB and as such abide by a strict Code of Ethics and Standards of Business Practice.
