Young hero up for award

He saved his sister's life 'because I love her'

By JUDI BOBBITT
Staff Reporter

PICKERING - A Pickering boy credited with saving the life of his sister has been nominated for a prestigious provincial award.

Ryan Wagnell of Una Rd. is being considered for an Ontario Junior Citizen of The Year Award, after he pulled his sister Tiffany from the path of a school bus last November. He was nominated for the honor by his mother, Donna Wagnell, a bus driver who witnessed the accident that could have claimed the life of her daughter.

"I feel that he forgot about his own safety to save that of his sister," Mrs. Wagnell wrote to the Ontario Community Newspapers Association, which coordinates the annual awards. "His actions were that of an adult, rather than a 10-year-old boy."

The incident occurred in the parking lot of St. Mary's High School as Mrs. Wagnell prepared to leave on her morning bus route and called her children to board her vehicle. Their daily routine was to travel together to St. Mary's by car, where Mrs. Wagnell parked her bus overnight, and the children would play outside while she prepared the bus. Mrs. Wagnell's bus route allowed her to drop Ryan off at Frenchman's Bay Public School each morning.

Sex assault on commuter

AJAX - An Ajax woman was kidnapped and sexually assaulted by a man she met on the GO train from Toronto Tuesday afternoon.

The 29-year-old woman told police a man offered her a ride to her home and she accepted. But when they left the Ajax GO station, he took her instead to the garage of his home on Ritson Rd. N. in Oshawa and sexually assaulted her in the car, cops report.

A 41-year-old man was arrested Wednesday morning at his workplace in Toronto by Metro police. He was charged with kidnapping, forcible confinement and sexual assault.

Girl in coma after hit by car

Teenager run over after getting off school bus

AJAX-PICKERING - A 14-year-old Pickering girl is in a coma after being struck by a car as she disembarked from a school bus on Hwy. 2 late Wednesday afternoon.

Nadine Osbourne of Pickering Parkway was crossing Hwy. 2 after getting off the bus when she was struck by an eastbound car.

The Grade 9 Pickering High School student was taken to Ajax and Pickering General Hospital and later transferred to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, where she remained in critical condition at press time early Thursday evening.

The accident occurred around 5:50 p.m. at Denmar Rd. The bus was taking home students who had participated in extra-curricular activities at Pickering High in Pickering Village.

Bus signals were flashing: cops

It was headed westbound on Hwy. 2 and had stopped to discharge passengers.

Police say the signals on the bus were flashing.

Charges are pending against a 63-year-old Ajax man who was driving the car which struck Nadine.

Meanwhile, a teen thrown from a car in an accident Nov. 2 remains in serious condition at Sunnybrook Health Science Centre in Toronto.

Jose Arsenault, 16, of Marksbury Rd., was a passenger in a westbound station wagon which struck an eastbound Ford Explorer at Hwy. 2 and Fairport Rd.

Two other teens were also thrown from the car. Tamy Davis, 17, of Zator Ave. was recently released from Toronto Western Hospital. The driver, Amanda Jess, 16, of Creekview Circle, was treated at hospital and released the day of the accident.

Head dress furor at Legion

AJAX-PICKERING - It might be a little early to stroll into the Pickering Legion hall wearing a turban.

While the Dominion Executive Council of The Royal Canadian Legion has decided the religious head dress of faiths such as Jews and Sikhs is acceptable attire for Legion members and guests, the Pickering branch is sticking by its old "no hats" rule until it hears directly from national headquarters.

"We've received no direction from national headquarters," says Dick Comeau, president of Bay Ridges branch 606. "As far as we're concerned, nobody is allowed to wear a hat in the club room, the games room or the TV room." A religious turban would be considered a hat at the Legion, he adds.

Local branches tight-lipped over head gear ruling

If the Pickering branch does receive direction from national headquarters, "We'll have to cross that bridge when we come to it."

He predicts the issue will be hotly debated and voted upon during a national Legion convention in Calgary next May, and suggests that 99.9 per cent of votes will be in opposition to the wearing of religious head dress. "My personal opinion is, if I was in India, I'd assume they'd make me take my shoes off if I was in their temple."

The controversy was sparked by a recent incident in Surrey, B.C., where a Legion hall refused to allow the wearing of turbans on its premises.

The Legion's executive council appeals in a press release that it "hopes the public will be sympathetic and understanding until this matter is resolved at all levels and that the many good works of all branches will not be forgotten."

The Ajax Legion wouldn't comment until it's heard from Legion provincial headquarters in Toronto.

Masked gunmen tie up workers, grab thousands

PICKERING - Two gun-toting bandits bound employees of the Ministry of Transportation office here Wednesday night and stole several thousand dollars in cash.

The thugs, wearing handkerchiefs over their faces and baseball caps, entered the office at 1400 Bayly St. around 5:55 p.m. Two employees there at the time were tied up with duct tape and the office was ransacked by the robbers carrying handguns.

Hero 'pretty proud' he's award nominee

"As my daughter (then four years old) approached the school bus I was driving, the (bus) driver beside me pulled out of her parking space and struck my daughter. She fell to the ground after being struck by the front right bumper of the bus. My son immediately grabbed her arms and managed to pull her partly away before the front tire ran over her. The tire did run over her foot and luckily my daughter only sustained a broken foot."

A teacher advised Mrs. Wagnell that, "Had Ryan not pulled my daughter away, the tire would have ran over her stomach." She says she believes her daughter could have been killed and considers her son "a hero".

Both children suffered emotional trauma from the accident, says Mrs. Wagnell. "It's been a hard year for us. It was such an ordeal. It took a long time for him to handle it."

Ryan is "pretty proud" to be nominated for the award. He says he didn't have time to think about what he was doing when he pulled Tiffany away from the bus.

"I wanted it to be me instead of her. I just did what I could. She's my sister and I love her."

Mrs. Wagnell reports that her son has become more aware of perilous situations and speaks up when he feels someone is attempting to do something that might be dangerous. Ryan calls friends to make sure they've arrived home safely, she says.

He is also involved in hockey, Boy Scouts, community projects, and helps out senior citizens.

The OCNA, of which the News Advertiser is a member, will announce the winners of the Ontario Junior Citizens Awards in April. Up to 12 individuals and one youth group will be honored, attending a luncheon and reception with the Lieutenant Governor. Each award recipient receives a plaque, a lapel pin, $200 and a family portrait with the Lieutenant Governor.

All nominees, including Ryan, receive a certificate recognizing their nomination.

Taxpayers punished for bad cheques

AJAX - Bouncing a cheque with the Town's finance department could cost the offender an extra $20 in the new year.

Starting Jan. 1, the department will charge a $20 administrative fee for cheques returned because the account had insufficient funds, it was closed, funds in the account were frozen or a stop-payment order had been issued.

The fee won't be charged for post-dated or stale cheques, unsigned cheques, if a bank error is made or advance notice is given that a cheque may be returned.

At Town council's budget advisory committee meeting last week, deputy treasurer Rob Ford said the fee, in addition to any charge imposed by a taxpayer's bank, would be added to the tax roll, the ratepayer would be informed and asked for a replacement cheque.

In 1992, about 250 cheques were returned by the Town's bank, Mr. Ford reported. With the fee in place, that would have generated $5,000 in revenue for the Town.

This year, to the middle of November, 265 cheques had been returned, he noted.

The fee will only apply to the finance department, Mr. Ford said.

OMB's decision coming soon on Ajax wards

By KEITH GILLIGAN

Staff Reporter

AJAX - The Ontario Municipal Board will make public within two weeks its decision on a proposal to reduce Ajax to four wards from five.

At an OMB hearing on the matter here last week, Gordon Zimmerman opposed a plan to have Hwy. 2 divide the proposed Wards 1 and 3 because it would split Pickering Village.

There's a sense of community in the Village and splitting it would be a "step back," he said. "The people in historic Pickering Village should have one person to speak for them."

At present, all of Pickering Village is in Ward 1. Under the proposed boundaries, Pickering Village on the north side of Hwy. 2 would be in Ward 1 and the southern section in Ward 3.

Mr. Zimmerman suggested the boundary be moved north of the Village so it would all be in the same ward.

Town clerk Joe Tiernay told the hearing Mr. Zimmerman's plan cuts through yards and could mean neighbors living beside each other would have different councillors.

The clerk's department began looking at redrawing the ward boundaries because the current Wards 1 and 2 have the highest population and most of the Town's future growth will be in those areas. The present Wards 1 and 2 include Ajax north of Hwy. 401.

Several options were proposed, with most retaining the five-ward system. Town officials also looked at four and six-ward options.

Council opted for the four-ward system with boundaries to follow major roads, Mr. Tiernay said. The new system, if approved by the OMB, would be in place for the 1994 and 1997 municipal elections.

Another change to the boundaries would be needed in the year 2000 to accommodate growth, Mr. Tiernay said.

Ward 1 councillor Frank Schaper also spoke at the hearing, saying the switch to four wards "isn't in the best interest of the Town in terms of financial concerns." Larger wards could make a councillor's job full-time job and therefore necessitate higher pay.

Mr. Schaper also opposes splitting the Village into two wards.

Clements Rd. E. resident Guy Colm sent a letter to the OMB opposing the change to four wards.

He wanted to speak at the hearing, but was out of the country.

Board convener Peter Wilkes reserved his decision until the middle of December.

The proposed boundaries for Ward 1 would be the Pickering border to the west and north; Westney Rd., Ritchie and Knapton Aves. to the east; and Hwy. 2 from the Pickering border to Ritchie and Hwy. 401 from Knapton to Harwood Ave. to the south.

Ward 2 boundaries would be Pickering to the north; Whitby to the east; 401 to the south; and Westney, Ritchie and Knapton to the west.

Ward 3 would be bounded by Lake Ontario to the south; Pickering to the west; Hwys. 2 and 401 to the north; and Harwood, Ritchie and Knapton to the east.

Ward 4 boundaries will become 401 to the north; Whitby to the east; the lake to the south; and Harwood to the west.

Hats off to Legion leaders

Some Royal Canadian Legion members are digging in their heels over the turban issue — and they are doing that just as the national leadership is showing an open mind by approving a new policy allowing the wearing of head dress in Legion halls for religious purposes.

While this is a touchy matter that can be looked at from a number of directions, it should be easy to see that turbans are not any old head gear.

Head gear is a cap you don before going out the door and doff when passing an elder.

Head gear is a wide-brimmed hat you slap on as protection from the summer sun or a toque to keep your ears warm in winter. It can be a fashion statement or worn as a jaunty cap advertising your favorite baseball team.

A turban is a little different. It is a part of a religious ritual for members of the Sikh religion. It is not a cap slapped on the head, it is cloth wrapped around the hair to keep it clean. And it is not something you can casually take off and leave at the door as you enter an establishment.

If any member of the Sikh community wore a turban into a Legion hall, it would not be meant as offensive or a sign of disrespect. On the contrary, it is very much a sign of respect — to their god and religion.

Similarly, the yarmulke is worn by some Jews as an indication of respect for their religion.

There is a real possibility that Legion members pressing to have the wearers of turbans and other similar head dress banned from Legion halls are doing so out of a certain intolerance and little else.

Just because some of us may not understand the custom, it shouldn't mean we should dismiss it out of hand. We should remember that most of us have rituals of our own that we follow, and that the Sikh turban or Jewish yarmulke just happens to involve head dress.

Such a matter should really be treated with tolerance and with an open mind, because all of us hope — and deserve — to be treated with respect and tolerance by others.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Soetens thanks supporters

To the editor,

On Oct. 25, the electorate of Ontario Riding cast their ballots for a new Member of Parliament.

When I stood for election in 1988, I knew full well that the term of office would come to an end and that I would have to seek re-election. The citizens have made their choice and I fully respect their decision.

I want to extend a very heartfelt thank you to all those who worked for and or voted for my re-election.

My five years as the Member of Parliament for Ontario Riding has been a very rewarding experience. I have made many new friends, both personal and business related.

The experiences that I can look back on combined with the opportunities to listen and learn about new ideas will always be cherished.

It has been a pleasure and a privilege to represent the constituents of Ontario Riding and I thank you all for that.

Ontario Riding is very large and has many diverse interests. I wish Dan McTeague every success as he sets out to be our next Member of Parliament.

Annual art show big success

To the editor,

We would like to thank the News Advertiser for its great promotion of Ajax Creative Arts recent 26th Annual Art Show. It was a great success.

Ethel Boden won the door prize, a lovely hand-painted porcelain plate, painted by Patty Haswell.

The two days of the art show helped promote local artists in the Durham area. The club is a non-profit workshop for local artists. We are happy to see so many people from the community coming out to enjoy our works of art.

Seminar helps firms make commitment to quality

DURHAM - When Japan was rebuilding after World War II, one of the economists brought in to help was Dr. Edwards Deming.

Using Dr. Deming's philosophy of total quality commitment (TQC), the Japanese turned themselves into an economic giant.

Businesses in Durham Region can learn about total quality commitment at a seminar in Whitby on Wednesday.

The seminar is just one way the Bureau for Excellence in Durham Region (BEDR) promotes and makes businesses aware of TQC, says executive director Dr. Richard Hadden.

Total quality commitment is "a way of doing business which leads to continued improvement of products and services," Mr. Hadden says. That means using employees to solve problems and working to exceed customer expectations.

"It's a lifetime commitment, not a quick fix," he says.

The idea is to work toward a better quality product or service in order to satisfy customers. "That increases market share, expansion, and profitability. That's what it's all about," Mr. Hadden says.

A key element of TQC is "visionary leadership. It's so important because you put it in and work with it every day."

A company "never" reaches perfection because the concept calls for "continuous improvement."

The philosophy can be used by any company or institution. "Someone running a hotel can sit down with a steel-mill operator because the concepts are the same," Mr. Hadden says.

Next week's seminar is aimed at small and medium-sized businesses or institutions. "Big companies are aware of (TQC) and practise it."

BEDR was established about a year ago with its main aim to promote TQC.

The bureau's 22-member board includes representatives from manufacturing, finance, education, labor, health and local government.

Clients approaching the bureau will get an overview of total quality and an analysis showing the areas where TQC could help.

"We'll sit down and work out a game plan. We'll line them up with consultants," says Mr. Hadden.

The bureau has a library of books, articles and videos on total quality commitment for use by businesses.

Among the speakers at Wednesday's seminar are General Motors of Canada president George Peaples and Communications, Energy and Paperworkers Union of Canada executive vice-president Reg Basken.

The seminar runs from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. and includes breakfast and lunch. It's being held at Le Gala Convention Centre, 65 Sunray St., Whitby.

Cost is $75, which covers meals.

Call BEDR at 721-2000, ext. 4004, for more information.

Childhood cancer survivors find soul mates

By LINDA WHITE
Staff Reporter

DURHAM - For a survivor of childhood cancer, "knowing others went through the same thing I did" has brought a sense of relief — more than 25 years later.

"I always wondered, 'Am I the only person who's gone through this?'" admits Phillip McCorkell, 31, of Ajax. "Now I know others went through the same thing as kids, had the same treatments, had the same fears."

He's discovered soul mates through Rebounders Canada, a newly-formed group which brings together adults aged 18 to 35 who survived childhood cancer.

At age five, Mr. McCorkell was diagnosed with a brain tumor after his "wobbling and staggering" concerned his parents.

"My chances of survival were really slim" because treatment was "in its pioneering stage. Everything was experimental. I surprised them all," he smiles.

While no additional treatment has been necessary since his initial surgery and radiation therapy, Mr. McCorkell continues to suffer side-effects, including a severe hearing loss which forces him to wear a hearing aid.

Because his bones didn't form properly as a result of radiation, he has suffered an arthritic-type pain the past 10 years.

And, like many other survivors of childhood cancer, Mr. McCorkell has "very young features" which, he believes, make people "look at you and wonder what's wrong. They treat you differently, but don't ask questions."

But not all problems are physical, according to Mr. McCorkell. He points to many survivors who "seem to be anti-social" and suffer such other emotional side-effects as loneliness.

With fellow survivors, however, "right away you feel comfortable. It's like a safety net."

Feelings of loneliness are fairly common, according to a research study on the psychological issues facing survivors of life-threatening illness carried out recently by the Toronto-Bayview Regional Cancer Centre.

The study also determined many survivors had problems in school and work, and remain very conscious and concerned about their choices in life. While their battle with cancer enriched the lives of most — giving them a "zest for life" — it has made life more difficult at the same time.

The report argued that as much help as possible should be offered to children attempting to cope with the trauma of having cancer, noting youngsters diagnosed with cancer today are much more likely to survive than were kids diagnosed prior to the 1960s.

For those early survivors of childhood cancer, Rebounders and Teen Rebounders offer such events as conferences, get-togethers and other social activities. Members also aim to help others coping with cancer.

For more information on Rebounders, call group founder Andrew Sprawson at (905) 842-7745. Or, write to him at 1202-30 Speers Rd., Oakville, Ontario, L6K 2E4.

Down to a fine art

Students from Lakeside Public School in Ajax got making clay sculptures down to a fine art when they recently participated in the Durham Board of Education's annual arts enrichment program for Grades 4 and 5. Ask The Professionals

Can a consultant improve your 'financial health'?

(NC) - The letter read (in part):
 "It will always be an important responsibility of individuals to seek out, with care, those that offer professional advice, whether it be medical, legal or financial. Having said that, I would predict that in 10 years most of the population will have a personal financial consultant just like they have a dentist and a doctor today."

(The letter was written by Terry Stone of the Bolton Tremblay group of mutual funds.)
 His advice is sound. We should all seek out good medical, legal and financial advice. But most don't go to a doctor until they feel sick. Very few go to a legal advisor until they need such services. And...very few ever seek a financial

 And though almost 50 per cent of people today die without a will, if you were to ask everyone if they should have a will, probably 100 per cent would say "yes."

That's why there are professionals today who do financial planning and who seek "you" out. If you were to put $500 down and then save $100 per month at 10 per cent, in 12 years you'd be worth almost $30,000. If you'd done the same over the past 12 years with a mutual fund called Cundill Value Fund, you'd be worth over $60,000.

Or, if you borrowed $10,000 12 years ago at 12 per cent (and put it in the same mutual fund), it would cost you $100 per month to service the loan, but the $10,000 grew to $122,000. After you repay the loan, you have $112,000 left. (On top of that, the $100 monthly interest payment was tax deductible, making the "true" cost $70 monthly — or less.)

If all three cases above, you are looking at $100 monthly. But, one ended up with $30,000, the other $60,000 and the third with $112,000 (with less actual savings).

Most would save using method number one above (though not receiving 10 per cent on savings accounts), ending up with the $30,000.

More and more are starting to save with mutual funds and are therefore ending up with $60,000.

And only a few will even consider method number three, whereby you would have ended up with $112,000.

Financial planning can probably help most. Maybe it's time to seek out help, rather than waiting for someone to find you.

Out-of-practise runners at risk for injuries

(NU) - Beginning runners are constantly being advised not to overexert themselves, but sometimes experienced runners need to hear that admonishment, too.

Athletes who have turned to other sports such as basketball or volleyball shouldn't assume they are in perfect shape for running.

When you resume running, start out at a short distance and increase the mileage slowly. You can safely add one to two miles a week.

If you are running for weight loss or control, remember the following formula: energy expenditure equals mass (body weight) times distance. Not that "speed" is not part of the formula to burn calories. So run slow but long.

Don't forget to stretch before running: (1) Warm up the muscle by walking for five to 10 minutes. (2) Stop and stretch your muscles one at a time. (3) Hold each stretch for 30 to 60 seconds. Never bounce. (4) Stretch specific running muscles, i.e. quads, hamstrings, calves, hip rotators.

Common running injuries include:

- Shin splints (pain on the inside or outside of legs below the knee). They are usually caused by running on too-hard surfaces.
- Ankle or knee sprains. They are usually caused by falling. Avoid running on uneven surfaces.
- Quad or hamstring strains. They are usually caused by running too fast, increasing distance too fast or running over hilly terrain. Slow down or look for a flatter route.
- Fatigue. If you feel tired throughout the day and especially upon waking, you're training too hard. Reduce your mileage and running time.

Some muscle soreness — a tightness or achy feeling — after starting your program is normal. The soreness should gradually dissipate as you continue running. For more information, call Whites Road Physiotherapy & Sports Injuries Clinic, 720 Sheppard Ave. E., Pickering, 420-0647.

Everyone needs professional services at some time. Make sure people know about your's. Call Duncan Fletcher at 683-5110 to book an advertisement.

COUNTRY BUMPINGS

They're lining up to learn the newest dance craze

By BRUCE FROUDE
Durham Staff

DURHAM - Love him or hate him, Billy Ray Cyrus has been largely responsible for the latest love affair with country music.

In the past few years, country music — New Country to the trendies — has changed the listening habits of a generation. It has also affected the movements of a generation. Instead of shaking, wiggling, grinding and stomping to rock 'n' roll, people everywhere are discovering the joys and gyrations of line dancing.

Like dance crazes of the past, country dancing comes with crazy names. Remember The Hustle and The Bump? Forget 'em. These cheeky dances have been replaced by The Tush Push, The Achy Breaky, Texas Freeze, Slapping Leather, The Wheel, The Confusion, The Fireman, The Florida Stroll, The Cowboy Cha Cha and The Cowboy Bump. Not all are line dances; some are couples' dances and group dances. That's the beauty of the new country swing; there is something for everyone.

"There are no restrictions on who can do it," says Carole Joynes of Carole's Country. "It's for young people and even up to golden agers. We can accommodate anyone."

And anywhere in Durham, Joynes started line dancing lessons in March at the Royal Canadian Legion in Oshawa and has seen the popularity increase at an unbelievable rate. Now she is hosting six sessions a week in Ajax, Pickering, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Newcastle.

Joynes, a native of England, taught children tap, jazz and other traditional dance steps before becoming hooked on country dancing earlier this year. The grandmother of six was looking for a pick-me-up when a friend suggested they give country dancing a whirl. She was hooked right from the start.

"I wanted to teach it right away," says Joynes.

Like all those folks watching on The Nashville Network, Joynes enjoyed the easy-going atmosphere associated with line dancing.

"It's like a ball game. When you go to watch one you feel the atmosphere and then you wonder why you didn't do it before."

Hundreds of people in the area feel the same way. Joynes regularly oversees 300 dancers a week and not all of them are blessed with Billy Ray Cyrus moves.

"If they have two left feet, I'll find somebody with two right feet," laughs Joynes, who picks up new steps through trips to other studios.

Learning the steps is fairly easy, she stresses. Quite often the moves are repetitious and at every session she spends the first hour of each night going over the basic steps.

"I have a lot of patience with people and they don't need to be afraid to come out."

And they need not be afraid to dig out their boleros and cowboy boots. As a matter of fact, it adds much-needed ambience to the proceedings.

"A lot of the club members wear the western garb and we encourage other people to do the same," says the Oshawa teacher. "It gets the people into the mood and perhaps it makes them feel like a different person."

This seems to help the men, who tend to be timid about dancing. However, country dancing and wearing a cowboy hat gives them a certain amount of anonymity. What better place for a guy to blend into the crowd?

Line dances and group dances allow the novice to watch and learn from the dancers in a less intimidating setting. And, country dancing offers a fun night out for participants and spectators alike.

"I'm looking to get people really, really interested in dancing and having a good time," says Joynes, who is accomplishing her goals. "People are having the blahs because of the recession and a lot of them need to be brought out of this depression

Where to go to kick up your heels

DURHAM - A little over nine months ago Carole Joynes gave country music a try. Today, she runs six nights of dancing in Durham.

□ Sunday nights the teacher is at the Newcastle Inn from 7 to 9:30 p.m. pushing the new age country dances.

□ Monday you'll find Joynes at the Metro East Trade Centre, 1305 Pickering Parkway, in Pickering from 7 to 9:30 p.m. This is the biggest space in the area to dance the night away.

□ Tuesday the show goes to the Annandale Golf and Country Club on Church St. in Ajax. The dancing runs from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

□ Wednesday is couple's night at the Kinsmen Club, 109 Colbourne St. W., in Oshawa from 7 to 9:30 p.m. There is always someone looking for a partner, so singles are encouraged to attend this night, too.

□ Thursday dancing is at the Port Darlington Marina, 70 Port Darlington Rd., in Bowmanville from 7 to 10 p.m.

□ Friday, kick up your heels at the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 43, 471 Simcoe St. S., in Oshawa from 7 to 10 p.m.

Joynes is offering memberships this month which can be purchased at the dances or by calling 579-7719.

Amanda Ferguson, the youngest participant in a line dancing class, learns a few new steps.

and line dancing allows them to have a good time."

One of Joynes's desires is to have a permanent club in Durham and teach some young school-age dancers about this new style of fancy footwork.

Joynes is always looking for new dancers, who can reach her at 579-7719.

Musician-song writer honored for popular tune

PICKERING - A Pickering musician and song writer was recognized by his peers at a recent awards ceremony in Toronto.

Rick Washbrook received an award from the Society Of Composers And Authors (SOCAN) for co-writing the Canadian song played most often by radio stations in this country in 1992.

Rescued By The Arms of Love was recorded by Glass Tiger and co-written with group members Allen Frew and Wayne Parker.

The song went to number three on the music charts in Canada.

The SOCAN awards night also honored the contributions of a number of other well-known Canadian musicians, including Burton Cummings, Randy Bachman and Gordon Lightfoot.

Washbrook, who has a number of albums to his credit and has penned songs for other musicians, will take his music on the road as he'll perform at Ontario universities through the winter and early spring.

Services aplenty to help workers tackle problems

DURHAM - Companies and agencies across Durham are actively participating in the Employee Assistance Program (EAP) to enhance the quality of life within the workplace.

Employees with a company that offers an EAP can go to a member on the committee and receive professional assistance to deal with problems such as stress, substance abuse, emotional distress or family troubles.

During the recent Addiction Awareness Week, Employee Assistance Program Advisory Council chair Suzin Shopiro-Jackson deed it was a great opportunity for members of the EAP to get together and learn more about the services and facilities available in the region.

So, about 30 people boarded a bus and spent a recent day touring some of the communities' services. They included Destiny Manor, a treatment centre for women with alcohol and drug abuse problems, and the Pinewood Centre in Oshawa, which offers assistance to those affected by substance abuse.

Services offered at Pinewood, which now has an Ajax branch, include out-patient services for substance abusers, programs for family members of addicts, a crisis intervention and support line and detoxification for men.

"We operate on the non-medical detox model which means there is absolutely not one pill given," explained Dr. Brian McLatchie, director at Pinewood.

Charlie Norris, coordinator of family counselling for the Region, gave his presentation while riding the bus, and thought the tour was a good idea.

"It gave the people who are in the position of referring people to services a first-hand opportunity to look at what the services are all about," said Mr. Norris. "Although some of the agencies have been around for a while, I wasn't aware of some of the changes they've made. I found it very interesting — a really unique idea."

"It's nice to see there are a lot of youth programs available," added Beverly Mitchell, a senior accounting clerk on the EAP committee.

Audley Ceramics a local business on the move

For Wendy Puckrin, moving her business out of her home to a 4,000-sq.-ft. unit on Bayly St. in Ajax has been an exhilarating experience.

For five years, Wendy, along with her husband Art Puckrin, had operated Audley Ceramics from her home on Taunton Rd. in Ajax. And although she is getting settled in her new location since she moved in September, Wendy remembers clearly her very first ceramics class in her basement.

She, along with other associates, has given numerous classes since that first session, but she still finds there is a big demand for ceramics instruction, as well as for the entire services of Audley Ceramics.

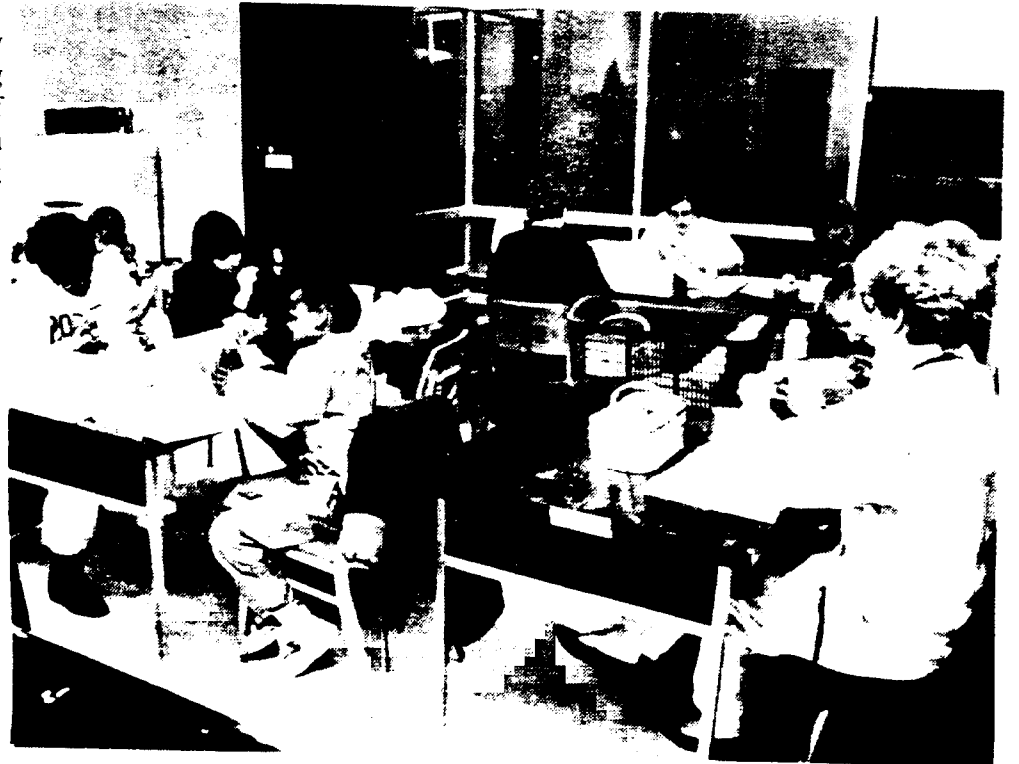

Wendy attributes that to the fact that she does her best to keep prices down so that people get good value.

"With the cost of everything so high, I keep my prices reasonable to keep the hobby going," she says. "People need to feel they're getting value for their money."

While her everyday prices for supplies are kept as economical as possible, she also offers various discounts. For example, throughout December, she has been offering weekly savings on assorted supplies, for the Christmas season. The current promotion runs from Dec. 6 to 11; customers will save 30% off all glazes and sealers.

Looking ahead to the New Year, Wendy is offering a two-for-one special for classes. That means if you bring a friend, you will pay half the regular instruction price of $35.

A new daytime class will also be starting - this one on Wednesday afternoons, while the Tuesday afternoon class will continue.

Of the classes, Wendy says students are able to choose whatever piece they like to make (supplies are extra), and because they get proper guidance, the piece is properly finished. The ideal class size is 12 to 14 people.

Many students, she says, are ecstatic to find, at the end of the course, that they can produce such well-finished items.

Although this still has to be determined, there is also a possibility, Wendy says, of offering a children's class in 1994.

She adds also, "The teachers are all experienced and really know what they're talking about." As well, teaching seminars are offered periodically.

The retail aspect of the business is also thriving. Ceramics craftspeople will find a full line of ceramics, paints and brushes. There is also a limited selection of dried flowers, and Wendy plans to add more craft lines in the future.

Other services include custom firing and pouring, which is done by Art. Wendy explains that the cost of the first firing is half the price of the greenware; the second firing, one-quarter the price of the greenware; and if a third firing is needed (for decals, mother of pearl, and gold, for example), there is no cost.

Audley Ceramics also offers a lot of bisque pieces - ceramics that are already cleaned and fired). People with allergies particularly appreciate the bisque items.

Wendy emphasizes that only "good quality greenware" is sold at her store. "What you start with determines how you end up," she says.

Because the interest in ceramics as a hobby has grown immensely over the past 10 years, hobbyists will find all types of items for their home decor. Besides the traditional figurines, there are now photo frames, wall shelves and Victorian-style sconces, to name a few.

For all your ceramics supplies, give Audley Ceramics a call. And if you'd like to know more about the classes, Wendy can be reached at 428-2519. Hours of business at the 352 Bayly St. W. location (Units 1 and 2) are Mon. to Thurs. 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 to 9 p.m., Fri. 10 to 4, and Sat. 10 to 3:30.

Employee program 'headed in a solid direction' of the committee, stressed the importance of having an Employee Assistance Program.

"People want better workers and people with personal problems — whether that problem be alcohol or drugs — are usually not working at their peak efficiency. If you can stop that by being able to form a committee, it would be in everybody's best interest, most importantly in the best interest of the employee who will probably have a better life for it."

Ms. Shopiro-Jackson was encouraged with the response she received from other EAP members about the bus tour.

"They found it invaluable to get to talk to other people who have an EAP...The networking that went on today was incredible, even for me. I loved it. I got to meet people I've been talking to for years (on the phone)."

One of the goals of the EAP advisory council is to implement a plan of action to expand the EAP membership.

"We have decided that we want to be the umbrella organization for an EAP network," said Ms. Shopiro-Jackson. "The EAP network in Durham Region is going to get stronger and I want people to become involved in it. When you look at the goals and objectives, you'll see that they're headed in a solid direction."

The last stop on the schedule took the participants to the Addiction Research Foundation, where Ms. Shopiro-Jackson explained the programs and products available through the foundation. Some of the newer products included the Alternatives Kit — an educational package that helps care givers prevent and deal with alcohol and drug problems among older people, and a board game called Smokes and Ladders, which shows kids the risks of smoking cigarettes and sampling alcohol and the benefits of avoiding them. Also available is a Youth Action Program for young people working to develop their own health promotion and prevention projects.

If you want to know more about either establishing an Employee Assistance Program, or in networking with other programs in the region, you can call Ms. Shopiro-Jackson at the Addiction Research Foundation at 576-6277.

The Housesitters

Advertising Feature

Helping take care of pets, homes

It's been nearly a year since your last much-deserved vacation, and also nearly a year since you acquired that new kitten. This time last winter, you didn't have to worry about the responsibilities of home ownership, let alone Fluffy.

That's where The Housesitters come in. Not only will a Housesitters staff member provide food, lots of attention and play for Fluffy, the sitter will also make sure your home insurance requirements are met.

The Durham Region branch is one of over 20 offices across Canada. The Housesitters has been providing travellers with peace of mind since 1981. A professional, fully bonded sitter will visit periodically to care for your pets; water your plants; take in mail and flyers; ensure utilities are in working order and generally see to it your home looks occupied.

Not only is an unattended home a prime target for burglars or vandals, but most insurance policies offer only limited coverage if your home is not checked regularly while you are away.

This is especially important during the winter months, when walkways and sidewalks need to be cleared of snow and ice, and heating systems need to be working at all times.

"Review your homeowners insurance policy or call your agent to confirm the frequency of visits required (during the winter months) to ensure complete coverage," owner-operator Sherry Goodwin suggests.

Sherry's partner, Helen Taylor recounts a story of a brand new house the firm was sitting one particular winter. When the sitter arrived, she noticed her charges - two birds - huddled together in their cage. The heat was not working.

The situation was reported immediately, a serviceman contacted, and in no time, the problem was discovered to be that of an electrical switch on the furnace. It was promptly repaired, much to the relief of the two birds - not to mention the relief of the owners, who would have had a catastrophe on their hands had the problem remain unchecked for too long.

Services provided by The Housesitters vary according to the client's individual needs. Sitters provide periodic visits of twice a day, once a day, every 48 hours, twice weekly and once weekly. Even if you are not travelling, The Housesitters offers a completely personalized range of services, provided on a regular or 'as-needed' basis.

They include weekday noon-hour dog-walking for the working dog owner; supervision of appliance or repair people, movers, contractors or deliveries.

One of The Housesitters most unique features is its staff. The majority of people who look after homes and pets are early retirees. These reliable people have experience with home ownership and all the responsibilities it entails. Consequently, clients feel comfortable having a mature adult in their home, and sitters enjoy the opportunity to provide this service in their own community.

Sherry points out, "Neighbors and family members used to be able to provide this type of assistance, but with everyone working and families being more mobile, they often don't have the time to provide this kind of help."

Hiring a housesitter leaves you free to enjoy your time away knowing your home and pets are being cared for by a professional.

If an emergency were to occur, Housesitters staff make sure the problem is taken care of promptly. Client information - home insurance, heating and veterinary contacts - are all kept on computer for easy access.

If you would like a free brochure, more details about the Housesitters' services, or if you are a retiree or senior who would enjoy looking after homes and animals in your own community, call Anne at 686-1691.

Aspen Springs: Great homes in a great community

When looking to buy a home, people look for more than a house. In fact, the community and the home must have a lot in common. Both must be attractive, comfortable and have all the convenience features. People are looking for a house, and a community, to which they enjoy coming home.

That is the kind of care the Kaitlin Group has injected into Aspen Springs. It is here, in Bowmanville, that the Kaitlin Group has carefully planned and developed a complete community. Not only are quality of building materials, construction techniques and service second to none, but prices start at an extremely affordable $99,990, for one of the beautiful freehold townhomes. There are also large detached homes providing 2,446-square-feet of living space on 50-foot lots, homes on detached 40-foot lots and link homes on 30-foot lots. At Aspen Springs, you will find a variety of home designs and sizes to suit the needs and lifestyles of your and your family.

"Aspen Springs is well suited to different requirements in home sizes and family lifestyle," says the Kaitlin Group's president William Daniell. "We invite people to drive around the community and have a look at what Aspen Springs has to offer, and compare with other communities."

And Aspen Springs has a lot to offer. Now in its second phase, the Bowmanville community is already home to over 200 satisfied families — eventually, 10,000 people will call Aspen Springs home. A shopping centre will be part of Aspen Springs community as well as it will be the eventual site for the proposed GO Transit station. For the leisure times, a community park is now completed and the Bowmanville recreation complex is located nearby.

But what is most attractive about Aspen Springs is its homes. Regardless of the size of the home however, the Kaitlin Group has taken great care and paid close attention to detail and incorporated the thoughtful designs into all home styles. Even the townhomes feature attractive arched windows, decorative brickwork, varying rooflines and recessed styling that makes for a pleasant streetscape.

Now is a great time to take a close look at Aspen Springs. With interest rates holding at attractively low levels, it continues to be the best time to invest in a new home. This is especially true when you consider that you can carry a mortgage for less than it costs to rent. You can move into an Aspen Springs home with a mortgage payment of $641 per month for three years, with six other home models available for less than $800 a month over a three-year period.

Then there is Kaitlin's after-sales service. When you plan a community the size of Aspen Springs, the careful planning doesn't stop once construction starts. Kaitlin stresses the importance of each resident and, with that in mind, the developer has established an efficient after-sales service department on site that keeps information on each and every home sold in the community.

This attention on the part of the developer ensures the purchaser of a positive homebuying experience, which translates to excellent referrals. In fact, a large number of homes sold in Aspen Springs thus far have come about as a result of "word-of-mouth" advertising.

Aspen Springs is located on 500 acres on Martin Rd. (Durham Regional Rd. 57), between Hwy. 2 and Hwy. 401. To visit Aspen Springs and see one of the decorated model homes, exit Hwy. 401 at Waverly Rd., proceed north to Martin Rd. and watch for the Aspen Springs signs. Office hours at 1 to 8 p.m. Monday to Thursday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends. The sales office is closed on Friday.

Humidifiers provide safety and convenience

With today's increasing concern for healthful indoor air, more homeowners are turning to whole house humidifiers.

Millions of North Americans already use whole house humidifiers, which are installed directly on the home's heating system and distribute humidified air to the entire house. Research Products Corporation, maker of Aprilaire humidifiers, the leading whole-house brand, reported that, in a recent survey, more than a quarter of new home buyers said they want a whole-house humidifier.

Vern Hellenbrand, president of Research Products Corp., attributes the interest to growing consumer awareness of indoor air quality.

"People today are spending more money and time making sure their indoor environment is healthful and comfortable," Hellenbrand says. "They recognize that adequate indoor humidity increases wintertime comfort and helps protect the home and furnishings from the damage of dryness. People want the easiest, safest possible way to achieve those benefits, and that is with a whole-house humidifier."

Whole-house humidifiers are popular primarily because they increase indoor comfort, but many doctors also recommend increased wintertime humidity to relieve cold symptoms such as a dry nose and scratchy throat. There is even evidence that adequate humidity can help the body get rid of airborne viruses, Hellenbrand says.

Whole house humidifiers, such as the Aprilaire, provide maximum convenience because they maintain constant humidity automatically and have an automatic water supply and a safe, flow-through drain so there is no reservoir to fill or spill.

Whole house humidifiers are available for all types of central heating systems, including forced air, steam, hot water or electric. Hellenbrand offers the following tips for choosing a safe, effective whole house humidifier:

- > Look for a safe, flow-through drain design that doesn't allow water to stand in the unit. Standing water could breed mold, bacteria and other harmful irritants.
- > Get a humidifier that provides moisture in harmless, vapor form, not mist or droplets. The U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission has criticized some ultrasonic humidifiers and other mist-type models because they produce a fine, white, mineral dust that can be hazardous when it is inhaled.

A study released in 1992 by Penn State University found that evaporative-type humidifiers do not pose any health hazard.

- > Buy a humidifier which includes an accurate, automatic humidistat that will provide a uniform relative humidity level of 35% throughout your house. Fully automatic, 'set-and-forget' humidistats are now available for some humidifiers.

Basements provide more living and work space

Everyone can use more household space for working, leisure, storage and any number of other functions.

In today's economic climate, creative use of existing basement space can provide a cost effective way to gain additional space in the home.

Whether your dream is working in a comfortable home office, contributing to your mortgage costs through a rental unit or providing home child care with a live-in nanny, you may want to consider the opportunity under your feet.

The first stage of a successful basement renovation is inspection and correction. See what you've got down there. Clean out what you won't use — recycling, selling or giving away unwanted items.

Check the discarded articles for mould, mildew, water marks and general dampness. These all can be a sign of water problems and it makes no sense to spend money on new finishes only to have them damaged shortly thereafter.

Expand your inspection to walls and floor. Standing water or leaking cracks are clearly concerns. Less obvious, but also signs of a problem are staining and efflorescence — that fine, fuzzy white powder commonly present on basement walls which is caused by water soluble salts that are left in the surface when water evaporates.

A waterproofing professional should inspect and correct any water problems before you proceed further.

At the same time, it's useful to have plumbing and electrical contractors assess current and planned uses and make required upgrades.

After you take care of the basics that will be hidden, you can proceed with your dream project with confidence.

The above article was submitted for publication by Basement Systems Canada.

Get the plaster effect

Plaster walls and ceilings were standard fare in the houses our grandparents built. But today, the affordable price of drywall has made plaster a high-end, high-price alternative used almost exclusively on top-of-the-line construction.

Yet, there is a way the average homeowner can achieve the high-quality look and exceptional durability of plaster without paying an arm and a leg. Ironically, the answer is plaster — veneer plaster.

Veneer plaster delivers many of the strengths and aesthetic advantages of traditional plaster at a significantly reduced cost.

As the name implies, veneer plaster is actually a thin veneer of plaster applied over special gypsum base panels and attached to framing like standard gypsum board. The base panels are similar to conventional gypsum panels, except for the face paper, which is made absorptive for proper plaster application and bonding.

Veneer plaster can be applied as either a one- or two-coat system. A one-coat system is achieved by applying a layer of veneer plaster such as United States Gypsum Company's Diamond Interior Finish directly onto the face of the gypsum base panels.

First, the board joints are covered with reinforcement tape, then the veneer plaster is troweled over the entire surface and worked to either a smooth or textured finish.

A two-coat veneer plaster system features a base coat of plaster troweled over the gypsum base panels prior to application of the finish coat.

"The advantages of the two-coat system are that it is much stronger and more durable than the one-coat system, and the finish is easier to apply and trowel to the desired smoothness or texture," says Jim Hufnagel, author of The New Illustrated Do-It-Yourself Manual.

"The two-coat system is perfect for hiding serious imperfections like drywall joint deformation or wavy walls," he says. While veneer plaster doesn't cost as much as actual lath-and-plaster jobs, it is more expensive than finished drywall walls, Hufnagel notes.

"Homeowners can expect to pay about 25 percent over the cost of installing drywall walls for a one-coat veneer plaster system, or about 50 percent over the cost of the two-coat system."

In any case, the additional cost is worth it, Hufnagel says. "What you spend in additional materials and labor you make up in strength, durability and beauty."

The hots and colds of bathroom decorating

Bathrooms now are out of the closet, rivaling kitchens as rooms where appearances are of utmost importance to home buyers and settled homeowners. Here's what is hot and what is not in today's market:

WHAT'S HOT

- > Traditional fixtures. Avoid glitz and foreign brands for which it is difficult to find replacement parts.
- > Marble. Find a light material that resists scratches.
- > Water-saving faucets and low-flow shower heads. These items save water and energy.
- > Instantaneous water heaters. Placed under the sink, this device heats water faster and cheaper because it eliminates the on-all-day basement heating tank.
- > Designer sponges. No longer do you have to hide this necessity. Scotch-Brite sponges come in three decorative shapes and several colors — aqua, teal, raspberry and ivory. They perform the same as the traditional Scotch-Brite pads with no splintering and no rusting, but you don't mind leaving them out for company to see.
- > Adjustable shower arms, towel warmers and heated floor tiles.

WHAT'S NOT

- > Bidets. Replaced by air jet toilets that use less water.
- > Oversized jacuzzi. Smaller but more powerful models are in demand.
- > European faucets. Difficult to find replacement parts for foreign brands.
- > Purple, pink or unique tile. Stay with neutral colors.

Quality construction makes home attractive

What you see is as important as what you don't see when you buy a home. While it is important to us to buy an attractive home, we would like to believe the home is as well built as it is good looking.

Devecseri Homes believes the most attractive feature of a new home is the quality and care the builder takes at the construction phase.

Steve Devecseri has been in the construction industry for nearly 20 years and now brings the pride of construction to his homes. This local builder has homes in Courtice, Newcastle, Port Hope and Oshawa — on Beatrice at Harmony Rd.

Devecseri Homes offers a variety of home designs — raised bungalows, two-storey, side-split and back-split homes. Prices at the Oshawa site start at $168,900, for a 1,898 square foot raised bungalow, and range up to $179,900, for a two-storey home with 2,300 sq. ft. of living space. In Newcastle, you will find great value in an all-brick, three-bedroom home featuring air conditioning and double garage for just $147,900.

All Devecseri Homes include walkout basements and beautiful kitchens, with eat-in areas. The two-storey homes have gas fireplaces and double garages.

If you want a home where quality construction is the most important part of building an attractive home, you owe it to yourself to see what Devecseri Homes has to offer.

To visit the Devecseri Homes sales office and see their model homes, take Harmony Rd. north to Beatrice and follow the signs. The sales office is open Monday to Thursday from 2 to 6 p.m. and on weekends from 1 to 5 p.m. The office is closed on Fridays. For more information, call 434-7271 or 786-2876.

Smooth-surface cooktops are becoming popular

Smooth surface cooktops are invading North American kitchens.

At this year's Kitchen/Bath Industry Show, held in Atlanta, more than two-thirds of the total number of electric ranges and cooktops being displayed by appliance makers were smooth-surface units. The K/BIA show is closely watched by industry experts for coming trends in kitchen and bath design.

SMOOTH-AS-GLASS

COOKING TREND

Retailers are optimistic. A recent nationwide poll by J. Paul Blum Market Research and Planning showed that retailers expect smooth-surface units to eventually capture 25 to 50 percent of the North American range market. Smooth-top stoves have been popular in Europe for many years.

Success of the smoothtop segment of the cooking market is generally attributed to two factors. First is the Ceran glass-ceramic material, which was developed specifically for smoothtop cooking, and the second is the care with which the other elements of the cooktop system — such as controls and heating elements — have been integrated with the glass-ceramic panel.

COOKTOPS LOOK GREAT

AND ARE EASY TO CLEAN

Ceran panels are non-porous, making them easy to clean up and nearly impervious to spills. They do not expand as they heat up, nor contract as they cool down, so they resist sudden and severe temperature changes, such as cold water spilled on a hot cooking surface.

The composition of the panel promotes efficient heat transfer by moving heat directly upwards into the pot or pan, not sideways. Even when a cooking area is hot, the rest of the panel remains relatively cool under normal cooking conditions.

Ease of cleaning is another large plus for smoothtops. Most spills wipe up easily with a paper towel and a recommended cleaner. A razor-blade scraper can be used for burned-on spills. And of course, there are no coils or drip pans to clean.

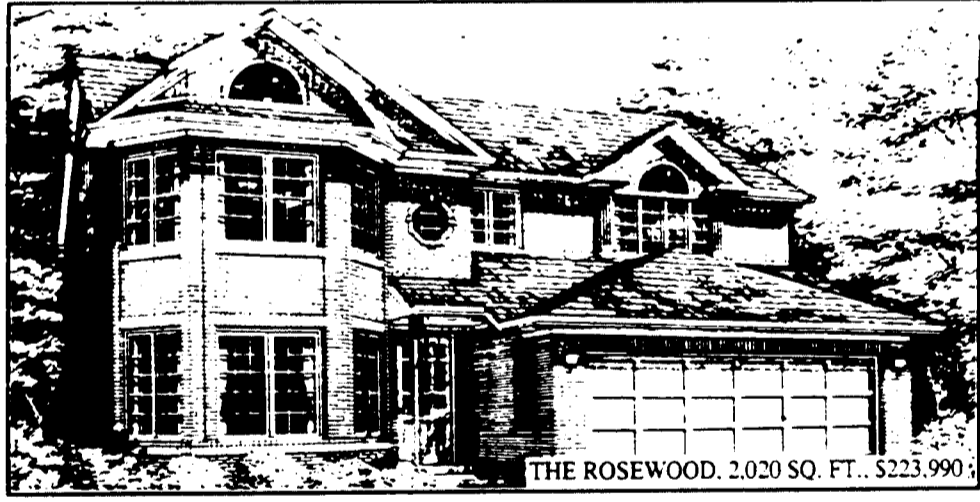

The other elements of a typical smooth-surface cooktop include special heating elements with temperature limiters, burner controls and hot surface indicator lights. The special heating elements permit fast heat-up for quick cooking response, yet include a temperature limiter safety feature to protect against overheating that can occur if, say, a pot boils dry.

Hot surface indicator lights remain lighted even after the heating element has been turned off, and go out only when the surface is cool enough to touch.
