Hospital asks residents for prescription for its future

AJAX-PICKERING — The local hospital is looking for a prescription from the public to help officials put it in top-notch shape as they prepare to perform surgery on the services it offers.

Ajax and Pickering General Hospital will hold public meetings to seek input on its strategic planning process, which outlines where it wants to be five years from now.

"Are the services we've identified as priorities things (area residents) think we should be offering? Have we missed something they'd like to see in their community hospital?" Linda Moore, co-ordinator of strategic planning, says of the meetings.

"Do they know what services we have? They probably have no idea what's here, except, of course, for the emergency department. Now's their chance to find out."

The following are among the new directions set out in

Welfare rolls rise third straight month

Durham social services committee boss will be 'distressed and worried' if trend continues

DURHAM — Region welfare rolls swelled by 355 residents in February, the third straight month there's been an increase in the number of people seeking social assistance.

The rise "concerns us", says Durham council health and social services committee chairman and Whitby mayor Tom Edwards. Social services "staff are confident it's a blip, three successive months with an increase. We're confident that with the good weather, the welfare rolls will decrease."

Of the 18,484 people on welfare, 5,753 are children. The 355 new recipients represents a 1.9-per cent increase over January.

There were about 2,400 fewer welfare recipients last month than in February of 1994.

Mr. Edwards says it's traditional for the number of welfare recipients to increase in January and February.

"If this continues until April, then I'll be distressed and worried."

Prior to the December increase, the welfare rolls had gone down in Durham eight straight months.

Also increasing last month were the number of Family Benefit Allowance recipients, rising by 149 people to 20,909. Included in that figure are 13,721 children.

Welfare is usually a short-term assistance program, while FBA is a long-term aid program.

Across Ontario, almost 8,100 more people began collecting social assistance (welfare and FBA combined) last month, a 0.6 per cent increase. Community and Social Services minister Tony Silipo says the rise in February over January "reflects the seasonal fluctuations typical of social assistance at this time of the year."

There are 1.3 million Ontarians on social assistance — about 725,000 on FBA and 607,000 on welfare.

Of the 344,000 provincial welfare cases, about 219,500 cite unemployment as the reason they collect aid.

Eateries serve up ban on smoking

Where there's smoke, it's only hot food in 22 area restaurants

DURHAM — A total of 22 restaurants in Durham Region can now claim they are smoke-free, reports Mary Sue O'Connor, Council for a Tobacco-Free Durham Region (CTFDR).

"Most of them are fast-food establishments," notes Ms. O'Connor. The CTFDR is looking for other smoke-free restaurants so it can recognize them with a Smoke-Free Restaurant Award leading up to World No Tobacco Day May 31.

"We certainly want to know about any new ones opening up," she says.

Business people considering building a new restaurant could realize cost-savings by opting to become smoke-free, adds Ms. O'Connor.

"They don't have to put in extra ventilating equipment, which can be costly," she explains.

Input sought on hospital's future

□ The hospital does not plan to focus on chronic care, rehabilitation, neurosurgery, cardiovascular and oncology services. Instead, it will continue to focus on maternal and newborn care, pediatrics, mental health, family medicine, medicine, surgery, anaesthesia, emergency/critical care and ambulatory services.

□ The hospital plans to close the gap in those areas it believes fall short of the population it serves. For example, it now has only one orthopedic surgeon, has no nuclear medicine services and only a limited range of ambulatory care services.

□ While the document recognizes the hospital "cannot be all things to all people", plans to strengthen links with other hospitals and health-care providers in the region will help it ensure residents have access to quality, cost-effective care.

(The Durham Region Acute Care Study, a blueprint for the delivery of health services, calls for the Ajax-Pickering institution to serve as a regional hospital for all of west Durham and the Oshawa hospital to handle east Durham. The Whitby hospital, meanwhile, is set to become a regional rehabilitation centre.)

While "many" of the plans outlined in the document — including improved client satisfaction and better managing increased demands on staff — will "definitely" be carried out, others are dependent on provincial funding, notes Ms. Moore.

But, "Durham is one of the highest growth areas in southern Ontario and the government has to recognize that."

Still, the public "must realize" services are being offered much differently than they've been accustomed to in the past. For example, week-long stays for the birth of a baby are a thing of the past, usually replaced by visits of just a couple of days. Technological improvements such as orthopedic surgery allow hospitals to dramatically shorten stays because recovery is much quicker than open surgery, while a wide variety of home services ensures patients can receive quality care outside the hospital. Ms. Moore notes.

To learn more about these and other changes, you're invited to attend one of two meetings:

In Ajax, talks will be held Wednesday, April 5, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the hospital, Harwood Avenue south of Bayly Street, in the west wing's ground-floor conference rooms.

In Pickering, the meeting is set for Thursday, April 6, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Pickering Central Library, One The Esplanade, in the second-floor auditorium.

Copies of the draft strategic plan summary will be available at each of those meetings, and can also be collected beforehand in the hospital's community relations department in the Harwood Avenue lobby.

For more information, call 428-1407.

Good for the goose, good for the gander

To the editor:
 Re: Tax Revolt

How in the world can we expect our Liberal government to figure out a way to lower the deficit without raising taxes (an easy way out) when they can't even differentiate between a law-abiding Canadian citizen and a criminal (gun control)? It seems that neither Paul Martin nor Allan Rock have much sense of reality, logic or common sense.

Paul Martin did well to keep his hands off RRSPs as a source of tax. I'd hate to have my death certificate indicate "taxed to death" as cause of death.

Mr. Martin might also want to consider rolling back the nice fat pensions MPs get as a start. What's good for the goose should also be good for the gander.

Building trades hope to nail down Oshawa jobs

But unionists worry big projects may not end woes

By BRIAN LEGREE
DURHAM STAFF

OSHAWA — Local construction trade unionists aren't convinced millions of dollars in construction announcements for Oshawa will put an end to their unemployment misery.

Some multi-million-dollar mega-projects have been unveiled for Oshawa in the past couple of weeks, led by the $100-million downtown courthouse facility and an $18-million recreation complex for the lakefront.

While the projects come with the promise of hundreds of construction jobs, labor representatives scoff at suggestions from an Oshawa councillor that it will mean jobs for all their members.

Oshawa Ward 3 regional councillor Robert Lutzyk maintains the recent spate of announcements will result in full employment for members of the local construction industry.

"By the fall of 1995 every construction worker in every trade will be employed in one or another of the above projects," councillor Lutzyk said in a letter to the editor of Oshawa This Week, the News Advertiser's sister newspaper.

In an interview, he added, "Unemployment will be lower as a result of these projects. There will be a flurry of activity for our construction people — union or non-union. We're in the momentum phase and our interest is to keep momentum going. Oshawa is the Mississauga of the year 2000. This is just the tip of the iceberg."

However, union representatives in the construction industry refuse to get too excited about the announcements until the actual work begins. Even then, they say, the projects aren't enough to fix their unemployment problems.

"It'll be great if we get it going. We'll get some work out of it, but it's been tough getting work going in Oshawa," says Quintin Begg, business manager for the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Lake Ontario District Council.

Mr. Begg says his 600-member strong local has an unemployment rate of about 60 per cent.

"I'm surprised developers even come near this place. We don't get too excited until we see a hole dug in the ground," Mr. Begg says.

Larry Cann, business manager of Local 463

Oshawa, United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada, says the announcements should help, but won't eliminate unemployment in his 660-member local.

"For my guys I don't know the exact number (of jobs to be created). It will depend on the design concept, but we're probably looking at 100 plumbers and fitters," says Mr. Cann, who notes 56 per cent of his members are currently unemployed.

Representatives for unionized electricians in Durham could not be reached for comment.

Loitering problems near Whitby high-rise

WHITBY — Kids in Whitby's White Oaks apartment area are being told to quit hanging around.

Concerns about loitering, which have come from White Oaks, have been passed on to the Town, but police officials question whether Whitby council should be involved.

Councillor Judi Longfield brought the issue forward at a recent council meeting after it was referred to her by Pentagon, which provides security at the White Oaks high-rise apartments, on Hwy. 2 just east of the Ajax-Whitby border.

An official with Pentagon security refused to discuss the issue with Whitby This Week, the News Advertiser's sister newspaper.

Management of the complex also did not want to comment.

The possibility of instituting an anti-loitering bylaw will be brought up with Durham Regional Police, but it is unclear if a Town can legislate private property.

The White Oaks area hasn't been a trouble spot, according to Inspector Walter Hall of Durham Regional Police's Whitby division.

"You get kids hanging out together during the March break, especially with weather being so nice."

Last year the City of Oshawa passed an anti-nuisance bylaw to help police enforce loitering without having to give teenagers a record. Durham police Sergeant Gord McKechnie, responsible for Oshawa's community patrol, says he doesn't believe a municipality can enforce a bylaw on private property.

She's a guiding light for Guides

OSHAWA — Oshawa's Margaret Treloar has been elected to the National Council of Girl Guides of Canada. Ms. Treloar has been involved with Girl Guides for 39 years, including the past nine at the national level.

As a council member, Ms. Treloar will contribute to the development and review of policies and directions for the future of the 250,000-member organization.

Wanted Hometown Heroes

The News Advertiser is seeking your help in locating hometown heroes.

On April 5 we're publishing a special section featuring people who have added a little extra to your community.

A Hometown Hero can be a person who has dedicated years to coaching hockey. Or, it can be the crossing guard who spends a little extra time with children. Hometown Heroes come in all shapes, sizes, colors and ages.

We need you to tell us who you think is a Hometown Hero.

On April 5 we'll publish a story and picture on each of the 50 Hometown Heroes we've selected. The hero and a guest will be honored at a dinner to be held at Gallantry's in the Pickering Town Centre. The hero will receive a commemorative T-shirt and plaque.

Write us and tell us in 250 words or less who you think deserves the distinction as a Hometown Hero.

We'll notify those chosen by March 16. Address it to: Hometown Heroes, c/o The News Advertiser, 130 Commercial Ave., Ajax, L1S 2H5.

Hometown Heroes is sponsored by the Ajax-Pickering News Advertiser and the Pickering Town Centre.

Teen set for dancing in a summer Wonderland

By AL RIVETT
STAFF REPORTER

PICKERING — A Pickering dancer will see her dream come true.

Tonya Murray, 16, who dances with the Denise Lester Dance Academy in Pickering, was chosen from hundreds of other performers at an audition last month to earn a position as an entertainer at Paramount Canada's Wonderland.

"I just love to dance and it's something I've always wanted to do," says Murray, who's been taking dance lessons for 13 years at the Pickering studio. "I wanted to be a dancer (at Wonderland) since I was a little girl."

After a nerve-racking audition which saw her perform contemporary jazz and hip-hop dancing, the St. Mary Catholic Secondary School student was surprised to find out she'll be entertaining at Wonderland.

"I was really surprised. I didn't expect it at all," she says.

Murray will continue to hone her skills at the Denise Lester academy where she learns ballet, tap, jazz and lyrical dancing. She begins performing at Wonderland when it opens in late May. She expects to be on stage five days a week to the end of summer.

Dancing at Wonderland is more than just a summer job for the talented teen. It should prove to be an adventure to remember.

"I think of it as more of an opportunity, an experience more than a summer job," she says.

Pickering's Tonya Murray will dance at Wonderland this spring and summer.

Flood leaves swimmers in deep water

PICKERING — A Pickering swimmer won gold and a local oarsman just missed a medal Tuesday at the Pan Am Games in Mar Del Plata, Argentina.

Lisa Flood, 23, swam to a gold medal in the women's 200-metre breaststroke in a personal best time of two minutes 31.33 seconds. The former Olympian touched the wall just ahead of long-time rival Guylaine Cloutier of Quebec who earned the silver medal in a time of 2:32.42.

Meanwhile, Jonathan Hollins, also of Pickering, was part of Canada's kayak-fours team which finished fifth. Other members were Craig Palmer of Burlington and Erik Gervais and Dominic Sauve, both of Valleyfield, Quebec.

The 1995 Pan Am Games represent Flood's second appearance and her third medal at the Games. In 1991 in Cuba, Flood won a pair of medals in the breaststroke events.

Flood's victory at the Pan Am Games is just one of many impressive accomplishments in her impressive career in the pool. Last August, Flood represented Canada at the Commonwealth Games in Victoria where she won two bronze medals.

She was also selected to the national team to compete at the World Swimming Championships in Rome where she placed fourth in the 100-metre breaststroke, missing the bronze medal by a fraction of a second.

An academic and athletic all-American at Villanova University in Philadelphia, Flood is an eight-time all-American breastroker and was the NCAA 200-yard breaststroke champion in 1992. She also owns school and Big East Conference records in the 100 and 200-yard breaststroke and is an eight-time winner at the Big East Conference Championships. She was named outstanding woman swimmer at the 1991 and 1992

Big East Championships.

Meanwhile, Hollins came off an excellent season in 1994. In the Canadian championships, he was a member of the West Rouge Canoe Club crews which won the senior Canadian tandem kayak (K-2) 1,000-metre event and the senior Canadian kayak fours (K-4) event.

Hollins currently attends Camosun College in Victoria. He trains with the Canadian Kayak Team and returns to Pickering in the summer to race with the West Rouge Canoe Club.

Pickering teen three-peats as ruler of the pool at meet

PICKERING — A Pickering teen on the Durham Aquatic Club established a new benchmark for young swimmers at the recent Short Course Age Group Championships in Brantford.

Mike Lockett, 14, swam to a gold medal at the high-level meet in the 200-metre backstroke in a time of two minutes 11.23 seconds to three-peat as an age-group champion.

Lockett also claimed the 10-and-under championship and was the 12-and-under champ when he competed in those age groups.

At the Brantford meet, he also placed fourth in the 100m back and sixth in the 200m individual medley. Both efforts were in personal best times.

This year represents Lockett's final year as an age-group swimmer. He'll move into the senior ranks next year.

Meanwhile, Chris Mendes also competed in the 14-and-under 100m back; David Grose swam in the 100m and 200m back in the 12-and-under division; and nine-year-old

David Hinan competed in the 50m freestyle, 50m back and 100m back.

Family Eyecare The Focus Of Established Clinic

The optometry practice of Dr. Emile Gillezeau and Dr. Mark Fitzsimmons has built a solid reputation in Durham over the past 12 years.

Recently moved to a new building at Glenanna Road and Hwy. 2, from the Pickering Corporate Centre where it was established for seven years, the optometrists offer complete eye care, together with a full dispensary of glasses and contact lenses as well as sunglasses - including a range of sunglasses for children.

This full-service optometry offers complete family eye care. Staff keep up to date with the latest technological developments and instrumentation. For example, computerized tests for glaucoma provide fast, efficient results for the patient.

Due to recent advancements Astigmatism and the issue of bifocals can now all be addressed with contact lenses. Instruction on the proper care, wear and maintenance of contacts is also readily given.

Dr. Fitzsimmons, Dr. Gillezeau, and other associates each have a role to play in the operation of the clinic. Dr. Kirk Narayansingh, Dr. Allan Hum and Dr. Michele Schmidt are the other associates.

Having five doctors at the clinic means that all patients can be seen in a timely manner.

The second location, at the Oshawa Centre, has been serving families for a full 12 years.

With recent concern over ultra violet radiation, Dr. Fitzsimmons says "eye protection is necessary, especially for very young children. By the age of three children should have their eyes tested. There is no substitution for a complete optometric eye exam."

Quality sunglasses are available for children as young as one month on. The younger eye is most susceptible to ultra violet damage.

Dr. Fitzsimmons says, "There is more to the eyes than just seeing clearly. The way they function together, the way they operate and focus and the way vision is processed is so important." Children with these difficulties are often slower at school; they do poorly at reading and they reverse letters. Through different therapy techniques, vision processing is greatly improved.

Whatever your needs in eyecare, for any age, it's worth visiting the Dr. Gillezeau/Dr. Fitzsimmons clinic, to have your vision concerns addressed. Many people often forget that OHIP currently covers a full eye examination every year.

Hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. With our wheelchair accessibility and extended business hours, we look forward to providing quality eye care to Pickering and surrounding area.

For an appointment, please call 839-5303 or 683-1175.

THE VILLAGE AT

A UNIQUE NEW CONCEPT IN THE COUNTRY.

"We put them together, so you could part with less", is the theme for the Village at Courtice Crossing, which previews this weekend.

"Our Goal was to take some of our best home designs and make them more affordable, without changing any of the high quality features that we have built our reputation on," says Wayne Jeffery. "Not only have we accomplished this goal, we also added features such as a landscape package to these great homes."

With this new collection of all brick homes, you will find oversized garages with access to your yard or your home, main floor laundry, patio doors off the dinette or dining room, large master bedrooms with ensuites and walk-in closets. All this combined with the country atmosphere of Courtice Crossing from $124,990.

Quality you can count on from Coughlan Homes

Whether you are looking to purchase a new house or making a change in your lifestyle, Coughlan Homes has a home for you. In two beautiful communities — Whispering Woods and Chateaux By The Park — Coughlan Homes commitment to design and construction quality delivers homes that reflect your family's needs and tastes. Whispering Woods is a community of detached homes with all-brick exteriors and stone accents. The location, nestled adjacent to the Altona Forest, is one of the most beautiful in Pickering.

Inside, you will find bright open-concept designs. The Santa Fe-style gourmet kitchens, for example, feature breakfast bars and many standard upgrades including cabinetry by Paris Kitchens. In the ensuites, raised soaking tubs and separate shower stalls are elegant and attractive.

The standard features you find at Whispering Woods would be upgrades in many other communities. One of the upgraded touches is the quality ceramic tile throughout the home; in the foyer, all bathrooms — including the powder room, kitchen and breakfast area and laundry room.

Mind you, choosing the right home in Whispering Woods won't be easy. There are six designs and 16 different elevations offered by the builder. When you consider the various combinations offered within the home, you may find there is more than one home that suits your needs and tastes.

Homes in Whispering Woods range from $214,900. Regardless of the home you buy, however, you get quality design and construction and many upgrades. You also get a one-year membership at Coughlan Homes' three golf courses — Deer Creek, Fawn Brook and Glen Cedars.

For empty-nesters whose lifestyle pace has slowed down a bit, Chateaux By The Park is an exquisitely designed and beautifully crafted collection of townhouses nestled in the very heart of Pickering. This is a residential community that recaptures both the classic architectural lines of an earlier era and the small town comforts of a more carefree past.

Compared to the Chateaux, anything else is just a townhouse. Inspired by the classic style of the French Chateaux of the past, this development features attractive all-stone facades with features such as wrought iron French balcony railings and peaked rooflines. Another attractive feature is the lush landscaping in the courtyard.

Whether it's a townhouse or a Garden Home with upper units and lower bungalow, you'll find large living rooms with bay windows and separate formal dining rooms. You also discover main floor powder rooms, master bedrooms with ensuite baths, gourmet kitchens and two underground parking spaces with direct access to your basement so driveways and garages don't take away from the eye-catching exterior of this unique development.

Here is the opportunity to live life at your own pace, in a prestigious home that is truly made to measure and in a beautiful Pickering location. Like all Coughlan Homes, Chateaux By The Park features uncompromising attention to design detail and quality construction.

Coughlan Homes is a local builder recognized as one of the leaders in the industry for 37 years. Since 1958, Coughlan has built over 2,000 homes — from townhouses to custom estates — as well as hundreds of rental units, thousands of square feet of prime industrial, commercial and retail space and, let's not forget, a variety of outstanding golf courses and country clubs.

So if you're looking for a great place to live and you want your builder to deliver a home with standards that match, and exceed, your needs and tastes, look to Coughlan Homes.

For information on Chateaux By The Park or Whispering Woods, call 427-5559. You can also visit the New Home Information Centre, located at the Brock Rd. and Hwy. 2. Centre hours are Monday to Friday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

New Homes and Interiors

Choose your builder carefully

Many consumers become embroiled in the home buying frenzy that can overtake new home buyers. The purchase of a house is a significant investment requiring unhurried homework and the first and most important step a new home buyer can take is choosing a reputable builder.

The Ontario New Home Warranty Program (ONHWP) defines a reputable builder as one who registers with ONHWP and enrolls every unit. A reputable builder oversees all the stages of construction and makes every effort to ensure a home buyer receives a home that is free of defects.

The consumer should avoid rogue builders who try to circumvent ONHWP. Although these builders are a minority, their unwillingness to adhere to legislation should send loud warning signals to consumers. A home built by an unregistered builder would still be protected by warranty but there would be fewer safeguards involving good after-sales service and receiving accurate warranty information.

Locating a builder who has built both good houses and a reliable reputation begins by consulting the Home Buyer's Guide to After Sales Service. A free, annually updated publication compiled by ONHWP, the Guide rates several thousand builders on their after sale service and provides quick, alphabetical listings for home buyers to use as reference as they visit the subdivisions where they prefer to live.

Checking out a builder's reputation is as simple as knocking on a door. New homeowners are normally very willing to crow or complain about their choice of a builder. These homeowners are living with the builders' successes and failures. The homeowners' experiences give insights into a builder's workmanship and after sales service. Discovering how quickly and efficiently a builder completed repairs should provide invaluable, first-hand information to prospective home buyers who want to make a wise decision. Once new home buyers begin their crucial research they quickly realize the quality of a home correlates to the quality of its builder.

A builder should be willing to divulge where previous projects and homes are located and remain helpful to the home buyer who shows an interest in owning a well built home. A builder should also have a constantly evolving knowledge of the construction industry and be able to discuss housing needs with a neophyte home buyer.

Information on the House

BY AUBREY LEBLANC

Ideally, the home buyer wants a builder who treats the Ontario Building Code as a minimum of construction standard while routinely going over and above the requirements. One method of determining the work ethic of a builder is to solicit comments from present owners, family and friends who have recently purchased a home.

Compare the after sales service programs available from builders. Three and six month follow-up inspections and five year guarantees on materials and workmanship are some examples of after sales service packages offered by some builders. These after sales guarantees are a sign of reputable builders who are confident about their work.

Local home builders' associations, bank and trust company seminars are another excellent source of information to the home buying public. Practical workshops on how to buy a new home, the importance of the pre-delivery inspection and how to maintain a new home are often advertised. Take the opportunity to have all your home buying questions answered by various experts in the home building industry. The marketplace can seem like a labyrinth of options to a new home buyer. Consumers should make every effort to attend information evenings and conduct their own inquiries to demystify the home buying process.

Since purchasing a home is a major expense, consumers should never feel rushed into a decision when looking for a new home. Take the time to assess your needs against your wants. A room-by-room check list of your must have's and wants establishes your priorities. Educated consumers make sound decisions that they can live with.

Homebuilders keeping pace with needs of Canadians

Today's new homes reflect the changing lifestyles of Canadians.

A return to traditional values, the aging babyboomers, environmental awareness, the desire for personal expressions — these are some of the trends that dominate the marketplace and show up in the design, function and interior decor of today's new homes.

In the 1990s, home is the place to be. Today's homeowners value time spent with family and friends in the relaxed and comfortable setting of their own home. Open-concept living-eating-working areas promote easy, enjoyable togetherness. Kitchens, often the hub of family activity, are designed for convenience and efficiency. Well-designed layouts make joint food preparation enjoyable; pantries and kitchen cupboards with racks, lazy Susans, spice racks and interior lighting make organization easy; and built-in microwave ovens and under-cupboard coffeemakers leave less counter clutter.

The master bedroom and ensuite bath, with whirlpool tub, continues to offer homeowners of the '90s a quiet, relaxing and private retreat from the demands of their busy lives.

The rich warmth of natural materials and fibres — wooden cabinets and floors, ceramic tiles and stone — provide lasting beauty and solid, enduring quality and value.

Today's economically-minded and environmentally-aware homebuyers place a premium on space efficiency. New homes are carefully designed to make the most practical use of each square, with functional working and storage areas, effective traffic "corridors" and room layouts that promote togetherness. Cathedral ceilings, the elimination of interior walls, large windows, solariums and greenhouses create an impression of spaciousness and style.

Professional builders keep up to date with the latest trends and demands of the marketplace. They build homes to fulfill the needs and desires of today's homebuyers and work closely with them to create the home of their dreams — a home that reflects the homebuyer's personality and lifestyle.

Ontario New Home Warranty Program information sheet

□ The Government of Ontario passed the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act in 1976 making the then existing voluntary warranty program mandatory and ensuring that every new home and condominium unit built for sale in Ontario is covered by warranty.

□ The Ontario New Home Warranty Program is the only mandatory new home warranty program in Canada and one of the very few in the world.

□ The Ontario New Home Warranty Program was established as an independent, non-profit corporation to protect consumers by administering and enforcing the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act.

□ The goals of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program also include regulation of builders to ensure they comply with the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act.

□ Since it was established, the Ontario New Home Warranty Program has provided protection to more than 600,000 new homes in Ontario. Currently, more than 300,000 homes are covered.

□ Over the years, the Ontario New Home Warranty Program has expanded and enhanced its coverage. It has introduced the Home Builder's Guide to After Sales Service (a builder rating program), established the Ernest Assaly Award to annually recognize the province's best builder for after sales service and published the Code and Construction Guide to Housing.

Communicate with your builder

Buying a new home can be an exciting and rewarding process. Before signing on the dotted line, however, you should do some research. This means contacting the Toronto Home Builders' Association for the names of builders in the greater Metro area.

It also means visiting open houses and model homes with your list of must-haves versus nice-to-haves in hand, always balancing your needs and desires with your financial resources. Once you have decided on a builder and home style, you must then decide on the features that will ultimately result in your own unique home.

That is why it is so important you select a professional builder, one who will help to make the entire process, from first offer to celebrating your first anniversary in your new home, run as smoothly and trouble-free as possible. Your and your professional builder will share a very important goal — making sure you will enjoy your new home long after you receive the keys to the front door.

Constructing a house is a complex process that demands expert planning, knowledge of municipal bylaws and regulations, careful scheduling and skilled co-ordination by an experienced builder. A typical house contains more than 3,000 parts, all of which must be assembled carefully and in sequence. It takes approximately 30 different subtrades to carry out this work, from framers to roofers to finishing carpenters, all of whom must arrive at the building site in the right order at the right time. In fact, there are 109 workers involved in the construction of a new single-family home.

The professional home builder stands at the centre of this process as the driving force in getting together materials, labor and information, guiding the project through a schedule and packaging everything into an attractive quality product that will provide you, the home owner, with years of comfort and pleasure.

Establishing a good working relationship with your builder at the outset will help both of you throughout the construction process. Find out who your ongoing contact will be. Your builder may have a representative such as a salesperson who is responsible for customer relations and who will be available for consultation during the actual construction of your home.

If desired, your builder can provide you with information about financing your new home. Some builders arrange mortgages in order to facilitate the sale and make the purchasing process as easy as possible. Others can make suitable recommendations to their customers based on long-standing working relationships with one or several lending institutions in the community.

Your builder may also be able to give you useful advice if you have to sell your existing home in order to buy a new home. Most builders have cultivated a good business relationship with resale brokers in the community.

Before work can begin, your builder will need a firm offer that includes final specification of all features, options and changes. This requires you to consider your needs and wants carefully in light of the features and options offered by the builder. Most builders offer a number of choices for their standard finishing products, like color of the carpeting and style of kitchen and bathroom tiles. Many builders also have full inventory of optional items such as upgraded kitchen cupboards and flooring.

"Environmentally friendly option packages" are rapidly growing in popularity as more home buyers want to include energy- and water-conserving technology in their new home. Low-flow showerheads and toilets, upgraded heating systems, high-performance windows, "recycling stations" in the kitchen and backyard composters help to reduce the use of resources and benefit the environment.

Don't hesitate to discuss your concerns and questions with your builder who will be able to assist you in making the right decisions for your home. Your builder will keep a record on file of all the selections you make. Nothing is left to chance!

During construction of your home, you may be asked to make a few additional decisions, such as placement of electrical outlets. Be sure to give each matter adequate consideration, but don't delay unnecessarily or the schedule for the entire project may be affected.

Try to stick to choices you made in the beginning. In many cases, the materials you select are ordered immediately to ensure delivery on time. Before requesting changes during construction, discuss the implications with your builder. Are your new choices readily available? How much time will you lose? How does the change affect the scheduling of subtrades?

Your move-in date? And, finally, what is the cost of the suggested change? If the change is important to you and you accept the implications, your builder will arrange to make the change. Changes can often be accommodated, since your builder wants you to feel happy with your new home and satisfied with the service you receive.

As construction heads into the final stages, it is important to maintain close contact with your builder until final closing.

Landscaping adds value to your home

Start planning garden now: say experts

With spring not far away, it is time to start thinking about landscaping your home. And, when it comes to landscaping especially a new home, the best advice is 'be prepared.'

Toronto Home Builders' Association member Alexander Budrevic, a leading landscape architect and president of his own landscaping firm, says new homes offer distinct advantages when it comes to planning your property's look.

"Owning a new home enables you to design and implement your landscaping requirements to suit your particular lifestyle and taste," Budrevic says. "You don't have to cope with an existing garden that was designed for someone else."

Budrevic suggests new home buyers negotiate a landscaping allowance with builders since features such as walks to both front and rear entrances and sod in both yards are often limited.

Although a complete landscaping project may be financially impossible to undertake at one time, Budrevic recommends homeowners devise an entire plan to include patios, planting beds, shade trees, flower gardens, play areas and, perhaps, a swimming pool. A master plan means the finished product will be cohesive, he says.

"Do the plan for your total property even if you can't afford to do everything at once," Budrevic says. "It is much more economical to spend extra time and effort in proper planning that to correct mistakes after the work and money is spent in your garden."

Proper grading of the property is vital to landscaping projects, he says. To avoid wet basements and puddles in the lawn, all hard surfaces such as patios, driveways and walks should slope at least one per cent away from the building. Lawn areas and planting beds should slope two per cent away, he adds, and remember not to block or alter existing municipal drainage plans.

For patio construction, a 12'X12' area should suffice for the placement of outdoor garden furniture, Budrevic says. As well, paving materials may consist of reinforced concrete, precast concrete slabs, interlocking stones, flagstones or similar hard surface supplies that complement existing building features.

If possible, select a new home with a southern backyard so as to be exposed to more sun for the proper cultivation of grass, he says. And select planting material with future maintenance in mind, he adds.

"Don't plant large flower beds or construct waterfalls, fountains or ponds if you can't properly maintain them or hire someone to look after them," Budrevic says. Shrubs and trees eventually mature, therefore it is important to know their ultimate size beforehand, he adds.

Budrevic recommends selecting planting material for all seasons, so as to have year-round color in the garden. Flowering shrubs are beautiful in both spring and early summer, he says, while some shrubs flower in late summer and the fall.

While a colorful garden is pleasing, a healthy one is preferable, Budrevic says. In most new properties, he suggests homeowners prepare planting beds with additional topsoil consisting of 18 inches of sandy loam for flower beds, 24 inches of sandy loam and topsoil for vegetable gardens.

"Well-planned and executed landscaping will add a great deal to the enjoyment and value of your new home, and will also increase the resale price of your property as it matures," Budrevic says.

Solving the color mystery

People who like to do a bit of home decorating now and again (which is just about everybody) find there is a great deal of mystery attached to colors.

Some of the most often asked questions are: Which colors work together? Is aubergine in or out? Why does the paint on the wall never look like the paint in the can? How can I use color to make a room appear larger/smaller/brighter/cosier?

For all those people who think a complementary color is a free can of paint, Color: A Stroke of Brilliance should help clarify a few things. This lavishly illustrated book, written by Leslie Harrington and published by B & E Publications of Mississauga, demystifies the whole mystery surrounding color.

Color: A Stroke of Brilliance starts with color psychology — the basic reactions which everyone has to certain colors and why. Then, the book shows how this new-found knowledge can be used to create rooms treatments that are more functional, more comfortable and longer lasting.

Harrington is a qualified designer who has made color her specialty. She also has a close understanding of the needs of do-it-yourself home decorators and brings to this book a great deal of down-home practical experience that can help anyone do a better job of creating a unique home environment. Throughout the book, Harrington fully illustrates her suggestions — like a foolproof way of starting a color scheme.

"Search through your belongings for something with the colors you really like — it may be a painting, a scarf, carpet or a set of pattern drapes," she says. "If you like the way the colors work together in your 'inspiration piece,' you'll like them in the room."

The next step is to acquire sample paint chips that match each color in your chosen piece as an aid in selecting wallpaper, carpet and other furnishings.

Color: A Stroke of Brilliance explains how colors work together and can be applied to correct design defects, to highlight treasured possessions, to create an atmosphere appropriate to the way the room will be used, and, even, to make the room appear larger or smaller than it really is. It also shows how to create dozens of room treatments based on the principles of color psychology.

Energy tips

There are a few things you can do to conserve energy. Here is a list of 20 things you can do to save energy and your hard-earned dollars.

- 1) Raise your air-conditioning thermostat in the summer. For each degree higher, you'll cut your energy use by eight per cent.
- 2) Turn off incandescent lights when you are not using them, especially in the summer when they produce unwanted heat.
- 3) Use low-wattage light bulbs in halls and other places where no close-up tasks occur. However using a single, high-wattage bulb is more cost-efficient than using two lower-wattage bulbs.
- 4) Long-life light bulbs usually use more electricity than regular bulbs of the same wattage. Use long-life bulbs only in locations where access is difficult.
- 5) Use high-efficiency light bulbs in your outside security lights. Put them on a time or photoelectric switch.
- 6) Light only the specific area where you are working.
- 7) Grime from cooking, smoking and dust can dirty a light bulb and reduce the light it puts out. Inspect and clean bulbs regularly.
- 8) Avoid checking on food while it cooks. Each time you open your oven door, 25 per cent of the heat is lost.
- 9) Cooking in oven-safe glass or ceramic pans allows you to lower your oven temperature 25 degrees from what the recipe calls for.
- 10) In an electric oven, turn off your oven 15 minutes before the end of the cooking time. The remaining heat will finish the job if you don't open the oven door.
- 11) Partially thaw frozen foods in the refrigerator before cooking them. In many cases, thawing foods lets you cut the cooking time by one third.
- 12) Use the automatic cycle on your clothes dryer.
- 13) Run your garbage disposal with cold water.
- 14) Use warm or cold water for washing clothes and always use a cold rinse. You also save more money by running full washer loads.
- 15) Keep heating and air conditioning filters clean. It's difficult to force air through dirty filters.
- 16) Use fans instead of air conditioning for cooling whenever you can. Fans use only about 10 per cent of the energy air conditioners do.
- 17) Weatherstrip all doors and windows, even those in rooms you are not using.
- 18) Replace your old thermostat with a newer clock model. These devices can be set to automatically lower your home's temperature at bedtime and raise it again in the morning.
- 19) Keep your fireplace damper closed when the fireplace isn't being used. If you have glass fireplace doors, keep them closed as well.
- 20) Schedule annual maintenance checkups for your heating and cooling system. By keeping your system in optimal working condition, you'll not only reduce energy costs, but also extend its service life.
