Durham taxes up by $84

Final tax bill hike adds up to eight per cent

DURHAM — Residential taxpayers here will see the Regional portion of their property tax bill increase by roughly $84 this year, Durham councillors heard Wednesday.

Although Durham council approved a budget earlier this month that accounts for an average tax increase of 5.9 per cent for residential taxpayers, finance commissioner Jim Clapp told councillors Wednesday the overall increase to homeowners this year will be approximately eight per cent due to assessment changes and new government legislation.

DURHAM — St. Mary Catholic Secondary School Monarchs player Tina DeFreitas (left) attempts to avoid Bowmanville High School's Amy Shackleton as they converge on the ball during Durham District senior girls' quarter-final soccer action. The Monarchs downed Bowmanville 10-0 in the contest played at the Pickering school Tuesday afternoon. The semifinals and final were played Thursday afternoon at Pine Ridge Secondary School.

More charges in Pine Ridge shooting

*Police allege man
contacted victim*

BY STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Writer

DURHAM — Detectives investigating last month's shooting during a pickup basketball game at a Pickering high school have charged an 18-year-old Ajax man with attempting to obstruct justice for allegedly contacting the victim.

The latest development in the attempted-murder case occurred Tuesday when Durham Regional Police homicide detectives arrested the Ajax man as part of continuing investigating into the April 3 shooting of Teran Richards.

The 22-year-old Ajax man was shot during a game at Pine Ridge Secondary School after a fight between opposing players broke out in the gymnasium. Witnesses and police said Mr. Richards was trying to act as "peacemaker" when a spectator pulled a gun and shot him four times from close range.

DURHAM — Just look at us now — online!

We have revamped our Internet Web site in order to serve Durham Region residents better than ever before. Our commitment? To keep you informed about all community happenings in a bright, breezy way. We even have a brand new URL — www.durhamregion.com — that's easy to remember, and tells you what we're all about.

"Durhamregion.com will become the most comprehensive and complete electronic source of local and regional information people want and need," said Metroland Durham division Publisher Tim Whittaker.

"We are committed to serving the people of this area with all their information needs in print or electronic form. Up to now, it has been difficult for local Internet sites and Internet advertisers to get traffic, but with the massive promotional power of our newspapers, including Oshawa, Whitby, Clarington and Port Perry This Week, the Ajax-Pickering News Advertiser, the Uxbridge Tribune/Times-Journal and the Canadian Statesman with pressruns totalling almost 165,000 on our largest publication day, we're confident this will improve quickly."

So check us out today and see what we have to offer. Which is a bit of everything (no, make that a lot of everything) to help you get through your day.

Need some amusement? The entertainment section is chock full of information on what's happening on the local arts and theatre scene.

Want to take in a flick? Then click on the movie listings to see what's playing at your neighbourhood cinema.

Looking for something to buy? The classifieds are a veritable bazaar just waiting for savvy bargain hunters. You can even find a job here.

Irked by an issue and need a place to vent? Join an online discussion group, and have your say, 24 hours a day.

Worried about the weather? Check the weather centre for up-to-the-minute forecasts, both short- and long-term.

And don't forget, before you leave home, click on the traffic cam and see how traffic's moving. We monitor MTO cameras all across the GTA to help speed you on the way. Of course, we're best known for our award-winning news coverage. Our Durham-wide community news team is unsurpassed in bringing you the most comprehensive package of news, sports, entertainment and commentary each week.

Information on the Web site is organized into seven geographic areas — Ajax, Clarington, Oshawa, Pickering, Scugog, Whitby and Uxbridge — for your convenience. Find out what's happening in your neck of the woods or cast your net wider to the whole of Durham. It's just a mouse click away.

"These are just a few of the features that will make durhamregion.com the premier community Web site in the Region," said Todd Blayone, manager of Web publishing.

Suspect charged in connection with shooting

The Centennial College student suffered major injuries, including damage to vital organs, but has been making an amazing recovery and was recently released from hospital.

A stray bullet also grazed the face of a 15-year-old girl, police said.

Two men were arrested and charged - another suspect got away - following a police pursuit and collision in north Pickering a short time after the shooting.

A .45-calibre semi-automatic handgun and .357 revolver were recovered.

Police said a man interfered with the administration of justice by recently contacting a witness in the case - Mr. Richards.

"The context of the message dealt with the case and the victim was very concerned," said Detective John Allen, without elaborating.

Andrew Martinborough, of Weekes Drive in Ajax was arrested and charged with attempting to obstruct justice. Mr. Martinborough was also charged with possession of a controlled substance for the purpose of trafficking in relation to nine baggies, each containing one gram of marijuana, seized during his arrest.

He was remanded in custody during a brief court appearance Thursday and is scheduled to return for a bail hearing today (Friday).

Marlon Maragh, 21, of Scarborough, meanwhile is charged with attempted murder, aggravated assault and weapons charges in the shooting.

Tyshon Riley, 18, also of Scarborough, also faces various weapons offences.

Durham portion of tax bill up an average $84

He explained on a home assessed at $167,000 under the 1999 current value assessment,

Regional taxes will increase by about $84, for a total regional tax bill of $1,129 in 2001. The Regional budget increase for 2001 accounts for roughly $63 of the total increase, he noted.

The additional $21 increase is a result of the recent property reassessments and government legislation.

Individual property tax bills are determined by multiplying the current value assessment of a property by the property tax rate, which is impacted by municipal taxation policies, budget requirements and the new provincial policies introduced in Bill 140, also known as the 'Continued Protection for Property Taxpayers Act, 2000'.

The new legislation, which came into effect last December, introduced a new protection program that limits tax increases for the multi-residential, industrial and commercial classes.

Under that legislation, tax increases resulting from reassessment are limited to five per cent of the preceding year's taxes for those classes.

The legislation also includes a 'hard cap' that prevents municipalities from increasing property taxes for the multi-residential, commercial and industrial classes if the existing local tax ratio on that class is higher than a threshold set by the Province.

In the industrial class, Mr. Clapp said that resulted in a $1-million shortfall, which had to be picked up by residential taxpayers.

He noted there was also a limit on the increase for multi-residential taxpayers that resulted in a further $2 million shortfall, which is being passed on to residential taxpayers across Durham this year.

What goes down must come way up

Region, municipalities will have to find a way to control taxing situation

Welcome to 2001 — a tax increase odyssey.

No matter where you live in this fine region of ours, you're looking at a substantial property tax increase.

Start with your own local municipality and its tax jump of 6.5 per cent in Ajax and 9.8 per cent in Pickering. But that's only the beginning.

The Region has now weighed in with its own tax hike of at least 8 per cent when assessment and new provincial guidelines are factored in. Homeowners should take note they will be on the hook for capped increases to industrial ($1 million in taxes) and multi-residential/commercial owners ($2 million in taxes). Residential owners are making up that $3 million shortfall, as a result of provincial legislation that forces local governments to comply.

Quite a difference from all those 'zero-tax increase' budgets we had come to expect year in, year out.

To give credit where it's due, regional and municipal politicians deserve our appreciation for making the tough choices throughout the 1990s to keep taxes in line. Finance committees looked under every rock for every dollar they could find and trimmed and slashed where possible. It appears those days are now over.

To hear Durham Regional Police Chief Kevin McAlpine tell it, there's little doubt the police will be coming hat-in-hand to the Region looking for another $10 million next year.

After all, the chief admitted the original police budget target was in the neighbourhood of $92 million for the coming year. In the end, the police had to 'settle' for about $82 million, up more than $10 million from what was doled out the previous year.

Policing is expensive and necessary to be sure, but right now the police are driving the regional budget and are the main reason for such a large tax increase. And they'll be right there again next year.

Other problems are still mounting and regional councillors are discovering there are fewer sources available to raise income. They're left with finding the cash at the doorstep of each and every homeowner and there's no sign this trend will change anytime soon.

Years and years of tax freezes are in danger of quickly being eclipsed by years of massive tax increases (what goes down, must come up?). Our councillors will have to try harder than they ever have to keep increases down. We can only hope they'll keep in mind it is our money and we've only got so much of it to pay in tax.

Organ donation a lovely, selfless gift

To the editor:

Re: 'One girl, seven gifts,' May 2.

It is with a great deal of warmth in my heart that I find myself writing this letter.

The selflessness and kindness that the Menard family has shown in donating their precious little girl's organs is too overwhelming for words. To think wee Jordan now will live on in the hearts and bodies of other deserving souls is what I would hope this life is about.

Situations such as this give us pause to stop and realize how very important organ donation is. This 'angel' will live on in the hearts and bodies of those whose need has presented itself. I feel it must be a wonderful thing for her generous family to know that even though she is no longer with them in 'body', she certainly lives on in 'spirit' and 'soul'. What a lovely thing. Hopefully, this is at least some comfort to them during an otherwise very difficult time. My heart goes out to them and to the memory of a little soul who touched many lives in her short time on this earth.

Don't worm your way out of three 'R's duties

Congratulations to Pickering residents for receiving the silver ranking award from the Recycling Council of Ontario.

It means we produced 30 per cent less waste than the provincial average. But we still generate about 200,000 tonnes of waste every year. Less than 20 per cent of our garbage is recycled, and less than 10 per cent is composted which means over 70 per cent goes to landfill. Edmonton on the other hand has managed to divert 70 per cent of its garbage away from landfill.

To me, recycling, reusing and reducing are a great challenge. On garbage day, I put out one can of garbage and two blue boxes. Perhaps I take a bit too much pride in that. You might even say, "this gal needs a life" but wait until I tell you about my worms.

During a casual conversation recently, I was discussing how well my vermicomposter was working. "Vermicomposter" my friend replied, "what's that?"

Perhaps I should have realized it isn't a household word; 'spell-check' doesn't recognize it either. "Well," I went on to explain, "they're the worms I keep in a bin in my kitchen that eat our food scraps and produce compost." From her reaction, I now know having 'red wigglers' in my kitchen may not be entirely normal. However, they smell a lot better than the garbage and provide my son with a ready supply of fishing bait.

Now maybe I do take this stuff a bit too seriously, but we are running out of places to put our garbage. Each family in Canada produces over 5,000 pounds per year, the bulk of which is buried but not gone. More extensive recycling for items such as other plastics, Tetra Paks, metal, and small appliances, would save valuable resources from being wasted and ultimately taking up space in landfills.

These initiatives are available in other areas, but are very costly. Durham is considering a curbside organics pickup program because backyard composting is not very popular (let alone worms in your kitchen). I would rather see more people compost at home and save the money for other projects.

Facts to impress your in-laws with: Canadians use 55 million grocery bags every week and cut down 40,000 trees every day for newspapers. We are amongst the highest raw material consumers in the world.

We are leaders in energy consumption and the creation of greenhouse gasses. We recycle only 60 per cent of paper and 50 per cent of recyclable plastics.

What can we do about it? Well if you are not yet ready to commit to the adventure of worms in the kitchen, then getting a backyard composter is a good place to start.

Shortages, burnout face nursing profession

BY CHRISTY CHASE
Staff Writer

DURHAM - In the early

1990s, downsizing and restructuring became the buzzwords at hospitals and other health care facilities, causing many nurses to leave the country in search of jobs.

Today, a decade later, hospitals, nursing homes and home care agencies would like to get those nurses back home.

As the population ages and grows, creating a larger demand for nursing services, we're in the midst of a nursing shortage. Health care facilities are desperately trying to woo back those nurses in foreign countries, retain those still working here and attract new recruits.

"We can't sit on our thumbs on this or we won't have anyone to take care of people in the years to come," said Janet Harris, executive director of Durham Access To Care, which co-ordinates home care services in Durham Region. "If we think we're hitting problems in Durham today, then what on earth is it going to be like tomorrow."

She calls the nursing shortage "the biggest challenge" in health care.

"It's an international problem," said Janice Dusek, chief operating officer for Lakeridge Health Oshawa and Whitby. "If I'm not mistaken, over the next 10 years, there are going to be 110,000 nurses short in the country."

"We're feeling that shortage. We have vacancies. It's an issue for Lakeridge Health."

Currently, Lakeridge Health Corporation, with hospitals in Oshawa, Whitby, Bowmanville, Port Perry and Uxbridge, has 653 full-time nurses and 724 part-time nurses.

There were vacancies for 38 full-time and 75 part-time nurses as of the end of March.

"It's a tough period that we're going through," said Rhonda Lewis, human resources manager for the Ajax site of the Rouge Valley Health System.

The Ajax site has about 440 nurses and about 50 to 60 vacancies, she said. The hospital has the most trouble recruiting nurses for specialty areas, such as critical and intensive care and obstetrics, she said. But the highest vacancy is medical nursing, the entry-level position in nursing, she said.

"The shortage is very severe," said Linda Rath, co-ordinator of Local 51 of the Ontario

Nurses Association and bargaining representative for nurses at Lakeridge Health Corporation's five sites.

That shortage hits home all the time, she said.

"Every day somebody's working overtime. Every day units are working short one or two nurses a shift. They are stressed, overworked, overtired and they get sick and injured more easily," she said. "The nurses don't feel good about the care they are giving the patients."

A provincial survey of nurses found 81 per cent believe their workload is unsafe enough to increase the risk of injury while 79 per cent believe understaffing has reached the point where unsafe conditions exist for patients, she added.

A poll of hospitals throughout Ontario would probably find many that have had to close wards and operating rooms. Lakeridge Health Oshawa has been trying to staff an ER overflow unit but couldn't get enough nurses to staff it, she said.

"It's threatening to be closed," she said.

Nurses in home care are paid less than those in hospitals, which has led to losses of staff at home care agencies, Ms. Harris said. To ensure, patients facing the highest risk are looked after properly, DATC has centralized its nursing referrals. All referrals come into DATC which then puts a priority on each case.

Several factors combine for the nursing shortage. Not as many new nurses are coming into the field. The existing ones are getting older, with many nearing retirement or burning out because of stress. Then there's the nurses who left for greener pastures and didn't return.

The average age of nurses today is about 48, Ms. Dusek said. They've been working many years at a job that is physically and emotionally hard, she said. Even the mean age of new nurses is increasing, she said. Many nurses just starting out are in the late 20s or early 30s and nursing is a second career for them, she added.

Persuading young people that nursing is a career for them isn't as easy as it once was.

"I've been a nurse for 25 years and that's always been my spiel but boy it's getting tough," said Ms. Rath.

Nurses are still working nights, shifts and every other weekend, she said.

DURHAM — Lakeridge Health Oshawa Registered Practical Nurse Cariss Gibson charts patients' vitals at a computer station. Durham, like many areas across the country, is currently dealing with a nursing shortage.

"Many kids today are smarter than we were. They say 'I'm not working those hours for that money.' It's a hard sell but we have to keep trying."

She's talked to many nurses who went to the States and they're not about to return, she said.

"They're trying to recruit them back but they aren't coming. They won't come back here unless they get job security. There aren't as many full-time jobs here and they'll be lower seniority (if they come back)."

Nurses in the States get big bonuses to stay, bursaries for students, even apartments and furniture thrown in, she said. In some specialties, nurses can make between $70,000 and $90,000 U.S. The top salary here is $30.24 an hour Canadian, she said.

Locally, health care facilities are competing against each other to retain and attract nurses, she added. Nurses hired for part-time work leave quickly when they find a full-time job elsewhere, she said.

"It's a buyers' market," agreed Ms. Dusek.

At the Ajax hospital, a recruitment and retention task force has been in place for about a year, Ms. Lewis said. They've been working on a number of initiatives, including attending every job fair going and holding open houses (the last one yielded 375 resumes). There are training and continuing education improvements, a pilot custom scheduling program, increased leadership opportunities and increased student presence, she said.

At Lakeridge, there are similar initiatives. Part-time jobs have been converted to full-time and a floating pool has been created, Ms. Dusek said. This allows nurses to work full-time, bring home full-time pay but they can work in a couple of different departments where there are shortages, she said. Lakeridge has also worked out contracts with nurses who prefer to work in certain areas, such as critical care and emergency.

Money and bursaries are made available for nurses who want to take courses. Lakeridge is also working with Durham College to see if the number of student placements can be increased and if summer jobs are possible, Ms. Dusek said.

Lakeridge is trying to make the work experience and atmosphere better, she said.

"I'm not saying we're perfect at it," she added.

The health care community in Durham has gotten together and is developing a strategy to address the shortage, Ms. Harris said.

A consortium including Durham College, the Durham training board, the Durham Region Health Care Group (hospitals and long-term care facilities, DATC) and the district health council are working on projections of future resource requirements in nursing and other health care fields. They'll work on attracting new nurses and keeping existing ones, she said.

Ms. Rath said funding is a big part of the solution.

"I think there needs to be adequate funding for sure. They need to improve working conditions and job security. They need to respect nurses for the job they do, value them. It's a tough profession," she said. "I think people need to see long-term secure funding, long-term job security. Nurses love their jobs when they can give good patient care. When they can't, they don't feel good about their work."

Ajax teen slashed in unprovoked attack

AJAX — Five thugs wearing masks and bandanas jumped out of a car and chased down and stabbed a 16-year boy for no apparent reason Sunday night.

Durham Regional Police said the victim and a friend, who is also 16, were walking along Delaney Drive at about 11:25 p.m. after watching fireworks when a grey vehicle carrying five males stopped in front of them.

The teens were pursued by their attackers and assaulted. One assailant pulled a long, silver-bladed knife and began slashing one of the victims, who suffered wounds to his forehead, knee and elbow.

The gang fled, police were called and the teen was taken by ambulance to Lakeridge Health Oshawa.

He was treated and released.

Police believe the attack was without motive and are investigating.

A bandana was found near the scene and seized by police as evidence.

Naked intruder shocks homeowner

PICKERING — A man is charged with break-and-enter after a homeowner awoke to find a naked intruder in his Faylee Crescent residence early Sunday.

Durham Regional Police said a man broke into the home just prior to 3 a.m., defecated on a bedroom floor and assaulted the victim when confronted.

The intruder fled and police were called. Officers tried arresting a man found hiding between two houses but a violent struggle ensued and he got away.

A suspect was tracked to a nearby residence and arrested at gunpoint.

Steven Kimberley, 22, of Faylee Crescent, is charged with assault, breaking and entering and assaulting police to resist arrest.

Bacteria in ink causes grocer to pull shopping bags

But health department stresses 'no health hazard of any kind'

PICKERING — The Durham Region Health Department is assuring members of the public that an odour detected on the plastic bags recently used at a local grocery store did not present a health hazard.

Alex Connor, manager of environmental health for the Region, reported the health department was contacted May 8 by a concerned resident who detected a smell coming from the grocery bags used at the Dominion Sav-A-Centre on Whites Road.

"We sent out an inspector that afternoon," Mr. Connor said, noting there was a musty smell coming from the white bags, which had red and black lettering imprinted on the plastic.

Mr. Connor said the inspector "suggested to the store owner (the bags) be taken out of service and sent back to the supplier".

He added, "A very common form of bacteria had infiltrated the ink" on the bags, noting, "There was no health hazard of any kind."

Mr. Connor said the store has "taken steps to try and solve" the situation with the supplier in the United States.

"The store co-operated really well," he said.

"The company was right on it." Mr. Connor noted any time there is an odour it's better to act on it as a precaution. "Bacteria don't need much to live on," he said. "It's surprising what they can grow on."

Bill Sheine, spokesman for A and P Canada, which owns the Dominion store in Pickering, said Tuesday that the company has checked the bags at its other locations and the Whites Road store appears to have been an "isolated incident."

"I've never come across this before," he said, noting the company has used the same American supplier for 15 to 20 years. "It was definitely an ink problem."

Mr. Sheine said a water-based ink is used to imprint the store logos on the shopping bags.

He noted that the bags from the Pickering store were pulled immediately and said if a problem is reported in another store location "the bags will be dumped".

Clues sought in Pickering armed robbery

PICKERING — Crime Stoppers and Durham Regional Police are looking for help in finding three men involved in an armed robbery earlier this year.

On Feb. 1 around 5 a.m., three men entered the Mac's Milk store at 893 Bayly St. in Pickering before one man produced a shotgun while the other two went behind the counter and demanded the store clerk open the safe.

When the clerk said he couldn't open the safe, one of the suspects began punching him in the head and face.

While one man held the clerk at gunpoint and acted as a lookout, the other two took cash and cigarettes.

The three men fled the scene on foot, but were captured on the store's security video.

All three suspects are described as black.

One wore a dark blue hooded winter coat and the others wore long pants and coats that are described as dark on the bottom with white in the middle and possibly red on the top.

All three of the suspects wore hoods in the robbery.

Crime Stoppers will pay cash for any information leading to an arrest in this incident. Callers never have to give their name and Crime Stoppers does not use call display.

Anyone with information about this crime, or any other crime, is asked to call Crime Stoppers at 905-436-8477 or 1-800-222-TIPS.

Durham residents win healthy lifestyle in smoke-free campaign

DURHAM — A recent smoke-free living campaign proved to be a success for more than 400 Durham residents.

During the Quit Smoking 2001 Contest earlier this year, 428 Durham residents and over 10,000 across Ontario agreed to give up the habit in exchange for a healthier lifestyle and a chance to win prizes.

"We're very pleased with the number of people who participated in the contest and ultimately became smoke-free," said Nancy Bolton, a public health nurse with the Durham Region Health Department.

the contest is a winner, with the biggest prize being improved health and well-being."

Ms. Bolton also reminded smokers that the health department has a number of resources to assist smokers in giving up the habit.

The contest was funded in part by the Ontario Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care and was supported by 57 local public health units and councils on smoking and health throughout Ontario, in partnership with the Industrial Accident Prevention Association and the Ontario Tobacco-free Network.

Nine winners were chosen from around Ontario, although none were from Durham.

Kim Lambert was the grand-prize winner of a Caribbean cruise for two.

Also winning were Elinore Cane, Sean Hunter, James Foster, Joe Todd, Sharon Wilson, Alexis Gomez, Edie Brule, and Elizabeth Verhovany.

Klondike Food Rush Strikes Gold in Ajax

The call to an expanding Ajax struck a cord much as did the call to the Klondike some one hundred years earlier for tens of thousands of hopeful pioneers. Was it blind faith and a determination against all odds, or a calculated journey to what was surely to be a boom-town experience?

One can only imagine the trek east for brothers Tom and Nick Palantzas who, during the winter of '97, were to be confronted by a now familiar spectacle of ever-expanding chain stores and franchises bearing Sacramento business addresses in beaver pelt clothing.

Klondike Food Rush is very much a homegrown product with a penchant for hearty meals and top quality foods and service. Its claim is now well-rooted in the community with major sponsorship of local hockey and other sports teams, as well as numerous charity and community events throughout the year.

"We much prefer contributing directly to our community," asserts Tom, "and actually feel a part of its maturing complexion." Such an approach also characterizes their response to customer demand as reflected in the customization of their most recent menu.

"Quite regularly during the course of our daily business," offers Nick, "we will introduce new items as feature meals. All customer feedback is imperative to the continuous fine tuning of our food item selection." This is made possible, after all, because of the independent nature of the operation and all patrons benefit from the flexibility this affords when ordering.

This bodes well for the business community in the region as well. Are you always looking for a great lunch selection at reasonable prices?

The Klondike provides for group bookings with a separate mezzanine level that accommodates about seventy seated diners and even more persons when standing room is required. This section has become most popular for business meetings, luncheons, office parties, all types of retirements, networking and other wine & cheese events. Make sure to book your company event well in advance, particularly during peak holiday seasons, simply by calling IAM-RUSH, that's 426-7874.

Yet accommodation and versatility doesn't stop there. You will actually be encouraged to custom-build your group's menu. "Whether it's a sit-down dinner, buffet, platter selection, or light appetizers," Nick continues, "the Klondike kitchen thrives on the challenge of differing tastes and likes, whatever the budget."

And let's talk about quality and selection. Klondike Food Rush has quickly gained a reputation for being a premier rib and steak house. Racks and racks of pork and beef ribs are smoked in-house using hickory wood. The steak selection ranges from an 8oz. N.Y. striploin, 10oz. rib-eye, 16oz. T-bone, to a 24oz. porterhouse. The 12oz. prime rib dinner is a permanent fixture every Friday night. Smoked beef brisket rounds out the beef lover's picks, all of which are graded AAA and carefully aged for optimal tenderness.

With over 100 menu items to choose from, rest assured that most every taste will likely be addressed. In addition to the vast rib and steak selection, one must consider the juicy bro-tisserie chicken, perhaps an innovative pasta creation, the various pizza wraps, or unbeatable fajitas. And of course, neither kids nor vegetarians need search very hard for an excellent choice of dishes.

Klondike Food Rush - eh Canadian Cook-out is a tried and true model of quality, service, comfort, satisfaction, and value. It is located just south of the 401 in Transit Square at 100 Westney Rd. S. in Ajax, with its doors open every day at 11:00 am.

Local dancers wrap up golden year

AJAX — A local competitive dance team brought home the gold... and the platinum this year.

Members of the Dance Experience studio completed a competitive season with Pickering's Adam Sergison coming out as the big winner. Sergison brought home a platinum medal for having a mark over 94, as well as a scholarship, along with other awards listed below.

At the beginning of March the group of 61 dancers ranging from seven to 23 years old competed at 'Dance Extravaganza' and came home with some impressive results.

Taking home highest-mark awards were Adam Sergison for his junior musical theatre solo, Lindsay Gemin for senior musical theatre solo, Cheryl Bush for senior musical theatre solo professional, Elizabeth Ryan for the senior lyrical solo, the senior musical theatre group for 'Chicago', junior musical theatre group for 'Heaven Hop', senior musical theatre duet/trio for 'A Bushel and a Peck', the senior jazz group for 'Comic Girl', senior hip hop group for 'I Like to Move It', the senior open duet/trio group for 'Everybody's Breaking Up', and the junior open duet/trio group for 'A Pirate's Life'.

Winning again at 'Dance Power' competition a few weeks later were the groups performing 'A Bushel and a Peck' and 'Wizard of Oz'.

At the 'International Dance Challenge' on April 7 and 8 the studio did it again. Overall high score awards went to Sergison and Ryan, both first runners-up for their solo performances and Danielle DeSouza who was second runner-up for her solo performance.

In the junior division, group awards went to top duet/trio for 'Money Money', top small group for 'Shake It', top large group for 'Born to be Wild', and large group, which earned runner-up for 'Get Wild'.

In the senior division, group awards went to top small group for 'Chicago', top large group for 'Birmingham', line/production, which earned first runner-up for 'We Like to Move It', and duet/trio was first runner-up for 'Everybody's Breaking Up'.

Pearl Harbor explodes onto movie screens

Following are the new movie releases being screened this weekend at cinemas in Ajax and Pickering:

PEARL HARBOR

Starring Ben Affleck, Josh Hartnett, Kate Beckinsale, Alec Baldwin, Cuba Gooding Jr.

Directed by Michael Bay.

Set during the time of the Japanese invasion of Pearl Harbor, the story follows two daring young pilots, Rafe McCawley and Danny Walker. The two grew up like brothers and first learned to fly in the daring and dangerous aviation practice of crop-dusting; now they have become pilots in the U.S. Army Air Corps.

Rafe has fallen in love with Evelyn Stewart, a beautiful and courageous nurse serving in the U.S. Navy. But their love has only just begun to bloom when their personal destiny — and that of a world on the brink of war — intervenes.

(Cineplex-Odeon Ajax 10 Cinemas, Famous Players Pickering 8 Cinemas, Pickering Town Centre).

Dairy Queen
LOOKING FOR A JOB IN THE MALL WORKING FOR DQ?
PLAY PALACE
DRIVE THRU
Pickering Dairy Queen 1099 Kingston Rd., L1V 1B5 (905) 831-2665

In the fall when students go back to school we will have some openings for day time staff at our store and the mall store. The hours will be 8am to 4pm, Monday to Friday or any combination in between. It can be full or part time depending on you. We are flexible on the number of days you want to work and the shifts. The basic starting rate is 7.50 per hour. It will go to 8.00 after 3 months and then the sky is the limit after that. Your employee discount will be good at both the mall store and the main store at 1099 Kingston Rd. The employee discount covers cakes as well.

Of course there are all kinds of little perks when you work for us like a free cake on your birthday. If you serve one of our mystery shoppers you will receive a minimum of $25.00 right up to $100.00 dollars if you score well. Our mystery shoppers visit us once a week. When we review our video tapes and see you doing an excellent job many employees find free blizzard passes in their pay envelopes. Every day a summary is done on each staff member and managers nominate employees who perform well. This is called the "Party for Five". The names are totaled (one employee could be nominated many times) at the end of the month and a name is drawn. The winner will be entitled to bring 4 friends or family to the 1099 Kingston Rd. store for dinner and dessert (whatever you want on the menu) and then they will be given 5 free passes to the movies.

Area native writes what she knows – humour

Marsha Boulton has worn many hats in eclectic career

BY DAWN DE SOUZA
Special to the News Advertiser

AJAX — From Pickering High School graduate, to successful journalist, to shepherd and award-winning author — Marsha Boulton has done it all.

After graduating from Pickering High in 1970, Boulton landed a job as the people editor for Maclean's magazine where she lived the "high heels lifestyle," attending film festivals and interviewing celebrities. But during a weekend of rest and relaxation in the country, Boulton admits she "looked at the real estate window a little too long" and before she knew it, had turned her high heels in for work boots and starting talking to sheep instead of the rich and famous.

"I moved to the farm very suddenly in 1980," she said. "I just threw myself into it and really enjoy it."

It was after moving to the southern Ontario farm, with husband and fellow writer Stephen Williams, that Boulton began writing stories about her rural experi-

DURHAM — Marsha Boulton is only the fourth Canadian woman in 50 years to be awarded the Stephen Leacock Medal for Humour. She won it in 1996 for her work exploring rural life.

Her writings include stories about how "mailboxes are ritually murdered" in spring, the time she planted acres of pickled cucumbers by hand, how a hair dryer can be an indispensable farm tool and how not to go cabin crazy in winter.

Boulton's short stories, which are used in Ontario's new school literacy testing, won her the honour of being the fourth Canadian woman in over 50 years, and the first shepherd, to win the Stephen Leacock Medal for Humour in 1996.

"I like to think I struck a blow for women humourists," she said.

And her husband noted the award garnered a little more attention than expected.

"I was elated," said Mr. Williams, adding that when the win was announced the media made a slip and said she was the first woman to win. The story made its way into papers across the country. "No woman who had won the award previously (did it with) as much vigour as Marsha's book did," he said.

Aside from the award, Boulton's writings have made an impression in other interesting ways as well.

Two people have been buried with copies of her books and Boulton called it a compliment that someone passed away and took her book as reading material.

With three best-selling books of short stories already to her credit, Boulton has just released 'Letter from the Country Omnibus' a collection compiled from her earlier works.

Ms. Boulton, who also writes history books, contributes to CBC Radio's 'Fresh Air' and is a recipient of the YWCA's Woman of Distinction Award, is eagerly awaiting Pickering High School's 50th anniversary reunion on June 8.

No kidding, seminar offers tips for young audiences

PICKERING — The Pickering Public Library is hoping to give budding authors a boost next month.

The library is hosting 'writing for children and young adults' at its central branch Saturday, June 2 from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. The seminar is $29 and will discuss with the adult participants the elements of short story writing and how to express ideas that kids and young adults will love.

The workshop is run by Brian Henry, a long-time editor who teaches at Ryerson Polytechnic University and George Brown College.

Area student pulls strings in getting U of T scholarship

Liz Loewen gets a classical piece of good news

BY MIKE RUTA
Staff Writer

AJAX — To obtain a university scholarship, violinist Liz Loewen had to compose a piece of original music for the faculty interviewing team at the University of Toronto.

The Pickering High School student wrote three, "kind of classical" pieces with a medieval flavour. What she didn't know at the time is that one of the interviewers is a leading choral music composer in Canada. Fortunately, he liked her work, and it helped secure her spot as one of only about 15 University of Toronto national scholars in Canada.

The Ajax resident and OAC student begins faculty of music studies this fall.

The monetary award ranges from $2,000 to $8,000 per year and is determined on the basis of individual financial circumstances.

Ms. Loewen hopes to make playing the violin a career.

"I've always kind of dreamed of being in an orchestra," she said in an interview. "That's always been a dream of mine."

She has played violin since age four and is a member of the Toronto Symphony Youth Orchestra and the Young Artists Performance Academy at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

Ms. Loewen, who has a roughly 92-per cent average, also teaches part-time at the Durham School of Music in Pickering.

She applied for the scholarship, with her school's support, after reading a poster in the hall at school.

Ms. Loewen encouraged students to work hard in high school, adding universities are looking for more than just high marks. She said they are looking for "all-around students" who are also active in their schools.

Pickering High School

guidance counsellor Brenda Hodgson likened the scholarship to "the full-meal deal."

"It's very exciting news for us and there's only 15 of them in the country. It's just a wonderful opportunity and we're really thrilled for her."

Hit the rails to experience Canadian summer festivals

In Canada, the festival season is so short that we have to cram them in a very condensed period. This tight schedule has compelled many travellers across the country to look for creative ways to attend some of our most exciting summer events.

Jasmine Rowe and her friends are young professionals who live in the Greater Toronto Area.

In an effort to experience as many of Canada's summer festivals as possible, the friends devised a unique vacation plan with the help of VIA Rail.

"We picked the train because we're all fairly close to the downtown (Toronto) station. It's a very relaxing and enjoyable trip, especially in first class. With the train we're going from downtown to downtown and we don't have to worry about renting a van or the stress of driving and parking," Jasmine explained.

Their itinerary starts off with the Canada Day celebrations in Ottawa on July 1. They follow that national party with the internationally acclaimed Jazz Festival in Montreal and then the summer festival in Quebec City, before finally returning home.

The group is not alone in choosing the train during the festival season in central Canada. According to Louise Beauchamp, VIA Rail's manager of market development for the corridor, more and more travellers are leaving the driving to VIA when it comes to urban vacations.

The Quebec City-to-Windsor corridor is VIA's busiest artery, and its trains ply the leg frequently. Either in economy or first class, Ms. Beauchamp said the rail journey is a rapid and comfortable alternative to driving.

"For many of our passengers the train is the most hassle-free way to travel during their summer vacations," she added.

Here are some of the corridor's most popular attractions once you reach your destination:

In Quebec City

Quebec City, historic capital, where the Old World meets the New: the Citadel, the Promenade, the Old Port and Petit-Champlain, Place Royale, the Parliament, Île d'Orléans.

Stroll through the narrow streets of the old city and soak up its very French charm. Walk to the Plains of Rail travel offers hassle-free and comfortable trips for summer travellers.

Abraham, scene of the famous battle in 1759 when New France fell to the British.

In Montreal

Quebec's largest city and its cultural and business centre, Montreal will cater to your every whim with its museums, concert halls, cinemas, department stores and specialized boutiques. Visit Old Montreal, Mount Royal, the Fine Arts Museum, Place-des-Arts, Notre-Dame Basilica, Parc des Îles, and Olympic Park. Try your luck at the Montreal Casino.

Thrill to the music that fills the downtown streets during the Jazz Festival, with its tens of thousands of visitors. Montreal is also home to an international fireworks competition, the Just for Laughs comedy festival, and a world film festival.

In Ottawa

There is so much to see and do in Ottawa: the tulip festival, the changing of the guard, the Parliament buildings, Gatineau park, and Byward market. Enjoy a boat trip on the Rideau Canal. Spend an afternoon in the museum of your choice: the Canadian Museum of Civilization, the National Arts Centre and others.

In Toronto

Canada's largest metropolis has museums, fine restaurants theatres, concert halls, sporting events, shopping, etc. Don't miss the Canadian National Exhibition, the CN Tower, the Hockey Hall of Fame, the Royal Ontario Museum, Metro Toronto Zoo, Ontario Science Centre, Ontario Place, and the SkyDome.

Local teen tops in badminton

BY AL RIVETT
Sports Editor

AJAX — An Ajacian overcame a series of major obstacles to end up on top at the recent 2001 Canadian Juvenile Badminton championships at the Vancouver Lawn and Tennis Club.

Nathaniel Allard, a member of the Ajax-based Harwood Phoenix Badminton Club, teamed with Alvin Lau of Vancouver to capture the men's under-16 doubles title. It was the first national championship for the Ajax badminton club since 1990.

It was an improbable victory for Allard and Lau, who had never played a doubles match together prior to the Canadians and didn't meet until the day before tournament action began. In fact, the duo had just two practice sessions together before the competition.

Unranked, the unranked twosome won five consecutive games, upsetting the number-two team from Ontario, Ram Narayan and Lucas Wong from Toronto's Granite Club, 17-16, 15-7 in the championship match.

Ironically, Narayan was Allard's former doubles partner before calling it quits just prior to the tournament, leaving Allard scrambling to find another partner.

"It was amazing; I couldn't believe it," said Allard, who gave full credit to Lau for his enormous contribution.

Allard admitted to being just "30 per cent of my normal strength" during the tournament due to a stomach virus that kept him in his hotel room resting and dining on soup between matches.

In addition to the virus, Allard was also without the benefit of regular coach Wayne King, who was unable to attend. The duo did have the help of Vancouver-based coach Calvin Holoboff.

Allard explained he and Lau immediately clicked in their two practices prior to the Canadians, as they both used a similar style of play.

"We're both power players as we can both hit really hard smashes," said Allard. "No one could defend our smashes, so we took everyone apart. That was our strategy and we stuck with it."

Allard and Lau opened the championships with a 15-3, 15-8 win over the number-four Ontario team of Liam Parkes and Ismail Malik. Next, the duo defeated Ng and Yaworski, from Alberta and B.C., respectively, 15-6, 15-4. In their closest match of the tourney, Allard and Lau defeated Ricky Ling and Kyle Holoboff of B.C. 15-8, 11-15, 17-15 in the third round. In the semifinals, Allard and Lau were victorious over the number-three seeded Poulin and Yargeau of Quebec 15-7, 15-9.

In under-16 boys' singles, Allard received a first-round bye, but was eliminated in the second round by fifth-seeded Sunil Bhamhani of Alberta 15-3, 15-9.

Allard also played mixed doubles at nationals with partner Shawna Wong of Toronto. The duo, however, was defeated early in the tournament.

The 2001 nationals represented Allard's fourth trip to the Canadian championships. Two years ago, he finished second in boys' singles in the under-14 division.

Red Sox find some consolation at Milton rookieball tournament

'Carpenter's Crew' win three games, drop two

PICKERING — The Pickering Red Sox Carpenter's Crew rookieball squad played to a fourth-place showing in its tournament debut over the May long weekend.

The Red Sox (sponsored by Toronto Blue Jays' pitcher Chris Carpenter) suffered a 6-1 loss to Cambridge in the consolation final at the 25th annual Milton Rookieball Tournament to finish fourth overall in the 12-team event for eight- and nine-year-old players.

Pickering reached the consolation final after suffering its first loss of the tournament in its semi-final game against Guelph. Guelph's hot hitting was too much for the Red Sox to overcome as they dropped an 11-4 decision.

Carpenter's Crew started the event by posting a come-from-behind 14-13 victory over Martingrove. The Red Sox trailed 13-8 entering the final inning before scoring six unanswered runs to earn the close victory.

In the second game, the Red Sox displayed good defence and power at the plate to post a convincing 13-3 win over Burlington.

The third game boasted two undefeated teams in Pickering and Guelph, both 2-0. Guelph led the Sox 9-4 late in the game, but Pickering rallied for seven runs in a big uprising to post an 11-9 victory.

The victory put Pickering into the semifinals against the same Guelph squad, which earned a wild-card berth into the game.
