Pickering beaches open for swimmers

DURHAM — All of the public beaches in the Ajax-Pickering area are open for swimming this week, according to the Durham Region Health Department.

The local health unit conducts weekly tests at Durham's 16 beaches for E. coli, a bacteria found in the intestinal tract of animals and humans. Beaches face closure when the bacteria level reaches over 100 counts per 100 millilitres of water.

And, according to the results of the tests on water samples taken the week of June 18, the beaches on the east and west sides of Frenchman's Bay in Pickering and Rotary Park beach and Pickering beach in Ajax are all currently safe for swimming.

York Region announces deal with Peel Region

BY SUSAN O'NEILL

PICKERING — Local residents and councillors who've been fighting the proposed construction of a water pipeline through west Pickering for years are claiming victory today.

An agreement is in the works between York and Peel regions that would meet York's long-term water supply needs, Alan Wells, York's chief administrative officer, confirmed Friday.

And, that means the Region's plan to build a water pipeline here is being shelved.

"We're very happy about it," said David Steele, the chairman of the Pickering Community Working Group (PCWG), which was organized to fight the project and to address mitigation issues should the pipeline have gone ahead.

"It's been a lot of work," Mr. Steele said, noting the community would not have been successful in opposing the project if it hadn't been for the efforts of the PCWG board members, City staff and

Brunelle pushes for new HQ

Now is the time to build Durham facility, Whitby mayor says

BY SUSAN O'NEILL
Staff Writer

DURHAM — Armed with a new report, Whitby Mayor Marcel Brunelle says now is the time for Durham to move forward with the idea of building a new Regional headquarters.

"There is the opportunity for us to build space," he told the works committee Wednesday, noting a new facility would cost the Region less per year than the $5.3 million Durham is currently paying to rent properties throughout the region.

"I think we need to move forward in terms of an RFP (request for proposal)," he said. "We would not be doing the taxpayers of the Region of Durham a favour by not moving forward."

According to a spatial needs assessment presented to the committee Wednesday, the Region would need a building of about 300,000 square feet in size to replace the various facilities that are currently rented. Mayor Brunelle has proposed a facility of that size could be built on the Region's 19-acre site on Rossland Road in Whitby where the current headquarters is located.

However, Pickering Councillor and works committee chairman Rick Johnson said the committee should give councillors some time to digest the information in the spatial needs study before moving forward with an RFP. The issue will be addressed at the committee's next meeting in August.

An earlier report presented to the committee in April indicated the Region currently spends $5.3 million a year to lease space in 25 locations across Durham.

However, that figure drops to about $4 million a year when the costs for the satellite health and Emergency Medical Services (ambulance) buildings are excluded. Those facilities would continue to remain in operation across the region even if a new headquarters was built.

"It is a reasonable thing to do. I believe there is an opportunity here to save money annually," Mayor Brunelle said. "We ought to understand we have a responsibility to the taxpayers."

Board, high school teachers reach tentative deal

Agreement reached in wee hours of Friday

CRAIG BURCH
'Both teams are pleased that we were able to do this.'

sued his ruling that Durham public high school teachers must teach 6.5 of eight classes every two days, an increase of a half class to teachers' workload. Teachers have been without a collective agreement since that arbitrated settlement ended last August.

Mr. Burch said a special school board meeting will have to be called to ratify the deal.

Neither he nor Shelley Page, local president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, would discuss details until the contract is finalized.

"We've been hammering at them for eight months," said Ms. Page when asked about the timing of the pending deal. "I think the board was finally faced with a serious enough shortage in terms of the number of teachers we were able to attract to Durham.

"In fairness to the board, they wanted labour peace and so did we."

Ms. Page said she believes it's a good deal for teachers, who will hold a ratification vote Wednesday.

Pickering groups declare victory in pipe fight

councillors, the consultants who worked with both PCWG and the City and the hundreds of people who wrote letters opposing the plan.

Mr. Wells said Friday although York council hasn't finalized an agreement with Peel yet, Peel council voted Thursday to supply York with its water needs.

"It looks very favourable," Mr. Wells said, although he could not release any details because the issue hasn't gone to York council yet. "It looks like we'll be able to suspend our environmental assessment in the Region of Durham."

York's plan had called for the construction of an intake pipe that would have extended approximately three to four kilometres into Lake Ontario from Petticoat Creek Conservation Area in south Pickering. A raw water pumping station would have been built in the conservation area and the pipeline would have been tunnelled from there north along Whites Road, eventually winding its way to a water treatment plant in Markham.

Although York Region proceeded with an environmental assessment on the Durham plan, officials also continued to negotiate with the City of Toronto and Peel in an effort to seek an alternate solution.

"That's the way the water will flow," Mr. Wells said of the Peel alternative.

And, that's "good news for us", said Pickering Mayor Wayne Arthurs.

"It'll allow us to apply resources elsewhere rather than fighting with York Region," he said.

Mayor Arthurs noted the City didn't see a need for the project to be located here and didn't want the community to be disrupted so the City could become a utility corridor for another municipality.

"It's once again a victory for the people of Pickering. When we stand together and fight together we win together," said Ward 1 Regional Councillor Maurice Brenner, who believes the "final blow" for York Region was the Region's 26-1 vote in opposition to the project in early May.

He also believes the opposition from the community and Durham's two school boards was invaluable.

"I'm pleased," added Ward 1 City Councillor Dave Ryan. "We've been objecting to the proposal since 1997 when we first discovered it."

Meanwhile, PCWG member Don Brooks said there's a sense of gratification among the group's board members.

"We're ecstatic about it," he said Friday.

DAVID STEELE

Family Court Clinic marks year of success

DURHAM — Durham Region Chairman Roger Anderson will lift the veil on the Durham Family Court Clinic's 'celebrating success poster' next week.

The project encouraged Durham residents to send in written and pictorial submissions defining what true success means to them, and will be highlighted at the clinic's annual general meeting, which marks the end of the project.

The clinic will present awards to the Durham Region division of Metroland Printing, Publishing and Distributing, which includes the Ajax-Pickering News Advertiser, and Rogers Cable for their support in promoting the project.

Donor and personal achievement awards will also be presented. The meeting takes place Tuesday, June 26 at the Harmony Creek Golf Centre in Oshtawa. A light lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m. with the business meeting starting at 12:15 p.m.

Leave well enough alone on governance

Until we know all the facts, options and GTSB plans, the status quo is just fine

You could sum up the findings of the Berkeley Consulting Group with respect to governance changes within Durham Region in one short phrase: 'If it ain't broke, don't fix it.'

The consultants, hired by Oshawa and Pickering to look at seven different options for the future of municipal and regional government in Durham, flatly rejected four of those options. The 'One City of Durham' proposal, which would ditch the eight local governments and have a region (city) govern the entire geographical area, was considered a poor option because it limits accountability and conflicts with the workings of the Greater Toronto Services Board. Also rejected were three proposals that would include the present regional government and various local amalgamations that would consolidate northern municipalities into one unit and the urban southern municipalities into two or three super cities. These three plans were dropped because the GTSB and two more local forms of government would not be allowed to co-exist by the Province.

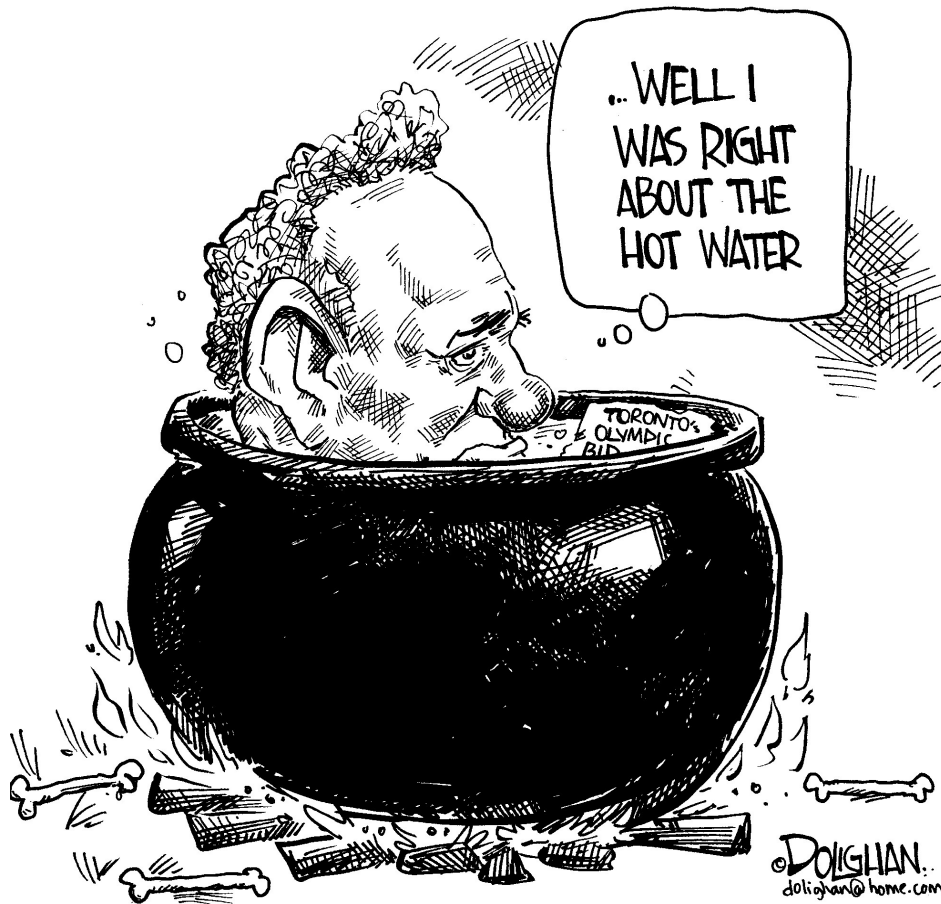

So... that leaves the consultants arguing the merits of getting rid of the region completely and buying into a scheme that unites the three northern municipalities and suggesting three amalgamation options for the five southern municipalities. Option one merges Pickering-Ajax-Whitby-Oshawa and unites Clarington with Brock-Uxbridge-Scugog for two municipalities in total. The second sees the three northern municipalities united, with Ajax-Pickering merged and Whitby-Oshawa-Clarington united. Finally, the three northern municipalities become one, as does Pickering-Ajax-Whitby and Oshawa-Clarington.

It's felt these last three options are workable within the confines of a larger GTSB and provide for overall tax savings of between four and five per cent. But the consultants also strongly argue that until the role of the GTSB is completely cleared up, the best option is to do nothing at all.

Which brings us back to where we started. Is amalgamation the only answer for our municipalities? Are there other ways to cut local taxes by finding savings through shared services? Could some of our services come together — fire departments perhaps — to eliminate duplication and offer service at a cheaper rate than is being provided at present.

It should be remembered the Province has not put a gun to the heads of 905 councillors to come up with an amalgamation plan. In fact, Premier Mike Harris just last fall emphatically stated the Province had no plans to force governance changes at the local level in the near future.

It doesn't hurt to be prepared, but until we know all the facts and all the options, especially in regards to the GTSB, our best plan is to leave well enough alone.

MPPs ignoring those in need

To the editor:

Re: 'Ajax MPP's office trashed by protestors,' June 13.

I do not in any way condone the behaviour of those demonstrators responsible.

Nonetheless, I believe I can understand the "why" of it. For two years I have been trying to get the provincial government to understand the plight of some recipients of Ontario disability supplementary payments. For two years I have been given the runaround by, in turn, Pickering-Ajax-Uxbridge MPP Janet Ecker, when she held the portfolio for the Ministry of Community and Social Services, the current minister, John Baird, and also my MPP, Jim Flaherty. Ms. Ecker "fobbed" me off, by referring my question to the 'area manager' who was not qualified to answer any question.

Mr. Baird 'fluffed' me off with a page-and-a-half of irrelevant information (blinding with science!) in the first instance, and in the second instance he only half-answered my query. Mr. Flaherty now ignores me completely, no doubt too busy trying to find a way to come up with enough cash to finance the oft-rumoured pay increase for members of the Ontario legislature.

Therefore I can understand the frustration that builds up in people. When one's elected representatives appear to ignore one, the frustration builds. What we are witnessing here is akin to road rage — political rage.

The longer our elected representatives ignore it, the worse it will become. For too long those who have the power, but apparently not the will, to change the situation have ignored those in dire need. To MPPs I say 'deal with it', and do your job as guardians of the people's trust.

Peter Mills,
Ajax

My kiss-and-tell – program offers a year of fun

So, what are you doing for lunch tomorrow?

Let me get more to the point. Do you have a free lunch hour once a week?

In exchange, the payback is endless. You could find yourself playing for the 'Super Bowl' of Snakes and Ladders, baking Christmas cookies, building 3-D puzzles, playing hockey, or even — dare I admit it? — kissing a basketball out back of a school.

In other words, you can let the child inside out for a good run each week through an excellent and beneficial program for adults and kids alike.

In a nutshell, the Big Brothers Association of Ajax-Pickering's mentoring program matches young boys

Tony Doyle

News Editor
tdoyle@durhamregion.com

in need of a friend with area adults who can spare an hour each week to visit local schools and provide a positive influence.

Tyler and I have done all the above-mentioned activities and much more since we first met up last fall at a public school in Ajax. He's your typical seven-year-old bundle of energy; never at a loss for things we can do each visit. Last fall and this spring you could find us out in the schoolyard (I'm the guy in the shirt and tie with the hockey stick and all the fancy moves; he's the guy rolling all over the ground stopping everything fired his way), while during the winter we filled our time inside.

My favourite moment? When Tyler received a Future ACEs award at an assembly in the gymnasium. My least favourite? That will be this week, as the end of the school year means our visits are over until the fall.

Which makes this as good a time as any to let others in on this little treasure of a program. For every child like Tyler, there's another who'd just love to share their time with laughs and play.

It's really simple to become in-involved. Following an application process, the staff at Big Brothers will match you with someone with similar interests at a school that's convenient for you (the mentoring program is available at Big Brother agencies across Durham for anyone working elsewhere).

The day you visit and the time you arrive at is flexible too. However, the process does take some time, so before the summer gets too far along, give the office a call at 905-686-2871 and find out more.

You'll get back more than you can ever give.

So go ahead, it would be great to see schoolyards full of guys in ties come next September. Just don't be surprised to find yourself kissing a basketball.

Common interests

Club members come together to share mutual interests

BY CHRISTY CHASE
Staff Writer

DURHAM — They come from all over Durham Region once or twice a month to share their common interests.

Coins, cameras and chess, to name just a few things, form the basis for organized clubs which allow members to share their knowledge, enthusiasm and enjoyment with each other and educate the public. These clubs are still going strong, years after being established. They operate quietly, for the most part, but are also quick to welcome new members and the public to their pastimes. The young are particularly welcome.

"We just celebrated our 40th anniversary last year," says Sharon MacLean, president of the Oshawa and District Coin Club. "We got established in 1960."

The 80 to 84 members meet monthly from September to June to share their love of coins and paper money, doing some buying and trading and learn about new items, such as the new $10 bills issued earlier this year.

Mrs. MacLean admits membership fluctuates from year to year, spurred on by things such as the two-year millennium quarters and the new $10 bill.

"Everybody's out trying to make sure they have all the old bills before they (Canadian mint) bring in the other new ones," she says.

Bringing in young members is something most clubs try to do regularly.

"We have some junior members and we do have a junior auction in the fall," Mrs. MacLean says.

"What we try to do is show the various kinds of collecting that can be done" and the fact not everything has to be expensive, she says.

"It doesn't cost you an arm and a leg. It doesn't have to be expensive to start a collection."

Young people can start collecting "funny money," such as Canadian Tire money, Disney bills or Dolly Parton bills, or special coins and tokens. They don't cost much, which can appeal to limited budgets, she says.

John Van Bruggen, president of the Oshawa Camera Club, says several young members have joined the club recently, something he's pleased to see.

"It was sort of an oldtimers club for a while," he says.

One of the young members was named photographer of the year at the end of this season's meetings. Mr. Van Bruggen says it's good to see the young people joining and an interest growing in cameras and photography.

The club boasts just over 30 members, its size growing with the folding of the Whitby club some time back.

At the Durham Chess Club, interest among young players is growing, thanks in part to an increased emphasis on chess clubs in local schools, says Larry Luiting.

"We have some junior players who may have been playing for a couple of years," he says.

One of them was recently named Grade 6 champion for all Canada. Allen Paucic won seven games and drew two to take the title at the Canadian Youth Chess Championships in May.

"He's doing very well and his younger brother, Denis, is doing well," he says, adding both will be playing in the United States representing Canada in the North American championships.

Schools are promoting chess more (there's a chess club for kids which meets twice a month at the Whitby Montessori School) and there's more access to chess through the Internet, Mr. Luiting says.

"There's more chess being played on the Internet than any other game," he says.

This has raised the interest among young people in the game and resulted in more people involved in chess clubs and tournaments.

The Durham Chess Club meets once a week, apart from July and August, playing tournaments at Durham College. Some of its 23 members also travel to other communities for tournaments. Paul Hurley, a chess master and professor at Durham College, competed in the Ontario Open in May, winning a game against one of Canada's top chess players, an international master, just one step removed from a grandmaster.

Young and old play against each other, depending on their skill levels.

"We have people of all different levels playing," Mr. Luiting says, adding some people are serious while others play for recreation.

"Some people find it relaxing," he says. "A lot of them find it stressful. Take your pick. It's a mental competition. I think people who play chess are very competitive, a whole lot more than with other sports out there."

Tournaments can be very stressful, with people playing up to five or six hours a day, he adds.

At the Oshawa Camera Club, members meet twice a month, sharing their latest photographs, discussing cameras and critiquing each other's work.

"One evening we have show and tell where people bring in slides and we put them in a tray and show them and everyone comments on them," Mr. Van Bruggen says. "It's a learning experience. The object of the club is learning and sharing. I'm trying to stress that fact."

People join the club because they like photography and they want to share photography, enthusiastically.

asm, skills and pick up more of same, he says. At the end of the season, the club holds a two-night show for members.

Like other clubs, there are varied specialties and opinions among members. A few are getting into digital but most members like their current systems, Mr. Van Bruggen says.

"Some members have their own darkrooms," he says, adding he's not one of them. "I'd rather be outside taking pictures and let someone else do the dirty work."

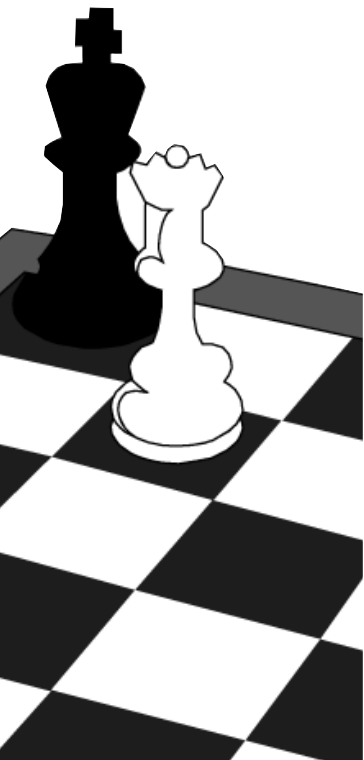

A nature photographer, Mr. Van Bruggen says the club does well in nature photography in the annual competition of the Greater Toronto Council of Camera Clubs, made up of 34 clubs.

"Oshawa is always right up there and quite often we're No. 1," he says.

The coin club puts out newsletters, brings in guest speakers and holds two major shows a year. Members often start their collections for children or grandchildren, Mrs. MacLean says.

Oshawa and District Coin Club generally meets the second Sunday of each month from September to June at Rundle Park Clubhouse. Displays start at 12:30 p.m. with the meeting beginning at 2 p.m.

Durham Chess Club, affiliated with the Chess Federation of Canada, meets every Thursday from September to June between 7:15 and 10:30 p.m. at Durham College. Oshawa Camera Club meets the second and fourth Wednesday of each month from September to June.

Municipal report cards due to taxpayers by Sept. 30

Performance data in 35 areas required by Province

ability. Mr. Hodgson said when the program was started, the Province stressed the first year was only a starting point and municipal input was critical to refining the measures and ironing out details.

The 16 measures that will be reported to taxpayers are about garbage, sewage, water, roads, transit, fire, police, local government, and land-use planning.

Garbage information will include the operating cost for waste collection per tonne per household. It will also contain the percentage of residential solid waste diverted for recycling and tonnes of solid waste recycled.

Treatment and disposal costs for sewage and storm-water per cubic metre will be included as well, along with how many hours it takes for untreated or partially treated sewage to release into lakes and natural water-courses.

Three measures will be shown in the water section: operating cost per million litres of water treated, number of breaks in water lines per kilometre, and how many days it took for a boil-water advisory to be in effect after it was issued.

Regarding roads, operating cost for winter maintenance per lane per kilometre and the percentage of winter event responses that meet or exceed municipal road maintenance standards will be shown.

Transit information will include the number of conventional passenger trips per person in the service area and the cost for conventional transit per regular service passenger trips.

The cost for fire services and police service per $1,000 of tax assessment will be in the report.

The police section will also include the percentage of violent crimes and property crimes cleared for Statistics Canada.

Operating costs for municipal administration as a percentage of total operating costs and the percentage of designated agriculture land preserved will be listed as well.

Severe weather costly for Durham Region

DURHAM — The Region could be facing a budget overrun of as much as $1 million for winter maintenance operations this year, works committee members were told Wednesday.

“For the first three months of 2001, winter maintenance operations were well above average, which may result in an estimated annual overrun of $1 million in the 2001 budget of $3.9 million,” works commissioner Jack McCorkell stated in a report to councillors.

According to works staff, about 75 per cent of the winter budget is typically spent in the first half of the year, leaving 25 per cent of the budget to cover snow removal costs in November and December.

However, to date approximately 99 per cent of the budget has been spent.

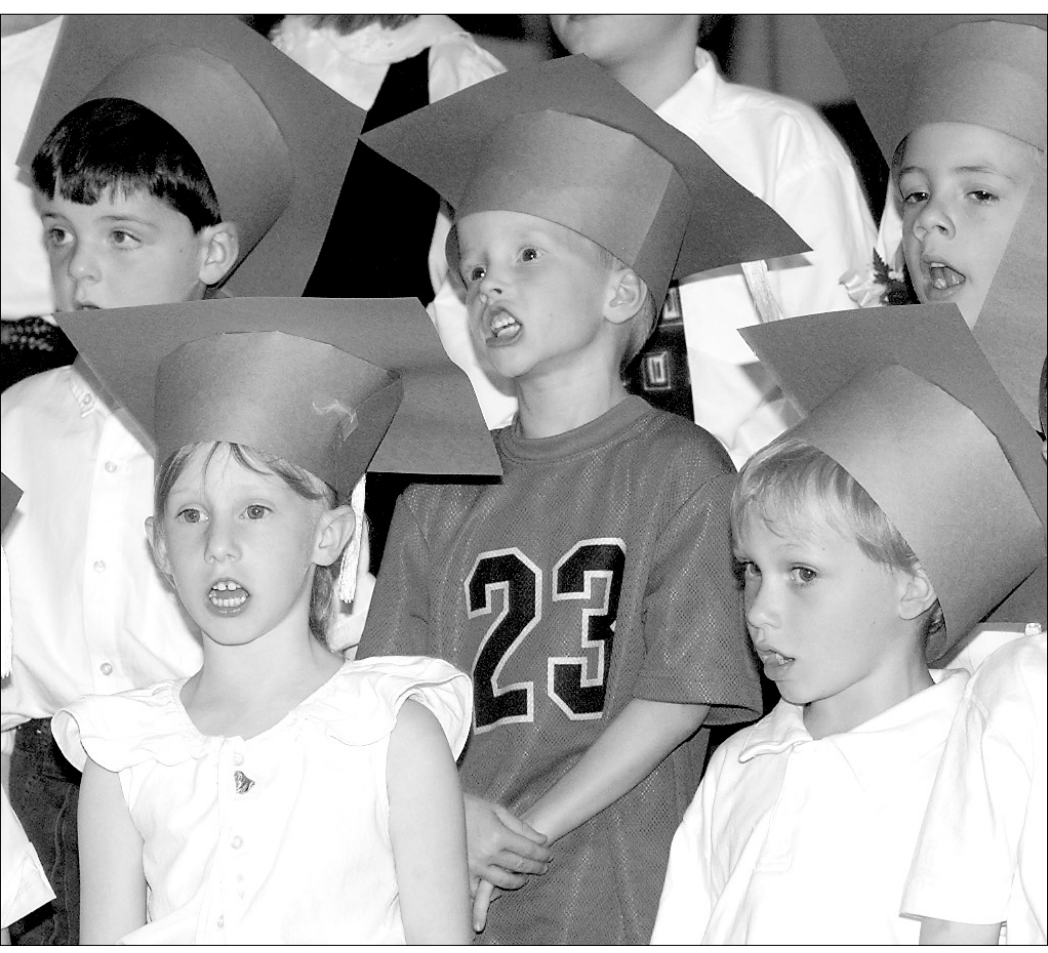

The staff report indicates there were 54 winter storms from January to April, compared to 32 storms during the same period last year.

The works department has used 36,000 tonnes of winter sand and 4,800 tonnes of winter salt so far this year.

That compares to the 25,100 tonnes of sand and 4,200 tonnes of salt used in the same period of 2000.

Any additional winter maintenance costs for 2001 will be financed from the Region’s rate stabilization fund, the report notes.

We must be the nicest nation of people on the face of the earth because we are so accustomed to getting the shaft, we just smile and take it. Between the oil companies, and the financial institutions, we are economically getting killed. I personally have no objections to companies making a huge profit if it is due to new developments, smart business procedures, or something new that takes the market by storm. I am disgusted however, when astronomical gains are made strictly by gouging the Canadian public. In the U.S., interest rates are going to drop another 1/2% over the next month, and further drops will happen if the economy does not improve to the levels that the government deems necessary to avert serious economic problems. The Government in Canada seems to have the same philosophy, but typically is slow to react. Where the major problem surfaces is when rates do drop, this is not being passed to the consumer. Long term mortgage rates are actually a 1/4% higher than they were before any Bank of Canada rate decreases over the past few months, and personal loan rates have definitely not decreased. Remember that the majority of political contributions come from Big Business "and the old analogy of "Don't bite the hand that feeds you" has never been more true".

At Central Funding Group, our purpose is to get you the funding you require, with the terms and conditions that suit your specific needs. Prime first mortgages are always 1% below posted market rates, and secondary financing is available to 100% of the current value. Private mortgages are available for those clients that do not quite fit into the normal lending requirements, at very competitive rates and terms. Cottage mortgages are available, and consolidation loans and mortgages have always been a specialty.

It is rare to find a person without sensitivities: this person would have inherited a strong immune system from parents of the same. The advantage of a strong immune system for coping with today's toxicity would be a plus: Some of the detrimental causes of health today I'm referring to are: Our demineralized soil and the acidic foods produced, synthetic food additives, air pollution, and chemicals in water. Sensitivities can be developed at any time in life and in a lot of cases can be omitted with proper cleansing and care of the colon. The colon is responsible for rehydrating the body and the evacuation of metabolic waste. People with constipation can filter toxins back into the body instead of water, and with occurrence of diarrhea, water is expelled without properly rehy-

SENIORS AND COMPUTERS

Classes are filled to capacity with older Canadians interested in computer technology

Even though society typically dismisses the ability and interest of seniors to master new technologies, all across Canada classes are filled to capacity with older Canadians interested in gaining access to and learning practical uses for computer technology.

Many comment on how the "web lifestyle" has opened up a whole new world to them. E-mail allows them to stay in touch with friends and family the world over for almost no cost and the wealth of information available at their fingertips is astounding.

However, for some, just getting the courage to enroll in a course has already been a major venture. Many adults have memories of failed attempts to master a new skill, new language or appliance and therefore the computer is no less intimidating. Additionally, the physical activity of mouse control can add a lot of stress, especially for those who now have a hard time in motor control with aging hands and fingers. Older students must constantly be reassured that the task is not beyond their capabilities. Those who have poor eyesight will also have to focus on obtaining a larger monitor.

The PC and Internet technology is playing a revolutionary role in enhancing employability and connecting older Canadians to the information and resources that they desperately need. There are many examples of seniors re-entering the workforce in technical jobs, forging new connections with family and peers, expanding and redefining their volunteer work, and collecting information that helps them function independently. Research shows that the fastest growing segment of Internet users are seniors with almost 43 percent of seniors using the Internet for investment purposes and 57 percent using it for entertainment and socializing.

Grade Math Program Adds Up To Success

Math concepts taught in school today have changed dramatically. No longer is focus placed solely on basic skills. In fact, in grades one through eight your children focus on key areas of learning.

- ✓ Number Sense and Numeration
- ✓ Measurement
- ✓ Data Management and Probability,
- ✓ Geometry and Spatial Sense, and finally
- ✓ Patterning and Algebra

Each of the five strands is a building block in preparation for the next year's challenge.

The Ontario math curriculum demands that concepts be mastered at a much earlier age than in the past. It requires a determined effort on the part of students, parents and teachers to ensure that all these concepts are firmly understood. A short glance at your child's textbook will clearly indicate just how much things have changed and the challenge they face.

Fortunately with the help of the Grade Math Program, a student can learn or reinforce all needed concepts in a matter of 15 minutes each day. Developed to ensure understanding of fundamental mathematical concepts, Grade Math Program teaches to the expectations set in the Ontario Math Curriculum. A math program that mirrors the curriculum is only available through Grade Math and is not available through other programs, such as, Kumon.

"Parents and students value this consistency," reports Michael Bateman, owner of the Bloor-West Grade Math Program. "The program allows students to progress at a rate that will build their skill and confidence -- ultimately allowing them to master the math concepts they need to succeed."

Parents agree. "Luke spends 15 minutes each night on his Grade Math assignments," acknowledges Mrs. Cassar whose son Luke attends the twice weekly program. "Luke was at Kumon, but got bogged down with endless repetition of material unrelated to his class work. This program is not at all like that. I'm never going to stop coming here."

In Pickering, the Grade math Program is located in the Dunbarton-Fairport United Church. The program costs $70 per month and includes all materials. To enroll your child please contact Grade Math at (905) 831-4643.

Blue Jays ink Delfino

BY AL RIVETT
Sports Editor

PICKERING — Lee Delfino is now officially a Toronto Blue Jay.

Drafted by the Blue Jays in the sixth round (182nd overall) of Major League Baseball's amateur draft earlier this month, the talented 21-year-old shortstop signed a minor league contract with the Jays Thursday.

Working out for the past three weeks in Greenville, N.C. and being on pins and needles regarding his short-term future, Delfino breathed a sigh of relief to finally have a deal in place.

"I'm glad this thing got taken care of," said Delfino in an interview from North Carolina. "It's been tough to swallow. I wanted to get out there and play, so the last three weeks have been really trying. I'm really excited about my opportunities now. I just want to go and play and make the best of my opportunities."

Delfino receives a signing bonus of $122,500 from the Jays, along with a further $7,500 in incentive bonuses. And, the Toronto ball club will foot the bill for his final one-and-a-half years of college education at the University of East Carolina whenever he decides to return.

Delfino will suit up as soon as possible for the Blue Jays for their short-season 'A' affiliate — the Auburn Doubledays of Auburn, New York — that competes in the New York-Penn League. He flew to New York Thursday and was to meet with team coaches and teammates over the weekend. He expects to be in the line-up this week after his contract is cleared with the MLB commissioner's office.

"I hope to meet my teammates and coaches as soon as possible and get comfortable with the team. I hope to start playing as soon as possible," he said.

It's been a long road for the Pickering Baseball Association product to finally become a member of the Blue Jays' orga-

LEE DELFINO
Signs contract with Blue Jays.

A junior with the East Carolina Pirates this past season, Delfino had an outstanding 2001 campaign, posting a .362 average, with 11 home runs and 54 runs batted in. He also earned second team all-star honours in the Colonial Athletic Association.

He also helped the Pirates post a record of 47-13 this season, which tied the school record for wins. The Pirates ended up one step short of attending the college 'World Series' in Omaha, Nebraska this month after a loss to the University of Tennessee at the Super Regional Tournament in May.

In his three years with ECU, Delfino was a three-time Colonial Athletic Association second team all-star and, as a freshman, earned all-American honours.

Delfino was first drafted by the Jays in the fifth round of the 1998 draft. He elected, however, to attend East Carolina University in Greenville N.C. on a baseball scholarship.

The six-foot one-inch, 180-pound shortstop will likely find a home at second base with the New York Doubledays as Jays' officials told him after the draft they would convert him to the position.

800 SLOTS!

Last Public Meeting

Ajax plans to hold its last public meeting, to accept or reject a race track & 800 slot machines, on Tuesday, July 3, 7:00 p.m., 65 Harwood Ave. S. (At Kings Cres., just south of 401). Town councillors will vote on Monday, July 9, 2001. Please contact Ajax town councillors at:
(905) 683-4550 or council@townofajax.com

YOU CAN ASK:

- 1) Why are public information meetings happening after the referendum and not before?
- 2) Shouldn't all Durham residents have a vote on this issue since it affects the entire region?
- 3) Are 800 slots really in the public good?

Steve Parish Mayor
Scott Crawford Regional (Wards 1 & 2)
Jim McMaster Regional (Wards 3 & 4)
Ralph Golberg Local W1 Joe Dickson Local W2

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

FOR MEN ONLY

June is "Health Before Pregnancy" month

Yes, you're a big part of planning a healthy pregnancy. As a man, you're by no means a silent partner in the making of a baby. The average healthy man can usually count on his sperm to do its job but someone with a history of infections, drinking and smoking might be dealing with a different quality of sperm. Other lifestyles habits, your environment, as well as disease, can also be "sperm-unfriendly".

If a new baby is in your future, Durham Region Health Department encourages you and your partner to get a free copy of the "Health Before Pregnancy Makes a Difference" booklet.

Remember, today's health builds tomorrow's babies.

For more information or to obtain a copy of the booklet "Health Before Pregnancy Makes a Difference", please call Durham Region Health Department at (905) 723-8521 or 1-800-841-2729, ext. 2174.

Ninth Qualifying Site 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, June 25th

4 Seasons Country Club

4 Seasons Country Club is the Ninth Qualifying Site for the Third Annual Durham Region Hole in One Shootout.

Entering into its 17th season, golfers will find this a very challenging course that requires the utmost in accuracy to reach the green in regulation and to avoid the many hazards.

Playing at 5700 yards, this Par 69 (par 73 for ladies) has water coming into play on 15 holes and plenty of bunkers to make it an interesting round. But golfers all over Durham and beyond love this course with its mature trees enhancing the beautiful terrain.

The facility features an outdoor amphitheatre that seats 250 and is perfect for weddings and tournaments. There is also a 150-seat indoor banquet room, lounge, snack bar and fully stocked pro shop.

Golf Tip: The 11th hole is newly designed and features water surrounding three quarters of the green. Director of Golf Wayne Cameron says there's little room for error. You must hit the green so using a lofted club to get it up high is a must if you want a hole-in-one.

GOOD LUCK!

Director of Golf Wayne Cameron
