No blank cheque for incineration studies

Clarington wants to understand scope of regional project

By Jennifer Stone and Erin Hatfield

DURHAM — The Region may be up-fronting the cash to pay for a peer review of York and Durham's energy-from-waste (EFW) environmental assessment, but it shouldn't be telling Clarington what studies it's willing to fund, say the municipality's local councillors.

Clarington council had instructed staff to undertake an examination of all documentation prepared to date on the proposed EFW project, as well as the adequacy of the public consultation process. Also, staff was to look at the implications of an EFW plant on the proposed Energy Business Park, to be sited very close to two of the short-listed sites.

Staff came back with a list of experts to be hired to complete the study, but they were unable to attach a price tag to the consultation.

"I don't really have a best guess" as to how much it would cost, said Clarington Planning Director David Crome.

"One of our difficulties has been to determine the scope of the Region's undertaking ... We can't turn around and ask for a quotation on that until we have a better understanding of the scope."

That's a problem, said all three

Region sets $200,000 limit for Clarington

Regional councillors from Clarington, noting the Region had agreed to up-front "reasonable expenses" for the peer review.

The Region agreed to "reasonable expenses for necessary studies and legal advice," said Ward 3 and 4 Regional Councillor Charlie Trim, Durham's works chairman.

"We have to have a figure of some sort ... as to what our planning staff are going to do. I'm not going to give them a blank cheque."

Clarington could wind up out of pocket for the money --- which is not available in the current budget --- should the regions not agree it is necessary to spend all that Clarington staff have suggested.

"This is a blank cheque that we're giving staff but nobody has signed it," said Jim Abernethy who, as Clarington's mayor, sits on Regional Council.

But, Clarington's four local councillors all voted in favour of the staff report, which won 4-3.

Getting a Clarington perspective is absolutely key, they all said.

"I'm astounded," said Ward 1 Councillor Adrian Foster.

"I'm astounded that we would let the Region tell us what studies we are able to do ... We want a Clarington-centric view ... I would be shocked if the Region would not cover the cost of this."

It's absolutely necessary to get the information a peer review would provide, said Coun. Foster.

"I've been very anxious to get the information from a Clarington perspective," he said.

"There's no concern that there's anything underhanded going on at the Region, but I want to get Clarington's handle on this."

Cost should not be an issue, given the potential magnitude of the project and it's possible ramifications, said Ward 3 Councillor Willie Woo.

"We can't be handcuffed by a limited budget to do our due diligence," he said.

On May 23, the Region's finance and administration committee caught wind of the debate that had occurred at Clarington's general purpose and administration meeting the evening prior.

The Region's commissioner of works explained the scope of studies Clarington was looking at might not be exactly what Regional Council had in mind when it agreed to front the cash.

"(Clarington) is basically taking a shotgun approach," Cliff Curtis said. "They want to take a look at everything."

In hopes of clarifying what was meant by "reasonable studies" the works committee is recommending to Regional Council that the funding allocated to studies not exceed $200,000. Any amount over that will have to come back to regional council for approval.

"Above that $200,000 if they want to come back with stuff that is reasonable then we will consider that," said Regional Chairman Roger Anderson. "Clarington is dealing with this on Monday (at its council meeting) and I think a message needs to be sent that this isn't a blank cheque."

Announcement on new chief expected soon

Short-list candidate interviews this weekend

DURHAM — We'll know soon who the next chief of the Durham Regional Police service is.

Final interviews for short-listed candidates will occur over the weekend and an announcement on the successful candidate should be made shortly thereafter, said Terry Clayton, chairman of the police services board.

"We should have something by the first of the week," Mr. Clayton said Thursday.

Among the final candidates to make the cut are members from within the Durham force, Mr. Clayton confirmed.

"There are external and internal candidates," he said.

Observers, including rank and file cops, are watching closely to see if either current deputy chiefs Mike Ewles or Chuck Mercier will ascend to the chief's office, or if another candidate from within the service will be considered.

The search for a new top cop was launched in February when Vernon White, hired amid much optimism in the fall of 2005, announced he'd be departing to take the top job with Ottawa police.

Instead of hiring a recruiting firm -- as it did when the search that led to the hiring of Chief White occurred -- the board opted to undertake the selection process internally.

A subcommittee of the police services board reviewed the credentials of the 20 candidates who replied to the advertisements, Mr. Clayton said.

Chief White officially remains at the helm of the Durham service until June 8.

One school board up for discussion

Near North of North Bay sends a letter looking for support

DURHAM — The issue of one publicly funded school board is heading towards the Durham District School Board's standing committee.

Instead of responding to the Near North District School Board's support for a single board, Durham public trustees will discuss it at its standing committee meeting.

A letter from the North Bay board included its recent resolution to request the Ontario Public School Boards' Association renew its petition to the Province in support of one, publicly funded school board. It also included forwarding the decision to all school boards and asking them to endorse the same, as well as to members of provincial and federal parliament, with a proposal for a referendum to be called within the year.

"I would suggest, my own personal opinion is I would not support this motion," said Oshawa Trustee Michael Barrett, during the board's May 22 meeting.

He suggested sending Near North a letter, saying the Durham board doesn't support its opinion and believes in having two school boards.

Ajax Trustee Marilyn Crawford, board chairwoman, reminded trustees it's not just the Catholic school board, it's also the two french boards that would be rolled into one funding model.

Whitby Trustee John

Dolstra said he agreed with Trustee Barrett and motioned to send a letter back expressing Durham's views.

But Oshawa Trustee Kathleen Hopper said they shouldn't just send something off without discussion because she's not sure everyone would share the same opinion.

Trustee Dolstra withdrew his motion and suggested the issue be discussed in a committee, possibly in-camera, but Trustee Crawford said it's not something they would deal with in-camera.

The letter was referred to standing committee for discussion.

Throw the book at impaired drivers

Higher fines and jail time are the best ways of keeping our roads as safe as possible.

Ontario Provincial Police statistics from Canada Road Safety Week, May 14 to 21, show that despite years of hammering the message home, drivers are still speeding, drinking and driving and not wearing seatbelts, putting themselves and other motorists at risk on our highways.

It seems astonishing in this day and age, but the numbers tell the tale. According to the OPP, during the week, 248 motorists were nabbed and face impaired driving charges, compared to 148 during 2006. Seatbelt charges were up 51 per cent, from 762 last year to 1,565 this past week. Finally, speeding charges were up by 38 per cent, from 6,980 in 2006 to 11,314 this year.

One impaired driver was clocked doing 170 km/h in a stolen car before he hit a truck, seriously injuring a woman passenger. The man has a lifetime driving suspension and his alcohol level was twice the legal limit. A second driver, with four prior convictions for impaired driving, almost ran down a police officer as he drove a car without license plates with a blood alcohol level three times the legal limit.

These men, who shouldn't have been on the road in the first place, should receive something to get their attention, since a lifetime driving ban in one case and four drunk driving arrests in another obviously didn't get the message across. Let's start with a hefty fine and jail time. And not a week or two in the can, but at least a year. Perhaps sitting in a cell for that length of time will have some effect.

Clearly, the efforts of groups like Mothers Against Drunk Driving and other groups are to be commended. As well, education at a very young age is also a part of the solution. But, without stiffer penalties, it appears the number of drinking and driving and otherwise unsafe drivers will never go down.

Share your opinion on this issue by visiting infodurhamregion.com and answering the question of the week. The results will be printed in the May 30 News Advertiser.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Airport opponent addresses proponent's letter

To the editor:

Re: May 11 letter, 'Bring on the airport,' Tina Mason.

Ms. Mason, I must say that when I started to read your letter I was already forming a rebuttal in my head because I am anti Pickering Airport. I read the first point about our property taxes tripling and I thought, 'they will triple to put the infrastructure in and then increase regularly to maintain it!'

At the second point you made, that you want jobs for your children so you can pay their mortgages, I got a little puzzled. At the third point I finally got it! You were kidding! It's just that sarcasm doesn't come across in print very well! Your third point was "cleaner air, less farming pesticide use." Ha ha ha! That's funny! You were really saying that an airport would pollute the air and tons of pesticides would be used to maintain the property for aesthetic reasons. Point four - more jobs for less-educated young people which would cut crime and poverty. Ha ha ha! There's plenty of those right now that young people won't take because they feel they deserve more!

And your final point about more hospital money was a scream! More hospital money because those living around an airport have much higher incidences of breathing problems and other health issues caused by air and ground pollution, so of course there will be more hospital money - to cover the massive increase in costs.

Perhaps you could have added a few smileys so people would have known you were only kidding - :-)

Don't stop at the voting booth

It's safe to say residents get ticked off with their elected officials. When taxes go up, it's easy to point the finger at City Council. When a neighbourhood or street is neglected, people usually blame Council. When a new development is proposed, residents often have issues with possible problems such as parking, traffic and construction.

So it was nice to see residents at a recent planning and development committee meeting share their concerns when a proposed development was about to get the go-ahead. The developer was at the meeting and said he'd take the concerns into consideration when making future plans. He even said he'd make some adjustments to the ones already in place.

This is an example of public involvement. If residents are so concerned with what's going on in and around their community, it's time to attend committee or council meetings and get their voices heard. Simply sending e-mails to councillors is one method, but they're not the only ones involved in the political process.

I attend either council, executive committee or planning and development committee each week at City Hall. And at each meeting, delegations take place. At a delegation, speakers are requested to state their full name and address, then have 10 minutes to speak. Once staff members address the concerns, they can get back to residents with either an explanation or possible solutions to the problem.

On May 24, there was a special meeting of council on Pickering's official plan. The Planning Act requires each municipality to hold such meetings at least once every five years to determine the need for revisions to the plan. For such a large topic, there weren't many people in attendance. Out of the 94,000 Pickering residents, only five took the floor to share their concerns.

The official plan is a big topic, so big that updating the plan will take about three years. That means there are many factors

staff writer

City staff has to take into consideration. If concerned residents would have come out to the meeting, staff could have kept those considerations in mind. After all, the report will set guidelines in making Pickering either a city that people want to live in and visit, or simply can't be bothered with.

The residents who did speak raised some pretty valid concerns. And whether the delegations sparked questions from some councillors and boiled blood in others, the speakers' ideas and criticisms were heard. Nearly each councillor expressed excitement about having this type of discussion. Information on the meeting was advertised in the News Advertiser, circulated to various groups and was available online. In fact, staff want public input so much that residents are encouraged to submit their official plan ideas to the planning and development department by June 30.

We're lucky to live in a country where our concerns are heard and we have the ability to attend public meetings. Our involvement in the political process should not stop immediately after we cast our vote. A little pressure on the representatives you have elected won't hurt; it will just keep them on their toes.

Ajax council told nuclear studies finished soon

AJAX — Technical studies for the possible refurbishment of four reactors at the Pickering nuclear station should be completed in the next six weeks.

Speaking to Ajax council last week, Gregory Smith, a senior vice-president at the station, said the studies should be "done by June of this year."

"The preliminary findings of these studies are there are no significant (environmental) affects," he said. "The biggest affect will be 2,000 construction workers travelling to and from the site for 10 years."

The studies are part of the environmental assessment Ontario Power Generation has to do as it prepares a business case for refurbishing the four 'B' side reactors.

Once the EA and business case are complete, they will be forwarded to the Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission, which will decide if the work can be done. Mr. Smith said the CNSC will announce a decision in 2008.

When questioned what could stop the company from proceeding, Mr. Smith said, "Purely financial. "What is the cost of the power and whether it can be sold into the market at a profit," he added, noting if the cost to refurbish the units doesn't make economic sense, "then the decision would be not to go ahead." But, Mr. Smith stated, "It's possible the Province will say it needs the power" and would want the refurbishment to proceed.

If the reactors aren't refurbished, they'll be taken out of service in about 10 years. If they're refurbished, they could operate until 2060.

Tee it up to support Girls Inc.

DURHAM — Swing the day away at the Girls Incorporated of Durham 7th Annual Charity Golf Tournament.

The event includes a delicious barbecue lunch, great silent auction, skills competition, dinner and much more. The fun is at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club, a private club with a challenging, tree-lined course.

Girls Inc. is dedicated to helping girls six to 16 years old learn about themselves and the world around them through programs and services. They teach the girls the importance of believing in themselves, following the path to a bright future and making good decisions.

The tournament is on June 7 with registration beginning at 10:30 a.m. The fee is $150 per person. The club is located at 13242 10th Line, Stouffville (just north of Markham). For more details and sponsorship information call Lori at 905-254-5131 or visit www.girlsinc-durham.org.

Whitevale group joins Relay for Life to fight cancer

Spring festival to be held this Saturday

By Kristen Calis
kcalis@durhamregion.com

PICKERING — All the night long, whether rain or shine, we're on the cancer fundraising line. We're making history, walking for victory.

These are lyrics by a group of Whitevale residents dedicated to fighting cancer. Whitevale's Rosies the Riveters (The Rosies) will participate in this year's Canadian Cancer Society's Relay for Life.

The non-competitive relay asks members to walk, stroll or run over a course for 12 hours. A tent village is also available for breaks and other activities. The event includes a survivors victory lap, where people who have overcome cancer are asked to share and celebrate success, while giving hope to others.

Team captain Janet Filer explained the relay is more than just about raising money.

"It's also a celebration of survival and life," she said. "We've got lots to celebrate and be thankful for."

2007 marks the Whitevale group's fifth trip to the relay, and it has raised over $16,000 so far.

"We don't set a particular goal," Ms. Filer said. "Everyone just does the best they can."

The Whitevale team has a new moniker each year.

Last year's was Runaway Brides, This year's comes from Rosie the Riveter, a United States icon who represents the six million women who worked in manufacturing plants during the Second World War.

"Choosing Rosie the Riveter as our theme seemed a perfect fit," member Tricia McCallum said. "The parallels are obvious. We Whitevale Rosies are fighting on a different front, of course, but it is no less a war. The foe here is cancer, and it is a treacherous one."

She explained her mother worked in munitions in Glasgow, U.K. and lost a finger.

"I was really aware of women's role in the war," she said.

Ms. McCallum later lost her mother to cancer.

Part of the event includes karaoke, and participants will then hear Rosie the Riveter. The group has taken the actual song and customized the lyrics to fit the cancer fight. Some members will carry power drills, wear work boots and head scarves. But all will be sporting the bright red lipstick and nail polish for which the icon is famous.

The Rosies lost a dear friend and team member recently, and hope to raise funds to help make cancer history.

"If events like this move us even one inch closer to outwitting cancer then anything we do is worth it," Ms. McCallum said.

The group also plans on raising money for the relay at the annual Whitevale Spring Festival on Saturday, May 26.

The Rosies will set up a vintage garage sale from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Whitevale Road (across from the church), recreating a 1940s-style kitchen, including a vintage stove, fridge, movie posters, and an ironing board.

The Rosies will also perform the song at various times throughout the day.

Relay for Life will take place at the Oshawa Civic Fields and will run from 7 p.m. on Friday, June 1 to 7 a.m. Saturday, June 2. Last year's Oshawa event raised over $410,000.

Region's line painting lasts all season on Durham roads

By Erin Hatfield
ehatfield@durhamregion.com

DURHAM — The Regional works department has started the yearly job of touching up line markings on Durham's roads.

Sprucing up existing markings and applying new ones to the thousands of kilometres of roads is a task that takes crews into the fall.

"We have been painting for a couple of weeks and we paint until October or so," explained Bruce Watson, Durham's supervisor of traffic signs and markings.

The lines are repainted once or twice a year — depending on line type, location and traffic volume — in order to restore winter damage from salt and sand and ensure good visibility and reflectivity.

Two trucks work their way through regional and municipal roads, with the exception of Scudog and Pickering, who have separate contracts.

Mr. Watson said the trucks drive at about 10 kilometres an hour, a pace he said can seem unbearably slow. Drivers are asked to be patient.

A follow-up truck travels approximately 150-to-200 metres behind the line-marking truck to allow sufficient paint drying time.

Drivers who choose to pass either the follow-up or painting truck risk damaging their vehicle. According to Mr. Watson, the paint is formulated for long wear and is embedded with glass beads. When a vehicle drives through wet paint it can splatter up against a vehicle's body or tires. In many cases, it can only be removed professionally at an auto body shop.

Since 2002 the Region has used an environmentally friendly, water-based latex paint. Mr. Watson said the oil-based paints formerly used contained volatile organic compounds that emit gases that can damage the ozone layer.

Although the provincial government hasn't legislated the use of latex paint, the Region took the opportunity to make the switch when it purchased a new truck, one that is specifically designed to spray latex paint.

"The latex is actually more durable than the oil paint," Mr. Watson said.

"Because the spring application of paint has lasted so well, we have been able to eliminate some of the fall program."

Public school primary diagnostic classes closing

Change will impact about 90 students in south Durham

By Crystal Crimi
crimi@durhamregion.com

DURHAM — A Whitby mother says cancelling primary diagnostic classes in Durham public schools will hurt kids, a claim school board officials deny.

When school ends in June, so will the Durham District School Board's nine remaining primary diagnostic classes. The approximately 12 students identified as exceptional in each will be integrated into regular classrooms.

"Kids in that class have language difficulties; we have students with learning disabilities, autism spectrum disorders... so we have a variety of exceptionals as the government defines," said Martyn Beckett, the board's superintendent of special education.

Parent Catherine Wood said "it's ridiculous" for the board to be closing the classes. The integration will put a bigger burden on teachers and other students in the mainstream classes, as well as hurt those removed from them, she added.

Currently, she has one child in a primary language class, one in a Grade 7 learning strategies class, and another struggling in Grade 1. With the primary diagnostic class cancelled, she won't have it as an option for her youngest. About 90 students are impacted by the changes, said Mr. Beckett. The class cancellation is part of recommendations in the board's special education review, approved in 2005. It also fits into the Province's education for all initiatives, which require more inclusive practices. Mr. Beckett said primary diagnostic classes were introduced in the 1980s when primary class sizes were larger and there wasn't a lot of special education training. Now primary class sizes are smaller with most having 20 students or less, he added. In reviewing the program, they realized they can do better now, Mr. Beckett said.

The board began removing diagnostic programs a few years ago through north Durham pilot projects and has had success, said Mr. Beckett. "The benefit to students is education in an inclusive environment," said Mr. Beckett. "It lets them go to a school where their friends go to school." Some students have long bus rides to get to a school that offers the regional class.

Mr. Beckett said smaller primary class sizes, teacher training to accommodate a variety of learning styles, and projects to address students whose skill level requires more support are accompanying class cancellations.

"We've got things happening at multiple levels," he said.

The board is also reviewing the role of special education resource teachers to create a better model of support and redistribute them from the primary diagnostic class to other schools. Ms. Wood was not convinced the changes are for the better. "I'd like to see them keep the classes open and see the kids succeed," she said. "These kids have been identified for a reason and they should not be overlooked."

In the regular classes, some will struggle and fall behind, hurting their self-esteem, said Ms. Wood.

"In a special class, you have at the most 12 (students) with a teacher and an (educational assistant)," said Ms. Wood. "Huge difference and the kids are taught at a level they need to be taught at." Mr. Beckett said the board has the experience of working with schools in the north to have the confidence to move forward in good fashion.

Nuclear environmental studies finished soon

AJAX — Technical studies for the possible refurbishment of four reactors at the Pickering nuclear station should be completed in the next six weeks.

Speaking to Ajax council last week, Gregory Smith, a senior vice-president at the station, said the studies should be "done by June of this year."

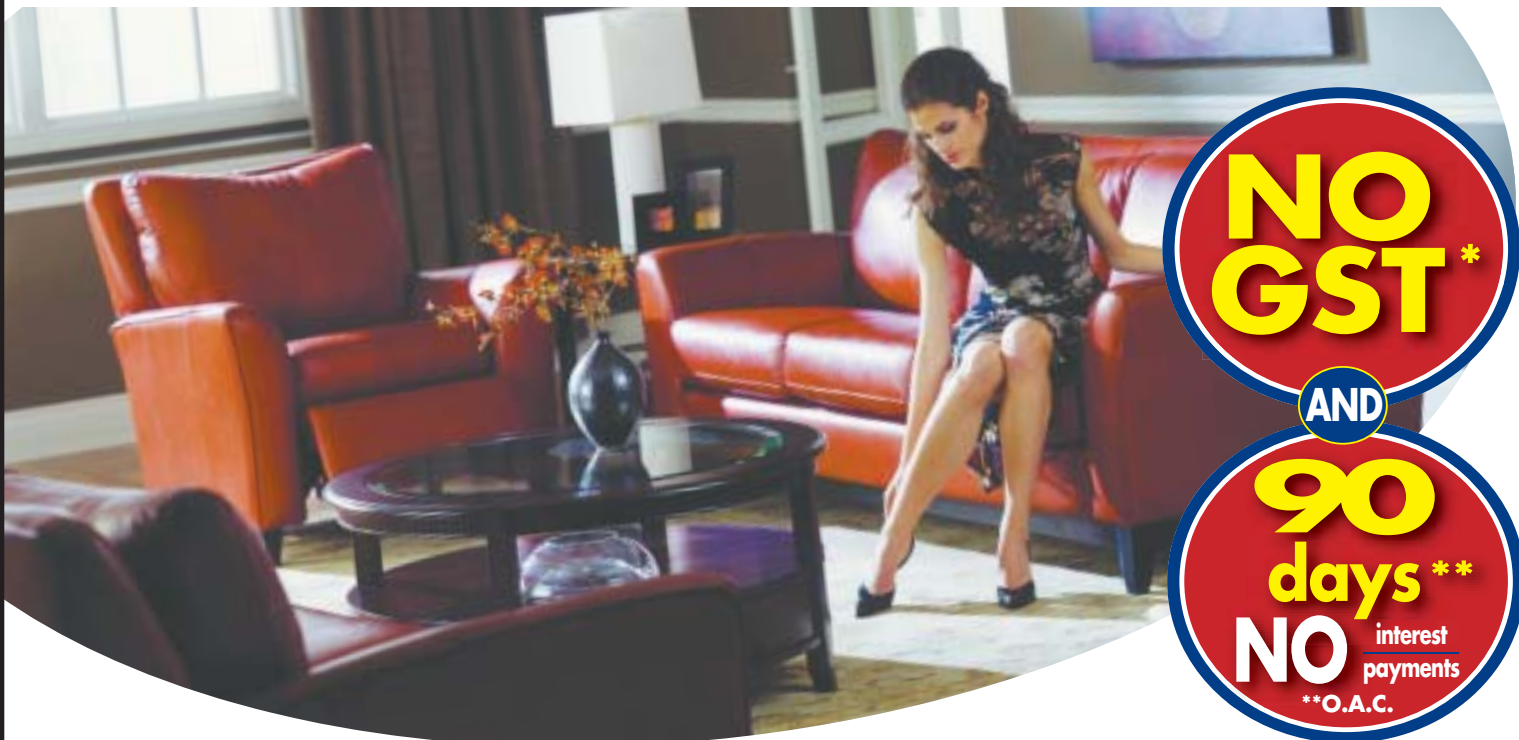

"The preliminary findings of these studies are there are no significant (environmental) affects," he said. "The biggest affect will be 2,000 construction workers travelling to and from the site for 10 years." The studies are part of the environmental assessment Ontario Power Generation has to do as it prepares a business case for refurbishing the four 'B' side reactors. Once the EA and business case are complete, they will be forwarded to the Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission, which will decide if the work can be done. Mr. Smith said the CNSC will announce a decision in 2008. When questioned what could stop the company from proceeding, Mr. Smith said, "Purely financial."

"What is the cost of the power and whether it can be sold into the market at a profit," he added, noting if the cost to refurbish the units doesn't make economic sense, "then the decision would be not to go ahead."

But, Mr. Smith stated, "It's possible the Province will say it needs the power" and would want the refurbishment to proceed. If the reactors aren't refurbished, they'll be taken out of service in about 10 years. If they're refurbished, they could operate until 2060.

Durham university gets a royal hand from the bank

DURHAM — The Royal Bank of Canada is helping Durham's university pay off its debt. In recognition of RBC's $250,000 donation, the University of Ontario Institute of Technology (UOIT) recently unveiled a conference room named after the bank. The donation, made about a year ago but only announced this May, includes annual instalments of $50,000 until 2011. David Chambers, vice president of advancement for UOIT, said the money is going to help pay for classrooms already built through a debenture. The room unveiled in recognition of RBC includes a commemorative plaque outside the space used for mee informations related to the faculty of business and information technology and management development centre.

Creative container gardens bring beauty to small spaces

By Kari Smith

Warm weather is beckoning and as a gardener you can't wait to get your hands in the dirt. If you don't have time or space for a big garden, don't despair. Try container gardening.

Creativity is the key to container gardening. You're limited only by your imagination. Old wheelbarrows, interesting antiques, discarded dishes and even old pair of boots can hold potting soil and a plant. The trick to keeping soil inside these improvised containers is lining the bottom with a layer of landscape fabric like Weedblock.

Good soil, adequate moisture and proper nutrition are essential for healthy plants. Fertilizer spikes are an effortless way to feed container gardens. Jobe's makes a special formula for potted plants and hanging baskets. Information is available toll-free at 1-800-327-9462.

Did you know that container gardening can help you avoid costly landscaping mistakes? If there is an unusual plant or flower you've always wanted to plant but weren't sure it would grow well where you live, try it in a container. You can purchase a couple at a time and see how they do.

Another plus to container gardening is versatility. If you don't like where you've placed your "garden" simply pick it up and move it. If you don't like the way your plants look as they're grouped together, rearrange them. What could be easier?

The next time you find yourself longing for beautiful flowers or itching to try an exotic new plant, give those green thumbs a workout with container gardening.

"Home Spa" trend leads to excess moisture concerns

For many Canadians the bathroom has taken on a whole new role. It has gone from a functional sanitary place to a spa-like sanctuary. It is now the room of choice in which to relax, rejuvenate and recharge from our frenetic daily lives.

The new trend is to establish a wellness room in the master bathroom where innovative spa-like tools such as air jet baths and therapeutic shower units deliver short and long-term health benefits.

One can now spend hours on end soaking in the luxury of an air jet bath filled with essential oils, mud or salts. This therapeutic refuge may be doing wonders for your body and soul but it may be creating long-term problems for your home's indoor air quality.

Unless your bathroom is properly ventilated your steamy mirrors, damp walls and fogged windows are more than just annoying, they could indicate developing problems like mold and mildew, ruined insulation, and wood rot. Spot ventilation solutions from manufacturers like Broan can clear the air quickly and efficiently, removing potential problems before they invite themselves into your home.

Today's homes are built airtight for efficiency. But that means moisture and airborne pollutants stay where they are unless they are vented away. Eliminating excess moisture keeps your home dry and comfortable and can help avoid mold and mildew. Volatile organic compounds (VOCs), "outgas" from construction materials as well as allergens, dust, cooking vapour and what the kids bring home from school are more reasons why good ventilation is critical. "Often times customers are confused by what they need in order to adequately ventilate the bathroom," explained Matthew Cripps Product manager bath fans for Broan-NuTone Canada. "Using a simple rule of thumb, one sq. ft. equals a need of one CFM, therefore an average bathroom of 100 sq. ft. would require a minimum of 100 CFM to get proper ventilation."

Other things to consider when buying a bath fan or home ventilation system are quiet operation, blower power, and decorative design or you may want something that's virtually invisible.

Conventional fans are noisier and less visually appealing than newer products like the Broan Quiet Series Fans, Cripps added. The Quiet Series Fans offer extremely quiet operation while also consuming less energy ultimately costing less over time. And this is important if you're going to spend all your time reconnecting in your new bathroom spa. More information on bath fans can be found at www.broan.ca.

"Really impressed"

After going to a well-known, large retailer and realizing that route was too complicated, Art and Madeleine Simpson made an appointment to visit Superior Bath Reno's showroom. When they arrived, it didn't take long to notice the Superior difference. "I just had a warm feeling," remembers Mrs. Simpson, "and we were really impressed with their work." As for the finished job, Mrs. Simpson says it "brightened the room right up." Madeleine adds that the buying process was easy because the Superior Bath Reno team is always open to new ideas and available to answer questions.

"Met the challenge"

Think bathroom renovations are simple? Think again. There are many different ways you can personalize your bathrooms – that's why Michael Khan decided to work with a retailer specializing in bathroom renovations. That led him to Superior Bath Reno and Shelley Webb, the tiny perfect bathroom makeover specialist. "I told her how much I wanted to spend (on three bathrooms) and she met the challenge," notes Mr. Khan. He was also quick to add that Shelley was patient and helpful while he evaluated all the options for colour, counter, and tile.

"Quality workmanship and fixtures"

Wade Bissel, who has a condo in Ajax, chose Superior Bath Reno after he visited the company's showroom and met Shelley Webb, one of the partners in the company. "I really enjoyed speaking with Shelley," says Mr. Bissel. "She was so easy going and she had an answer for all my questions." The finished bathroom makeover was so impressive Mr. Bissel showed it to his friends. "They so immediately noticed the quality of the workmanship and the fixtures." Mr. Bissel plans to call Superior Bath Reno when it is time to renovate his kitchen. Yes, Superior Bath Reno also does kitchen renovations – and has a kitchen model in its showroom. Superior Bath Reno is located at 31 Barr Rd., Unit #4 in Ajax. To arrange an appointment, call 905-426-1714 or visit the company's web site: www.superiorbath.ca

Rejuvenate your lawn and gardens with quality soils

Spring is finally here! Now is the perfect time to rejuvenate your lawn, spruce up your garden with nutrient-rich soil, and make your dreams of expanding your living space into the outdoors a reality. Arnts Topsoil, The Landscape Supplier has been the source for landscaping supplies in Durham Region and GTA for over 40 years.

Using a high quality topdressing soil is the key to a green, healthy lawn you can enjoy through the summer and fall. Topdressing and seeding your lawn will keep your turf thick which helps it resist insects and weeds. Arnts Topsoil's Topdressing is a fine blend of Sandy Loam, Peatloam for moisture retention, composted manure for nutrient value, and composted pine mulch fines to lower the pH to an optimum growing range. Begin by raking the lawn to remove thatch. Spread a 1/4 to 1/2 inch of Arnts' premium Topdressing soil on your existing lawn. Spread grass seed (several choices are available depending on the application site), rake lightly, and follow with a deep and infrequent watering schedule. Early morning is the best time to water the lawn.

Adding fresh triple mix soil to your gardens each spring gives your plants a good boost to start the growing season. But not all triple mixes are created equal. Arnts Topsoil understands the importance of having a good soil foundation for a garden. Arnts' Triple Mix Garden Soil is composed of just the right blend of quality ingredients to form the basis for a flourishing garden.

In addition to a wide variety of soils and aggregates, Arnts Topsoil also provides the best selection of natural flagstone and rockery, decorative gravels, interlocking paving stones and garden walls, slabs, curbs, steps, pond supplies, and much more.

This extensive product selection, combined with an abundance of visual displays, inspires creative ideas for distinctive landscape designs. Helpful staff, brochures and videos, Do-It-Yourself Seminars, and services such as delivery, equipment rental, and free estimates are available to help you through every step of your project.

Arnts will be hosting a free Unilock Do-It-Yourself Seminar on June 23 at 10 a.m., held at 4400 Halls RD. N. in Whitby demonstrating the installation of interlocking pavers and garden walls. Unilock products will be 10 per cent off from June 23 to June 27.

College gets $1 million to develop new nursing program

E-learning solution starts this September

By Crystal Crimi
ccrimi@durhamregion.com

DURHAM — A $1 million cheque is putting critical care training improvements in Durham College's hands.

The ministry of health and long-term care recently announced it is contracting Durham College (DC) to design an e-learning nursing solution for Ontario as part of its critical care strategy. The new program is intended to increase the quality of nursing in the province.

"I believe they will use the evaluation to make decisions for future financial funding or spending on similar areas of health care," said Judy Robinson, the school of health and community services' dean.

DC starts the new training model for its Critical Care Nursing E-Learning Graduate Certificate program Sept. 4 and will be evaluating its effectiveness.

The program includes on-line theoretical courses, allowing students to learn at their own pace and location.

Following the e-learning component, students participate in simulation training at DC or one of its many partner post-secondary institutions in Ontario, and finish with hands-on job experience.

Ms. Robinson said the shortage of well-educated nurses in critical care is projected to increase through retirements and relocations. The average age of Ontario's nurses is 47 and they're retiring earlier than expected, said Sandra Goldsworthy, nursing professor and program co-ordinator.

"This program is not just for new nurses, it's also for mid-career nurses who have never had the chance to go back to school," said Ms. Goldsworthy.

Hospitals will have to start hiring novice nurses to work in the departments or provide training to existing nurses in different departments.

Building the capacity of critically care trained nurses will help keep more beds open, said Ms. Robinson. She added it will also build capacity for surge beds by increasing the scope of nurses working outside the intensive care unit so they are ready to handle a pandemic such as SARS.

"And the shortage of nurses we talked about is not unique to Ontario, it's worldwide," said Ms. Robinson.

The critical care e-learning program shows the urgency of the situation, Ms. Goldsworthy said.

She said the program will allow nurses to go back to school and gain critical-care training, as well as providing new nurses with a standardized education in critical care.

She added the program could have national and international implications because of its unique delivery.

Along with a speciality consultant and core people in development, critical nurses and nurse educators help ensure the curriculum is up to date and will meet industry needs.

The new DC program is already receiving inquiries and generating excitement, said Ms. Goldsworthy.

Ms. Robinson said initial dialogue about the need for such a program and government support began in January last year and soon after, DC submitted its application for the project.

"We at DC have a strong critical-care program here and technological focus; we were fairly confident," said Ms. Goldsworthy. The $1 million is for design and development of the curriculum, which has to meet provincial standards for critical care.

Durham College has received $1 million from the Ministry of Health and Long Term Care to create a critical care nursing, e-learning program for the province. This cutting edge program will train health-care professionals in a simulated life-like environment, based on a wide variety of scenarios that will make the students more comfortable, capable and competent in dealing with medical situations in the real world.

Roads a priority for Durham in 2007

By Erin Hatfield
ehatfield@durhamregion.com

DURHAM — Roads are rocky in parts of the Region, but smoothing them out is a priority in this year's proposed roads budget.

"We are actually fairing a little worse than other regional municipalities in terms of roads," said the Region's commissioner of works, Cliff Curtis. "We went through a number of years where the roads were severely underfunded back in the 90s. When times get tough that is one of the areas that gets cut back."

The Region of Durham runs a road network of 832 centre line kilometres, 2,115 lane kilometres and 211 bridges and culverts. Of it, 13 per cent is rated as being in critical and 13 per cent in poor condition.

According to Mr. Curtis, that's why roads were made a priority by Regional council about five years ago.

"I pitched it fairly hard when I took the commissioner's job," he said.

"It wasn't being paid attention to at the level it needed to be."

Maintaining roads is an extremely expensive endeavour, according to Mr. Curtis. Property tax funding for roads has increased from $5 million in 1998 to $25 million in 2007.

"The remainder comes from development charges or contributions from developers," he said.

"Sometimes we will do work for developers in conjunction with our road programs at 100 per cent their cost."

The Region is asking the provincial government to provide the same level of funding as last year, $10.8 million, but Mr. Curtis said he isn't counting on that money.

"We will see, but I think that was a one-time deal. But, it never hurts to ask," Mr. Curtis said.

The proposed 2007 road program gives priority to expansion projects in four major corridors: Taunton Road, Harmony Road, Brock Road and Bayly/ Victoria/ Bloor streets.

"They aren't the worst off but they are fairly heavy commuter routes. They are fairly choked with traffic and need to be widened," Mr. Curtis said.

Of the $41.8 million capital road program, 45 per cent of the funding is targeted for major construction projects and 25 per cent for the construction of six major road expansion projects and two bridges.

Topping out the large construction projects is nearly $9 million on three separate projects on Taunton Road and a $7-million project on Victoria Street (South Blair Street - east of Thickson Road).

Despite best efforts to try to maintain the Regional Roads Mr. Curtis said they are slipping a bit. But, looking ahead, he said roads will continue to be a priority through to 2011 with the total capital budget for 2008 to 2011 set at $200 million.

To achieve these annual contributions the roads reserve must increase, growth forecasts need to be achieved and the cost of capital projects can't materially exceed current estimates.

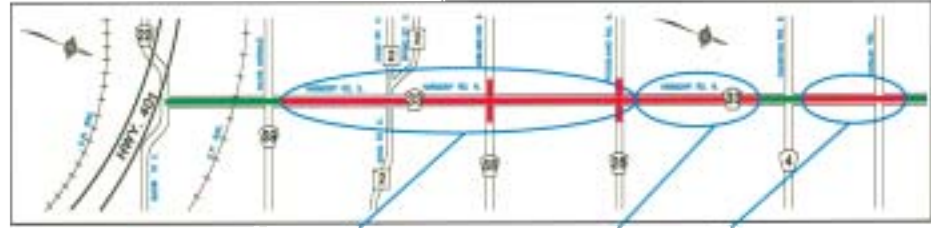

According to Mr. Curtis, an annual investment of $16 million is required to sustain Durham's roads and prevent further decline in overall condition, although this year's budget proposes a $10 million investment.

"I think we have generally good political support for that program," he said.

The financing study projects the road rehabilitation program will receive $16 million in funding by 2011.

The Young Singers' 15-year musical journey

Mark anniversary with June 2 concert

By Mike Ruta
mruta@durhamregion.com

DURHAM — "Lift your lips off your teeth," Anna Lynn Murphy tells her charges at a Young Singers rehearsal in Ajax.

It's a seemingly strange direction, but understandable given the 28 young people, the Treble Notes, are singing a lot of words in quick succession as they rehearse 'Ice Cream'. In one section of the piece, the musical director points out that the singing sounds like "a nasal kind of New York City accent." Murphy then imitates and exaggerates the accent, and the singers break out in laughter.

It's that combination of striving for perfection and having fun at the same time that marks the Young Singers. The youths were preparing for a number of engagements early this year, including their 15th anniversary concert on June 2 in Whitby. The photo on the concert poster shows an idyllic rural scene, and Murphy says it wasn't chosen by accident.

"It's a place they want to be," she says. "It's a place that gives them pleasure and a good feeling. That's what you feel like in Young Singers."

The Singers started humbly enough when Murphy began looking for a choir for her daughter to sing in, but found none. Today, the Singers have an impressive resume under their belt. They've sung for Queen Elizabeth II, the prime minister, the premier and the Governor General, among many other dignitaries. They count Canadian comedy icon Don Harron (aka Charlie Farquharson) as a friend, and he'll be joining them at the anniversary concert, aptly titled The Journey.

The Young Singers is actually four choirs. The YoungER Singers are for six- to eight-year-olds, while the Treble Notes are for eight- to 12-year-olds. Both are non-audition choirs. The Director's Choir is for young people 10 to 15 and the Random Notes for youth anywhere from 14 to the mid 20s. Young people must audition to become a member of these choirs. The singers come from across Durham and even farther afield.

At the same rehearsal, Murphy notes it's been two weeks since they've been together. When parents wave, she reminds them, don't wave back.

"Do you ignore them?" she asks. "Yeeees," the singers reply.

Some of you are auditioning for the Director's Choir, Murphy notes.

Ron Pietroniro/ News Advertiser photos

"One of the things we're looking for is focus," she says.

Focus, commitment, poise. They're words Murphy uses a lot in the interview. When singers, even seven-year-olds, take the stage, they're in "performance mode" and are expected to be professional. Asked how she imparts these qualities to such young performers, Murphy doesn't hesitate.

"I do it through music," she says. "All of the children are here because they want to be; they have a love of music. I'm giving them musical opportunities, choral experiences."

Discipline is another frequently heard word.

"To get to where they want to be on that performance stage, it means there are some expectations for them," Murphy says.

David Harrison of Brooklin, whose twins Sarah and Rachel Harrison, 9, are Treble Notes members, describes Murphy as "demanding but sensitive" in working with the kids. They've been members for two years, and he's already seen a change in the girls.

"We've just noticed with our two that it helps with poise and confidence and being part of a team," says Harrison. "We've really seen them blossom."

He says the girls are "always eager" to go to rehearsals and performances, noting there's also been a difference between the first and second year of their involvement.

"I think I've seen in their second year in the choir, they're a little more serious," he says.

Sarah says she saw two Young Singers concerts and "liked how they sang," so she wanted to join. She describes Murphy as "nice" and encouraging.

Rachel says performing is her favourite part of being in the Young Singers. And, while she was nervous singing in front of an audience for the first time, "now I'm pretty used to it."

Cassidy Lewis, 10, of Ajax, had been in television commercials before so she's pretty accustomed to being in the spotlight. In addition to being on stage singing, she especially likes the opportunity to meet new people.

Rachel says she plans to audition for the Director's Choir when she's old enough. For Cassidy, that's this year. Asked what it'll take to make the choir, she says she'll have to remember all she's learned up until now.

Rachel says she enjoyed performing at a senior's residence, since it was just the Treble Notes on stage.

"It was really great," Cassidy says, smiling as she remembers a senior who enjoyed the music so much he got up and started dancing.

Murphy says since the community has been so good to the Young Singers, it's important for the kids to give something back, and understand why they do it.

In forming the Young Singers with former accompanist Bill Swerdfeger, she says it was the Town of Ajax that was the third partner and co-founder. In the first year, Murphy says she "literally went up and down my street... and begged my friends to let their kids sing." There were 23 Young Singers in the beginning.

"Within two years, we were bursting at the seams," Murphy says.

As of a couple of years ago, she says 600 youngsters had been Young Singers.

When the Singers early on had to find a new rehearsal space, she approached people at Holy Trinity Anglican Church, and "Saint Richard," also known as Reverend Richard Newland, came to the rescue. In 2002, the Singers amicably split from the Town, becoming a not-for-profit, charitable organization.

Beyond the journey that the Singers have taken as group, there are individual ones as well.

"One of my greatest joys is seeing the child who struggles through and works so hard to attain a level," Murphy says. "You see their progress and they see their progress."

Murphy says the anniversary concert will feature a broad range of material, from Bach to Billy Joel. As a special treat, alumni members will also perform.

The concert is Saturday, June 2 at 7 p.m. at Hebron Christian Reformed Church, 4240 Anderson St., Whitby. Tickets are $15 in advance and $20 at the door. For tickets, call 905-686-9821.

Multiple golds highlight LOSSA track and field

Annual high school championships yield plenty of success

DURHAM — Each year, the LOSSA track and field championships manage to produce multiple gold medal winners, and this year was no different.

In all, 15 local athletes from Oshawa, Whitby and Clarington, to Ajax, Pickering and Port Perry captured at least two first place individual medals during the annual event held at Civic Fields in Oshawa.

As usual, Ajax and Pickering sent a strong contingent of athletes to LOSSA and returned home with multiple gold medals hanging off their necks.

At the top of that list was Pickering High School's Christine Exeter who picked up firsts in the midget women's 100m and 200m dash, while adding another in the women's midget 80m hurdles.

A couple of Pickering High teammates each scored a pair of golds as well. Adriana Allen crossed the line first in both the junior 100m and 200m dash.

Pickering High's Preston Farrell claimed top spot in the 100m and 300m men's midget hurdles.

St. Mary Catholic Secondary School product Charles Forbes sprinted his way to gold in the senior men's 100m and 200m dash events.

Madelin Snowden of Notre Dame Catholic Secondary School flexed a little muscle, grabbing first in the senior women's discus throw and senior women's shot put.

The top five in each event advanced to the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations (OFSAA) Central Regional Meet next Wednesday and Thursday at York University, with the hope of reaching the OFSAA provincial finals from June 7 to 9 in Ottawa.

For a list of top-five LOSSA finishers, visit www.sportsdurhamregion.com.

Trojans' girls make LOSSA track history

Pickering High athletes set the pace at championships

AJAX — With the Pickering High School Trojans boys' track and field being dominant over the past two decades, it was time for the girls to step into the spotlight. And, the Trojans' 23-member girls' team put its depth and talent on display in making history at the Lake Ontario Secondary School Athletics (LOSSA) Track and Field Championships at the Civic Stadium in Oshawa on Tuesday and Wednesday. The distaff athletes sprinted off with six of a possible nine LOSSA team championships, including the overall girls' team title -- a first for the Trojans.

All told, the Trojans marched off with six team titles, the biggest of which being the overall team championship. Pickering High accumulated 597.5 overall points, with Notre Dame of Ajax a distant second with 372.5 points. Other team titles included the midget girls' division, midget boys' division, junior boys' division, the overall boys' title and the co-ed team championship.

Trojans' athletes collected 16 gold, 15 silver, and 11 bronze medals, while qualifying 37 (17 girls, 20 boys) for the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations (OFSAA) Central Region Championships at York University on May 30 and 31.

Painful landing

PICKERING — Pine Ridge Secondary School's Amber Cushnie grimaces in pain after stumbling while landing her hurdle in the open girls' 1500-metre steeplechase event at the Lake Ontario Secondary School Athletics (LOSSA) Track and Field Championships at Oshawa's Civic Stadium on Tuesday.

Trojans' hoopsters march off to Lethbridge for collegiate play

Spence, Thomas-James commit to Pronghorns

AJAX — Two players from the reigning Ontario 'AAAA' boys' high school basketball championship squad will be playing elsewhere next season. Sephton Spence and Brandon Thomas-James, graduating seniors from the Pickering High School Trojans, have committed to play for the University of Lethbridge Pronghorns men's basketball team in the fall.

According to Lethbridge head coach Mike Connolly, the pair should pay immediate dividends for the university hoops program.

"They played on a very deep Pickering team and probably flew a little under the radar because of that, but I really like their athleticism and commitment to the team success," said Connolly, in a press release, of his newest recruits. "Coming from a successful team and a winning environment is very important to what we are trying to do here."

Spence, a six-foot, 4-inch forward, is a two-sport star who was also recruited by universities for football, but has opted for basketball. Connolly says Spence should help the Pronghorns in a variety of ways.

"He can really attack the rim on offence and is so strong and athletic he will be able to guard multiple positions," says Connolly.

Meanwhile, Thomas-James, a six-foot, six-inch forward, should be a defensive stalwart for the Pronghorns as a player with length and athleticism. He can also step out and hit the three, but can also attack the rim, too.

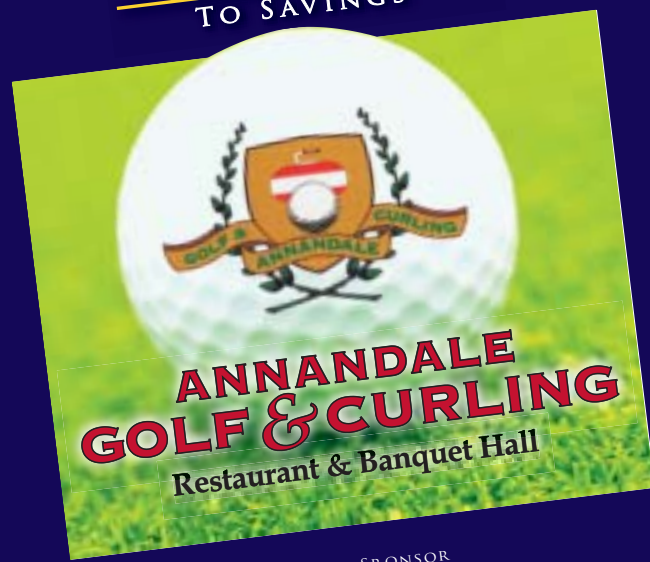

"I really liked his commitment to defence and helping his team win," stated Connolly. "During the Ontario Championship game, he drew seven charges and is a great defender on the wing."
