The Hon. Norm Cafik, Minister of Multi-Cultural Affairs, went down to defeat in Tuesday's federal election.

Auto Canada At Museum

The Canadian Automotive Museum, which opened its doors in September of 1963, offers a unique opportunity to view an outstanding collection of cars dating from 1898 to the present and beyond.

The Canadian Automotive Museum recently announced plans to construct Auto Canada, a new Automotive Museum Complex.

In the new expanded facility, the museum's growing collection of vintage vehicles will take on a new and dynamic appearance as they are displayed in the true to life settings of their own times.

Moving decade by decade through the evolution of the industry, you will reflect upon the past, meet with the present and leap into a future presented by prototype action models, animated film and special effects that will carry you as far as your mind can travel.

The new site will be four acres acquired in 1978 on the south side of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway, west of Oshawa, with ready access to highway and rail transportation service.

Presently, six students are involved in "Operation Exposure", a project designed to acquaint the Canadian public with the new museum.

They will have an exhibition of antique cars and the new museum plans at Sheridan Mall, Pickering, from Wed. May 30 to Sat. June 2.

Seeks 2nd Year Of Operation

The East Central Ontario Development Foundation which is the CMHC sponsored Community Resource Organization Group within Durham Region set up to assist in the development of non-profit and co-operative housing will be seeking its second year of operation under CMHC auspices.

This group governed by a local community Board including Brian Evans, Garry Kent, Jerry Frechette, Blain Lalonde, Paul Fisher, Ted Hogeterp, Marvin Bader and including representatives from such groups as Steve Lurie, Mental Health Durham is set up under the CROP program to guarantee the best features of private management and public monitoring.

It was set up with Federal assistance to meet an apparent gap in service delivery for the area.

For its first year it has completed two projects, East Whitby Co-operative Homes in Whitby housing 90 families and Father Lawlor Co-operative Homes in Oshawa housing 91 families.

Currently it will be operating under the guidelines of a new Federal Non-profit Housing program which improves upon many features of older programs and seems an attractive alternative to many other current housing approaches.

Greater Emphasis Given Energy

Ontario will launch new initiatives for the development of energy-from-waste systems in the province.

Expanding on the speech from the Throne, Energy Minister James Auld said the province has set as a target the recovery of the energy equivalent of 4 million barrels of oil annually by 1990 from solid wastes, primarily municipal garbage and forest waste.

The Ministry of Energy has been designated as the lead government agency for the development of energy-from-waste projects.

The Throne Speech announced that through the Ontario Energy Corporation, support will be given to energy-related business development, including energy from waste projects. Changes will be made in the financing and organization of the Energy Corporation to enable it to take a more active role.

Earlier this year, Mr. Auld announced Ministry funds have been made available for the development of proposals to recover energy from municipal garbage in the City of North Bay and in Metropolitan Toronto. Ontario has offered to contribute up to $500,000 for the design and economic evaluation of a plant that could burn up to one-third of Metro's garbage. Project development is expected to cost up to $2 million. The Province also agreed to pay half the cost of the $50,000 study for North Bay.

"In addition to municipal garbage, we plan to explore the potential for energy recovery from wood waste, agricultural waste, and sewage. There is also potential for heat recovery from nuclear power stations and large industrial processes," he said.

Mr. Auld said that to meet the 1990 target would require the construction of eight to 10 plants burning 1,000 tons a day of solid waste or a larger number of smaller plants.

"To achieve this will require the commitment of municipalities, the private sector and most probably the financial assistance of the Federal Government," he said. "Our job is to help identify locations where successful plants could be built and to bring together sources of financing."

Provincial funds will be available to assist in determining the economic viability of a proposed project where there is a secure supply of waste, where proven technology can be applied and there is a long-term market for the recovered energy.

Mr. Auld said energy recovery will go some way to contributing to the solution of municipal waste disposal problems and at the same time help conserve non-renewable resources. Of 21 resource recovery plants in operation in the United States, 19 are either exclusively or primarily designed to recover energy. But, he added, energy recovery plants will never totally eliminate the need for landfill as a means of disposing of municipal waste.

"I look forward to the day when I can announce further commitments and developments in this important field," he said.

Among the projects currently being examined are: a proposal to incinerate 700,000 tons - about one-third of Metro's garbage in the 1980's - to provide heat for a district heating network.

A plan to recover energy from Metro's Commissioners Street Incinerator now burning garbage and a study of the economics of recovering heat from new sewage sludge disposal units to be installed at the Ashbridges Bay sewage treatment plant we also slated for Toronto.

Preliminary discussions with municipalities and the private sector are underway for projects in four other locations in the province.

Mr. Auld said an objective of his Ministry is to provide support for research, development and demonstration work to bring new energy-from-waste processes to a commercially viable stage.

One demonstration project, Watts from Waste - a plan to convert garbage in Metro to refuse derived fuel for burning on a 2-year experimental basis in Ontario Hydro's Lakeview Generating Station - will be re-examined due to cost escalation and technological problems in plants in the U.S. using similar processes. An engineering review of options will be undertaken.

Travel Balancing

The Bank of Montreal's May Business Review says that after a series of unprecedented deficits, Canada has a good chance to chalk up a substantial improvement in its international travel account.

Economy Same As '78

The Canadian economy is likely to grow this year at about the same rate as in 1978, but a slowdown could occur towards the end of the year, according to Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

In their most recent short-term economic forecast, published today in a Canadian Business Conditions Report, Commerce economists say the relative contribution to growth of Canada's domestic and external sectors will likely shift in 1979.

"In 1978, growth in the constant-dollar volume of exports contributed substantially to the increase in GNP growth, with healthy increases in both the merchandise and non-merchandise subcomponents. Through 1979, it is expected that business fixed investment will make a greater contribution and that, on balance, relatively more of the ternational travel account.

Canada's net travel balance remained stable with usually a modest deficit from 1950 until the mid-'70s. The deficit then tripled in 1975, jumped 64 percent in 1976 and increased a further 38 percent in 1977. But last year, the increase slowed to five percent and actually declined on a seasonally adjusted basis in each of the last two quarters.

This trend towards reduced deficits should continue, the Review says, since travel costs in Canada are now rising less rapidly than in the U.S. This should result in an upturn in visits by Americans, especially if the U.S. escapes a recession. In addition, visits by Europeans and Japanese have developed strong growth patterns.

Meanwhile, continued slow growth in real income and a relatively low dollar, which adds to the costs of foreign travel, are expected to keep more Canadians at home. If Canadian travel industry costs can be controlled and travel facilities improved and expanded, tourist expenditures in Canada should show strong growth.

However, while Canada's balance of payments may improve and a strengthening of the travel industry could occur, Canadians have demonstrated a fondness for travel, too strong, in fact, to eliminate future travel deficits. Like West Germany, whose citizens spend proportionately more on international travel than any other nation, Canada will remain a country which spends heavily on travelling abroad and runs a substantial travel deficit.

growth impetus will come from domestic sources," the Commerce explains.

Commerce economists foresee the following for 1979: - real GNP growth of approximately 3.5 percent; a decline in volume growth of exports; a tight fiscal policy environment; increased business non-residential fixed investment; slightly higher personal expenditures on goods and services; a less severe decline in the volume of residential construction; moderate increases in government spending; slower employment growth; and, continued high unemployment and inflation rates.

"In summary, the economic outlook for the year as a whole appears rather mediocre. With inflation and unemployment expected to remain high throughout the period, 1979 will challenge the ingenuity of government policy makers operating on limited budgets. And a slowing U.S. economy in late 1979 and early 1980 is expected to bring some further problems as a reduced rate of growth in our exports begins to constrain our own economic performance," says the Commerce.

Aid Conservation

A provincial grant of $6,270,000 to the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority will assist a comprehensive three-year water and related land management program planned by the Authority.

In announcing approval of the grant, Natural Resources Minister James A.C. Auld noted that the program will include construction of flood control channels and works to control or stabilize river bank erosion. In addition, flood plain and headwater land areas will continue to be acquired and the Authority plans to develop an effective flood warning and forecasting system.

Included are water control improvements to the Highland Creek system resulting from the 1976 floods, stream channel improvements on Duffin Creek near Stouffville and construction of a water control channel on the Humber River at Oak Ridges.

The three-year program will also feature reforestation and forestry management on Authority and privately-owned lands as well as shrub planting, stream improvements and land use planning services for private landowners.

Ontario aids Toronto region-2.
Total estimated cost is $11,400,000.

William Parish, Director of Education for Scarborough, was delighted and impressed with the technical skills, knowledge and sensitivity which photographer-naturalist, Noel Keenan, displayed in his first book, A DAY IN THE WOODS.

Agility Needed In Wildlife Photography

Warden Woods photographer, Noel Keenan says agility is one of the requirements for wildlife photography. It requires "90 percent patience and 1010 percent technique," he told people who came to his recent autographing party. Mr. Keenan photographed the pictures in the recently published "A Day in the Woods" and Warden Woods residents as well as Director of Education, William Parish, newly elected MPP, William Johnson, and others attended the autographing party.

Mr. Keenan began his photographic adventures in his backyard 15 years ago. Pictures in "A Day in the Woods" were all taken in the Warden Woods area and Mr. Keenan's son Rory helped in the process that took three summers. Mr. Keenan is concerned about preserving the small pockets of wildlife in Scarborough's ravines and wooded areas.

Kid's Guide Toronto By Subway

Don't have time to take your children on all those educational trips you'd like to this summer? "The Ronald McDonald Kid's Guide To Toronto By Subway" has been created to fill this need by a Centennial College team consisting of a student, a graduate/faculty member, and a staff member.

The guide includes a description and drawing of each of thirty-three different places that children ages 8 to 14 would enjoy, and easy-to-read directions and maps illustrating how to get to each place by T.T.C.

The small, soft-cover guide also lists the hours and admission prices for the various centres of interest, which include the Royal Ontario Museum, The Art Gallery of Ontario, the Science Centre, the Metro Zoo, and local libraries.

"The Ronald McDonald

Kid's Guide To Toronto By Subway" will be sold at all Toronto McDonald's restaurant locations this summer, at 25¢ per copy.

An exhibition of student sculpture, drawings and paintings opens Fri. May 25 at the Community Gallery at York Quay Centre. The Art Fair, designed to provide a public forum for budding young artists, runs until June 3. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

BITTER SWEET MEMORIES: Incredible as it might seem, Edith Piaf has been dead for sixteen years. Your correspondent was one of the last people in Canada to see her perform. I can still feel the way she could wrench your heart and - yes, your gut, with the raw intensity of her singing.

So, the show currently at the St. Lawrence Centre - Edith Piaf, Je Vous Aime was one to which I particularly looked forward. I was not disappointed. Now, make no mistake about it friends, this show does not give you an imitation of the performing art of the late Mlle. Piaf. She was and remains inimitable. But you will see a superb evocation of her public life and private emotions.

There are four singers - Libby Morris, Liliane Stilwell, Barry Stilwell and Robert Godin. Accompanied by a musette trio of piano, accordion and drums in this quartette presents most of the songs with which Edith Piaf was identified. In solo, single and mixed duets, trios and quartets they give you in French and English such songs as Sous Le Ciel de Paris, Hymne a L'Amour, La Vie En Rose and Bravo.

Pour Le Cloun ... 39 in all and all beautifully rendered.

Although Miss Morris is nominally the star of this production, all four performers are equally effective. If one were forced to make a choice as to the artist who most impressed, one supposes that the choice would be young Miss Stilwell. She is a splendidly leggy creature and her very appearance is exciting. But, as well, she has a rich voice that admirably serves the songs of Edith Piaf particularly Mon Legionnaire.

Mind you, Barry Stilwell raises your hackles with a stirring rendition of Les Gitanes (Gypsy Boy) and Robert Godin presents a singularly dramatic version of L'Accordeoniste. And Miss Morris ... well, she can melt your heart with Cri du Coeur.

Well, you see how it goes. I tried to pick a star and couldn't. The show is quite simply an evocation of an incomparable presence that was Edith Piaf. We shall never see her like again but a show such as Edith Piaf, Je Vous Aime will keep her memory evergreen.

For my part, I would rename the show Edith Piaf, Je T'Aime.

AT THE CLUBS: As a Libra I'm a lover of beauty in all its aspects but particularly in the human body. It follows then that I'm completely overwhelmed by Rita Moreno who is currently appearing at the Imperial Room. You don't have to be a Libra however, to see that she has a gorgeous figure. She is a tiny woman-much timier than I had imagined her to be - and she has shapely legs that seem to go on forever. She uses them well in torrid dance numbers with an assisting trio who seem to be made of rubber.

As might be expected, her dance numbers lean heavily toward Latin American and are filled with fire and passion. And yet, Miss Moreno herself is a down-to-earth performer who engages in almost offhand conversation with her audience. Her reminiscences about early life in New York with her Puerto Rican mother are delightful. "Every Saturday, Mama still changes the sheets and goes to the bitch."

It's Miss Moreno's singing though, that quite carries the show and wins your admiration. Her voice is a Broadway show voice and she can really belt out a song without screeching the way so many lesser performers do. But, she is also capable of great emotion in her songs. Her rendition of Happiness Is Just A Thing Called Joe is in my opinion, better than the original by Ethel Waters. Yes, Miss Moreno, some of us recall that Arlen and Harburg wrote it for Cabin In The Sky and are delighted that you include it in your show.

The high point of her show - and I suppose I'm being subjective here - is when she sings Sunny Side of The Street. Consciously or unconsciously, she becomes Gypsy Rose Lee and the effect is little short of electrifying.

Rita Moreno, you've been to long getting to our town. Don't be so long getting here again.

And to you ladies who are reading this, why not give your hold man an early Father's Day gift by taking him to see Rita Moreno. You never know, you might end up having an early Mother's Day.

P.S.: Speaking of mothers, P.R. person Maureen Kitts was at Miss Moreno's opening with her mother who is making a short visit from Montreal. It's easy now to see where Maureen gets her fabulous good looks. I wonder how she'd feel about calling me Daddy.

UPCOMING: Starting tomorrow at The International Centre, it's the Show Me How Show a free weekend of do-it-yourself lessons to help you with summertime repair and renovation projects. There will be more than 200 products exhibits including demonstrations. I'm sending out my life's companion to see Jo Whitwell who will be instructing women in such basic home repairs as plumbing and furniture refinishing. Damn, if I know what's basic about plumbing but that's what the release says.

IN CONCERT: A week tonight, Ivan Rebhoff returns to Massey Hall. If you're lucky you might still be able to get tickets for this amazing singer with the five octave range. This will be his fifth Canadian appearance and he shows no sign of wearing out his welcome. How could he? He has been compared to Schaliapin ... and with good places to go

of his summer

reason. If you can possibly get seats for this do so. You won't regret it, you'll have a memorable evening.

THE WORD: Most magazines that try to present the good life of the gossips to young readers are almost relentlessly cute and coy in trying to write in a manner calculated to reach and please youth. What a delight then to report a new magazine call Destiny. It isn't cute, it doesn't hammer, it merely presents the message of the truly goodlife in a straight, forward manner that is refreshing and, I believe, agreeable to the young. The cover story in the first issue is about Bruce Cockburn and well worth reading.

FAST EXIT: By now, our most recent election is history. Whatever the result, may your not so humble correspondent suggests Revenons a Nos Moutons?

Student Housing Needed

Students at Seneca College are still in need of housing accommodation. All types of accommodation are needed - including rooms, apartments, room and board and shared accommodation.

Many students at Seneca come from other parts of Ontario and Canada. Since the College has no residence facilities, student housing of all types is required.

Seneca College has seven campus locations: Finch Avenue at Woodbine, Sheppard and Yonge, Dufferin and Yonge, Lawrence and Jane, Jane and Wilson, Leslie and Sheppard, and on Dufferin Street, north of the King Sideroad. However, it is the Finch Campus which is mostly in need of housing.

Seneca's Housing Registry puts students and interested persons together. Financial and other arrangements are left to the discretion of the parties involved.

If you are interested in offering much needed accommodation for students of Seneca College, telephone 491-5050, Ext.

385, and ask for the Housing Registry.

Handicapped Should Not Be Privileged Says Harrison

by Kathy Harford

Handicapped people should not have the privilege of 24 hour on-street-parking or of not paying into parking meters, Controller Brian Harrison said last week.

The Scarborough works and transportation committee supported his suggestions and voted these exemptions out of a list of recommendations on parking privileges for the physically handicapped.

A list of recommendations came to committee as a result of special meetings involving six metropolitan municipalities on uniform traffic by-laws for handicapped people.

New provincial legislation allows a municipal council to exempt the owners or drivers of vehicles carrying handicapped people from by-laws on parking. It also allows the council to issue permits for the vehicles to be exempted.

The special committee recommended that no fee should be required in parking meters when spaces were used by vehicles bearing the handicapped person insignia.

The group also recommended that the 3 hour on-street-parking limit be lifted for the handicapped and extended for up to 24 hours.

The recommendations stated that no handicapped person would be exempted from parking prohibitions in front of driveways, on bridges, beside fire hydrants and so on.

Controller Brian Harrison said he did not think handicapped people should be allowed 24 hour on-street-parking.

If handicapped people can have that right then the people in Alderman Bill Belfontaine's ward should too, he said.

Apartment dwellers in the Ward 1, Cliffside Drive area have been refused 12 hour on-street-parking despite the poor conditions of their underground garage.

Commissioner of Works, Robert Brown said he thought few handicapped people would use the proposed extended on-street-parking privilege.

Tagging people for going over this limit would be easier than on a 12 hour limit, he added, because policemen could catch them on their rounds the following day.

CULTURAL EXCHANGE

Ninety boys and girls from Viscount Bennett High School in Calgary are visiting students at Sir Oliver Mowat Collegiate this week on a cultural exchange partly financed by Open House Canada, a federal fund to give students an opportunity to travel within Canada, get to know each other better, and thereby strengthen national unity.

About two weeks ago 55 boys and girls from Mowat travelled to Calgary for a week on the first part of the cultural exchange. In both cases the students were billeted with families of the host school.

The Calgary group has toured Toronto, the Scarborough Civic Centre, the zoo, Ontario Place and will spend all day Saturday visiting Niagara Falls.

The visitors, all members of their school band, have given daytime concerts for the students at Joseph Howe Sr. School as well as Mowat. Tonight the two schools are giving a joint concert at Mowat at 7:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome. The group returns to Calgary on Sun. May 27.

GRADUATION DANCE
Sir Oliver Mowat Collegiate Institute is holding its first graduation dinner and dance for grade 12 and 13 students, and staff, on Thurs. May 31. The event, to be held at the school, will begin at 7 p.m. The school was officially opened March 29, 1969, and it is hoped this will be the first of many such graduation ceremonies at the school rather than outside the community.

Also at Sir Oliver Mowat, the school's annual Athletic Banquet will be held June 5. The school's outstanding intermural and interschool competitors will be honoured following a dinner which begins at 6:30 p.m.

SENIORS MEET
Kingston-Galloway Senior Citizens Club will be holding its monthly meeting on Mon. May 28 at 2 p.m. Members are asked to make a special note of this date which has been changed because of the Victoria Day holiday. The meeting will be held in the Club Room as usual.

Members are also reminded of the bus trip to Prince Edward County on Thurs. June 14 at the Inn on The Bay and much more. The bus will leave at approximately 9 a.m. returning around 5:30 or 6 p.m. If anyone would like to take this trip they can call their Club President, Mrs. Ann Pye-Finch, at 282-6036.

BIKE-A-THON

At least 2,000 bikers will participate in the community bike-a-thon sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of West Hill on Sun. May 27. The funds raised will go directly to the participating organizations and the Kinsmen Club's Community Service Projects.

The bike-a-thon will feature three routes, the full route of 40 km and two mini routes of 22 km. and 25 km. The main starting point will be Adams Park (Port Union and Lawson Rd.) at 9 a.m. The routes will be in the area bounded by Finch, Brimley, Guildwood Parkway and Port Union Rd.

Car drivers are asked to take extra precautions in these areas to ensure the safety of the riders.

ANNUAL MEETING

West Hill Community Services is holding its annual meeting on Wed. June 20 at 7:30 p.m. at 4301 Kingston Rd. in the Social Services Room. Membership is open and volunteers are needed so if you are interested in helping your community plan to attend this meeting. It will take the form of a social gathering with no formal speakers and coffee will be served. Mark this date on your calendar now.

ART SHOW & SALE

The ninth annual art show and sale at Grace Presbyterian Church, 447 Port Union Rd., presenting arts and crafts from community classes, will be held Tues. May 29 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Oil paintings and many different quality craft items will be on display including macramé, pottery, quilting and rug hooking. Admission is 25¢. Coffee will be served. Come out and spend an enjoyable evening.

ROUND ROBIN

All intermediate and senior members of Heron Park Tennis Club are invited to a get-acquainted Round Robin at the club on Sat. May 26 at 1 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The rain date is Sun. May 27. This is a great opportunity to meet other members of the Club and enjoy a fun time.

CENTENNIAL ROUGE UNITED CHURCH

Sunday morning Rev. Hutton chose as his topic "The Journey Through Life" based on the story of Paul's shipwreck while being returned to Rome. We were told there are four anchors on which to rely during our life's journey - Hope, Duty, Prayer and The Cross.

Next Sunday is another milestone in the life of our congregation when we celebrate the 88th Anniversary of our present Church. We do hope many former members may find their way back to renew old acquaintances and new people in the community are invited to join us to learn a little of our heritage and become a part of our congregation.

Rev. John Staples, a member of our church, will speak on "Telling the Story" and special music will be provided by the "Just Four" from Grace Presbyterian Church. Following the service there will be a pot luck luncheon (please help us in providing goodies for this occasion.)

as it applies to persons in possession of land within the Borough of Scarborough.

Unless noxious weeds are destroyed by June 1, 1979 and as often as necessary throughout the season to prevent the ripening of their seeds and dispersal of their pollens, the Borough of Scarborough may enter private property and destroy these weeds. The costs will be charged against the property owner and collected in the manner of Municipal Taxes.

Goatsbeard, Thistles, Chicory, Poison Ivy, Ragweed, Wild Carrot and Milkweed are among the weeds considered noxious and must be destroyed wherever found. Complaints regarding Dandelion and Goldenrod will not be accepted as these are not considered noxious under the terms of the Weed Control Act. Anonymous complaints will not be accepted.

For further information, call 438-7372.

We will be giving away some free metric materials to all who attend.

REV. CAREY LANDRY: The author of the Hi-God series of records for religious education was in Toronto on Thurs., May 17 and spoke and sang to a full auditorium of teachers and principals. It was one of the best workshops this year.

TRACK TEAM: Our track team is busy preparing for the two track meets scheduled for May 23 and June 11. Mrs. Groman has been preparing the relay

Kiwanas Club Supports "Rightstart"

The Kiwanis Club of Scarborough has been active in a program called RIGHTSTART aimed at "involving children in activities which will supplement the role of the family itself in teaching basic beliefs and basic values". The program will also seek to strengthen the family unit so that it can discharge its traditional role in society.

This program began on Oct. 1st, 1978, according to Walter Kostur, president of the club. He said RIGHTSTART, which was initially introduced to Kiwanians at the 63rd annual convention of Kiwanis International in Miami Beach, Florida last June, is worldwide in scope.

The program has been aimed at working with young people from the first grade up to the teens.

All traditional youth activities will be employed such as sponsorship of athletic events and scholastic competitions, setting up part-time work projects, teaching young people how to recognize and protect themselves against potential criminals, and the like.

The technique which will set this program apart, however, from other youth programs, the club president said, will be the personal involvement of Kiwanis members in the activities.

"We'll do more than simply sponsor" he said, "we'll act as coaches, instructors, judges, employers and partners."

The club president said that one highly important phase of RIGHTSTART will be the support by Kiwanians for every youngster desiring to participate in such ongoing programs as Scouting, 4-H, Girls Clubs, Girl Scouts, FFA and others.

The club president pointed out that Kiwanis clubs have no intention of intruding in the affairs of families, themselves, in trying to reaffirm the family's traditional role of teaching basic values and basic truths. They will, however, work with organizations seeking to strengthen community functions such as schools, recreational facilities, law enforcement and family counseling, which provide the climate for stronger family units.

The Kiwanis members also involve themselves with those organizations working for the kind of climate necessary to the development of self-respect and individual achievement by boys and girls who might otherwise find barriers to these people.

Walter Kostur, club president, said that the program was adopted following a survey which showed leading citizens in all walks of life throughout the world as being concerned for the "decline of the family's influence" and the resultant lowering of the moral standards of young people and of their ability to handle the problems of life in a mature and effective way.

One of the RIGHTSTART programs is this Academic Achievement test that is held for 8th grade students in the Borough of Scarborough by the Kiwanis Club of Scarborough with the co-operation of the Board of Education.

The Kiwanis club of Scarborough is honoured to present these awards to the top four girls and the top four boys of the 143 students that participated in this test. These students, along with their parents, are invited to the Guild Inn for dinner and the presentation of these awards.

Large Print Books

The demand for large print books has risen dramatically since the Scarborough Public Libraries first introduced them in 1966 for patrons with sight impairment.

Today all fourteen public libraries, two bookmobiles and the Shut-In Service in Scarborough carry large print books. There are 2,025 titles to choose from and a total of 12,150 books in circulation.

Not only has the variety of books improved, but their physical aspects. The weight and size of large print books at the beginning was not always convenient. Today, new styles of type, paper weights and dividing long books into two or more volumes makes them easier to read and handle.

Patrons with reading problems use a list in large print, instead of a card catalogue. It was prepared last year and lists authors alphabetically. Staff is always pleased to supply a brief description.

Mixed Media Painting

Wesley Lowe is a local illustrator who has designed book covers for an international publisher with distribution in eighty countries.

In a small, but specialized show, at the Agincourt Public Library, Agincourt Mall, Sheppard Ave. E. at Kennedy Rd., until May 31, Lowe depicts steam trains, World War 2 aircraft, and cars of the past. He uses a variety of media including oil paint, watercolour and coloured inks.

Wesley Lowe lives in Scarborough. He studied at the Ontario College of Art under one of Toronto's foremost illustrators, Will Davies. He has worked as an illustrator and designer for over seven years. This is his first one-man exhibit. A larger show has been requested for September of this year in Whitby, Ontario.

Indian Rock Paintings

Pictographs created by Native people living in Ontario centuries before Europeans entered the New World, make an intriguing exhibition at the Albert Campbell District Library, 496 Birchmount Rd. at Danforth Rd. These Indian rock painting reproductions are on loan from the Royal Ontario Museum this month until, and including, June 2.

Bedding Plants A Solution For The Gardener

BRAMPTON - Our fast-paced lifestyle is creating a demand for time-saving products in every facet of our lives, and gardening is no exception.

Production and sales of ready-to-bloom bedding plants has increased about 10 percent annually for the past four years, says John Hughes, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food extension horticulturist.

There are many types of bedding plants, including spring flowering annuals and perennials, and vegetables, such as tomatoes, peppers, and cabbage.

Bedding plants are started in greenhouses during the winter so that they are ready to give instant color to the flower garden in May, and produce earlier vegetable crops.

Although some of the harder vegetables can be planted in early May, bedding plants are usually planted after the Victoria Day weekend, when the danger of frost is past.

"When choosing bedding plants, try to pick plants that are not too tall or stretched," advises Mr. Hughes. "Small plants generally grow better in the garden if they are planted before they bloom."

Bedding plants give home gardeners good value for their dollar. With the proper care, a small plant will grow and bloom all summer.

To get the full potential from annuals, Mr. Hughes recommends fertilizing every two to three weeks with a water-soluble 20-20-20 fertilizer. Apply at a rate of 1 tablespoon per gallon of water.

"Although insects and diseases are not usually a big problem, treatment with a mixture of benomyl and carbaryl, three times during the season, will keep insects and diseases under control," he says.

shown to children of all ages at Guildwood Library, on Sat. May 26, at 2 p.m.

Wm. Kramp & Sons Ltd.

A firm supplying quality products & services to Metro East

2967 Kennedy Rd. 293-2695

In this special edition of the Leading Businesses and Professions of Metropolitan Scarborough, this firm which was established back in 1961, by Wm. Kramp, and presently operated by two sons of the founder Eric and Walter Kramp certainly deserves favourable mention.

As driveways and parking lots play an important part in the appearance of the landscape of your property, it is important that the material you choose to surface it with is attractive, but most important is durability. Since crushed stone tends to get spread all over the place including lawns and flower beds, and concrete is a solid material with little or no flexibility, it will crack and heave when the frost goes out of the ground in the spring of the year. Asphalt on the other hand is flexible, and in this respect can withstand almost any type of weather conditions. Therefore an asphalt driveway or parking lot, if properly installed with good materials will outlast all other types of paving materials and is by far the best looking which adds beauty to the landscape of your home, commercial or industrial building.

For the best in quality asphalt products and service installations, resurfacing or repairs, no other firm serving the Metro area has the reputation that has been both earned and maintained through customer satisfaction than Wm. KRAMP & SONS LTD. When you are in the need for paving or resurfacing of your driveway, parking lot or whatever, contact this firm for any problems concerning asphalt as they are the experts in this specialized field.

Broaden Your Boating Horizons

The people who seem to get the most out of recreational boating, trailer their boat to the best places for action.

With the trailer so important in boating, it's important to know how to properly use and maintain it. Here are a few suggestions from the experts at Allied Boating Association of Canada to help you broaden your boating horizons:

On the highway, slow down, especially with a heavy boat in tow. It's safer and it saves fuel. Allow more time and room than usual when you're passing another vehicle, and make sure you've cleared the other guy before swinging back in front of him. And swing a little wider than usual for turns, too, to avoid going over a curb or, worse still, a pedestrian's foot.

Keep plenty of distance between your car and the one ahead. And when you pull into a parking lot, find a place where you won't get locked in, watching out for low signs and canopies. Launching a boat seems to frustrate more drivers than it should. By keeping a few basic ideas in mind, and with a little practice, it doesn't take long to become an expert.

When backing a trailer, remember that the car's steering wheel must be turned in the opposite direction from the way you want the trailer to go. If you want the trailer to go to the right, turn the steering wheel to the left, and vice versa. The best way to learn is to practice in a large empty parking lot. Practice backing the trailer in a straight line for 50 feet or so. Once you can do this, the rest will come easily.

You will save time and avoid confusion at the launching ramp if you release the tie-downs and tilt the motor up just before going onto the ramp. This is also the time to make a last-minute check to be sure the drain plug is in.

Before starting out on your trip, always check to be sure all the trailer lights - taillights, brake and turn lights - are working. Carry a few spare bulbs. Make sure the hitch is secured and safety chains are in place.

Keep your trailer in good operating condition. Check tire air pressure frequently and keep the trailer wheel hubs greased, especially if you've dunked the wheels while launching repeatedly. Check all the trailer tie-down ropes and straps for signs of wear.

And - importantly - when you load the trailer, position gear so there's more weight ahead of the trailer axle on the tongue.

Care And Storage Of Furs

The worst enemies of furs are heat, moths, strong light, rubbing and improper cleaning, say clothing specialists at the Home Economics Branch, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Even if your fur coat has only been worn a few times, it will have collected dust and dirt particles from the air. The dirt particles settle to the base of the fur where they build up, rub against the fur and eventually cause it to break off. For that reason, furs should be cleaned annually, preferably just

Clean, Sharp Tools Make Gardening Easier

Clean, sharp tools will make your summer gardening more enjoyable according to gardening specialists from the Lawn & Garden Products group of Canadian Industries Limited.

Dirty and/or rusty spades, hoes, rakes, shovels and other small hand tools pick up a coating of soil at each thrust.

This not only makes using them hard work, but they do not turn the soil nearly as well.

A wooden spatula will remove earth and coarse steel wool or emery paper will remove dust and corrosion from steel tools.

A light touch up with a medium file on the cutting edges of spades and hoes will make for neater, faster work. When they are bright and sharp, wipe them with a light lubricating oil. This will protect them between jobs.

Once they are clean it takes only a minute before putting them away to clean and oil them. Clean tools will also last much longer, the CIL spokesmen point out.

Lawn mowers should also be kept clean and the cutting blades sharp.

A good rinsing with the hose after each use is a must. While lawn mower maintenance is usually a job for the repair shop, there is one important adjustment which the home owner should attend to, CIL spokesmen say, and that is adjusting the cutting height.

Many people cut their grass too short, probably because they think that by so doing they won't have to mow as often.

A lawn mower should be set to cut the grass at the proper height, about one and one-half inches. The grass blade acts much the same as your stomach.

It converts raw materials -- plant foods and nutrients into starches and sugars which the plant can then use for growth.

Constant close mowing reduces the leaf surface of the grass plant and the plant loses vigor, and is unable to compete with weeds and to withstand drought.

In fact, during the hot, dry before storing. Fur cleaning requires special equipment and operators who are knowledgeable and skilled in handling furs properly. So entrust your furs only to a reputable cleaner.

In the cleaning process, fur coats are put in large revolving drums to which has been added a mixture of finely ground sawdust, cleaning solvent and other chemicals. The sawdust mixture works its way into the fur and absorbs the grease and dirt. The dirt-laden sawdust is extracted from the furs by suction in other revolving drums. The dirty sawdust is not used again. Any sawdust remaining in the pockets and sleeves is removed by hand blowers.

The fur is now lightly steam sprayed by hand to make it lie evenly. The next step is glazing or electrifying. The coat is passed over rapidly rotating grooved rollers which comb the fur and separate the hairs, giving them a glossy appearance.

Linings must be pressed to avoid flattening or singeing the fur. This is done by lifting the lining away from the coat with one hand while steaming it with the other.

The best place to store a fur coat is in a cold storage vault. Here the fur is protected from moths, heat, strong light, dust, fumes and excess humidity. In addition, it is protected from fire and theft. The temperature is maintained around 5 degrees C (40 degrees F) with a relative humidity of 40 to 50 percent.

Here are some tips for prolonging the life of your fur coat.

1. Hang a fur coat on a wide-end coat hanger, not a thin wire one that can pierce the skin from the weight of the coat.

2. Don't cover a fur coat with a plastic bag - use a thin, woven cloth bag that allows the fur to breathe. Trapped air can generate heat from static electricity.

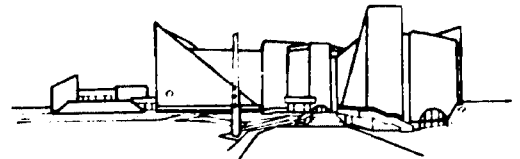

3. Never hang a fur coat in a lighted place for any length of time. Even the continuous light and heat from an electric bulb will injure furs.

4. Hang a wet fur coat to dry in an open area where it will get lots of ventilation. Otherwise, oils in the pelt dry and cause splitting and cracking.

5. Do not allow a fur coat to come in contact with hot air vents or radiators which can cause singeing of the fur.

A survey of selected fur cleaning and storage outlets in Toronto revealed that the average cost of cleaning a fur coat was about $24. The cost of storage ranged from about 3 to 3 1/2 percent on the first $500 evaluation plus 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 percent of the balance.

Furs are durable garments. With proper care, cleaning and storage they will maintain their appearance and usefulness and you will get maximum value from your fur dollars.

Report From Queen's Park by George Ashe, MPP

With the summer months fast approaching, many people are beginning to think seriously about vacation plans. The Province of Ontario offers many recreational facilities for holidayers, at prices that are reasonable.

For those preferring a driving holiday, Ontario has interesting and picturesque scenic routes. The Heritage Highway runs for 700 miles from Windsor to Quebec's Gaspé Peninsula, along the north shore of Lakes Ontario and Erie. This route contains 300 years worth of historic battle sites, forts, museums and scenery. The Blue Water Highway, also 700 miles long, stretches from Windsor east, along Lake Huron and around Georgian Bay, by ferry to Manitoulin Island. This drive offers beaches for swimming, excellent fishing and Indian relics and lore. For 1300 miles you can follow the Route of the Voyageurs from Hawkesbury to Kenora, along the splendour of Lake Superior, going high into the north through wilderness and wildlife preserves. As well, excellent driving is available on the Frontier Route, beginning 100 miles from Toronto, through North Bay, across the northern wilderness along Lake Superior to Kenora; the Rideau-Trent-Severn Route from Ottawa to Georgian Bay which is considered excellent for rock hounds, amateur archaeologists and naturalists; and the Algonquin Route through many small towns steeped in history with good country antique shopping for 352 miles.

Ontario has 128 Provincial parks, most of which offer camping facilities to suit individual tastes. Some provincial parks accommodate mobile homes and provide electricity and dump out services. All provincial parks have some form of supervised sanitation facility. Most provide covered picnic shelters which have cooking and eating facilities. Food and other necessities can usually be purchased within the park or nearby.

Long before the coming of highways, Ontario's people depended upon the canoe for transportation. For many of us today, canoeing has become a peaceful, spirit-soothing sport. One sixth of our area is water and many portages and waterways retain their primitive natural beauty. There are hundreds of canoe routes throughout the province, some in the remotest and loveliest parts of provincial parks. If you don't own a canoe, you can rent one at the park, along with other supplies you might need. Packaged canoe trips can be arranged, as can one or two day running white water raft trips on the Ottawa River.

Hiking (backpacking) is a long-time favourite among veteran outdoorsmen. Maybe that's because Ontario is so big. Our forests, half million lakes and rivers, and an abundance and variety of wildlife and flora stretch for hundreds and hundreds of miles. It's a good bet you'll find a quiet spot to hike, or just sit and commune with nature. The Provincial Hiking Trails run from a low of four miles to a high of about 43 miles, catering to the wishes of a great variety of hikers, from the beginner to the professional.

Detailed information on scenic routes, campsites, canoe trips and hiking trails are available in a brochure from the Ministry of Industry and Tourism called Ontario Camping 1979. A limited supply of these brochures are available at my Constituency Office in Ajax (683-6707).

Surrounded as we are by the world's mightiest freshwater lakes laced with rivers and augmented by man-made canals, it is no wonder so many people of Ontario have taken to boats. Throughout the province, various services are in operation for the purpose of providing information and assistance to boaters. These are all listed in the Ministry of Industry and Tourism book entitled Ontario Boating 1979, copies of which are also available at my Riding Office in Ajax.

The Ministry of Natural Resources has published two books on fishing, perhaps the all-time favourite summer sport for Ontario citizens. One is called Popular Waters for Sport Fishing, and the other, including a map, summarizes the 1979 Fishing Regulations. Both of these books are available in limited supply at my Ajax Office (683-6706).

If any of the foregoing vacation ideas would appeal to you and your family, I would suggest that you do contact Ann Fitz-Gerald or Judy Moskaluk at my Constituency Office, to obtain information on permit fees, regulations and other suggestions for a better vacation. This year, why not enjoy our great and mighty ONTARIO!
