Ashe Sweeps Back In

by Mary Zecchino

Voters in Pickering and in Durham West sent George Ashe MPP back to the legislature with an astounding majority.

In Pickering, Ashe took an early lead winning every one of the 71 polls. Ashe received 5,914 votes, Leslie 443, Peacock 1,620 and Wei 2,500.

Pickering has 19,797 eligible voters with 10,096 showing up at the polls.

Later at his victory party in Heydenshore Pavillion in Whitby, Ashe said "I'm overwhelmed, just overwhelmed by the show of support tonight."

George added that he has been given a "mandate" by the voters in Durham West and expects to fulfill this.

Progressive Conservative party workers are expecting Ashe to be given a cabinet post but Ashe, himself, feels he has no particular cabinet post in mind.

Ashe's campaign organizers were jubilant with the victory that was not overshadowed by a Progressive Conservative sweep in the province.

In a letter to the CRTC president C.J. Williamson, stated that increases are far in excess of what is required and will cause great hardship to the business community.

Energy writers and Ontario Hydro President Milan Nastich (right) examine solar panels and photovoltaic cells on the roof of Hydro's W.P. Dobson Research Laboratory in Toronto. Tests indicate domestic solar water systems can achieve energy savings of 40 to 50 per cent.

Ontario's commitment to increase the province's self-sufficiency in energy has sparked more than 30 projects by Ontario Hydro in the field of alternate energy resources.

Milan Nastich, president of Hydro, reports that the Corporation's research activities cover new ways of generating electricity and methods of using it more efficiently.

Nastich told a recent gathering of science writers that Ontario's energy targets call for the province to supply at least 37.5 per cent of its energy from sources within the province by 1995, with 15 per cent of that to come from renewable resources.

Among the research projects under study by Hydro is the plenum heater -- an adaptation of an electric heater to an oil furnace -- that could reduce oil consumption by 60 to 80 per cent. To get more accurate data, Hydro is testing 57 of these heaters across Ontario this winter.

Also under consideration are the thermal storage systems -- one of which stores energy in a furnace, utilizing bricks containing electric coils to draw electricity during the night and gradually release the stored heat during the day.

Hydro research is also evaluating major electric appliances and their electricity consumption per month, so that buyers -- in choosing a brand -- can use this information to save energy.

High on Hydro's list of research projects is the testing of solar panels and photovoltaic cells, currently being monitored at the test station on the roof of Hydro's W.P. Dobson Research Laboratory, 800 Kipling Avenue, Toronto. Nastich said that the tests indicate domestic solar hot water systems can achieve energy savings of 40 to 50 per cent over conventional gas or electric heaters. He says that 5,000 solar water heaters could be installed in customer's homes by 1983.

West German Economy

According to a Scotiabank report, West Germany's economy has become more vulnerable in the past few years and so is exposed "to the sort of problems faced by other mortals on the world stage". Germany has moved suddenly into the position of a very large deficit on its overall balance of trade on goods and services. Even Germany's famed electrical and mechanical engineering concerns have seen a downturn.

Two Alarms On Monday

Scarborough Fire Department responded to two separate alarms, about four hours apart, at 34 Westbourne Ave. on Mon. March 23.

The first alarm came at 1 a.m. when a short circuit in the electrical outlet box in the basement caused a fire which quickly spread, resulting in extensive smoke damage throughout the house.

Mr. Werner Schneberger, the owner and occupant, does TV repairs in his basement and the equipment was heavily damaged. His wife, Angela, cut her hand when she attempted to re-enter the house and was taken to East General Hospital for treatment. Damages were estimated at $20,000 to the building and $15,000 to contents.

About 5 a.m. firefighters were again called to the scene and this time the fire appeared to have started in the electrical fuse panel. The flames burned a hole through the ceiling to the living room, causing additional damages of about $5,000.

Post Office Bugs Me Say Mayor Lastman

Editor's Note - Mayor Mel Lastman spoke to the North York Business Association last week with such humour and positive conviction, that we felt that our readers would enjoy his message - no matter where you live!

Throughout my political career, I have kept a high public profile - just as I did when I was building my business. And the reason is exactly the same - to make people aware of who we are, what we are doing and what we have to offer here in the city of North York.

It's all part of my goal to give our city a positive public image. We're not just a bedroom dormitory to Toronto - we're a thriving city in our own right with all the amenities found in any large city.

I don't have to emphasize to you the need for any municipality - especially a suburban one - to attract new industry and commerce - not only to create jobs, but to curb the ever-increasing tax burden on the businessman, the property owner and the renter. As you know, property and business tax is our only source of real revenue, aside from the few handouts we get from Queen's Park.

Traditionally, the mayor of a municipality is called its chief magistrate. But that's just a title. I see myself as the chief executive of a major corporation who with its board of directors and senior staff offers more services and recreational facilities than any municipality in Metro if not Canada, and at the same time trying to keep costs to a minimum.

But unlike some chief executives of corporations, I don't spend all my time pushing paper. I like to visit the various members of the public, just as I am doing here today. I also communicate directly with the public through a weekly T.V. show and the media.

In communicating with our citizens I find many complaining about our post office.

Many companies have proudly been adding the "City of North York" to their letterhead and business cards. Queen's Park granted us the status of a city, after we applied for it. And now rightfully so people want to use the city identity as part of their address and advertising.

Unfortunately, the federal government - through the post office - stubbornly refuses us our right to do this. Imagine - being governed by the Post Office!

According to the latest statistics there are about 900,000 Canadians out of work. There are even more if you include those who run the Post Office!

The only thing that they do efficiently - which likely costs more than half the 17 cents postage - is storage! Yet this Post Office, which doesn't even understand the word "pride" won't let us use our official city status. They have Balkanized the city into "City States" such as Downsview, Willowdale, and Don Mills. Part of North York - in the Post Office's cross-eyed view - has been annexed to the City of Toronto. That really bugs me!

I am not against North York communities keeping their traditional identities. Toronto has several such districts, that have kept their identities and individual characters, such as Rosedale, Forest Hill, the Beaches, Parkdale, Cabbagetown, the Annex and so on. But I don't think a resident of Cabbagetown expects to receive a letter with "Cabbagetown" on the envelope. We are Canada's fourth largest city. And we are a vital thriving municipality.

Yet when you mail a letter to me, you can call me the Mayor of North York. But you can't put "City of North York" on the envelope - even with the supposedly super-efficient postal code - without suffering a delay in delivery.

The City of North York's seat of government is in nationally recognized Willowdale. We are justifiably proud of Willowdale, as Toronto residents are proud of such districts as Yorkville, Rosedale and Forest Hill. But surely it isn't asking too much to have mail going to our City Hall to be addressed to the City of North York. Ignoring the City of North York is detracting from our collective dignity. Don't get me wrong, I'm not blaming the postman on the route. It's his bosses at the top. The system has become a bureaucratic nightmare. Canada post has become a creaking automated octopus.

Should you gallantly try to fight this myopic mammoth with its muddled management by addressing your letter to the "City of North York", even with the correct postal code, you'd be in trouble.

I recently conducted my own test:

I mailed three letters from my office in North York's municipal building to our legal department upstairs. All three envelopes included the correct and full postal code.

One was addressed to Willowdale as the post office demands. Another was incorrectly addressed to Toronto. Both were delivered on the next delivery day. But the one addressed to the "City of North York" did not arrive until four days later!

The internationally known Inn-On-The-Park sent me a letter addressed to the Mayor of North York in the City of North York. It did include the correct postal code. It was returned to the hotel stamped "no such Post Office". On the back of the envelope, the hotel's return address, which stated "Toronto" was scratched out by the post office. A note added that the hotel was not in the City of Toronto. Is there no satisfying this bureaucratic beast?

The Post Office's excuse for all this is because mail destined for Downsview is processed in Mississauga; mail for Willowdale is handled in Scarborough; and mail for Don Mills is sorted in Toronto. They never do explain why they can't use the postal code to get mail to the correct sorting depot.

I have had dozens of letters sent to me from North York residents, where the "City of North York" had been crossed out and "Toronto" written in. For the last two years, I have received a flow of complaints from North York residents and corporation executives who have suffered delays, because they proudly - and they thought sensibly - should write to the Mayor of North York in the City of North York. The Post Office claims it can find any house as long as the full postal code is used. Well, why in hell can't they use the

An attractive 23 year old soprano will be the star of an Oshawa Symphony concert at 8 p.m., March 29, in St. George's Anglican Church, Centre St. S., Oshawa.

Theresa Lee Ryan, one of five children of a Willowdale, Ont., family is a second year student at the University of Toronto's Opera School. In December she competed against 34 other singers in the Oshawa Symphony's Competition for Voice. She got the unanimous nod of the judges - Elsie Drygala, Oshawa voice teacher, Melville Cook and Greta Kraus, prominent Toronto musicians, and Winston Webber, conductor and music director of the Oshawa Symphony Orchestra.

An alternate choice was Kevin McMillan, baritone, of the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.. He will succeed to the winning position and the solo role if for any reason Miss Ryan were unable to perform. Honorable Mention went to Christen Gregory, Donna Hurst, and Hye Il Cho, all of Toronto and all sopranos.

Miss Ryan has a Bachelor of Music degree in performance from the University of Toronto. Among many scholarships she has received was a Canada Council grant to study in Salzburg, Austria. She has been a member of the Gershwins Singers, the Ontario Youth Choir, the Scarborough Players' production of "The Fantasticks", and last fall performed the role of Suzanna in the University of Toronto's Opera Division performance of the Marriage of Figaro. In February she appeared with the Tallis Choir in the leading role of Handel's Acis and Galatea.

In the Oshawa concert she will sing songs by Strauss, arias from the Marriage of Figaro by Mozart and from Rigoletto by Verdi. The orchestra will open the concert with the Magic Flute Overture by Mozart, will also play Debussy's Prelude to "The Afternoon of A Faun" and after intermission, the orchestra will be joined by Oshawa organist Stephen Powell in Saint Saens Organ Symphony no. 3, a powerful and dramatic work. Mr. Powell is organist and choir master at St. George's Church.

Advance ticket sales for this event are being handled by Saywell's, 14 Simcoe St. S. Tickets can also be ordered by phone using Visa or Mastercard. Call 579-6711. Rush seats will be sold at the door on the evening of the performance. Ticket prices are $5. for adults, $4. for students or seniors, $3. for children.

postal code to find their own sorting depots?

Why is it that our federal representatives (we have nine from North York ridings) seem sensible enough talking to people on their home turf - but when they get to fantasyland in the Ottawa Valley, they dance to the beat played by the bureaucrats? Maybe we should remind our MP's that they are supposed to represent the people who elected them - rather than some deputy minister and his staff.

Starting today, I am gearing up for an all-out blitz of the feds in fantasyland. If one of our own MP's, Bob Kaplan, thought I was giving him a hard time over the Dash 8 assembly and the 3,000 jobs at De Havilland - they haven't seen anything yet.

It is patriation time indeed. North York is going to get its dignity patriated. A few months ago the empire struck back. Now it's North York's turn.

As you may be aware, North York has its own Poet Laureate. J. Edward Baxter's words on the situation should be "posted" - on the postmaster's door.

He wrote:

When a township turns into a borough,
And a mayor replaces the reeve,
When the borough evolves to a city
That wears its big heart on its sleeve,
That's a time for wassail and rejoicing,
A time for the popping corks.
But wait! There's a fly in the ointment.
The Postmaster can't find North York.

You can live in Don Mills or in Downsview,
Or, if you prefer, Willowdale,
Or at M2J 707,
And the mailman will bring you your mail.
But the sorting machine has a break-down,
The computer refuses to work,
And the system collapses in chaos
If you say that you live in North York.

Can it be that it's all just a nightmare?
Will we wake up tomorrow and find
That we live in suburban Toronto?
The thought simply boggles the mind!
There's one question I'd like to have answered,
And it's right at the top of my list:
North York's here to stay, but I wonder,
Does the Postmaster really exist?

Travel Opportunities Better For Disabled

During the 1970s, Canada's tourism industry took several steps to better accommodate the needs of disabled travellers. The challenge for the 80s - beginning with international Year of Disabled Persons in 1981 - is to further accelerate this process.

"Handicapped people want to travel for the same reasons as everyone else," said Toronto travel agent Cinnie Noble, who has been organizing tours for the physically disabled since 1976. "They may have more fears and insecurities to overcome, but they have no difference in desire," she said.

And where there's desire, there's a potential market. "Handicapped people want to travel. In the hard core marketing and business sense, there is a market there," said Denis Barry of the Travel Industry Association of Canada.

While only a few Canadian travel agents have so far acquired experience working with handicapped clients, evidence of their nascent interest in this market is the recent Alliance of Canadian Travel Associations' seminar concerning disabled people and travel. Problems experienced by disabled travellers were discussed and suggestions were made to assist travel agents to work effectively with disabled clients.

Like Cinnie Noble, Boyd Haan is a Toronto travel agent who has worked with handicapped clients. His first involvement with travel for disabled persons was arranging travel plans for a group of disabled athletes. While he says that extra time and effort was required to ensure a successful trip, he adds that: "We have found that our arrangements for a group of physically disabled travellers are much more appreciated." The result, Haan says, can be a tremendous amount of "spin-off" business.

Noble, who has organized several tours for disabled clients, agrees that making their travel arrangements requires extensive and time consuming pre-trip work. But she adds that the time required could be substantially reduced if agents knew the appropriate questions to ask. To this end, she is working on a manual containing relevant questions and other information designed to reduce the time involved in processing disabled clients.

Both agents are members of ASSIST, the Association for Specialized Services Involving Special Travellers, a committee for the Ontario Travel Industry Conference. Formed in 1978 to advance travel opportunities for physically disabled people, ASSIST members include travel agents, tour operators, airline personnel and disabled consumers.

Within the passenger rail and airline industries, changes are also being made to render travel more accessible to disabled persons.

A recent Department of Transport review of airport services resulted in authorization of $2.2 million to upgrade existing facilities within three years. New air terminals built since 1973 have included facilities to accommodate disabled people.

Following complaints about inconsistent policies by air carriers towards disabled travellers, the Air Transport Association of Canada (ATAC) developed a set of standardized guidelines which were recently accepted by all major Canadian airlines.

In Canada, the transportation-handicapped population is estimated to be five per cent of the total Canadian population. Typical problems experienced by disabled travellers in the past have included architectural barriers which inhibit access to wheelchair users, inconsistent policies from one air carrier to another regarding the number of wheelchair passengers permitted per flight, personnel ill-equipped to handle their special needs and broken or damaged wheelchairs at the point of destination. In addition, while railways typically provide free passage to attendants travelling with wheelchair passengers, air carriers do not, thus substantially increasing travel costs.

ATAC executive vice-president Harry Pickard said the transportation guidelines were designed to free disabled travellers as much as possible from the need to travel with an attendant. They clearly define which passengers may travel unaccompanied and which must travel with an attendant as well as state the number of disabled passengers permitted per flight. The sensitive matter of who pays the fare for the attendant, if required, is still unresolved.

Individual air carriers are also moving towards improved services for the disabled. In June 1980, Nordair became the first airline in Canada to provide safety and in-flight information in braille.

In September 1980, Air Canada became the first air carrier in Canada to equip its reservation service with an electronic teletype system enabling speech- and hearing-impaired people to communicate with the airline. The system is currently being operated on a trial basis in Montreal and Regina. Depending on the results of the test program, similar units may be installed in other Air Canada reservation offices.

A major milestone in rail travel for disabled persons was realized in April 1980 when the Canadian Transport Commission issued a decision requiring VIA Rail to offer passage to all self-reliant handicapped persons. VIA was also instructed to provide manual lifting of disabled passengers at 13 major stations across the country.

VIA has complied with these requirements and more. Special advisor D'Arcy O'Connell, himself a wheelchair user, outlined the crown corporation's $18-million, five-year Special Needs Program designed to improve facilities and services to the handicapped. Under the program, he said, VIA staff have been trained to lift wheelchairs, brochures in braille have been produced and roughly 40 railway stations are being modified for greater accessibility. Research is being conducted on mechanical wheelchair lifts that will be included on new railway cars, or those that are retrofitted, as well as on interior designs which will better accommodate transportation-handicapped passengers. In addition, VIA's computerized reservation system now enables travellers with speech or hearing disabilities to communicate through teletype or Bell Canada's Visual Ear system.

Outside the travel industry, organizations are springing up to advise handicapped people of suitable travel destinations. A Montreal-based group, Keroule, has been providing handicapped Quebecers with information on accessible tourist attractions, hotels, restaurants and parks throughout the province and to a lesser extent Canada and the United States for the past four years.

Another excellent source of information on accessible places to visit in Canada, available free to travel agents and disabled persons, is the library compiled by Rya Ben-Shir at the Jewish Convalescent Hospital in Montreal.

On a broader scale, SATH - the Society for the Advancement of Travel for the Handicapped - was founded in the United States in 1976. Its purpose is to foster greater awareness among travel industry personnel of the special travel requirements of handicapped travellers and to make the industry aware of the potentially large market for disabled travellers.

Yet another organization, Mobility International, was founded in 1973 to further the integration of handicapped people through travel and exchange.

Clearly, recognition of the need to better serve disabled travellers is on the rise. While considerable progress has been made in opening up transportation and travel services to disabled persons, much remains to be done. During International Year of Disabled Persons and beyond, further advancement of the travel opportunities for handicapped people is required to ensure that disabled travellers are treated with the same consistency and dignity as able-bodied ones.

Library Plans Unveiled

With the recent approval of the building plans for the new library facility at the University of Toronto's Scarborough College, a date of May 8 for the official sod-turning ceremony now seems possible. The date coincides with the last day of exams for the '80-'81 session.

As pictured the plans call for a 20,000 sq. ft. extension to the College's R-wing building. As well, 17,000 sq. ft. on the ground floor of the R-wing will be incorporated into the new facility.

The new 37,000 sq. ft. library will be all on one level, a benefit to future users particularly those with a physical handicap.

Roofline on the new building will be varied in height in order to permit as much natural light to enter as possible and to make possible future expansion.

The current library is housed in a 17,000 sq. ft. area which is accessible to members of the College community plus several closed stack areas remote from the library area itself from which library personnel retrieve books for students and faculty upon request.

Nearly 40 per cent of the College's book collection is housed outside the library proper.

Book stacks in the new facility will make the entire book collection of 183,000 volumes accessible to users without the present inconveniences. In addition, shelving allowances permit continued growth of the collection to 245,000 volumes.

Study space will be dramatically improved. Currently there are 130 study spaces within the library control area for 4300 potential users: students, faculty, staff, and extra mural readers. Within the new facilities there will be 500 study spaces.

Music tapes, language teaching tapes, and photographic slides used in the teaching of Fine Arts are library resources which will be housed within the new facility rather than a wholly separate facility as is now the case.

As well, the new facility will have a typing room, map room, offices, library technical services and binding areas, a proper loading dock and a vastly more efficient reserve book and circulation desk.

Estimated savings in yearly operating costs are fifty thousand dollars. Provision of space for use of computers to access data banks permits future expansion into this rapidly developing area.

Mr. Ball, College Librarian, has expressed satisfaction with the new library: "the new library plans are a pretty imaginative solution to the College's library problem. I am particularly impressed with what the architects have been able to do and still stay within the budget."

Currently located in the part of the R-wing building to be renovated are the laboratories for Physics, Astronomy, and Anthropology. These units will move into space vacated by the present library operation.

In addition two houses owned by the College and used for book storage will be freed for other use.

Renovation is a major factor owing to the conditions of government funding for that part of the project.

March is Red Cross Month

There is probably no citizen of Ontario whose life hasn't been touched, in some beneficial way, by the services of the Red Cross Society. Red Cross helps people of all ages, in all walks of life.

The Red Cross Blood Donor and Transfusion services maintain the most efficient free donor system in the world.

Red Cross teaches kids to swim, and trains instructors who show them how. They teach first aid and water safety and have ongoing programs in Ontario schools.

They provide help in emergencies, from hotel fires to floods, earthquakes and other natural and man-made disasters. Because it's an organization with international links, Red Cross aids citizens of other countries.

Red Cross helps seniors live happier lives and traces and locates people to reunite them with their families.

The Red Cross does all this with the help of a dedicated body of volunteers who gladly give their time and talents to benefit others.

March is Red Cross month. Take a moment to reflect on how the Red Cross has had a positive effect on your life or on the lives of people close to you.

You can help the Red Cross to continue their services and programs in your community. Your local branch will be delighted to show you how you can help.

There's always a need for volunteers, volunteers the Red Cross trains to help in many areas.

The Red Cross also needs funds to carry on its work. Red Cross Month is a fund-raising campaign for many Ontario branches. They need to collect $5,000,000 this year to provide their special Health and Care related services.

Donations can be made to your branch or The Canadian Red Cross Society, 460 Jarvis St., Toronto, Ontario M4Y 2H5. All donations are tax deductible and receipts will be issued.

Ontario Mushrooms

The heaviest concentration of mushroom farms is in the Golden Horseshoe area, including the regions of Peel, York, Halton and Hamilton-Wentworth. And some farms are located near Leamington, Simcoe, Ottawa and east of Toronto.

Ontario mushrooms are grown year-round in sterilized compost beds in mushroom houses. Temperature, humidity, ventilation and the amount of darkness must be carefully controlled to promote ideal growing conditions.

Once mushrooms are planted, it takes several weeks before they're ready for market. However, each crop lasts about three months and must be picked daily. New crops are constantly being planted to ensure a fresh supply of mushrooms throughout the year.

About 80 percent of the mushrooms grown in Ontario are sold fresh. The remaining mushrooms are either canned, frozen or freeze-dried.

When shopping for fresh mushrooms, look for firm, tightly closed gills. The caps should be smooth, creamy-white to light brown and unblemished. At home, store them unwashed in a bowl covered with a damp cloth, or in a paper bag in the refrigerator crisper. For best quality, use mushrooms within a week.

The Leisure World With Cassius:

ON STAGE: OKLAHOMA! is back again (it's at The Royal Alex) and oh, the memories it's brought back with it!

As Laurey, Christine Andreas has all the spunk called for by the role and she counterpoints it nicely with her marvelously rich voice. William Mallory is Curly (even though his hair is straight) and he nicely delineates the swaggering cowboy brought down to earth by love. He too has a superb voice. Quite the best voice in the show however, belongs to Richard Leighton as Jud Fry. He's also the best actor. In fact, taken all in all, the role of Jud Fry is probably the most real of the entire cast.

That's something one is sometimes prone to forget in the afterglow of the marvellous love and love songs of Curly & Laurey. Those other lovers are nicely played and danced by Paige O'Hara and Lara Teeter as Ado Annie and Will Parker. The former looks a little like Michael Lerner and the latter like the young blonde chap on Real People.

Great dancing too by Michael Deane in the dream ballet as Jud.

Listen friends, Oklahoma! is still a good show and well worth your custom. But, we do feel constrained to warn you that the presentation of it might not be all that you think it should be.

One final note. We find ourselves unable to remember for certain whether the original orchestrations were by Robert Russell Bennett or Ted Royal but to our ear, it sounded as though neither are now being used. Just a note (no pun intended) in passing.

UPCOMING: Although previews are now taking place, the official opening of Talk Of Toronto Dinner Theatre (410 Sherbourne between Carlton and Wellesley) is set for next Wednesday.

The first presentation will be The Boyfriend starring Wanda (bang, bang) Cannon. This is the show that launched Julie Andrews to stardom in London.

Tina Turner opens at the Imperial Room on April 20th. As Henry Youngman might say, "Be there!"

St. Joseph's Brownie Pack now meets every Tuesday night from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Annex basement. This is the first Brownie pack for St. Joseph's and Sina Corvera is the Brown Owl. Because it is late in the season there will be no registration fee for new members.

AMALGAMATION NOW? Should Highland Creek really have two community associations? That is the question residents of East Highland Creek and West Highland Creek are asking themselves now.

If you think that there should be only one, since there is no real geographical or social difference between the two areas except for the attendance by children at the two primary schools, the president of your association would like to hear from you.

If you live in East Highland Creek call Peter Mehren at 282-7390 and if you live in West Highland Creek call David Stern at 284-4873.

AT THE LIBRARY

Helen Huggett, a Metro

Zoo volunteer, will show slides and artifacts from the Zoo at the Port Union Library, 5530 Lawrence Ave. E. on Thurs. March 26 at 2 p.m. Boys & girls 5 and over are invited to attend.

FRENCH IMMERSION

Because of the demand for the French Immersion program in Scarborough, Eva Nichols, School Trustee for Ward 9, informs us that the enrollment in the existing four centers, North Agincourt, Tam O'Shanter, Regent Heights and W. G. Miller, has increased sufficiently to allow the Board to approve the establishment of a fifth center at Walter Perry Jr. Public School, 45 Falmouth Ave.

This program will open with a senior kindergarten in September 1981 and will gradually extend through the elementary grades, one year at a time.

It takes approximately an hour and the testing will be followed by a nutritional study and a fitness program prescription. Take some time to find out what your fitness level is and how to improve it.

Please come appropriately dressed for exercise and they recommend that you refrain from eating or smoking for at least two hours prior to testing.

Car Check Week

Care, Savings and Safety is the theme of the Canada Safety Council's 1981 National Car Check Campaign, which takes place April 2 to 8.

As the message implies, regular car care can provide savings through lower fuel consumption and reduced repair costs and it provides a feeling of safety, knowing that your vehicles are in first-class operating condition.

Mayor Mel Lastman proclaims April 2 to 8 as "Car Check Week" in the City of North York, and reminds citizens that it is their personal obligation as drivers to make certain that their vehicles are in safe operating condition. Have your vehicle checked soon.

Swimnastics Classes For Women

Now is the time to get into shape for summer. The Scarborough Recreation and Parks Department invites women to join daytime and evening swimnastics classes at Pearson C.I.

Registration is Wed. April 1 at 10:30 a.m. at Pearson Pool. Classes commence the same day.

For further information contact the recreation office at 296-7411.

Instructors Needed

North York Parks and Recreation Department is currently looking for instructors for its spring swimming series.

Camel Rides At The Zoo

Camel rides were introduced at the Metro Toronto Zoo during March Break.

"There are three young camels that we've been training for the past few years for this purpose," said T. W. Tommy Thompson, General Director of the Zoo, "and they are now ready for riding."

The camels, all Bactrian (two humped) were born at the Metro Zoo and are named Casey, Piglet and Amy.

Another popular attraction repeated for the March Break is the Meet the Zookeeper program which will feature demonstrations and talks by keepers of boa constrictors, elephants, birds of prey and gorillas.

Speaking of gorillas, the two babies born last fall are yet unnamed and during the March Break all visitors will have an opportunity to put in their suggestions for names.

Special feedings, pony rides, treasure hunts, storytellers and slide shows will round out the special zoo program. All children 11 years and under will be admitted free when accompanied by someone 14 years of age or over.

New seasonal zoo hours are now in effect: 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. with last admission at 5:30 p.m. Regular admission is $3.50 for adults, and $1.50 for seniors and youth.

Just Around The Corner

By Gordon Ashberry

Last week was a little light for me in terms of the theatre. However, the election made up for it and as usual we found things to do. For the first time I had the privilege of actually taking part in the electoral process. I was a District Returning Officer and I enjoyed the experience.

I was impressed by many things. Most of all by the serious manner that all of the D.R.O.'s, Poll Clerks, Constables and the others have in carrying out their duties. It wasn't just a way to make a few dollars and sit around all day, it was a duty to be carried out according to the rules.

The camaraderie among the polling officials made the tedious wait during the quiet periods most enjoyable. And some of the more experienced brought along enough food to feed Montgomery's army on the move. Fruit salad, orange cake, home-made candy, cookies and more. The nice part was that they all shared.

At my poll we had a 60% turn out. This included a large number of young people who called in on their way home from school. I found this encouraging for the future. Also the large number of "New Canadians' who obviously appreciated the opportunity to be allowed to vote in a free election.

WHAT'S GOING ON... For some time there has been a concern that there are insufficient places for our local theatricals to perform. While the assistance of the Boards of Education to allow the use of school auditoriums is appreciated, and while a church facility is at least adequate, the need for a theatre with proper seating, sight lines and acoustics has been recognized for some time. And just a few weeks ago the sod was turned for the Scarborough Village Community Recreation Complex that will contain a small theatre that may just fill the bill.

I have been asked for details about this project, so I called the man who knows all about it, Bruce Fleury, the Commissioner of Recreation and Parks for Scarborough was good enough to send me a letter and this is what is said:

"The new Scarborough Village Community Recreation Centre will be really three buildings. At one end will be a 200 seat theatre for the performing arts and at the other end will be a complete ice facility. In between will be a small gymnasium for the vigorous young and not so young, and a drop-in centre for youth, senior citizens, and all connected by a corridor or internal street. The Architects, Shore Tilbe Henschel Irwin Peters, have planned the building so that the street can be used for socializing, because it is designed to encourage people to mix and talk and watch the activities going on throughout the Centre.

The building is placed along Kingston Road and this side will be landscaped with lawns and trees, while the cars will be parked to the rear and out of street sight.

The arena floor has been specially designed for year-round ice by placing heating pipes in a layer of sand under the ice surface which is cooled by the refrigeration system. This prevents deep frost penetration when soils are subjected to constant freezing as would happen under a rink.

The theatre is a theatre in the round with a modern thrust stage. The audience sits on 3 sides of the stage. The specially designed seats are long, carpeted benches and each is stepped down so the audience can see the entire area. The theatre will be a most popular place for many community events in addition to the Performing Arts.

The building will be built of concrete block, which is arranged in a strong pattern and coloured a warm reddish brown.

Started in 1978, the building has had a long design history, with the time well used by both the Recreation and Parks Department staff and the Architects to improve all aspects of the Centre. Users' Committees were organized by local theatre groups, dance groups, senior citizens and several combination clubs and each has advised and suggested many important inclusions for the planning and the design.

With the severely cold winter of 1980-81, construction has been delayed, but it is expected the building will be finished before next winter.

By the way, I was talking to some of my friends at Playhouse 66 and they feel that the first production in the new theatre will open early 1982. That means a split season. In other words, the Playhouse will open as usual in the Fall and their season will be completed at the new place. Then, Playhouse 66 will be no more. A lot of memories will last, however.

For Scarborough residents it will be more convenient but for many of the actors and stage people who live in Toronto and points north and west it will mean a longer trek. It will be interesting to see if the shift has any effect. I have a feeling that audiences will grow. (I still feel that is should have had 400 or more seats.)

IT'S FOR THE LIBRARY.

On April 4th on Scarborough Cable's Channel 10 there will be a Celebrity Auction. A chance for you to buy the opportunity to go on a tour of the new Massey Hall with Arnold Edinborough or spend a day with Brian Linehan at CITY-TV while he interviews a famous celebrity. Or you might get a weekend for two in Montreal, a ballet slipper from you-know-who's left foot, an autographed book by a famous author, a politician's gravy-stained necktie, one of Al Waxman's T-shirts or some other wonderful item.

By air-time there will be almost 200 items and its all for a good cause. It is to help raise the funds needed for the new Scarborough College Library. We have mentioned this subject before in this column. Our College needs a place to properly store their reference books. It is a long way downtown, particularly in the winter, and our students deserve a facility close at hand.

If you would like to make a donation or help in the garnering of items for the block, please call Vera Knight at the College - local 3371.

And remember to tune in the show.

WE MAY BE TOO LATE... A curator and two Tour Guides/Interpreters are wanted for the Cornell House Museum from May to October on weekends. Museum experience is desirable for the curator. A training program is planned. For further information about these salaried positions, call Sarah Walker at 438-4826. It may be too late but it is still worth a try.

Our first appearance on the professional stage was in a Shubert Brothers road show production of The Student Prince. It was recognized as an old musical and although the glorious Romberg melodies were a delight to the ear, we felt that we were performing in a museum piece.

And yet, and yet, that production was not so far away from its debut as is the current production of Oklahoma!

Incredible as it might seem, this premiere collaboration of Rodgers and Hammerstein first appeared on Broadway one enchanted evening in 1943. It has been seen innumerable times since and never seems to wear out its welcome.

The show which is now at The Alex is a new mounting coming to us from Broadway.

However, as nearly as one can discern, the producers have been faithful to the original mounting. And, there in lies a bit of a problem. You see, the original production, while undeniably venturesome, was also undeniably produced on a virtual shoe string and... showed it.

But audiences could and did overlook the fact because of the glorious score and the great performances by Alfred Drake, Joan Edwards, Celeste Holm and Howard DaSilva to mention just a few.

To be honest, the performers in this current production are better - and we say that with no reservation - than those in the original.

However, they are stuck with production values that are not quite acceptable to the audiences of today... even those with memories of earlier productions.

And, anyone who has seen only the screen version (migawd, it's now 25 years old!) might well consider what's appearing now in our town as essence of tack... and we don't mean equestrian accoutrements!

So, if you're one of the lucky people who have secured tickets for it, go prepared for a little bit of a surprise over an apparently cheap production.

Be prepared as well however for an evening of superb singing of now beloved songs and dancing that is still almost avant garde and still a credit to its creator, Agnes DeMille.

We cavil only slightly when we suggest that the opening night stage crew, apparently trained by Sabu, have now ceased doing their elephant dances.

It's a large cast of featured performers by today's theatre standards and unfortunately we won't be able to single out those many who are deserving of praise.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT... From March 26 to 28th at 8 p.m. in the TV Studio of Scarborough College there will be presented an evening of One Act Spanish American Plays. These have been adapted from short stories by Argentinian writer, Julio Cortazar. The plays are being staged and directed by student, Anita Leon. Admission is free but a reservation is advised for space is limited. Call the school at 284-3243 for details.

ANOTHER NEW SHOW... I am looking forward to a good laugh or two when I take in the next production by the Scarborough Players. It is another one of those very mature but slightly racy and sexy farces that this company does so well. And their audiences love them. The title alone is rather cute. "NOT BY BED ALONE" is written by Georges Feydeau and will be the Player's ACTO Festival entry. The place, of course, is Sir Oliver Mowat Collegiate, Lawrence Avenue East, just across from Johns-Manville. The dates March 26, 27, 28th and the number to call is 264-2461. The price is only $4 and half that for seniors and students.

To get rid of the March blahs, this should be the answer.

Re-Discover The Joy Of Baking Bread

Many homemakers are re-discovering the joy of baking bread. Since ingredient prices keep rising, food and nutrition specialists with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food suggest ways to raise nutritional value and lower food costs.

Flour is the major ingredient and primary expense. While whole wheat flour can cost a few cents more than enriched white, it does offer more flavor, more food value, and slows down the natural staling process.

Compared to white flour, whole wheat flour has less gluten, which is the elastic protein that allows bread to stretch and rise as the yeast grows. It also contains bran which can cut the gluten strands. The result is a smaller, denser loaf. This explains why many breads are a blend of whole wheat and enriched white flours. For the greatest success with homemade whole wheat bread, develop the gluten thoroughly. Beat the white flour-liquid mixture well, by hand or by electric mixer, before the whole wheat flour is stirred in.

If you plan to make a large quantity of bread, buy yeast in a can rather than in envelopes. You can save money this way. If the recipe requires one envelope, measure 15 millilitres (mL) or one level tablespoon. The can's snug-fitting plastic lid keeps the yeast fresh once it has been opened.

Many recipes call for more yeast than is necessary. Unless you are using only whole wheat flour, one envelope or 15 mL is enough for two average-sized loaves.

To lower cost and calories, reduce the amount of sugar and fat. The bread will just be as good, especially if it is kept frozen. Slice it before freezing and then thaw the amount needed each day.

Nutritional value can be increased economically by using the skim milk instead of water and by adding 125 mL (about a half cup) of wheat germ for every two loaves. The pale yellow raw wheat germ, which is much cheaper than the brown toasted variety, should be stored in the freezer.

Bread can be made over a 24-hour period. Mix and knead the dough one evening. Put it in a bowl large enough to hold when doubled and leave it at room temperature for 20 to 30 minutes to start the rising process. Cover tightly with plastic film or foil and refrigerate. The next night, punch the dough down.

shape it and let rise until double in size. Remember the dough may take a little longer to rise because it's cold. Place the dough in pans and bake. The results will be delicious and nutritious.

Ontario Maple Syrup

When spring is in the air, thoughts of Ontario maple syrup come to mind. Its sweet, rich flavor enhances many foods.

Home storage of Ontario maple syrup is simple, say marketing specialists at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. Small, sterilized, sealed containers may be stored in a cool, dry place for several months, or in the freezer for up to one year. Larger containers of maple syrup should be used within a short time or be repacked and frozen for longer storage. Transfer maple syrup to small freezer containers, leaving a one-inch headspace for expansion, then freeze.

Maple syrup freezes to a thick consistency. To make it pourable, let it thaw at room temperature for half an hour, then shake well. Once opened, however, always reclose containers tightly and store them in the refrigerator or freezer. And be sure to use some of that Ontario maple syrup you keep on hand for making delicious Maple Nut Muffins.

MAPLE NUT MUFFINS

1 2 cup maple syrup
2 tbs melted butter
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
2 cups all-purpose flour
3 tsp baking powder
1 tsp salt
1 cup milk
3 tbs maple syrup
1/4 cup salad oil
1 egg

Grease 12 large muffin cups. Put 2 tsp maple syrup, 1 2 tsp melted butter and 1 tsp chopped nuts into each muffin cup. Set aside. Sift flour, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Mix remaining ingredients together. Add to flour mixture, stirring with a fork, just to blend. Spoon into muffin cups, filling about two-thirds full. Bake at 220°C (425°F) for 20 minutes. Invert on rack set on waxed paper. Leave two to three minutes. Remove pan. Serve warm or cold. Makes 12 muffins.

Ontario Greenhouse

It's time for Ontarians to enjoy fresh rhubarb and lettuce from Ontario's greenhouses. Buy some soon, urge marketing specialists at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Even when the weather is chilly, we can enjoy fresh Ontario produce. So look for fresh Ontario greenhouse rhubarb and lettuce on your next shopping trip.

Fran Lauzon's family often has fish more than once a week. Here are some of his favorite recipes. Sole a la Grecque.

Frequent Fish Meals

With meat prices soaring into the stratosphere, how do you serve your family a variety of tasty, nutritious meals yet still stay within your budget?

"Easy!" says Toronto's Fran Lauzon. "Serve them fish more often."

Fran's family enjoy seafood meals at least once a week.

"I guess you'd call us real fish addicts," says Fran Lauzon. Fran lives with her 18-year-old son Cliff and her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Cliff Stokes. As Fran, an advertising executive, works full-time, her mother is the family cook.

"And she knows," says Fran, "that any time, any way she serves fish, we'll all enjoy it."

"My mother and I watch our weight, so we're usually on diets. We sort of start every Monday and it lasts until Wednesday or Thursday."

"That's one reason we eat so much fish," she laughs.

"But, of course, we really like it. When my folks go out to dinner, they invariably order fish. And I love going to Japanese restaurants and eating it raw."

PREFER SOLE

Fran says sole is the family favourite, though they also frequently enjoy ocean perch and haddock.

"You can do so much with sole," she says. "When we're dieting we poach it in the oven with a little skim milk, lemon and spices. At other times we fry it in butter and add our own special dash of spices.

"Sometimes we do it as a casserole with stewed tomatoes, green pepper and onions. Fish as a casserole is a great dish to serve guests because you can prepare it ahead of time and just put it in the oven and forget it until you're ready to serve. You don't have to be up and down all the time attending to the meal."

Fran says one reason her family enjoys fish is because it's nutritious. "That goes without saying," she says.

"And it's also economical. With recipes, a little fish goes a long way. And the price of fish doesn't fluctuate as much as steak and other meat. There are usually several frozen fish specials at the supermarket each week, so we take advantage of them. We have a freezer."

Fran says her family often has fish more than once a week.

"Sometimes," she says, "we feel like a take-out treat. And it usually ends up to be — you guessed it! — fish and chips."

FAVOURITE RECIPE

Here is one of Fran's favourite sole recipes (but other fish can be substituted).

Sole a la Grecque

1 lb sole fillets (or haddock or Boston bluefish)

2 tbs olive oil
2 medium onions, in rings
1 garlic bud, crushed
1 4 cup fresh parsley, minced
2 large tomatoes (fresh or canned)
1 8 tsp oregano salt and pepper
2 tbs dry white wine or water
1 1 2 tsp lemon juice
6 slices lemon

Preparation: Heat oven to 350 deg. F. Butter a dish 10"x6"x1 1/2".

Cut fish into pieces. Heat oil in pan. Cook onions, garlic and parsley on low heat, three minutes. Peel tomatoes. Cut one in half and slice the other half in six thin slices. Chop 1 1/2 tomatoes and add to the preparation in the frying pan. Add oregano, salt and pepper, stirring. Cook two minutes on low heat. Add wine or water, continue to stir.

Put half of this preparation in buttered dish, spreading it uniformly. Arrange fish on top, spray on lemon juice and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with the rest of the onion preparation.

Alternate slices of tomatoe and slices of lemon on top. Bake for 30 minutes or until fish is flaky. (Serves: 4)

If you'd like more recipes or ideas for fish, write to: North Atlantic Seafood Association, P.O. Box 9538, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0E6.

It is then, and only then that people wonder where are they going to get it fixed. In most cases they look in the yellow pages, and pick out the biggest ad, or they remember the name of some shop from a radio commercial. But they don't stop to think that in order to pay for that big ad, or fancy Radio or Television commercial, they have to make a lot more profit. Somebody has to pay for it... and that's you.

NEW-YORK SPAGHETTI & PIZZA-PALACE

Features quality pizza & fast service

3160 Eglinton Ave. E. 267-4697

(at Marlham Road)

Unfortunately the truly great pizza places are few and far between, as there are a lot of cost-conscious operators who are only interested in profit.

The results are: Crusts that look and taste like cooked cardboard, sauce that is equal to ketchup, cheese that is similar to melted plastic, and those extras you ordered are so sparse that you have to look to be able to find them.

However, there are still some pizza places that take pride in their pizzas, and New York Spaghetti & Pizza Palace, should be the proudest of them all.

This firm has been serving our community since 1971, and is capably directed by Mr. Jim Syfras, and Mr. Jim Nikolakakis.

Here they make their own crust, and that's a big difference, then they add their own home-made sauce, which is tasty and tangy, plus Quality Cheese to enhance the flavour, and now you can top it with your choice of Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Peppers, Anchovies, etc., to suit your own particular tastes. Now there is a pizza that would even make the Italians proud.

As well as pizza, they also serve Spaghetti, Lasagna, Ravioli, B.B.Q. Chicken, and Sandwiches, to offer you a little variety.

Instead of experimenting with this place and that, call the only place for quality pizza, etc., New York Spaghetti & Pizza Palace, where they put a little pride, and a lot of taste in the oven with every pizza they make. To all of our readers, they will make you this special offer. Just bring in this story, and they will give you $1.00 off the regular price.

Now that's quality.

You will find that the products of this firm are not only modern in design, but they have also proven to be of great value in economy and in appearance. From the standpoint of economy, they will certainly help to save on your fuel bills, and with today's rising cost of heating fuel, it is of utmost importance to reduce the loss of heat in our homes.

Whatever your requirements in products to improve your home, stop in at their showroom, bring along your plans and dimensions, or call them at 752-0115, and have them stop around. You can be very confident that you will get quality products, skillfully manufactured, and equally important, from a well-established local company that will be around for many more years to come.

Stop in and see their display at the Home Show in April.

HEALTH FOODS

A business with people at heart

2885 Lawrence Ave. E. 266-0549
(at Brimley-Hillside Plaza)

Today, more and more people are becoming concerned about their health, and proper diet, because the two go hand in hand. A good, well balanced diet is one way to ensure good health. However, most of us require some type of vitamins, or food supplements, to maintain a proper balance within our systems.

A lot of people in Metro East, have found the answer to these problems at Green Beans Ltd. This firm has been established since September 1977, and is capably directed by Miss Michele Sweeney, who has been expanding the lines of products, to meet the needs of her customers.

Here they offer a wide selection of: Natural Vitamins, Natural Foods and Supplements, Herbal Remedies, High Protein and Food Supplements, Bakery Products, Grains, Cheese, Peanut Butter, Yogurt, Health Books and Natural Beauty Aids.

For many centuries, herbs have been used as an effective means of prevention, and the treatment of bodily ailments, and are one of the best ways to keep your body free of chemicals.

The saying, "You are what you eat", is not entirely true, because we are, what our cells in our bodies derive from what we eat. So if good health is important to you, then start with the right foods, and proper diet.

Better still, start with a visit to Green Beans Ltd., where they have the variety, quality, and value in health foods and supplements to meet your needs.

Versatile Auto Services

Your full-service

car care centre

1950 Lawrence Ave. E. (at Towers) 759-5789

An automobile today represents a fair investment, so we must protect this investment through proper maintenance and better car care. Therefore it is important to find good service facilities, not just for fuel and lubrication, but one that has the staff knowledge and is capable of all types of car care and maintenance.

Versatile Auto Services has the best in "Texaco" gas and oil products, and is a full-service station, where the staff are only too happy to check under your hood, while filling up your vehicle.

This service centre opened in June 1979, and is capably owned and operated by Mr. Leslie Newman, who has over twenty years of experience in automotive servicing. They provide expert service in: Tune-Ups, Major & Minor Repairs, Brakes (both Disc and Drum), Shocks, Mufflers, Tires, Batteries, and Accessories, and they have become known throughout Scarborough, as the "Volvo Specialists".

With the high cost of living today, everyone is trying to save in every way possible. However, make sure that the little you save at the gas pumps (by going to a self-serve) are worth it. The pennies you save are costing you dollars, due to lack of under the hood inspection by an attendant, whose experienced eye will see that everything is being looked after properly. In the end it will make "cents" to you. "Leslie" and his staff deserve credit for maintaining speedy and efficient Service and Repairs, because they fully realize that the motoring public these days are in a hurry.

Taking Care Of Business

Being your own boss is a great feeling, whether you own a small restaurant or sell antiques. You may own several stores or earn income in addition to your regular job, income such as fees for free-lance consulting or design work for example. No matter what the size of your business, keeping good records is a must. You are required to keep records of all self-employment income and expenses. Complete and accurate records will enable you to prepare your tax return correctly. They can even help you save money, by reminding you of deductible expenses which can reduce your taxable income. Your records should give a systematic account of income, expenses and other information for income tax purposes. They should also include supporting material such as sales invoices, receipts, contracts and bank statements. This documentation will prevent problems which arise when your return is audited by Revenue Canada, Taxation. You should record any income you receive and keep the original sales slip, invoice or fee statement to substantiate the entry in your accounting books. Original documents should be kept in either chronological or numerical order. If you sell merchandise of any kind, you must prepare an annual inventory to establish the cost of goods sold. This cost is deducted from your sales for the year to determine your gross profit. You then subtract your expenses to find your net income from self-employment. Keeping an inventory is not necessary, however, for doctors, lawyers, accountants and individuals in similar occupations. You cannot claim business expenses unless you can provide evidence such as receipts, invoices or vouchers. The onus for providing proof is entirely on you. Expenses are usually deductible if incurred for the sole purpose of producing income. Common business expenses include the cost of telephone rental and office supplies, car expenses - for business use only - and advertising and accounting fees. Don't throw out any of your records once your tax return has been assessed! Books and records must be kept until you request and receive written permission to dispose of them from your District Taxation Office. While certain permanent business records should be kept indefinitely, most others must be retained for at least five years. The tax pamphlet Income Tax and the Small Business and the Leaflet You were asking about starting a business can help you become a tax-smart business person. They're available, free of charge, from the nearest District Taxation Office.

10th Shamrock Tournney

The biggest hockey tournament of the year starts in Pickering in April and if previous years are any indication more than 12,000 people will pay their way in to see the 10th annual Shamrock Tournament put on by West Hill Minor Hockey Association.

A total of 124 teams from across Ontario will take part with no one going home empty-handed. The Shamrock is a highly-competitive tournament, but the emphasis is not on winning; rather on how you play the game.

Last year, for example, a team from Jordan Station, just outside St. Catharines, took a couple of lopsided losses, but the league's president immediately put in a bid to be included in this year's tournament because the players and parents were so impressed with the quality of sportsmanship and organization.

And that, says tournament chairman Pete Powell, is what minor hockey should be about.

Play starts Fri. April 10 and runs from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and then through the following weekend, including Good Friday, Saturday and Easter Sunday.

All Scarborough hockey associations take part along with teams from Jordan Station, Thornhill, Oshawa, Ajax, Whitby, Stroud and Pickering.

From the west end of the city come West End Vikings, a tough, competitive league which expects to win the juvenile division while being competitive in other age groups.

Alderman Doug Colling will handle opening ceremonies along with Powell, Scarborough Hockey Association president Don Montgomery and piper George Rennie, who has opened all ten Shamrocks.

It costs $1 to get in to this, the biggest house league select and house league tournament in Canada, and it takes place at Art Thompson Arena in Pickering where there's ample supervised parking.

The Shamrock embraces all age groups from the novices, five and six-year olds, through juvenile, 17 and 18 year olds.

ROSEBANK ROAD SCHOOL NEWS

Public Speaking: We take this opportunity to thank Mrs. M. Holland for her coordination of the intermediate competitions. The following fine speakers from Grades Seven and Eight presented speeches on well-researched topics and subsequently made a difficult job for the judges:

Brett Chapman - Grade 7, Tyrone Zdravko - Grade 7, Sarah Wateridge - Grade 7, Vincent Chien - Grade 7, Danny Blaser - Grade 8, Nicole Taylor - Grade 8, Nicky Mehta - Grade 8, Kim Pinkerton - Grade 9, Nicole Keith - Grade 8.

All of these speakers deserve commendation for their fine efforts at oratory. Sarah Wateridge of Grade 7, emerged as the winner with her award winning speech on The Beatles, and went on to represent our school well at the Pickering Intermediate Area Meet. Sarah's name will be engraved on the Intermediate School Trophy for Public Speaking, and she will be the recipient of the Public Speaking Cup at the Closing Exercises in June. Congratulations is extended to Sarah for her fine accomplishments.

Vincent Chien, with his humorous speech on the "Summer Itch" was the runner-up to the champion in this competition. We also send special thanks to our judges Mrs. M. Hearn, Mrs. L. Shumovich and Mr. Fortier for their efforts on behalf of the school.

Junior Competitions: Grades 4, 5 & 6 - On Fri. Feb. 27, our junior classes visited the gym for an enjoyable assembly of Junior Public Speaking. We thank our judges Mrs. L. Murphy, Mr. H. Inglis and Mrs. A. Hummel.

The following students were the finalists in this division: Stephanie Taylor - Grade 6, Michelle Boughton - Grade 6, Michelle Hjelm - Grade 6, Robbie Goffin - Grade 5, Fran McDonald - Grade 5, Jennifer Symthson - Grade 6, Mike Mancuso - Grade 6, Tara McKay - Grade 4 and Kristen Hood - Grade 4.

The competition, as usual, through the fine efforts of our students and teachers was of the highest calibre, and therefore we congratulate all participants. The runnerup to the champion was Fran McDonald.

Michelle Hjelm of Grade Six emerged as the champion of the Junior Contest. Michelle's speech on commercials, won her acclaim and took her on to the Pickering Area Competition, held at the Claremont Public School on Tues. Mar. 3rd. So well was her speech received, that Michelle won the area competition over speeches from all the Pickering Schools. We are proud of the honour she has brought to herself personally and to our school.

Michelle has not only won the Rosebank Junior School Trophy, but also has brought home the Pickering Town Trophy to the School Trophy Case. Michelle will be the recipient of the Junior Public Speaking Cup at the closing exercises in June of 1981. She has sustained the standard of public speaking for Rosebank. Her name will be the third winning Rosebank name in the history of the four year trophy.

Since the inception of the Township Trophy, it has been returned through our fine orators. The following Rosebank students are the three Township winners: 1978 - Sarah McDonald, 1980 - Darryl Stewart, 1981 Michelle Hjelm. Congratulations Michelle!!

Large Refunds This Year

Some self-employed taxpayers can look forward to larger refunds this year. Starting in the 1980 taxation year they can deduct from their income, wages or salary paid to a spouse.

This new deduction will be especially welcome to farmers and owners of small and medium-size businesses, whose wives are often actively involved.

However, deductions for wages paid to a spouse must meet certain conditions. The wages must actually have been paid during the year and the services for which they were paid must have been for the production of income. A further condition is that the services would otherwise have required the employment of hired help, and the wages must be reasonable - they must be equivalent to the amount an outside worker would have been paid for the same services.

A taxpayer who employs a husband or wife must deduct Canada Pension Plan contributions from the spouse's wages. However, salaries paid to spouses do not constitute insurable earnings for Unemployment Insurance purposes and therefore U.I. premiums are not applicable.

Finally, it should be noted that the new deduction does not apply to amounts paid by taxpayers to their spouse for domestic duties or child care. To be eligible for the deduction the wages must have been paid for business reasons.
