Brooklin Spring Fair On Weekend

The 70th annual Brooklin Spring Fair, to be held June 4 to 7, will have some new attractions this year, as well as the old favorites. The Trans-Canada Hell Drivers will entertain on Sat. June 6 on the racetrack. Dangerous high-speed precision truck driving, ramp-to-ramp car jumps, and motorcycle tricks are featured in the show, which has given performances all over North America in the last 15 years, including many at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand.

The show, which begins at 7 p.m. and lasts an hour and a half, is included free with your admission to the fairgrounds.

Also new this year is the Carlsberg Championship Team and Wagon to be shown all four days of the fair. The Carlsberg Wagon is made from solid oak and decorated by two of Canada's foremost wood carvers. It carries 17 solid oak beer barrels, replicas of those used in 19th century Denmark.

An impressive hand-made, patent-leather harness with solid brass fittings, and the prize-winning Carlsberg Belgian show horses will also be on display.

The tractor pull has been expanded this year and will be held on Friday evening and also after the Hell Drivers act on Saturday.

Saturday's highlights include the midway, Appaloosa horse show, parade, horse and dairy cattle judging, beer tent and heavy horse draw.

On Sunday there will be the pancake breakfast, Quarter Horse show, midway, bed and bath race, sheep and beef cattle judging, harness racing, log sawing and nail driving contests, and the Old Time Fiddlers' Contest.

Teach Kids Horse Riding

Ward Gavin will begin teaching Equestrian lessons through the Town of Pickering Department of Parks and Recreation this summer with over 25 years of teaching experience.

Born in Nottinghamshire, England, Gavin came to Canada in 1953 and ran an Equestrian Centre in Scarborough for 18 years before moving to the Pickering area.

Gavin now owns the Jolly Huntsman Equestrian Centre and has just built two large indoor arenas.

"We have every type of modern facility available," Gavin said, including a fixed hunter course, full stadium jumps and a cross country course.

Students instruction will emphasize riding, grooming, handling and anatomy. For information of beginners and advanced lessons consult the Pickering Department of Parks and Recreation Newsletter.

Gavin said he gets most of his enjoyment out of teaching "serious" riders and likes to see his pupils "go on" in their instruction and competing.

"Some people take riding lessons because they think it is glamorous... it's not," Gavin said.

Gavin has been riding for 34 years and has competed in a multitude of competitions across the country.

As well as instructing lessons Gavin also holds an Equestrian Camp for children under the age of 14 also organized by the Town of Pickering Department of Parks and Recreation. The first session will begin June 29.

Equestrian Camp leads the children to an understanding of anatomy and care of the horse as well as grooming, feeding and riding.

Because of Gavin's indoor arenas both classes and camps will be held regardless of weather conditions.

Lots To Do This Summer For Kids Under 14

Whoever said that there was nothing for children to do in Pickering?

Well, the Town of Pickering Department of Parks and Recreation has been busy all winter arranging summer programs to entertain any restless child 14 years of age and under.

Sportsminded youngsters will enjoy the variety of sporting activities offered by Camp Sportica.

Included in this extensive list are archery, swimming, tennis, lacrosse, floor hockey and track and field. Windsurfing is a new option in Camp Sportica this year and one that is expected to be the highlight of the summer. Lessons will be given by qualified instructors in the controlled enclosed area of the Petticoat Creek Conservation Area pool, Canada's largest outdoor manmade pool.

For adventurous children Camp Pidaca is offering a new "outward bound" camp involving campers in outdoor survival activities emphasizing camping skills and crafts as well as orienteering games and backpacking.

"Skill Awards" will be awarded to successful senior campers.

In '81 children enrolled in the Arts in Action program will have the opportunity of setting up, producing and displaying their own film.

The campers will work together to film a production which will be shown to parents on a designated day.

For children interested in horses, an Equestrian Camp will be held at the Jolly Huntsman Equestrian Centre to teach campers anatomy and care of the horse including at least one full hour of riding lessons per day.

To benefit working parents this summer an "Extend-a-camp" is being offered. This will allow parents to leave their children one hour earlier and collect them three hours later; rather than following the regular hours of 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

And finally, just to prove there is something for everyone, a two week long summer hockey school will provide instruction to children between the ages of six and 15 in various hockey skills.

Every recreation program is reasonably priced; for less than the cost of a babysitter children can be enrolled in exciting and educational sports, arts and outdoor activities.

Prices and program details are available in the 1981 Department of Parks and Recreation Newsletter.

You can pick up a copy at most local libraries or have one mailed to you by calling the Department of Parks and Recreation at 683-2760.

Speaking To You

Scott Fennell M.P. Ontario Riding

The nationalization of the energy sector is just the beginning. The government's wider intentions were revealed last month when it permitted a rumour that it has its eyes on the Canada Development Corporation.

The CDC was originally set up to foster Canadian business ownership. It has done its job well and mainly because it has operated as a private sector company, unrestricted by government policy. The CDC is 49 percent owned by the federal government and 51 percent owned by 30,000 small investors scattered throughout the country. Presently the CDC has assets of $3.4 billion in such diverse fields as mining, oil and gas, fish processing, medical laboratories and high technology. It has a cash flow of $331 million and the CDC's revenues were up by 17 percent last year.

This successful picture is the result of a sharply run, profit-motivated entity. As a major shareholder, the federal government has some members on the board of directors. But it has been private sector control and discipline that has made the CDC the success it is.

And now Finance Minister Allan MacEachen has asked former Liberal political candidate Maurice Strong to become Chairman of the CDC. Mr. Strong is a government gopher whenever Pierre Trudeau wants to intrude into the private sector. He has played important roles in CIDA, PetroCan, and recently helped negotiate Petrocan's costly purchase of Petrofina. Gasoline consumers will pay almost a million dollars to a Swiss company Mr. Strong works for in return for his "help".

The government wants to take control of the CDC through Mr. Strong to further its interventionist tactics in Canada's manufacturing and investment communities. The thought alone sent CDC's share price down $1.25.

Because of the public flurry over the government's plans, Mr. Strong will not go for the CDC Chairmanship at this time. He'll just sit on the board of directors. I think the government will just wait a while until the fuss dies down and then proceed with its plans.

This would be bad. The 30,000 private shareholders invested in the CDC because they were promised it wouldn't become, in the words of CDC President Anthony Hampson, "a saviour of sick companies, employment agency or regional disparity-eliminating machine". Now the government seems to want the CDC to become precisely this, an eventual money-losing Liberal political rest home.

It won't just be the shareholders who will be cheated. It will be the entire Canadian public. The CDC has accumulated skimpy Canadian capital and used it in a concentrated and beneficial way. Why waste all this just so government can take over more of the private sector? The CDC should be left alone.

Having Trouble Separating Fact From Fiction

by Gay Abbate

The controversy in Scarborough over Light Rail Transit (LRT) versus the new Intermediate Capacity Transit System (ICTS) continues to escalate as it becomes increasingly difficult to separate fact from fiction.

Scarborough was well on its way to the realization of the LRT. The Provincial government had signed a ten-year, $13 million subsidy agreement, tenders were out and construction was about to begin.

Out of left field, or should we say, left track, came the ICTS. Some council members rushed to Kingston to get a first hand look and upon return, voted to request the TTC to study the feasibility of the ICTS over the LRT.

In 1973, the Davis government established the Urban Transportation Development Corporation (UDTC) with a mandate to design, develop and market new equipment and new systems thereby improving transit technology.

In 1975, with a $5.8 million contract with the Ministry of Transportation, the UDTC gave birth to the ICTS project.

Although test vehicles have been in existence since 1978, the ICTS has not yet been put into operation anywhere in the world.

In his maiden speech before the Legislative Assembly, Alan Robinson, MPP for Scarborough-Ellesmere, praised the advantages of the ICTS: low interior noise, smooth rides and linear induction motor which ensures reliable acceleration and braking.

According to some others, the disadvantages outweigh the advantages.

Opponents of the ICTS provide the following arguments:

- The ICTS will have to be elevated because the "live wire" providing electricity would be a hazard to pedestrians and vehicles alike.

- The escalating cost of construction for an elevated system would rule out any rapid system to Malvern and to other northern areas of Scarborough.

- The ICTS is new, untried and therefore the debugging process could be a lengthy one.

- Because the ICTS is computer operated, a high number of specialized technicians would be needed. These technicians would demand a higher salary than would TTC operators.

Mayor Gus Harris sums up the disadvantages:

"It is my opinion the dangers associated with any delay or changing technologies now could cause unpredictable problems, added costs and environmental disruption. The public is not looking for 'thrills'. They are looking for a fast, comfortable, safe and economical ride to the town centre and the shopping centre.

Proponents of the ICTS state that the cost factor is the same as for the LRT. To the town centre, the cost would be the same as the LRT, and beyond the town centre, the cost would be even less.

Another factor cited by ICTS supporters is its accessibility by handicapped and disabled.

As for the LRT, the advantages are many:
- At street intersections, the LRT can be grade-separated or controlled by computer-synchronized traffic signals.

- The cars can operate singly or in train formation depending on traffic requirements.

- If necessary, the LRT can mix with normal traffic.

- The LRT has been criticized for its noise and vibrations in Toronto.

The LRT cars in Toronto run on existing concrete bedding and tracks designed for a different wheel. The designs for the LRT in Scarborough call for special bedding and tracks to absorb noise and vibrations.

- The LRT can be either depressed, at grade-level or elevated.

It is commonly believed that the ICTS is a Canadian product, manufactured in Canada by Canadians.

According to a press release circulated by Citizens for Rapid Transit, a Vancouver based group, the automatic control system was developed by a German subsidiary of IIT; the linear induction motor was developed by a German firm; the computers are American; the power inverters are European and the design work was done by an American consulting firm.

On the other hand, a number of Canadian companies has the technology to build the LRT cars. It is also commonly believed that Hamilton has already placed their order for the ICTS.

In a communique dated May 26, 1981, William Powell, Mayor of Hamilton states that "studies are still under way to determine the feasibility of installing the elevated system in Hamilton. He adds: "Until the complete studies including the alternatives as well as the environmental studies have been carried out, and we have more information on the effects of the system in the areas where it will be operating, I am not prepared to support this system."

There is a possibility that the books of the UDTC will be examined by the provincial auditor.

According to Eric Cunningham (L - Wentworth North), about $100 million may have been "spent unwisely" by the UDTC in designing and promoting the ICTS.

A number of Scarborough politicians believe we should go ahead with the LRT and build within it the capacity for conversion to the ICTS at a later date.

According to Frank Faubert, newly elected Ward 5 Alderman, any delay would merely entrench the town centre as a car-oriented facility.

The debate over the LRT

Widen McCowan

It seems to us frequently driving the McCowan Rd. corridor from Ellersmere Rd. to Sheppard Ave. E. that it is an expensive and ridiculous corridor of traffic.

If the object is to move vehicles as efficiently as possible, then this strip of road fails the test. First of all, all the traffic lights - there are no less than SEVEN between Ellesmere and Sheppard - should be timed to allow vehicles to move through this corridor smoothly, instead of requiring a stop at five of the seven lights each and every time.

If McCowan Rd. is to bear all the north-south traffic in this area, then the road should be widened, and the land is there already. The trend to resisting traffic on side streets may be a good idea; but side streets would be better off if traffic can move more efficiently on main streets like McCowan Rd.

What about it, our Metro representatives?

Change The Colour

Ontario has the dubious reputation of having the only law in the world requiring all margarine produced and sold within its boundaries to be either white or orange-yellow in colour.

The Institute of Edible Oil Foods is attempting to seek Scarborough support in their attempt to have the Ontario Oleomargarine Act amended. If successful, margarine would be pale yellow in colour. This would be a double boon for the consumer: not only would margarine look more natural but it would have less colour additives than it does now.

In a letter to Scarborough Council, Institute president, John Heggie, stated that the change in colour would present no problem to the consumer since both margarine and butter are clearly labelled. According to the Institute, Ontario consumers are being denied the right to purchase margarine in a more natural colour. Board of Control unanimously voiced their support for a change in the law.

Margarine in Canada has an interesting history. From 1886 to 1948, the manufacture of margarine was illegal. Even though the law against margarine was revoked by the Supreme Court of Canada, it was still discriminated against by the federal government which imposed a 12% tax on margarine, a tax not lifted until 1971.

Even then, Newfoundland was the only province not to impose colouring laws on margarine. Everywhere else in Canada, margarine came only in white and was accompanied by a little package of colouring which was to be added by the consumer. Since then, every province with the exception of Ontario has dropped colouring laws.

Just Around The Corner

By Gordon Ashberry

Last week was a very interesting one for me although there was very little activity of the kind that I usually discuss. I did not attend a play or a concert.

I did attend two parties of a somewhat similar nature and I enjoyed them both.

JOHN WIMBS ROAST

The first one was on the 27th and it was in honour of our good friend John Wimbs. Almost 500 of his friends were on hand to wish John and his family the very best as they depart for Calgary.

It was interesting to note that among those present were members of all levels of government, council members from neighbouring municipalities, and business associates.

The arts were well represented and there were a lot of 'Just good friends'.

John was the butt of many jokes, some clever, some cute, but all good-natured as he was tendered a "ROAST". A roast has now gained a degree of significance that even surpasses a standing ovation. And John got both.

John, as is the custom, was allowed the last word. And you know what happens when he becomes 'WIMBSICAL'.

His natural scottish humour and quick wit kept the proceedings in an uproar. He definitely was the best act on the bill.

I liked the line he used to explain the effect of losing his bid for mayor of Scarborough. "The only job I could get," he said, "was as a scuba diver for the National Waterbed Company."

That gives you some idea of the high level of humour.

We'll miss John Wimbs. You did not have to agree with him, but, you had to like him.

MY FAREWELL TO BELL

The other party was last Friday night and I was the recipient of the nice things. Naturally it was about a places to go

fifth in size but it was a party that was lively and had a great deal of significance for me.

That was my last official day as an employee of Bell Canada and in the evening, my retirement party was held at the Embers.

It was 34 years ago this August that I joined the telephone company and I must say that my association with them has always been pleasant.

There were some pleasant surprises among the gifts but one was special to me. It was a Scarborough Civic Centre Plate that was presented by my buddy, Brian Harrison, on behalf of the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Scarborough.

It is one of the nicest Thank-you's that I have ever received.

Those of you that have gone through this retirement bit will have some sort of empathy with me. There are certain things that I apparently will have to learn to accept.

Adjusting to retirement is expected to be traumatic, if I listen to those who have yet to earn the right to hang up the skates. But having spoken to many who already have joined the club, it looks pretty good.

The one question that bothers me is the concern over what is one going to do with one's time. As if that should be a problem.

I know that it is for some people and those I pity. But as we both know there is so much opportunity available here in our neck-of-the-woods that a person can not keep up with it. You just have to look around a bit.

I will be continuing with the column and with Channel 10 and involvement in anything else that may come up. And use the spare time to do some of the things that I did not find time for before.

So thank you for the past 34 years Ma Bell, but it is now on to the next 34.

G&S NIGHT

June 3rd is opening night for the Gilbert and Sullivan classic, "IOLANTHE" being presented by the Metropolitan Music Theatre. This is the Scarborough based group that I have told you about before.

I am particularly interested in watching them grow as I was invited to attend their first show and it was evident that Margaret Alderton was forming a group that had talent and promise.

This show will be presented with imagination and with talent. There will be a full orchestra and chorus and many of the featured singers are experienced G&S performers.

The operetta runs until June 6th at Castle Frank High School Theatre and tickets will be available at the door. Or you can call 491-3934.

THIS IS THE WEEK
Scarborough Players Cabaret, 1981 Version, opens this Friday and Saturday nights. It is repeated next Friday and Saturday and there is but a small chance that you can still get a ticket.

It is an annual event that features, a floor show, dancing, a bar and a buffet. If you feel lucky you can call 298-3817 or 264-2461 for reservations.

The place is Centennial

Recreation Centre on Ellesmere Rd. just west of Markham Rd.

HAVE BAND, NEED PLAYERS

The Centennial Community Band is now composed of 25 lonely musicians who would like to increase their number to about 60.

They have a fine library of music and equipment and are supported by Centennial College. It doesn't cost a thing to belong and they rehearse each Tuesday evening.

If you oompah, tootle or blare away, please call David Craig at 447-5276 after 2 p.m. any day for details and a hearty welcome.

CONGRATULATIONS

Did you know that Arts Scarborough now has a membership of 818 individuals and 43 groups. It seems such a short time go when this organization was formed. Again, it proves that there is a lot of people with a lot of talent near here.

ADVANCE NOTICE

It has been announced that Meredith Willson's popular musical "Music Man" will be presented next March 4, 5, 6 and 7 at Cedarbrae Collegiate.

It will be the annual Scarborough Choral Society presentation and I am marking the dates on my calendar. Each year they present an excellent show.

Scarborough Dukes of Harmony will be concertizing at Woburn Collegiate on June 12 and 13. Enough said for those who enjoy Barbershop singing. Except that tickets are available from Rusty Chambers at 298-7183.

TURF TURNED

The nine year wait for a proper library appears to be nearly over for 4000 students and 250 faculty members at Scarborough College.

The Hon. Margaret Birch had the privilege of turning the first sod on Tuesday afternoon.

It has been a year long fund raising campaign and those of us who were in any way involved know how important the project is and we know how hard many people worked. But it now appears to be in the bag.

Tom Abel, co-chairman of the campaign has just been informed that INCO has decided to add $60,000 to the bundle. This is added to the $400,000 pledged by the students and U of T's contribution of over $1 million.

Private contributions account for the rest of the $2.8 million that the library is expected to cost.

Allow us to add our congratulations. It is a worthwhile project. Let us hope that we will soon be invited to the opening of the bibliotheque.

Benefit From Exhibit

One of Canada's most popular and internationally famous artists, Robert Bateman, will be the star of an unusual four-day art exhibition and demonstration.

Not Enough Water

The Canadian Pacific Railway is drawing up plans to connect the emergency water supply of its Agincourt Freight Yard to the Scarborough municipal system under pressure from the Scarborough Fire Department.

Following the 1979 derailment and explosion of a C.P.R. freight train in Mississauga, Scarborough Fire Chief Bill Wretham, inspected the water supply of the Agincourt yard and found the 150,000 gallon tank a "totally inadequate" safeguard against a similar disaster in which large amounts of water would be required.

According to Chief Wretham, "the yards are as busy as ever and the potential for disaster is still as great".

The Scarborough Public Utilities Commission has advised the railway to install filters to ensure that the yard's water supply, which operates on a well system, would not back up and contaminate the municipal supply.

After a year's delay the Scarborough Utilities feels that the C.P.R. is undertaking the work now.

Report From Queen's Park By George Ashe M.P.P.

Just for the fun of it ...

Perhaps one of the first things which comes to mind when the Ministry of Culture and Recreation is mentioned is "Wintario". But the Ministry has also developed programs to encourage Ontarians to make physical activity a natural part of their lifestyle.

Most of us know that regular physical activity can make us feel better, look better and work better. But, let's face it - many other commitments can get in the way.

"I just don't have the time .. or the skills ... or the stamina to participate in a regular exercise program" is the reaction of many people to "exercise". But perhaps many of us relate "fitness" to hours of boring exercises or just to competitive sports and few of us relate exercise programs to Fun.

The Ministry of Culture and Recreation's "FitFive" program involves a five level activity program to encourage participation in a choice of more than fifty different activities.

The "FitFive" program may offer you the chance which you have been looking for to take that first step towards a more active lifestyle - or "FitFive" may give you the encouragement you need to increase the level of activity which you are presently undertaking.

How do I get involved in "FitFive"?

This is a program in which everyone can participate - yet it remains as personal as your fingerprint. At each step, a special booklet gives you helpful information about fitness evaluation, exercise programs, nutrition, diet and heart rate. The "FitFive" information is easy to understand and simple to follow. Whether you are eighteen or eighty - whether you are already active or just getting started - now is the time to make fitness part of your life.

The challenge is part of the fun

Get more out of life - each day challenge yourself to do a little more than the day before. Walk, swim, bicycle or jog a bit further. Play a little longer - you'll notice the difference and so will your family and friends.

Just remember, that the more you do in the "FitFive" program, the better you will feel. And the better you feel, the more you will want to do. It is important to enjoy the "exercise" and even more important to stick with it.

You know what is best for you

There is no pressure in the "FitFive" program - you set the pace. It is suggested that you begin with about 15 to 20 minutes of exercise per day and as you progress through the five fitness levels, you will notice a constant improvement in your lifestyle.

It can be a family affair

If you have a young, growing family you probably want to spend as much time together as you can. For this reason, the Ministry of Culture and Recreation has designed a special Family Program - the "Family FitTogether".

There are three steps in this program which gives you and your family the opportunity to discover an active lifestyle and the great outdoors. The "Family FitTogether" program includes more than twenty-five activities which are suitable for family enjoyment.

The booklets, "FitFive" and "Family FitTogether" contain Registration forms which represent the first step towards developing a more active lifestyle. For a copy of these booklets, or for further information regarding these programs, please enquire at my Constituency Office - 37 Station Plaza in Ajax (telephone 683-6707).

BLOCK PARENTS PROGRAM

Seven Oaks Community Association is pleased to announce that the Military Trail School area now has a chairperson, and both Military Trail School and St. Bede School are actively recruiting Block Parent homes.

Because of the difference in school boundaries between the Scarborough Board of Education and the Metropolitan Separate School Board, parents of children from St. Bede School may find they actually live in Brooks Road School area. Needless to say, the three chairpersons will work together toward the success of the program in the Seven Oaks Community.

For information, applications and to replace faded signs, please contact: Brooks Road School Area, Sharon King, 284-7190; Highcastle School Area, Cheryl Green, 282-6601 and Military Trail School Area, Terry Bautista, 284-3796.

St. Joseph C.W.L. Pot Luck Supper will be held on Mon. June 22 (please note change of date) at Tina Marcelli's home, 1431 Military Trail. Watch this column for more details at a later date.

ELECTRICITY FROM URANIUM. DISCOVER ITS IMPORTANCE TO OUR ENERGY FUTURE.

In the early 1960's Ontario Hydro began to produce electricity from uranium. Today, Pickering and other nuclear stations generate, from this rich Ontario resource, one third of the electricity used in the province.

At the Nuclear Communications Centre overlooking the Pickering station, informative displays and working models help you understand nuclear energy. There's a life-size model of a nuclear reactor big enough to walk through, and closed circuit television demonstrates how it is fueled. Two mini-theatres and a 100-seat auditorium let you relax while you learn. Computer games add to the fun. A visit to the centre makes an ideal family outing. There is a public park with picnic tables. We are open daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Entrance and parking are free. Take the 401 to Brock Road S. (Interchange 64A) and follow the signs. For further information call (416) 839-0465.

President Accepts Select Service Certificate

Ross Hawe of General Motors of Canada presented the Select Service Program certificate to City Buick President Jack Carmichael.

An award display stand was received and this now stands proudly in the City Buick showroom.

In making the presentation Mr. Hawe said that only 20 dealers out of the 1100 in Canada had achieved this distinction.

Select Service is a General Motors program that measures and monitors the performance levels of the sales, parts, administrative and service departments. To become certified requires very high performance standards in 12 major dealership areas. These include Customer relations, service business operations, quality control, service business planning, tools and equipment, service management, service manpower development, departmental communication, facilities, parts, special services and truck, recreational vehicles and fleet. Object of the program is to work towards "Total Customer Satisfaction".

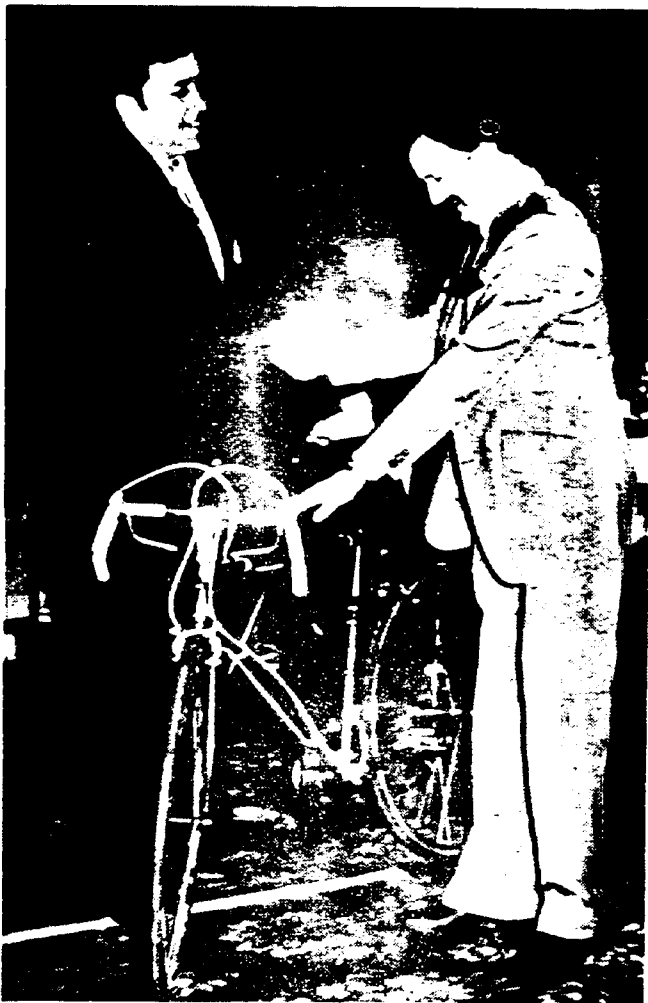

The City National Leasing glee Club, directed by Al Clarke, salutes Mr. Gunter Mettner, Corporate Controller on the occasion of his birthday.

MARGARET'S FISH & CHIPS

Whose tasty products, tell the story

15 Glen Watford Dr. 293-5622
(1 block East of Midland)

After visiting the various fish and chip places in Scarborough, and tasting their products, we have come to the conclusion that there is fish and chips, and then there's Margaret's.

Upon entering this shop, we were impressed with the cleanliness, along with the aroma of fresh fish and chips. Their experience in frying, allows their products to reach peak flavour, and with the aid of temperature controlled frying equipment, and fresh oil for frying, makes the end result worthwhile ... and you can taste the difference.

Frying is only part of the story, because at Margaret's, they start with the finest in fresh Haddock and Halibut, fresh Shrimps, Clams, and Scallops, fresh ... not frozen French Fries, Onion Rings, and Cole Slaw.

A reputation that was well earned, is worth keeping, and no one values their reputation more than Margaret's. Building this business to their full capabilities, that Margaret's portrays, is no easy task, but when you see the happy faces on their satisfied customers, you know that it has all been worthwhile.

Since 1969, when Margaret's first opened, the people from all parts of metro continue to patronize here, because the quality of the product, fried to perfection, has been consistent over the years.

If you enjoy fish and chips, why not enjoy the best from Margaret's Fish & Chips, where the customers keep coming back for more.

That is the reason why a lot of families have been investing in both camping, and travel trailers. The money that you would normally be throwing away on hotels, motels, cabins, etc., could be paying for your own trailer, and once it is paid for, think of the money you could save.

The Rouge Valley Quilters Guild

by Andrew Jones
In the last century, while the established artist strived to imitate the natural world reproducing his subjects as realistically as pen and brush would allow, the women who gathered in quilting bees were becoming the precursors to the movement that in this century, was called 'Op Art' or optical art.
The quilters wove colours into abstract designs often creating optical illusions in an age when pure abstract art was an oddity.
Quilting is still thriving today and has changed a great deal in the course of its time.
In September, 1980 Kay Sayer and a handful of interested friends formed the executive of the Rouge Valley Quilter's Guild.

At that time, the only quilting associations serving Metro Toronto were located in Etobicoke and Willowdale, a long way to travel from Scarborough.
Kay Sayer felt that there would be enough support in the area to form a Scarborough-based guild and in the year since the membership has proved her right, climbing to an impressive 96.
The exchange of skills and ideas is the prime reason for gathering members in the five general meetings held each year.

But the Guild feels that it also should serve as a standard against which quilters can compare their work and the work of others.
They encourage innovation in a highly traditional but flexible art form.

The next general meeting of the Rouge Valley Quilter's Guild will take place on Sept. 29.
Details may be obtained from June Booth at 282-4369. All those interested, quilters and nonquilters alike are invited to attend.

Centennial Students Put Vintage Bus Back On Tracks

Some Centennial students are busy body-building, but it's not their physiques they're whipping into shape.

The auto body repair students at Centennial's Ashtonbee campus are restoring a 1947 Ford bus that will be used in the CBC show "Home Fires".

The restoration work, which began in November, will "probably not be completed until next year," says Fred Bruntz, an instructor in the auto body repair program.

"We're restoring it piece by piece. We have to rebuild half the body, re-upholster it and paint it," says Bruntz. "The students are really enthusiastic about the project."

Centennial's Dean of Transportation and Industrial Power Technology (TIPT), Norman Eley, was approached last fall by the Ontario Electric Railway Historical Association (OERHA) and was asked to take on the restoration as a student project.

The association acquired the bus in 1967 from Kit-chener Transit, says OERHA Director Jim Borland. "It's the last Ford bus of that vintage in Canada."

When CBC personnel were searching for a post-war bus they approached the TTC, which then put them on to the OERHA.

"The bus is not only rusted. In 1970 vandals broke all the windows and slashed the seats' upholstery," says Borland.

He says club members repaired the windows and patched the upholstery for the bus's debut, but since the CBC wants to use it for future episodes, it really needed a major overhaul.

The OERHA is paying for all the supplies, including 310 square feet of leather that will be needed to re-upholster the seats. The estimated cost of the supplies is only a third of what labour alone would cost elsewhere.

Once the bus is restored, it will be painted by Centennial's auto body painter students.

Women's Gymnastics

Thurs. June 25th at L'Amoreaux Collegiate with warm-ups at 5 p.m. has been the date set for the 1981 Scarborough-Indianapolis Peace Games gymnastic qualification meet.

Sports chairman, Meriel Child, asks that all interested competitors contact her at 293-0881, two weeks in advance.

Age categories are, 12 and under, 13 and under, and 18 and under.

F.I.G. standards are essential for all routines and competitors must compete in all four events: balance beam, vault, uneven bars, and floor exercise.

"We hope to field a complete and hopefully the strongest team ever in girls' gymnastics," said Child.

Top contenders include: Jessica Tudos, who represented Ontario this past weekend at the National Championships in Saskatoon. Cindy Goluboff, who accompanied the same team as an alternate; Adrian Child, a national junior competitor and Diane Foyle and Elaine Smith who finished a close 1 and 2 respectively in the Ontario Senior Provincial Championships.

Meanwhile men's gymnastics sports chairman, John Woodhouse, announced that practices will be held at Winston Churchill C.I. Tuesday & Thursday evening, 7 to 10 and Saturday 2 to 4 p.m.

All those interested are to attend and may get further information by contacting John Woodhouse at 291-6066.

Both teams plan on working hard to capture the gymnastic section of the games which was won by Scarborough in 1977.

The 17 sport competition will be held this year in Scarborough on Aug. 8th and 9th.

Over the years, the question of dog control has been debated by Pickering Town Council at least once a year.

Again last Monday a notice of motion presented by Councillor Cahill to amend by-law 3903, the Parks By-law prohibiting dogs in all parks in Pickering, gave the councillors an opportunity to present their opinions on the subject.

A resident, Mrs. Wendy Hanson, appeared before council to speak against the motion. She said she was a responsible dog owner and felt there were "alternatives" to the motion. She had discovered a disposable scoop bag that was easy to use.

Mrs. Hanson said "if you are going to propose a by-law like this how are you going to police this 24 hours a day as some people walk their dogs all hours of the night."

Councillor Laurie Cahill concluded his arguments in favour of the motion by saying "we have to make the parks for people".

Councillor Peggy Byers said not all dog owners were irresponsible but "pity of it is that not all people are responsible".

"Dogs have to be exercised but we're not banning them from the streets, fields, school yards," she noted.

Councillor Shane Coburn asked "who is going to enforce this by-law after hours, if we can't enforce the existing by-laws."

Councillor Norah Stoner suggested that one of the recommendations proposed in the Director of Parks and Recreation's Report to Council last month be adopted tonight.

In that report, it was recommended that three senior staff people in the parks department be authorized to enforce the existing parks by-law. The existing by-law states that all dogs in parks must be on proud.

I am proud of all of our youngsters at Frenchman's Bay School and pleased with the excellent support that you all gave to our production.

We will be buying a spot light for future productions with the profits from our play. Mary Hearn, Vice-Principal.

I am very pleased and proud to report that the Frenchman's Bay Band was very successful at this year's Kiwanis Music Festival in Oshawa. They were awarded a First and Third in the Open and march classes respectively. They can certainly be proud of themselves. Mr. P. Reid, Instrumental Music Teacher.
