Q. In the sport of curling, why do players sweep the ice?
A. After the stone is released by one player, a second player, the skip, determines if the stone will travel far enough to reach its target. If not, the skip calls for two additional team players to sweep with their brooms. The sweeping action decreases the resistance of the stone on the ice. As a result, the stone can travel up to ten additional feet.

Q. Where does molasses come from? H.I.
A. The syrup which is separated from the sugar crystals when sugar is produced from sugar cane is called molasses. This by-product is dark and thick, with 70 to 80 percent solids. Over half of this solid is invert sugar and sucrose.

There are various grades of molasses. The grade depends on the amount of boiling the molasses has undergone, with the best grades generally having been boiled less than the lower grades. Table syrup molasses is an example of a high grade molasses. The lowest grade is blackstrap which is used for animal feed, fertilizer, and the distilling of rum or alcohol.

Q. What is a griffin? H.G.
A. The griffin is an imaginary animal used in coats of arms. While it has been drawn in a variety of ways, its distinguishing features are taken from the lion and the eagle. The upper part of the griffin is the eagle, although the head usually has a lion's ears. The lower portion of the body is the lion.

Q. I recently read an article which suggested using a Wassail Bowl or mulls as holiday drinks. I know what the first is but what is a mull. J. M.

A. Mulls are hot wine drinks which typically incorporate sugar and spice in the recipe. A common mull recipe would include one bottle of red or Burgundy wine, 1-1/2 to 2 cups water, 1 cup sugar, 3 to 4 cinnamon sticks, 3 to 4 cloves, and two thinly sliced lemons. Combine the water, sugar, cloves and cinnamon sticks and boil for five minutes. Remove from the heat and add the lemon slices. Cover for fifteen minutes. Add the wine and slowly heat the mixture making sure it does not boil.

Freedom To Travel

by Bob Watson

The Hon. Joe Clark got a tough questions period at the Scarborough Civic Centre last week and one woman asked him why he was denying her the freedom to travel to South Africa.

Mr. Clark replied that he was not restricting her from travelling but asking the South African government offices (now gone from the country) to refrain from promotion of tourism.

Well a fact-finding group of Canadians are in South Africa right now demanding the Canadian ambassador there to explain why sanctions have been placed against that country. Ronald Maclean, the ambassador, was even booed by some tour participants as he tried to explain why the Canadian government was opposing their trip offered by the South African Tourism Board.

Many of the tour group said that after 18 days in South Africa they found the sanctions only hurting non-whites with unemployment. One person accused Maclean of hypocrisy for supporting sanctions against South Africa but not against other regimes with policies that are equally abhorrent.

George Richardson, a former Progressive Conservative MP from Humboldt-Lake Centre in Saskatchewan accused Maclean of keeping Joe Clark "poorly informed". Maclean said that no federal cabinet minister had been to South Africa in recent memory, which answers the question by this writer why our federal government leaders are so ill-informed.

We must commend Joe Clark for his handling of the questions at the civic centre meeting and also for his fine speech to the Scarborough Chamber of Commerce, but we still disagree wholeheartedly with his policy on South Africa, which is only aiding the Marxist forces sponsored by the Soviet Union.

Canada will have to stop being naive or we will create more bad situations for future wars to solve.

Severe Loss Of Business Because Of Bad Planning

I am writing from the "Red Fort of Cedarbrae". It is handsome but remote, smart but inaccessible. It is an open air shopping plaza on the NW corner of Lawrence and Markham beside the Cedarbrae Cinemas and it has the most obscure access anywhere in Scarborough.

Where the driver would expect to turn into the plaza there is a foot high pavement stone to protect the resident merchants from potential customers. In place of a driveway to the plaza there is a gaping open air court that is usually empty but for some benches, wastepaper bins and assorted cola cans and pizza wrappers on the concrete floor. Access is via two alley-like and easily missed driveways to the parking lot behind the buildings.

My fellow merchants and I have struggled for a year - some longer and some shorter - to attract business. The major problem - until two months ago - was that potential customers cannot find the entrance easily to this ill-conceived suburban mall.

Only with a great deal of expenditure in advertising have most of us been able to attract business. Many of my fellow merchants had to throw in the towel - or should I say "the key to their store", because they could not make a living.

To add injury to injury even this limited business is being throttled every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evening.

Planning authorities and the landlord have seen fit to create a driveway between the cinema parking and the already limited parking behind our plaza. Result: No customers, no business for the merchants of the mall every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from about 7 p.m. onwards.

The patrons of the Cedarbrae Cinema block access ramps to the court, they park in handicapped parking, they block all driveways. There is barely room for one car to drive in - it has to back out - everything else is blocked. I hate to think of an emergency!

From talking to fellow merchants I gather we, the tenants of this unfortunate plaza, have no legal rights to access for our customers. We only have the duty to pay our taxes and presumably fade away quietly if we cannot make it against these horrendous odds.

Is this how the city of Scarborough treats small business? If so, maybe entrepreneurs should be warned, if not dissuaded from locating here!

gomery and Works Commissioner Roger Brown. The ministers were attending a Roads & Transportation Conference hosted by the Ontario Ministry of Communications & Transportation.

Appointed Housing Chairman

John Sewell, former Toronto mayor and national newspaper columnist, has been appointed full-time chairman of the Metro Toronto Housing Authority. In making the announcement, Minister of Housing Alvin Curling said, "Mr. Sewell's broad interest in community affairs will bring a new sensitivity to the day-to-day management of public housing in Metro."

The housing authority administers 29,000 units owned by Ontario Housing Corporation. It is also responsible for contracts for an additional 2,800 units in other rental developments.

Space Shortage At Centennial

According to president Bev McCauley, Centennial College has insufficient space to meet the demands placed on it by students who would like to begin college in January. The space shortage is most critical in the business and engineering programs at Progress Campus in Scarborough. In addition, there is insufficient space at Warden Woods Campus, although there is an urgent need for its graduates in Early Childhood Education.

Volunteer Awards Now Being Accepted

Minister of Citizenship and Culture Lily Munro has announced that Nov. 30 and Dec. 15 as the nomination deadlines for the 1987 Outstanding Achievement and Volunteer Service Awards. "These awards are held to honour the many hardworking individuals and organizations who have made major contributions to volunteerism in citizenship and cultural activities," Dr. Munro said.

Outstanding Achievement Awards are given in three categories: individuals demonstrating outstanding volunteer efforts such as special dedication, leadership abilities, innovation or initiative can be nominated by non-profit organizations.

Non-profit organizations which imaginatively involve volunteers in program delivery, recruitment, or skills training may be nominated by a member volunteer or by another non-profit group. Businesses supporting volunteer organizations by helping with personnel, lending professional expertise, equipment or facilities and fund-raising may be nominated by non-profit organizations.

Record Operating Surplus

For the third straight year The Toronto Harbour Commissioners have posted a record operating surplus, according to Board Chairman Frederick Eisen in his 1985-86 annual report on behalf of the Commissioners.

"Although total tonnage was down marginally from the previous year, port revenues rose by $1.4 million or 10.4 per cent which helped produce an operating surplus of $1,810,879, before debt financing, for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1986. As a result, the improved financial performance helped reduce the debt position by almost $2.4 million to $28,948,200," he said.

Scholarships From Kiwanis

The Golden Mile Kiwanis Club has given 18 scholarships to students in local schools. The scholarships went to eight in Winston Churchill Collegiate, seven in Thomson Collegiate and three to Porter Collegiate.

Making The Holidays Less Lonely

This December marks the 30th year of the Canadian Mental Health Association of Metro Toronto's Presents for Patients program. The program provides personalized gifts to thousands of people in Metro Toronto who will be spending the holiday season in a hospital psychiatric unit, group home or boarding house.

Presents for Patients depends solely on donations for its success. Wanda Grevatt, co-ordinator of the program, explained, "We ask for cash donations rather than actual gifts because that enables us to provide personalized, useful presents. Agencies send us lists of the kinds of presents they need and we can then match the gifts we buy to the requests."

To make a donation contact the Metro Toronto branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, 3101 Bathurst St., 5th Floor, Toronto, M6A 2A6 or phone 789-7957.

Fulton Announces Increase in Transfer Payments to Ontario Municipalities

Provincial contributions for municipal road construction and maintenance will be increased to $568.9 million next year, Ontario Minister of Transportation and Communications Ed Fulton said recently.

"This represents a 4.6 percent increase," said Fulton. "In addition, my ministry will retain its $30-million Municipal Improvement Fund to provide funding for top-priority municipal road projects," added Fulton.

"After years of underfunding, we have been able to turn the corner and provide improved transfer payments to our communities," said Fulton. "These additional dollars represent this government's commitment to providing the kind of expenditures necessary for the safe, efficient movement of goods and people so vital to the economic growth of our municipalities."

Suffered Heart Attack

Nick Borisko of the Kiwanis Club of Scarborough and well known and community-minded Scarboroughite is reported to have suffered a heart attack and is in hospital. Everyone hopes he is on his feet again soon.

Up Hospital Grants

Provincial spending for operating costs of Ontario hospitals will increase overall by 7.4 percent while funding for the 43 public health units across the province will rise by 6.8 percent for 1987-88, Health Minister Murray Elston has announced. All Ontario hospitals will receive a four percent increase, promised in 1986. In addition, the budget increase allotted to the ministry will give a further 3.4 percent for growth in hospital programs. These increases, amounting to $345 million, will bring total ministry spending on hospitals to approximately $5 billion.

New Award For Disabled Athlete

A newly created and specially designed award to honour Ontario's Outstanding Disabled Athlete of the Year has been announced. The winner will be announced at the ministry's annual sports awards banquet in April. A cheque of $5,000 will subsequently be presented by the government to the Office of Sports for the Physically Disabled to increase participation in the discipline for which the winner was selected.

Ontario Grants

The Ontario Ministry of Citizenship and Culture has announced 13 grants totalling $616,900. One for $112,400 has gone to the Royal Ontario Museum's Outreach program which includes a "museum in a suitcase for students". The Art Gallery of Ontario has received a grant of $25,000 to take an exhibit on tour.

No More Smoking

With the rapid increase in passengers on all Skycraft Air Transport flights from Oshawa the company is going to restrict smoking on board all scheduled flights. A recent survey of passengers showed that 94% asked for non-smoking flights. As the size of the aircraft makes it impossible to have "smoking" and "no smoking" sections, the company is apologizing to smokers.

Millie Hull Will Be Missed By Everyone In Highland Creek

Great shock spread through the Highland Creek Community at the news of the death of Millie Pooler Hull on Thurs. Nov. 6.

Mrs. Hull, who died in the Centenary Hospital Coronary Unit, wrote a widely read weekly column for The NEWS about happenings in the Centennial Rouge United Church congregation. She was 72 years of age.

Millie Pooler, daughter of the late William Francis Pooler and Florence Emily Ind was born Nov. 29, 1914. The family came to Highland Creek when Millie was four years old. They first lived in "the stone house" on Ellesmere Rd. near Centennial Rouge Church, later moving to an acreage on Meadowvale Rd. close to the access to Highway 401.

Millie spent almost her entire life at this location. She attended first "the stone school" which faced Highway 2A at Port Union Road near Adams Park. When the family moved to Meadowvale she went to Highland Creek School and then to Scarborough Collegiate.

In her youth she was a very active member of the Junior Farmers' Association and several people of that agricultural society attended the funeral.

On Sept. 28, 1942, Millie Pooler married George Hull, a skilled tradesman, with a special competency as a stone mason. Mr. Hull died April 8, 1978. Their family consists of Frank, town engineer for Ajax, his wife, Joan and their children Jeannette and Barry; George, a teacher at Arthur and his wife, Lori, and their children, Shawna, Matthew and Geordie; and Dorothy, wife of John Dutkoski of Highland Creek and their two small children, Sarah, and Brian.

Mrs. Hull is also survived by her sister Minerva Remy, Pickering. She was predeceased by her sister, Florence, and brothers, Arthur, Earl and Clarence.

Rev. Bruce Sanguin, Minister of Centennial Rouge United Church conducted the funeral service. Favourite scriptural selections of Mrs. Hull and her family were read and timehonoured hymns, "In The Garden", "Unto the Hills Around do I lift up my longing eyes", and "What A Friend we have in Jesus", were sung.

William A. Dempsey, chairman of the Official Board of the church, in speaking to the memory of Mrs. Hull said a tribute would be incomplete without paying respect to her late husband, George.

Both had worked together in church and community activities. George did the masonry on the church manse in 1950 from local field stone hauled to the site by horse and stoneboat and cut by Elbert Closson.

The artistry and beauty of the outside cladding of the manse and the fireplace is evident to all who look upon it. While George was building the manse Millie and a group of young women, first known as the "Daffodils" and later as the "Guild", together with the Sunday School were converting the drive-shed into a Church Hall, which is now a well equipped attractive meeting place.

Always ready to encourage people to come to Centennial, 40 years ago, George and Millie Hull and infant son, Francis, stopped on the road one Sunday summer afternoon to invite the Dempsey family to the church.

Anxious to be of service, Millie had taken part and given leadership to Sunday School, C.G.I.T., Young Peoples, the United Church Women, as a choir member and elder of the Session and Church Secretary.

On the Sunday following her death, a former pastor Rev. Wesley A. Morris conducted the church service and paid great tribute, with sensitivity and understanding to the faithful, constant work of Millie at Centennial-Rouge.

Among her activities in the community were the Meadowvale Home and School, The Highland Creek Women's Institute and school secretary with the Scarborough Board of Education. She was active in the York East District organization of the Institute, attended the Associated Country Women of the World in Killarney, Ireland in May of this year and was appointed to be Recording Secretary of the newly formed Scarborough Presbyterian of the United Church Women. She was also a member of the Scarborough Christian Women.

Millie had a poetic quality which extended to a love of music and a deep appreciation of the beauty and colours of landscape and sky. She had great knowledge of home crafts and excelled in quilting. Invariably her quilting was to assist the work of a charitable cause.

Above all, Mrs. Hull was loyal to her family, caring for grandchildren, and concerned for her sister, Minerva.

Mr. Dempsey described her as a dedicated tower of strength to the church. Proposals for road widening, expansion of highways and extension of railway lines on or near church property were dismissed by Mrs. Hull as mere vexatious irritations. Centennial-Rouge Church would remain where it is - and it has! The church would continue to have a powerful place in the lives of urban people just as it had influenced the pioneers and rural settlers.

When the minister called upon Mrs. Hull in hospital just before her death, her first concern was the preparation of the Sunday bulletin.

Describing the absolute faith of Millie Hull, Mr. Dempsey said, "Millie knew without any doubt that,

'My help cometh from the Lord who made heaven and earth'

As her strength ebbed she was not afraid.

'I will fear no evil for thou art with me' for

'I know my Redeemer liveth'.

There was deep conviction

'Whether we live or die We are the Lord's'

'Nothing! Nothing is able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.'

Truly she entered the joy of her Lord.'

Scarborough Council Members Raise Their Pay By 4%

by Gay Abbate

Members of Scarborough Council have voted themselves a 4% pay increase for next year.

On Monday night, the majority of council went along with a board of control recommendation to raise salaries by 4% instead of the 3.6% figure recommended by a citizens' salary review committee. The committee was set up by council.

The raise means Mayor Gus Harris will make $51,272, the four controllers $37,284 and the 14 aldermen $29,172. One third of these is tax free.

On top of this figure, the mayor, the controllers and the two executive aldermen - Brian Ashton and Maureen Prinsloo - earn an extra $10,817 for sitting on Metro Council. Mayor Harris and senior controller Ken Morrish get an additional $7,530 for being members of Metro's executive committee. These are 1986 figures. Metro Council has not yet set its 1987 salaries.

Scarborough politicians continue to be the second highest paid after those in the City of Toronto.

Toronto aldermen will be making $42,960 next year while the mayor will get $61,730.

Etobicoke aldermen will earn $22,885 in 1987 while controllers make $34,555 and the mayor $46,275. The other municipalities in Metro have not yet set their increases for next year.

Rural Ave. Homes All Sold

by Gay Abbate

The homes on the south side of Rural Ave. have finally been sold after being on the market for more than one year.

The seven privately-owned homes were purchased by Stephen Chung, owner of the Glen Watford Plaza immediately to the south of the homes. There are ten homes in all but three had already been sold.

The homes went for $30 per sq. ft. netting the homeowners an average of $230,000 per property.

The ten homes on the north side are still up for sale.

Rural Ave. residents were driven to sell because of the parking problems on their street on weekends when a large influx of Chinese shoppers into the Glen Watford area turned their previously quiet street into a parking lot. The residents hoped to get a better price by selling as a block.

Ward Alderman Doug Mahood says that as far as he knows there are no immediate plans to develop the properties but he expects a re-development proposal in the future. He said that he personally would like to see some nice townhouses there.

Mahood said that whatever proposal is submitted for that property as well as the plaza site itself it will be the most scrutinized in the history of Scarborough.

He said he wants to ensure that whatever eventually goes in will not add to the problems already there especially in regard to parking.

A recent report by planning staff on Sheppard Ave. between Kennedy Rd. and McCowan Rd. recommended that Rural Ave. be rezoned for commercial uses.

Motivating Easy Says Author

Motivating children to read books is as easy as reading aloud to them, says best-selling author Jim Trelease.

The veteran journalist says "we must recognize that children are not born with the desire to read. That desire must be planted and reading aloud to the child is the oldest and most successful method of instilling that desire."

Scarborough parents and others interested in introducing children to the world of books are invited to hear Trelease speak on Wed. Nov. 19 at Woburn Collegiate beginning at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free. The evening is being organized by the Scarborough Board of Education's Reading Centre.

For 20 years, the father-of-two wrote for a New England daily newspaper and spent considerable time visiting classrooms. In 1979, on his own, he published a 30-page booklet for parents and teachers on the subject of reading aloud.

Penguin Books was impressed by the work and had Trelease expand on his initial publication. The new paperback, The Read-Aloud Handbook, sold more than 250,000 copies in its first year and was 17 weeks on The New York Times best-seller list.

The Science of Making an Olympic Athlete

What possesses a skier to speed down a 45 degree incline at 95 miles per hour?

Or to get up at dawn to run five miles in 40 below weather, day in and day out?

Or to risk their life to flip over backwards 20 feet in the air?

It can only be gold. Olympic gold.

According to Jack Walters, coach of the Canadian National Speed Skating Team, there are three components required to make a world class athlete: high technology, scientific research and sweat.

It also calls for team effort. An army of athletes, coaches, trainers, sport scientists, psychologists, nutritionists and corporate sponsors are helping our athletes go for the gold.

1. High Tech/High Performance

The concept of physical conditioning is being redefined through breakthroughs in high-technology and scientific testing.

Working with coaches and athletes, sport scientists analyze the specific characteristics of a sport and its unique physical demands. It takes a full array of technology: spirometry machines, treadmills, ergometers and water tanks to scientifically test the athlete.

Based on results, a specialized training program is created for every athlete to schedule peak performance.

2. Video Insights

A world class performance requires the refinement of every move, action and technique to its ultimate end. Increasingly, national teams use video tapes to monitor progress, isolate weaknesses and perfect style. Athletes study what they're doing right, what they're doing wrong, and what additional training is required.

3. Mind Set

Sport psychology techniques are being used to help athletes control their mental state of mind — a must for peak performance.

According to Dr. Tom O'Hara, sport psychologist for the Canadian National Bobsleigh team, every athlete at one time or another suffers from a mental block.

One popular technique is to help the athlete recall the details of a perfect race — memorizing every phase, from the starting block to the finish line. The challenge is to tune into the "winning state of mind" during competition.

4. World Class Competition

Coaches and scientists agree science and technology can only go so far. Competing against the world's best remains a key component in the making of an Olympian.

Under the sponsorship of Molson Breweries Ltd., eleven of our national winter teams are training and competing with the world's best in South America and Europe to prepare for the 1988 Calgary Winter Olympics.

Canada's first Winter Olympics will stage some of the finest athletes our country has ever produced. Behind every medal winner is a specialized team of coaches, trainers, sport scientists, psychologists, and corporate sponsors, who share the glory in the making of our Olympians.

Volunteers Needed In Schools

Be a friend to a child in school. Schools and daycare centres in Scarborough are looking for volunteers, especially seniors, to read to a child, help with crafts or in the library.

If you have two or three hours a week and enjoy young people, contact the Volunteer Centre at 264-2308 for more information.

Easy Pasta Meals Suit Busy Pace

Each year, as the air becomes crisper, a new pace sets in. The familiar routine of schoolbooks, evening courses and indoor hobbies picks up where it was left off in April.

Evening meals, too, can become a brisk, hurried affair. It's not unusual to have family members eating in shifts, on their way out to hockey practice or coming in late after work or classes. Serving nutritious, tasty meals to everyone AND meeting your own deadlines can be a problem.

That's when it's time to turn to pasta. Pasta, a complex carbohydrate, provides the body with a quick energy source, important to those on the go.

It's also versatile. For the ultimate in fast and simple meals, cook spaghetti or rigatoni noodles and jazz them up with canned or specialty-store sauces. Add a green salad and French stick and you've got dinner in 10 minutes flat. What's more, quantities can be made ahead of time and covered with cool water after draining.

When ready to serve, simply refresh the noodles under hot water. These great make-ahead recipes will be sure to please hungry and hurried members of the family.

Try this version of everyone's favorite comfort food, Acadian Macaroni and Cheese. Topped with toasted bread crumbs and tomato wedges, it's a homey meal to have warming in the oven to welcome latecomers.

And, if the last gasps of your summer vegetable garden have you at wits end, you can use up leftover zucchini in Pasta Ratatouille. This autumn dish is perfect for weekend lunches when early frost is in the air.

Vitals On Vitamins

(Published by the Nutrition Division, North York Public Health Department)

Do you feel tired and stressed? Are you a fitness enthusiast eager to improve your physical performance and endurance? Are you a parent concerned about the irregular appetite and eating habits of your child? Are you a senior Canadian anxious to ward off the signs of aging?

If you have answered "yes" to any of these questions, then you may be a person who is susceptible to claims for using vitamin supplements. Stop! Think before you swallow.

Ever since the dramatic discovery of the first vitamins at the beginning of the 20th century, the romance and excitement of nutrition have focussed on vitamins. The vitamin market has become big business. Almost one-third of the Canadian population takes some kind of vitamin supplement regularly, and this trend is increasing.

Beaver Tails

by J. Cameron French 3739 Lawrence Ave. E.
Beaver Bridge Club 438-4798

Sometimes desperate contracts call for desperate measures. The following hand was bid very differently at two tables. One player was forced to justify his optimism.

South	North
Spades A K Q x x	J 10 x
Hearts X X	A Q 10
Diamonds A K x	J 8 x
Clubs a x x	Q 9 8 x
Table 1 1 Spade 3 Spades!
6 Spades Pass
Table 2	2NT 3NT
	Pass

At table one a poor contract was reached by poor judgement. North's hand, with essentially secondary values, (queens and jacks), good spots and sterile distribution should have bid 1NT, not 3 spades! South might have tried to cooperate with partner (with 4 Clubs say), but instead hungrily jumped to slam. At table two, South appreciated the terrible rebid problems of opening one spade, so elected to start with 2NT. North, with no five card suit and marginal values bid a modest 3NT.

The play was a breeze in No Trump, but proved challenging at suit play. South had five spade tricks, two diamonds, one heart and one club, so needed to develop three more tricks!

At one table the 10 of diamonds was led. Declarer won, led a heart to the 10 of hearts (which won!), a spade to the ace, another heart finesse, (winning!), drawing trumps and then still needing one extra trick in the minors! So he led a club towards the queen and yes, the king was onside. So, he made his slam, but the important lesson here is that he never gave up. We will all reach outlandish contracts. Remember to hope for a distribution that will help you - then play for it. (Yes, they bid this slam against me - I estimate its chance of success at 12.5%.)

How Can I Get All My Vitamins?
We know that our body requires about 50 nutrients daily. All the vitamins we need can easily be obtained from a varied and balanced diet. But the addition of individual nutrients to an inadequate diet does not necessarily improve its quality. Also, a diet low in nutrients is likely to be high in fat, salt, sugar and energy, and low in fibre. Therefore a poor diet plus a vitamin supplement equals a poor diet.

Taking a supplement of a vitamin or group of vitamins gives false security. You may continue to have poor eating habits, yet believe that all your nutrient needs are being met by your daily dose!

Black Creek Pioneer Village Is A Glimpse Into Past

Black Creek Pioneer Village, provides a fascinating glimpse into Canada's past - it's a living 19th century village with an intriguing mixture of history and fun that is ideal for day trips, weekend family outings and group tours.

Black Creek is a recreation of a typical rural Ontario village, consisting of a variety of homes and artisan shops. It is located on the homestead of Daniel Stong, a Pennsylvania German who settled the land in 1816. Some of the buildings are on their original sites, while the others have been moved to Black Creek and restored.

During the winter months, the buildings are closed for maintenance, but the grounds are open for horse-drawn sleigh rides and outdoor skating.

On the weekend of Feb. 13-15, 1987, Black Creek hosts the annual North York Winter Carnival, a huge community extravaganza.

Christmas Tree Baubles Are Beautiful & Fun To Make

While it's traditional to paint eggs at Eastertime, decorated eggshells can also make beautiful Christmas tree decorations.

Blowing eggs and then decorating the shells will provide children with a fun and interesting pre-Christmas activity. And the blown-out mixture can then be used in a variety of interesting recipes. Make sure you refrigerate the mixture right away!

Use small eggs, as they make daintier decorations and are also more economical than large ones.

the eggshell - starting at the small end, and making a knot where the string comes through at the big end. Slip a toothpick through the knot, breaking off any excess. Glue the toothpick to the egg. Now your baubles are ready to hang on the Christmas tree. Shellac the decorated eggs for more lasting beauty.

And while small hands are busy with the decorating theme, why not get together the makings for an impromptu trimming party?

Nothing says festive cheer like our Homemade Egg Nog, which you can make individually or in a big batch. Just double or triple the proportions to suit your crowd's thirst!

- Here's how to blow eggs:
1. Wash and dry some fresh eggs (a suggested number of eggs would be six at one time).
  2. Place eggs with small end up in an empty egg carton.
  3. Take a clean darning needle and place it in the centre of the small end of one of the eggs. Firmly tap the end of the needle, forcing it through the shell and into the egg. Repeat with remaining eggs.
  4. Turn the eggs over the other way and repeat the same process on the large ends of the eggs. Make sure you pierce right through the membrane of the air cell in the large end of the egg.
  5. Get a large mixing bowl. Place your mouth over the opening in the large end and blow hard, holding the egg over the bowl so it will catch the contents as it is forced out of the eggshell. The egg should come out in a small stream. If it doesn't, enlarge the holes slightly.

Blown eggs can be decorated in many festive ways. They can be painted or sprayed with gold or silver paint. They can be colored brightly, and designs can be made on them, using paint or felt tip markers. Sparkle dust, colored sprinkles, sequins, and the like, can be glued onto the shells after they have been painted. Even tiny magazine pictures can be glued onto eggshells to decorate them.

When the artwork has dried, thread a string through

Old-Fashioned Christmas

Simple, handmade ornaments on a tiny Christmas tree, evergreen garlands over mantelpieces and kissing balls in the parlor create the atmosphere of an authentic, old-fashioned Yuletide during Christmas in the Village, at Black Creek Pioneer Village daily until Dec. 24.

Early Canadians observed Christmas far differently than we do today. As visitors to Black Creek see as they stroll through the restored homes and buildings, the pioneers had plain decorations.

A typical Pennsylvania German family, for example, set up a small Christmas tree with just a few ornaments immediately before Christmas Day, and took it down immediately afterward.

Christmas in the Village marks the return of Child's Play. That's the popular display of Black Creek's collection of antique dolls, toys and games - the largest such collection in Canada.

Exhibitions of antique Canadian clocks, ornamental glass and wood carvings depicting pioneer life are also presented in the Visitors Centre.

Christmas decorations from around the world will be displayed in the Christmas Tree Mall. The trees illustrate the Christmas customs of many of Toronto's cultural groups.

Last, but not least, Santa's workshop also returns to Black Creek. Santa Claus will be talking to children on weekends, starting Nov. 22 and daily Dec. 20 to 24.

Scarborough Theatre Guild Presents ...

"A Christmas Carol"

"A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens will be presented by the Scarborough Theatre Guild Dec. 4-7 and 10-13 at 8 p.m. at the Scarborough Village Theatre, 3600 Kingston Rd.

Additional matinees have been added at 2 p.m. on Sun. Dec. 7 and Sat. Dec. 13.

The tale of the miser who discovers the true meaning of Christmas is a traditional family favourite with young and old. It has been adapted for the Guild's stage production by director Phil Arnold.

The play is set in the Dickensian world of 19th century London. Ebenezer Scrooge is haunted by the ghost of his late partner, Jacob Marley. The Spirits of Christmas

Hagood Hardy At Seneca

Canadian composer/pianist Hagood Hardy will be performing a benefit concert at Seneca College's Minkler Auditorium on Fri. Nov. 28 at 8 p.m. as a fundraising event for the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Tickets are available at a cost of $25 per person, or $45 per couple from the Minkler Auditorium Box Office (491-8877), or the Life Underwriters' Association of Toronto. The concert is sponsored by the Life Underwriters' Association of Toronto - a non profit association representing life insurance professionals - as the premiere event in their annual campaign to raise funds for CF research.

Last year the group presented CF with a cheque for $71,000 to be used to support Cystic Fibrosis research. The Life Underwriters 1986 national goal is $250,000.

Bill Watt's World

ON YOUR TOES:

Should it be vouchsafed for humanity to survive another millennium, one supposes le fin de siècle dix-neuvieme will be remembered as a myth rather like that of the Golden Age.

Yet there was a time, and in the memory of some still living, when a large measure of peace and prosperity prevailed; when gallantry was, superficially at least, uppermost; when love was hand in hand with practicality; when wealth was espied as frosting on the confection of beauty.

We shall not, we believe, see such time again but the National Ballet, bless it!, has resurrected it for a brief moment with its presentation at The O'Keefe of The Merry Widow.

We understand that some thin nosed, thin lipped and probably emotionally repressed types are suggesting that it is a smashing production "but not really ballet you know but rather, operetta without words." Codswallop!

The Merry Widow is a superb ballet set to the loving and lovely choreography of Ronald Hynd, an inspired scenario by the late Sir Robert Helpman and, of course, the superb score of Franz Lehár.

To be fair, one can appreciate how balletomanes might be dazzled into critical blindness by the glorious scenery and costumes of Desmond Heeley, the superb lighting of Michael Whitfield and the achingly beautiful adaptation of the score by John Lanchberry.

It remains that this Merry Widow is a bona fide ballet and those who think otherwise can go back to their wooden risers and go misty eyed over the works of Danny Grossman or even worse, those of Robert Desrosiers.

At the performance we attended, the title role was danced by Sabina Alleman and she danced it to the hilt seductively as the sophisticated merry widow, innocently as the peasant girl she was a decade prior to the Aristotelian unity.

Technically speaking her extension and attitude are well nigh flawless but even were they not, one would still enjoy her acting performance.

She was partnered by Gregory Osborne - the next, we confidently predict, Peter Shaufuss - as Danilo and he too displayed an acting talent hitherto unsuspected. His Danilo was not foppish or foolish; neither was it superhuman though the power and intensity of his lifts might belie the latter assertion.

The acting surprise of the evening was that of Kim Lighthouse as Valencienne. We have previously admired her technical skill but suggested she was a few seasons away from full thespian potential. We were wrong; she has now fully arrived as an actress.

In her role she was at once flirtatious, caring, wordy and totally woman. All that in addition to her usual fine dancing technique.

She was more than ably partnered by Owen Montague who displayed a strength that one supposes was always there but which we hadn't really noticed or perhaps fully appreciated before.

As is so frequently the case, one cannot single out all in the cast but we must note David Roxander as the Maitre d'Chez Maxim. He was good but, in our view, totally wasted. He is far too young to be performing character roles. No doubt he is preparing himself for the next two decades but surely we should not be denied the opportunity to view his superb dancing skills while they are still at command.

The corps was fine and Alexander Brezina controlled the orchestra well while still allowing full Lehar emotion. (One wonders how George Crum might have handled it. Ah well.)

The Merry Widow is now a part of the NBOC repertoire and we look forward to seeing it many times and ... further opportunities to describe fully its visual splendours.

ON YOUR TOES II:

While still delighting in the National's current season we are almost salivating over the prospect of another attraction coming to The O'Keefe on Dec. 2nd for a sadly short run.

Tango Argentino is arguably Broadway's current hottest ticket as the show that is virtually bringing back the art of ballroom dancing in general and the tango in particular.

It is our favourite dance but the one we do least well, possibly because our Anglo Saxon deportment cannot lend itself to the Latin American fluidity required.

Still, we love to watch it and are looking forward to Tango Argentino as well as writing more about it in subsequent columns. Now, where did we put those old dancing pumps?

IN THE CLUBS:

The Imperial Room continues as one of North America's top supper clubs. This week it's Rita Coolidge, next week The Turtles and then Steppin' Out its year end spectacular that we are eagerly anticipating.

Another night club is opening and it's in North York near the rapidly becoming "in" crossroads of Yonge and Sheppard. It's called Darling's and is at 4950 Yonge in one of those new buildings that look like a Hollywood thirties idea of the 21st century. There's even a noisy "waterfall" in the lobby.

The grand opening is tomorrow night with Mel Lastman conducting a ribbon cutting ceremony and the performing magic of Murray McLauchlan. That's correct ... Murray McLauchlan.

We'll have to miss it because of a prior assignment but we've already dined at Darling's and can vouch for the food and the decor. We recommend the chicken satay with peanut dip. As Zsa Zsa might say ... Good luck Darling's.

ON RECORD:

We were searching for the right words to describe The Spitfire Band Swings Down Broadway (Atlantic). We found them in the accompanying promo sheet and cannot improve on them.

Something For Charlie At Laurier

Stage Door Theatre will present its first production of the 1966-67 season, the comedy "Something for Charlie", at Laurier Collegiate auditorium Nov. 27, 28 and 29.

A Canadian play set in Toronto and first produced by The Oakville Players. "Something for Charlie" is a lighthearted comedy in the tradition of the British bedroom farce.

The play stars Gerald Seaward as Charles Matherson, a quiet young college professor whose domineering fiancée, Angela (Linda Cahill), has his whole life organized for him. But then Gloria Markham (Sue Hutchinson) arrives by mistake in his apartment, and Charlie's life gets hilariously disorganized very quickly.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Admission is $6, $4 for senior citizens, and tickets will be available at the door or by calling 755-6717. Laurier Collegiate is located at 145 Guildwood Parkway, Scarborough.

Past, Christmas Present, and Christmas Yet to Come appear to show him that he is also doomed to wander the earth as an unhappy wraith unless he changes his avaricious ways.

The old man learns his lesson and in a happy finale is reunited with his nephew. He rewards his down-trodden clerk and becomes a second father to the crippled Tiny Tim.

brand new arrangements while fans of swing have a new repertoire to dance to."

That says it all. The Spitfire Band and the arranging skills of Micky Erbe and Laurie Bower are presented as virtual originals here and not just updates of 30s and 40s swing standards.

There are ten selections of Broadway tunes and each listener will have to choose his or her own favourite. We pop for the Billy May sound of Put On A Happy Face and the trumpet riffs on Baubles, Bangles and Beads by presumably, Guido Basso.

We have to hand the sound track of The Mission (Virgin Records). It's as good as and possibly better than the motion picture. We say no more.

ON SCREEN:

And in brief ... Streets of Gold (20th Century Fox) strikes us as City For Conquest rather uneasily grafted on to Rocky IV with perhaps a soupçon of Golden Boy.

At the preview audience it was well received and we expect it will do well at the box office, if not immediately then perhaps a few years down the pike as a retro. We appreciated the boxing scene shot at true speed rather than the now overdone slow motion.

IN CONCERT:

Our readers in Agincourt will enjoy, we believe, a concert on Nov. 24th at the St. Lawrence Centre. Four Canadian singers, a baritone, a tenor and two sopranos will perform works from the classics.

Surprisingly, all four have roots in the Mennonite community. We don't really know why we say "surprisingly". Remember the Broadway hit Fancy Free, or something like that, which gave us Young and Foolish?

Anyway, one of the four, Ben Heppner makes his home in Agincourt. While we deplore regionalism, it'd be nice to see him well supported. He's really good; we saw and heard him in the Canadian Opera Company production of Macbeth.

FAST EXIT:

Pirates and Outlaws of Canada (Dell/Doubleday) is now in paperback and makes for an interesting read. We will make the same comment we made when we reviewed it in hardcover. It's not about Canadian politicians notwithstanding the title.

Exporters Should Talk Says Joe

by Gay Abbate
If Canadians are to accept the concept of freer trade with the United States the federal government has to do more to publicize it, External Affairs Minister Joe Clark said last week in Scarborough.

He said that the government needs to put out more information about Canada's successes in international markets.

But the onus for spreading the word about the benefits of freer trade should not be left up solely to the government, Clark said following a speech to the Scarborough Chamber of Commerce last Friday.

He said that people whose jobs are most affected by export industries should be talking about free trade.

"They should be making the point in coffee conversations, on subways and elsewhere that they want to keep their jobs and that they want their children to have access to secure jobs."

In his speech to more than 300 people at the Howard Johnson Hotel Clark said that Canada's prosperity depends on exports especially to the United States. This year alone, trade between the two countries will pass the $120 billion mark he pointed out.

But the U.S., he said, is presently in the depths of protectionism. A freer trade agreement, Clark said, could lead the way to a more liberal world trading system.

In any agreement reached, Canada's interests will be protected Clark assured the audience. "This country can meet the best in the world and this country can beat the best in the world," he stated.

The luncheon with the Scarborough business community ended a two day visit to Scarborough by Clark. On Thursday night he spoke and answered questions before a packed house at the Scarborough Civic Centre.

The Hon. Joe Clark spoke to the Scarborough Chamber of Commerce last week as well as members of the Scarborough North York Chinese Business Association.

The minister impressed people with his positive statements as well as his humour and he asked the business community for input on freer trade. (Photo - Bob Watson)

Measures Introduced Since 1984 To Assist Small Business

1. Federal-Provincial Cooperation

To ensure greater coordination and communication between different levels of government, meetings between ministers responsible for small business have been convened on a regular basis.

2. Small Business Consultative Committee

This Committee has been reconstituted and its mandate widened to advise the government on specialized issues such as financing, government procurement policy, market development, innovation/technology transfer, entrepreneurship and the small business environment.

3. Deregulation and Reduction of Paperburden

The federal government, in conjunction with provincial and territorial governments, has carried out studies to identify problems experienced by the small business community. Corrective actions are being undertaken.

4. Small Business Statistical Data Base

The federal government, in conjunction with the provinces and the private sector, is developing a specialized data base on small businesses which will provide practical information such as business profiles and financial and operating ratios.

5. Procurement Policies

The federal government has launched a comprehensive program to improve participation from the small business community in federal government procurement activities.

6. Enterprise Centres

The government is looking at ways to encourage entrepreneurship and to improve the success rate of new business ventures. It is providing support to innovative projects in this area such as the TIEM program (5 locations in Canada) and SOCCRENT (Chicoutimi area).

7. Fiscal Measures

- Lifetime tax-free capital gains of $500,000. This should make raising of equity capital easier for small businesses.

- Incentives for pension funds to invest in small and medium-sized businesses. For every dollar invested in small businesses, these funds will be permitted to invest $3 in foreign investments over and above the previous 10% limit on foreign investment for RRSPs.

- An owner can invest his own RRSP (up to $25,000) through a Small Business Investment Limited Partnership (SBILP) in his own business as long as this investment does not give the partnership control of the business.

- Individuals can direct up to 50% of their RRSP funds in small and medium-sized businesses.

- Incentives for individuals to invest in small and medium-sized businesses through labour-sponsored venture funds. A tax credit of $1 for every $5 invested by individuals in these funds. The maximum credit per year is $700.

- Small business tax rate (for first $200,000) is reduced from 15% to 13% by 1988.

- Full and immediate cash refund of R&D tax credit (up to $700,000).

- Unemployment insurance contributions for 1986 were frozen at 1985 level.

- Lending ceiling of Small Businesses Loans Act (SBLA) raised from $1.5 billion to $2.5 billion. This program enables small businesses to obtain loans up to $100,000, guaranteed 85% by the government, at an interest rate of 1% over prime.

- Extension of the Small Business Development Bond program to December 31, 1987 allows small businesses experiencing financial difficulty to borrow up to $0.5 million at substantially reduced rates.

Personalized Licence Plates

"If you're planning to give personalized licence plates for Christmas gifts, order now," advised Transportation and Communications Minister Ed Fulton. "Personalized plates were introduced in 1983 and, since then, we have processed over 10,000 plates during each Christmas season," the Minister added. "And we are approaching the 100,000 plateau."

"Each order takes about six to eight weeks to be made and delivered. So, if anyone plans on giving them as Christmas gifts, they should order by the first week in November to ensure they get them in time." The plates are manufactured at Millbrook Correctional Institute near Peterborough and may be ordered at any licence issuing office for $100 a set.

Counselling For Small Business

CASE is counselling assistance offered by the Federal Business Development Bank to help small business entrepreneurs (firms of less than 75 people) to help themselves.

If you have an opportunity or a problem, CASE can help. You may not have the time to take advantage of the opportunity or to give proper attention to a nagging problem but you do have time to put a CASE counsellor to work on it for you.

CASE areas of expertise include production operation, administration, financial controls, sales and marketing, human resources, business planning, advertising and promotion, feasibility studies, overall review and in short, virtually every area of business from start-up to established concerns.

To put the know-how of a retired business person knowledgeable and experienced in your field to work on your planning call Peter Wilson at 738-1788.

A Special Child

A delightful, loving and energetic young boy, Roan urgently needs placement in a family home setting. Diagnosed as mentally retarded, Roan although very healthy, also has some physical problems.

He requires a wheelchair for long distances but can manoeuvre about on his own within a home as long as the space is relatively accessible. Due to a constricted esophagus, Roan requires a puréed diet but is self-feeding.

Although he has received no training towards independence, Roan shows great potential and can be expected to make rapid progress if living in a secure, nurturing environment with other children.

Roan's mother is a single parent with two other children. Because she could not cope with her son's particular needs on her own she placed him in a children's nursing home outside the Toronto area three years ago.

Her goal is to have Roan living in a family setting in Metro so that she can visit him more readily and have him home for the occasional weekend.

The family chosen to work with Roan will receive a salary, benefits and expenses as well as extensive training and support. If you are interested in finding out more about the IRC (Individualized Residential Care) program call Pam Terry at 635-0608.

Merchant Seamen Are Forgotten Warriors

It is an often forgotten fact, but one of the toughest battles of WW II wasn't fought on land, and many of its participants were not even in the armed forces.

The Battle of the Atlantic, which is still remembered in ceremonies every May, was a brutal affair that the Allies could not afford to lose. If the supply lines to Great Britain were lost, so was the war.

Fortunately the victory was won, but at an incredibly high cost.

German U-boats, often travelling in packs, sank some 2,600 British and Canadian merchant ships during the war. More than 1,100 Canadian merchant sailors - civilians caught in the middle of a war zone - died during those disasters, but they also wrote one of the most stirring chapters of the war.

Today those contributions by Canada's merchant sailors are mostly forgotten as history recalls more famous engagements, but The Royal Canadian Legion wants to ensure that they are remembered.

The Legion has recognized their service by giving war-time merchant sailors equal status with other war veterans. And the millions of poppies distributed by Legionnaires every November are meant to remember the merchant sailors who died, just as they are meant to pay homage to Canada's dead soldiers, naval sailors and airmen.

Just how large was the contribution of Canada's merchant sailors to victory in the Atlantic?

When the war started in 1939 there were only 37 Canadian-registered ships engaged in foreign voyages, employing approximately 1,400 Canadian sailors.

When it ended Canada had the largest merchant fleet in the history of the dominions, operating 180 large ships that required 12,000 skilled seamen. They, and their counterparts from Great Britain and the other Allied nations, played as vital a role in winning the war as anyone wearing a military uniform.

The federal government recognized their contribution by making merchant seamen eligible for war medals and postwar benefits. The Legion wants later generations to recognize their contribution too.

Egypt's Mysterious Past Beckons

The sands of Egypt are like the sands of time, stretching into the past and bringing to the present and the future the mysteries of those far off times.

It is this unending saga that intrigues travellers who find the opportunity to visit the Home of the Pharaohs. Joanne, one of two sisters who own the Travel Company in Morningside Mall got an opportunity to visit Egypt, and while it was a working tour and a very busy schedule, the magic of the Egyptian desert at night still managed to take her over and leave an everlasting impression.

Joanne's reason for the working trip was that her agency had received a great number of inquiries regarding Egypt and being a thorough person who wants to give a good service to customers, she went to see for herself.

The eleven day trip did not leave much time for anything but work, but it did include Casablanca and Alexandria.

The Pyramids, one of the wonders of the world, left the young lady with much to speculate about. How did ancient Egyptians manage to build those huge structures that still baffle the modern day architects? What is the meaning of the old carved pictures on the walls of the Pyramids, pictures that show human forms with their heads encased in helmets that appear to be breathing units?

travel

Did the ancient Egyptians get assistance from some outer space visitors? When one visits Egypt, what may appear outlandish and far fetched in the cold North American climate does not appear so unlikely in this land of mystery.

The ancient scrolls that Moses read, still reside in a small church close to where the baby was hidden in the bull rushes to avoid the killings that had been ordered.

Joanne spoke with wonder of her visit to the the day. The mini club is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

For adults there is scuba diving for certified divers and novices, water-skiing, sailing and snorkelling at the marina.

At the village there is a swimming pool or the sea, calisthenics, water exercises, volleyball, basketball, bocce ball, ping pong, bicycling, tennis with 8 courts and deep sea fishing.

Accommodations are double occupancy, air conditioned rooms with twin beds and a bathroom with shower. Electricity is 110 volts.

The Club Med village has one to three storey bungalows facing the sea and a small tropical courtyard behind. The main complex houses the disco, dining room, open air bar, dance floor, theatre and boutique and wraps around a swimming pool.

On the Caribbean side of the island, just a mile away by shuttle bus is the marina with a lunch time restaurant and bar.

Club Med Eleuthera can be a lot of fun for the whole family.

tombs of the Pharaohs. She said it was just like it was a thousand years ago. So primitive and yet so fascinating. Even the entrance to which they approached the tombs had a history. They were originally made by thieves who went to plunder the ancient king's graves.

Another striking feature was the friendliness of the people. This really came across to Joanne because of all the turmoil that appears to be taking place in the Middle East. She complimented the women, describing them as very beautiful. Egypt has always been a land of contrasts. One can see a donkey cart rolling down the streets flanked by small sports cars. Businessmen in modern lounge suits hurry past fellow countrymen, dressed in the traditional white smocks.

Words are difficult to find to adequately describe this ancient land, and perhaps the only way to really appreciate it, is to visit it. Joanne flew by Air Morocco and said she was very satisfied. Flight time was approximately 20 hours each way, with connections to be made in New York and Casablanca.

This flight is the least expensive and according to Joanne, offers everything one could want. For further information one should see Joanne at the Travel Company in Morningside Mall. She will be more than happy to fill you in.
