Mrs. I. Stouffer, of Wainwright, Man., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoover, who celebrated the 56th anniversary of their wedding on Monday last.

The Cherrywood orchestra will be in attendance at the drama in Whitevale on the first Friday in April.

Beach Road

W. H. Jackson's condition is gradually getting worse.

William Badgerow has rented his pasture land to Joe. Stevenson for the season.

One of our local trappers caught a racoon in his trap one day last week, business is looking up around the Brock Road.

The charge laid against Wallace Ellicott, of disorderly conduct was tried on Tuesday morning last, when he was acquitted. The woman laying the charge having admitted drinking when questioned by Magistrate Margaret Patterson.

The Toronto gentleman who bought a portion of Mr. Magno's farm is erecting a garage and intends building a cottage next summer. We understand he is just spending the week-ends in the country this summer.

Mr. Ed. Brady is erecting a small cottage, which he intends living in for the summer. On account of several feet of water in the basement he was not able to move into his regular home. We understand Mr. McKerracher Sr., is moving back to Brock Road this summer, we all hope it is true.

Meet Mrs. Marlowe, who, as Janet Golding would say, "is too gay a butterfly for a minister's wife." You'll meet these folk at Whitevale United Church, April 7th

Dunbarton

The Mens' Monthly Social evening with the ladies invited will be held in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday evening next, April 4th, at 8 o'clock. The program will consist of a debate "Resolved that a Successful Farmer does not require a College Education," the affirmative taken by John Forgie and Elmer Annis, the negative by Dr. H. C. Pearson and Harry Pearce. Special music by the Village Quartet and others. Everybody welcome. Come and spend a pleasant and profitable evening. Refreshments.

A Social Evening provided by the Onwego Group of the W. A. of the United Church held in the basement on Friday evening last was one of the most successful entertainments in its history. Father Tyme appeared and turned the clock away back to the Eighties, after which the group appearing in costume befitting the date, provided an old-time concert, consisting of Readings, Dialogues and an Old-time spelling match, conducted by Prof. Doolittle, which provided an abundance of amusement. The T. T. C. orchestra enlivened the proceedings with old-time music in a manner which elicited much applause from the audience. The proceeds of the evening was $27.00 and the whole evening was pronounced "The Best Yet."

Murder at Bridge

By ANNE AUSTIN.

SYNOPSIS.

Special Investigator Dundee believes that Juanita Selim and Dexter Sprague were murdered by a blackmail victim, while the police theory is that they were killed to avenge a racketeer whom Nita is thought to have betrayed. Of Dundee's six possible suspects—Judge Marshall, owner of the death weapon; Polly Beale and Olive Hammond, who married suddenly after Sprague's death; John Drake, Janet Raymond, in love with Sprague, and Flora Miles—his case is strongest against Flora.

In New York Dundee learns that there are vague rumors of scandals involving Flora and Janet, which Nita might have known. From Serena Hart, stage star and graduate of the Forsythe School, he learns that Nita was married early in 1918, and that the dress in which she was cremated was her wedding dress.

Dundee is about to leave when Serena asks him if he knows Penny Crain, saying that she met her and Roger Crain, who later failed in business and disappeared, at the Forsythe School. Dundee impulsively tells Serena that Penny and her mother would like to have Crain back again. After wiring Penny, Dundee learns that on the ninth of February, when Nita tried to kill herself, Sprague was rumored engaged, but that a denial was printed two days later. He receives an answer to his wire to Penny.

CHAPTER XLIV.

With a sharp exclamation of excitement and triumph, Dundee finished reading Penny's telegram:

HAMILTON. EVENING SUN. DATE OF MAY FIFTH NINETEEN TWENTY TWO PUBLISHED STORY OF SUICIDE ANITA LEIGH ARTISTS MODEL BUT PICTURE ACCOMPANYING WAS NITA LEIGH SELIMS STOP NO CORRECTION FOLLOWED STOP WHAT DOES IT MEAN

"What does it mean?" Dundee repeated exultantly to himself. "It means, my darling little Penny, that anyone in Hamilton who had any interest in the matter believed Nita Leigh Selim was dead, and that the spelling of her name was wrong, not the picture itself! . . . The question is, who read that story and gazed on that picture with vast relief?"

Two hours before he had dismissed as impossible or highly impractical his impulse to investigate the 11-year-old scandal on Flora Hackett, who was now Flora Miles, as told him by Gladys Earle of the Forsythe School. Even more difficult would it be to find out why Janet Raymond's mother had taken her abroad for a year. Of course—he had ruefully told himself—Nita Leigh might have been lucky or unlucky enough to run across documentary proof of one of the scandals which Gladys Earle had told her, or had dared to blackmail her victim by dark hints.

But this new development could not be ignored. A picture of Nita Leigh as a suicide had appeared eight years ago in a Hamilton paper, and the paper had either remained unconsciously of the error or had thought it not worth the space for a correction.

Eight years ago in June three weddings had occurred in Hamilton! The Dunlap, the Miles, the Drake wedding. And within the last year and a half Judge Marshall had married Karen Plummer. Suddenly a sentence from Ralph Hammond's story of his engagement to Nita Leigh Selim popped up in Dundee's memory: "And once I got cold sick because I thought she might still be married, but she said her husband had married again, and I wasn't to ask questions or worry about him."

If Ralph Hammond had reported Nita accurately she had not said she was divorced. She had merely said her husband was married again! Why was Ralph to ask no question? Divorced wives were not usually so reticent.

Had Nita planned to commit the crime of bigamy? If not, when and where and how had she secured a divorce?

To Serena Hart, years before, she had denied any intention of getting a divorce, for two reasons—because she did not know where her husband was, and because, being married although husbandless, was a protection against matrimonial temptations.

To Gladys Earle, a year ago in April, she had confided that she could not marry again, because she was divorced and because she did not know the whereabouts of her husband.

And so far as New York reporters had been able to find out, Nita Leigh had done nothing to alter her status as a married woman during the past year. And yet—

Suddenly Dundee jumped to his feet and began to pace the floor of his hotel bedroom. He was remembering the belated confidence that John C. Drake, banker, had made to him the morning before—after the discovery of Dexter Sprague's murder. He recalled Drake's reluctant statement almost word for word:

"About that $10,000 which Nita deposited with our bank, Dundee. . . . When she made the first deposit of $5,000 on April 28, she explained it with an embarrassed laugh as 'back alimony,' an installment of which she had succeeded in collecting from her former husband. And, naturally, when she made the second deposit on May 6, I presumed the same explanation covered that sum, too, though I confess I was puzzled by the fact that both big deposits had been made in cash."

Had Nita, by any chance, been telling a near-truth? Had she been blackmailing her own husband—a husband who had dared marry again, believing his deserted wife to be dead—and justifying herself by calling it "back alimony"?

In a new light, Bonnie Dundee studied the character of the woman who had been murdered—possibly to make her silence eternal.

Lois Dunlap had liked, even loved her. The other women and girls of that exclusive, self-centred clique of Hamilton's most socially prominent women must have liked her fairly well and found her congenial, in spite of their jealousy of her popularity with the men of the crowd, or they would not have tolerated her, regardless of Lois Dunlap's championship of her protegee.

Gladys Earle had found her "the sweetest, kindest, most generous person I ever met"—Gladys Earle, who envied and hated all the girls who were more fortunate than she.

Serena Hart, former member of New York's Junior League and still listed in the Social Register, had found Nita the only congenial member of the chorus she had invaded as the first step toward stardom. And Serena Hart had the reputation of being a woman of character and judgment, a kind and wise and great woman. . . . Finally, Ralph Hammond had loved Nita and wanted to marry her.

Was it possible that Nita Selim's only crime, into which she had been led by her infatuation for Dexter Sprague, had been to demand, secretly, financial compensation from a husband who had married and deserted her, a husband who, believing her dead, had married again?

But who was the man whose picture—to spin a new story—Nita had recognized as that of her husband among the male members of the cast of "The Beggar's Opera"? Dundee studied the picture that contained the entire cast. Again despair overwhelmed him, for every one of his possible male suspects was in that group. . . .

But he could not keep his thoughts from racing on. . . . Men who stepped out of their class and went on parties with chorus girls frequently did so under assumed names, he reflected. Serena Hart was authority for the information that Nita's had been a sudden marriage. Was it not entirely possible that the man who married Nita in 1918 had done so half-drunk, both on liquor and infatuation, and that he had not troubled to explain to Nita his motives for having used an assumed name or to write in his real name on the application for a marriage license.

Dundee lay awake for hours Friday night turning these and a hundred other questions over and over in his active mind, and slept at last, only to awake Saturday with a plan of procedure which he was sensible enough to realize promised small chance of success.

And he was right. Not in Manhattan, or in any of the other boroughs of New York City, did he find any record of a marriage license issued to Juanita Leigh and Matthew Selim. Not only was it entirely probable that Juanita Leigh was a stage name and that Nita had married conscientiously under her real name, but it was equally possible that the license had been obtained in New Jersey or Connecticut.

When he gave up his quest at noon Saturday he bought a paper whose headline informed him that Sergeant Turner was even more discouraged than himself. For the big type told the world:

JOE SAVELLI "GETS" BROTHER'S SLAYER.

And smaller headlines informed the sensation-loving public: "Swallow-Tail Sammy" Savelli's Death Avenged By Brother Who Surrenders to Police; "Slick" Thompson, alleged Member of Sammy's Gang, Shot to Death on Sixth Avenue.

Still smaller type acknowledged that Joe Savelli, after giving himself up, with a revolver in his hand, had disclaimed any knowledge of or connection with the murders of Juanita Leigh Selim and Dexter Sprague.

Two hours later, Dundee received a long telegram from District Attorney Sanderson:

INFORMED BY CAPT. STRAWN THAT SAVELLI ANGLE IS COMPLETE WASHOUT STOP HAVE YOU MADE ANY PROGRESS ALONG OTHER LINES STOP HAVE INFORMED REPORTERS YOU WORKING INDEPENDENTLY WITH STRONG CHANCE OF SOLVING BOTH CASES STOP WOULD LIKE YOU HERE FOR ADJOURNED. INQUESTS ON BOTH MURDERS MONDAY STOP

MOTHER IMPROVED AM ON JOB AGAIN.

Since Dundee felt that there was little chance of following through either on the scandals which Gladys Earle had hinted at, or on Nita's strangely secret marriage of 12 years before, he immediately dispatched a wire to Sanderson, assuring him vital progress had been made and that he would leave New York on the four o'clock train, arriving in Hamilton Sunday morning at 8.50.

Sanderson's wire, with its confession of an interview on Dundee's trip to New York, had upset him and left him with a fear that the district attorney had unwittingly warned the murderer that his special investigator was on the right track.

An hour before he reached his destination on Sunday morning he went into the dining car and found a copy of The Hamilton Morning News beside his plate. And on the front page was a photograph of dead Nita, her black hair in a French roll, her slim, recumbent body clad in the royal blue velvet dress. Beneath the picture was the caption:

"What part does the outmoded royal blue velvet frock which Nita Selim chose as a shroud play in the solution of her murder? That is the question which Special Investigator Dundee, attached to the district attorney's office, and due home this morning from fruitful detective work in New York, is undoubtedly prepared to answer."

Dundee was still seething with futile rage when he climbed the stairs to his apartment. On the living room floor, touching the door, he found an envelope—unsealed and bearing his name written on a typewriter.

Chicago.—History text books have been laid aside at the University of Chicago and Northwestern University, temporarily, in favor of current newspapers for a study of banking and other financial conditions.

British Revise Checker Game

New interest is being added to the game of checkers in England by using "men" with different numbered values, the winning of the game being decided by the total value of the men remaining on the board.

Some men are worth more than others and some are worth-less.

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—an imported dress—lost color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason, she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15c—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes.

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are redyed at all!"

FOR ANY PAIN

Have you ever found any quicker relief than this?

Anyone can take Aspirin, for doctors have declared these tablets perfectly safe.

And there is no quicker form of relief for any pain.

It is well to remember these things when anyone tries to persuade you to try anything in place of these tablets.

Aspirin may be taken as often as there is any need of its comfort: to stop a headache, throw off a cold, drive away the pains from neuralgia, neurtis, rheumatism, lumbago, etc.

Whenever you take Aspirin you know you are going to get immediate results—and you know there will be no ill effects. You know what you are taking.

Why take chances on some form of relief which may not be as swift—may not be as safe? The new reduced price on bottles of 100 tablets has removed the last reason for ever experimenting with any substitute for Aspirin!

Aspirin is a trade-mark registered in Canada

Questions and Answers

J. F.—I would like to ask a few questions about sweet clover. I have 20 acres which were in sweet clover this last year. It was a good crop and was cut for seed. It is a clay loam and is in fair condition. If I plow the stubble, will the clover come up again or will it come up if it is not plowed? There was a lot of seed shelled in the field.

I have some very sandy soil. Do you think it will be advisable to sow sweet clover on it? How much sweet clover should I sow to the acre? What can I do to help get a catch?

Answer.—Sweet clover is usually a biennial. If it is allowed to form seed, chances are unlikely for it to sprout again the next year. However, if much seed has fallen on the ground, in all probability quite a bit of first year clover will come up and ripen again the following year, just the same as though it had been sown. The way to kill it is to cut the clover when it is green and plow under the stubble.

Sweet clover will be especially valuable on very sandy soil. It makes an abundant growth of roots and thereby adds quite a bit to the humus of the soil. This is especially valuable on your sandy area since sand is very short of plant fibre commonly called humus. The Field Husbandry Department recommends 15 to 20 lbs. of sweet clover seed to the acre.

Two things can be done to help the catch of sweet clover. One is inoculating the seed with the type of bacteria that grow upon it. This can readily be done by obtaining from the Dept. of Bacteriology, O.A.C., the right culture for clover seed. Prepare the mixture according to directions and add it to the seed. Remember this is not a fertilizer but is a bacterial culture and simply helps the growth of the plant in that respect.

To assist in the catch of clover it would be well to add some fertilizer to the soil. If you do not have much manure for the soil, our experience is that two to three bags per acre of 2-12-6 fertilizer gives the crop a splendid start. This should be put on at the time that the nurse crop of grain and the sweet clover are sown. In fertilizing the crop after it has started, however, our experiments recommend the use of 0-12-15 fertilizer at the rate of two or three bags per acre.

R. B.—I have three acres of medium light soil that I wish to put in potatoes next spring. It had oats last year. What is the best way to prepare the soil and the best variety to plant?

Answer.—As a general rule it is recommended to follow a legume crop with potatoes. However, in recent study of the question we find indica-cations that exceedingly good yields are obtained following grain, therefore we rather favor your plan. I assume that the soil has not been fall plowed. You should work it as early as it is sufficiently dry in the spring but do not plow too deeply. For potatoes on sandy loam soil, in our demonstration tests largest gains have been realized from the use of 4-8-10 fertilizer applied at the rate of 750 lbs. per acre. If you have a potato planter with fertilizer dropping compartment, this machine will give the fertilizer the best application. However, if you do not have this machine, strike out the furrow for potatoes or dig the holes, scatter the fertilizer fairly generously along the bottom of the furrow or holes and pull in a covering of the soil. Then drop your potatoes and proceed as usual. Do not allow the fertilizer to drop right on the potatoes. Likewise, do not drop the potatoes immediately on top of the fertilizer. In either of these cases injury is likely to be done to the germination and growth of the seed piece.

For early potatoes the Field Husbandry Department, O.A.C., recommends Irish Cobblers, while for late potatoes Dooley or Green Mountain are favored varieties.

Grow Some Tobacco Plants

With money scarce on the farms, saving is very much in order. Grow a patch of tobacco this year, two or three hundred plants. This can be used in the control of animal parasites, and will save you money. The growing of tobacco requires about the same amount of attention and labor as does the growing of cabbage, with which all are familiar, and the method can be the same. Seed may be secured through any seed house, and the little plants are grown in boxes, in time to be set out when the danger of frost is passed. The fully grown plants are harvested before frost in September, and hung up to dry well, previous to being pulverized for use. Pulverizing is best done by running the entire tobacco plant through a feed mill. The pulverized dry tobacco can be sacked up and kept until needed. Farms that make full use of the home grown tobacco in animal parasite control will not need to make any cash expenditures for this purpose. The powdered dry tobacco can be given in feed or in salt licks, as a worm preventive, to all animals, and it can be used in washes and dusting powders in the control of external parasites. Try growing your own supply, it will be worth while. Any farm in Ontario can grow tobacco that is quite good enough for the destruction of animal parasites.

Dressed to "a-dress the ball" at Pinehurst, N.C., Miss Virginia de Long, favored the masculine mode when she made the rounds the other day. She's from Pasadena, California.

pulled in "galley" so that he might, with the least possible trouble, subject them to correction and correction. All his friends had to read the proofs and listen to arguments about the advisability of altering this adjective, of omitting that comma. Meticulous? Yes, indeed. His case resembled that of Walter Pater or, more recently, George Moore. And the stories were worth all the labor he spent on them.

It was while Herbert Spencer was a guest of Grant Allen at "The Nook," Dorking, that the famous story of the philosopher's ear-clips leaked out.

"How it got out we never discovered," says Richards. "My uncle was furious that this eccentricity on the part of his guest should become the subject of paragraphs. But it is true nevertheless. The philosopher carried clips in pocket so that if the conversation was not to his taste, or if he thought it unworthy of attention, he could apply them to his ears and fall back on his own thoughts for companionship."

Here's a story of Zola — told by

Sir William Rothenstein, the artist, and retold by G. Ant Richards: "Zola sat to me in Paris," Rothenstein—then a young artist—is reported as saying. "He was very cross that morning, I remember. It was just after he had come back from Lourdes and he was wearing a monk's habit as a kind of dressing gown. He said 'that he never looked at a picture show now,' and so I remarked that books had lately entirely ceased to interest me. After that he never spoke till I had finished the drawing."

Mrs. Reginald de Koven's first meeting with Oscar Wilde took place in the London apartment of her friend, Mrs. Montton.

"Where in the world do you come from?" demanded Oscar in a loud voice after the presentation had been made.

"I was born in Chicago," Mrs. de Koven replied.

"There was a look of horror in his expression," declares Mrs. de Koven in "A Musician and His Wife," "as he answered: 'Never, no, never; your parents have deceived you!'"

W. Somerset Maugham, who has made a lot of money from his plays and novels during the last thirty years, is also one of the ablest physicians and surgeons in England. He is a member of the Royal College of Surgeons and a licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Maugham's first novel, "Liza of Lambeth," took literary London by storm.

Dr. Maugham has a brother, Frederick Harrison Maugham, noted barrister and a King's Counsel, who also wields a literary pen. He is the author of "The Case of Juan Calas," being a study of a real case—that of a Huguenot cloth merchant who was sentenced by the Parliament of Toulouse to be broken on the wheel for the murder of his son.

That was in the "good old days," of course!

1933 Says: Skirt and Blouse

By HELEN WILLIAMS.

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Here's a nice sports rig for school, college and general day occasions.

The skirt is the new wrap-around and is carried out in oxford grey soft woolen of angora weave.

The shirt-waist blouse is pale grey crinkly crepe silk.

It's fascinating, too, fashioned of one material as orange-red or a medium-blue soft angora wool jersey. Style No. 3330 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for blouse and 2 1/2 yard of 35-inch material for skirt.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto

City Woods

"Go to the woods, little Son? There are no woods out here." He leads me to a spot Where, sharp and clear, Against the sky they stand— A dozen trees or so. "See? Aren't they near?"

A tiny clump of woods In the midst of a city's roar; A brave little patch of trees With branches high that soar To catch the breeze and rustle it Amid the leaves they wore.

Closer month by month The city creeps, Dwellings, stores, the railways want more land. Hard by lumber yard reaps Frequent harvest. Flaunting triumphantly its lumber Stacked in neat white heaps.

To him it was a forest vast. To me? But yes. As I look upward through the trees The city sounds draw back. I see. Again the deep, cool woods back home With wild flowers blooming Underneath each tree.

Trust

Trust is the conscious reliance or success, the expectation of good, the confidence in people and circumstances. Trust is the courage of mind. It is the state of being of those who have nothing to fear.

The ancients gave so much importance to this quality that the Hebrew language, for instance, included no fewer than fourteen synonyms for it.

Trust is indeed one of the most precious treasures of man as the basis of individual success, social happiness, and political liberty, because it gives a sense of freedom that nothing else gives.

Trust is the esteem of oneself extended to others.

But this curious affair that looks like a big bird cage is a ship's direction-finding device? Note the band of wires running in the plane of the ship's keel (left) and other band running from side to side. Think of them as two reflectors and of the numerous land wireless stations as searchlights. The "reflectors" receive the "beams" at different angles, thus making it possible to tell just where the ship is, with respect to known stations ashore. Routine commercial broadcasting will serve as "searchlights" or one may signal some station to do a little broadcasting to help out; or one may use some of the stations which broadcast twice-daily for the purpose and continuously during foggy weather. —Canadian National Railways.

Amusing Anecdotes Of Famous People

One of the amusing stories told by Major-General Sir Ernest D. Swinton (in "Eyewitness: And The Origin of The Tank"), concerns his meeting with Edna Ferber, the novelist. Miss Ferber and General Swinton—who had come to the United States as a aide to Lord Reading—were touring the country in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan drive. Their parties met in Iowa one day and the General, in a humorous mood, told Miss Ferber confidentially that at the last place where his party had spoken twenty people had been crushed to death trying to get into the hall to hear them.

"Was that so, General?" asked Miss Ferber. "And how many were crushed trying to get out after you started?"

Coming from a lecturer "as is a lecturer," this from Stephen Leacock is amusing:

"No one likes lecturing except those who can't do it. A dull lecturer enjoys his own performance immensely."

Professor Leacock is telling (in "Mark Twain"—a little masterpiece of compressed biography) how poor Mark grew to abominate lecturing, but, alas! needed the money.

Following his marriage to Olivia Langdon—his beloved "Levy"—in February, 1870, Mark Twain lived in Buffalo, N.Y., in a house presented by his father-in-law. Here is a bulky picture of the "Innocents at Home," done in the best Leacock manner.

"Behold then Samuel L. Clemens—now become for everybody Mark Twain, the great American humorist—the rough days of his western life get behind him, settled down at number 472 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, trying hard to be respectable.

"Here he lives the model life of a family man, joins in morning prayer and listens as best he can to the daily reading of the Scriptures. More than that, he even makes desperate efforts to give up smoking."

"He has his wife at his side, his desk at his elbow, and the world at his feet. After all, what does tobacco matter? Let's have another chapter of Deuteronomy."

A story is told of a book publisher who, wishing to rid himself of his bothersome authors, determined to write his own books; did so, and lived happily ever after. That does not apply to Grant Richards, well-known English publisher—although he has written a number of books—for he so obviously enjoys the company of authors, and artists, judging from the stories about them in his reminiscences "Memories of a Misspent Youth"—though why "Misspent," I can't imagine.

Grant Richards—named after his uncle, Grant Allen, the novelist—recalls Frank Harris, always a mighty talker, telling the "magnificent stories he afterwards published" to a group of literary friends, including Grant Allen and Frederic Harrison, who regularly wintered on the French Riviera. When it was suggested to him that he ought to write them, he declared that to write and publish short stories less good than the best was repugnant to him.

"But your stories are in the very front rank, Harris," they assured him.

"Yes—you think so. But are they equal to Maupassant's best?"

Next year Harris returned with some of the stories set up in type (says Richards). He had had them

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The annual budget was presented to the House of Commons last week by the Minister of Finance, and it certainly was not to the liking of the people, as it adds greatly to the burden of the tax payer. It is well known that there is a deficit every year and the national debt is gradually increasing, and new taxes have got to be levied in order, if possible, that the budget may be balanced. The new taxes is falling most heavily on the poor man who is least able to bear additional burdens. One of the articles on which a very heavy tax is levied is sugar, which will now cost two cents per pound more than was paid before the new tax was imposed. For some time consumers have been paying from $190 to 550 per hundred pounds. They will now have to pay from $7 00 to $7 50 per hundred pounds. It is reported that wholesalers and manufacturers have known for some time that a heavy tax was to be levied on this commodity that is a necessity in every home. If this report is true it gave the wholesalers and manufacturers an opportunity to lay in a very heavy stock on which they would realize a very heavy profit. In that case the heavy tax would be a great benefit to them. But the poor man was entirely in ignorance in regard to this new tax which he would soon be called upon to pay, and thus did not lay in a supply at the low price. It may be said that the rich man has also to buy sugar, but with his riches he does not feel this tax. But it is a heavy burden to the poor man who is already taxed to death.

This world in which we live is a big world. It provides plenty of room for all of its inhabitants and especially for the young man with an abundance of energy and ambition. And there is an abundance of opportunities for the ambitious young man to make his mark in the world. But there is a certain class who will never succeed no matter how many opportunities they may have. During the past few weeks we have had brought to our minds an example of these two classes. Two young immigrants from very humble homes in Europe came to the United States with the prospect of making their fortunes. Anton Cermak began by working in a mine at a very small wage. By industry he gradually climbed up the ladder of success, gaining the esteem of his fellow-men and by degrees amassed a fortune in Chicago. As is well known Chicago was a hot bed of crime, and was governed by an unscrupulous mayor and officials. So much confidence was imposed in Cermak that he was elected mayor, and during the brief period in which he was in the mayor's chair, he accomplished much in putting down crime, bootlegging and vice. He was a friend of President Roosevelt, and at Miami, Florida, where the latter was tendered a reception, when engaged in conversation with Roosevelt, he was shot by an assassin, an Italian brick layer, Giuseppe Zangara, who was also a poor immigrant. Cermak lingered between life and death for two or three weeks when he succumbed to his wounds. Zangara had the same opportunity as Cermak had, but instead of plugging away like Cermak, and making the best of every opportunity, he sought riches in the short way, but falling in this he worked up a grudge against those who were successful and became obsessed with the idea that all kings, presidents and men in power should be shot. It was Roosevelt's life that he sought, but he failed in his object. Like many others with a diseased mind, he looked upon himself as a great hero, and gloried in his infamous deed until the last moment, before his shameful death in the electric chair. Cermak's name will live for ages and will be loved for his achievements. But Zangara's name will quickly die. Both men had the same start in life, but what a difference in their ending. Every young man has to make his choice and is responsible for his deeds.

The March meeting of the W. I. met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C. H. Pilkey; with a good attendance of members and visitors. The Flower and Relief Committees reported their work, flowers to the sick in the community, and relief in various ways, to several families during the winter. The members have made and sold quilts, raising over thirty dollars, and they are very grateful to the members who so kindly opened their homes for these quiltings and to all the ladies who so willingly helped. Mrs. Diamond gave a very profitable paper on Nutrition, followed by two much-appreciated solos by Miss Margaret Mitchell, accompanied by Mrs. John Tom. Miss Margaret Pennell then addressed the meeting, her subject "How City and Country Folk may benefit one another" proved most interesting, as she dealt with the advantages of each, also the disadvantages. Such talks as these help to broaden our view-point and make us more tolerant of our city neighbors and they of us. - Com.

Taken from the Pickering News, April 2nd 1886

We learn that our enterprising citizen, Mr. Johnstone Pirie, has purchased the Leng Hall property and intends effecting a transformation during the next few months. Two weeks ago J. S. Johnstone, who carried on a tailoring business in this village, left home, presumably for Toronto, taking with him a considerable sum of money, supposed to pay some wholesale accounts. Not returning home at the appointed time, his family became somewhat anxious about him, and Mrs. Johnston paid a visit to the city but was unable to locate him. No word has been received from him from that day to this.

CLAREMONT

Wm. Gibbons spent the week end in town with relatives.

Rev. Mr. Harton and son, Bruce, were in the city on Monday.

The Cooper family were in Toronto on Wednesday last visiting Mrs. Rawson.

Kenneth Ward spent the week end in Toronto visiting his sister, Elizabeth, nurse in training at the Western Hospital.

Luther Pilkey objects to that vacant corner of his being a rendezvous for all the dogs in the neighborhood, as is the practice.

Wm. and Mrs. Mitchell, of Whitevale, spent Tuesday of last week with Lyman and Mrs. Pilkey, also attended the Geo. Morgan sale.

Luther Pilkey and Ed Gibson had a business trip to Toronto on Monday last, Mr. Pilkey replenishing his stock for spring needs.

Norman Linton is the proud owner of a remarkable cow which last week gave birth to three calves, weighing 55, 62 and 66 lbs. respectively.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Wm. and Mrs. Birkett on Tuesday, when the members of the Bowling Club were entertained.

Joe Ward had the misfortune to have his pony fall from under him while turning in the gate at the farm, throwing him to the roadway, severely spraining his ankle.

Mrs. Gibson, of Woodstock, while in Toronto visiting Mrs. T. Caster, who is at present in the Toronto General Hospital, came on to Claremont, calling on Mrs. Brown.

The roads about the country and particularly the Brock road, continue in very poor condition. It is reported that the County have sold their scrapers and road maintenance machines.

The sons of Rev. H. R. and Mrs. Stephens, of Alvinston, were in town last week end, while their parents were in Toronto responding to a call by Mr. Stephen's mother, who is seriously ill.

John Selman suffered an unfortunate accident on Sunday morning last. When on his way to feed his hens he fell on the ice, severely injuring his leg and is now off work for a few days convalescing.

George Morgan's sale on the 21st proved very successful. A good crowd was in attendance and exceptionally good prices were realized. Mr. Hull, the new occupant of the farm, purchased a large part of the stock.

Next week, providing we have the space, we propose retelling through these columns, the story of the life and habits of Lindsay's old cow, which we overheard in Claremont recently. Do you remember the beast?

Mrs. Carman Baker and son, Russell, of Smithfield, in company with Bert and Mrs. Milner and Mrs. Bush, of Unionville, attended service in the United Church on Sunday evening, and a social hour with their former pastor.

The annual meeting of the Claremont Lawn Bowling Club held for the purpose of election of officers and such other business as may be considered, will be held in the Community Hall on Friday evening, March 8th, at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

The Y. P. S. of the United Church had a very interesting meeting on Monday evening. Miss Margaret Spenceley gave a fine paper on Canadian Poets. The Society is arranging for a lecture on April 24th, by Dr. F. J. Horwood, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

The reception to Rev. Mr. Harton on Friday evening last took the form of a community welcome, there being official representatives of neighboring churches and organizations present. Dinner was served, followed by a splendid program of music and welcoming addresses by the clergy and lay men.

Local residents are quite concerned about the likely shortage of maple syrup this spring. There has evidently been an unfavorable form of winter for the production for this popular food. The lack of snow has also caused much speculation as to the possibilities of the wheat crop, and arguments, pro and con, are heard re the advantages of a heavy blanket of snow throughout the winter covering the wheat fields.

The debate in the finals for the Y. P. S. of the Oshawa Presbytery, took place in Brooklin on Tuesday evening. The subject, "Resolved that the young people of to-day are happier than were those of fifty years ago," was upheld by Miss Louise Curtis and A. Found, of the Ebenezer team, and the negative by Miss Mary White and Will Tomlinson, of the Claremont team. The judges, Messrs. Caskey, Hopkins and Anderson, awarded the decision to the affirmative, the same being a very close one. A short musical program was also enjoyed in the intervals.

Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Glover spent Monday in the city.

Wm. and Mrs. Birkett and Mrs. Palmer spent Friday in Toronto.

Mrs. H. G. McIntyre and Mrs. C. A. Overland were in the city on Monday.

Protection Part 3

The degree of success allotted to any one person or organization is measured by the knowledge and energy expended in the acquiring of this success. If we expend but energy and knowledge to no certain degree, we acquire experience alike valuable only as our knowledge tells us how to apply it. The value of our knowledge also may be limited only according to the amount of energy we have to dispense in giving it, but energy expended alone without knowledge to properly harness and control it, is wasted. The experience which tells us that the constant grind affects us physically shows us the attendant condition because we are forewarned - let us be fore-armed. No physical defect contributes more directly to fatigue and inefficiency than faulty vision. In some cases the eyes, by making an extra effort are able to overcome a considerable amount of defect so that the owner can see as well as anyone, although much more nerve energy is used than should be required. These conditions can be uncovered only by a scientific examination.

CANADA

Hunting Down the Pessimists

Indications have appeared already that pessimists in Canada are to be hunted down and hounded into the wilderness during 1933. There has been a pretty steady sniping at the "pessimist" during the past two and a half years, but the coming months will see him being pursued with violence and unrelenting fury. He will be anybody's meat, and it will almost be safer to be accused of having committed arson than to be charged with pessimism. The pessimist must be muzzled. That is the new slogan, and there is a perfectly good reason for it.—Manitoba Free Press.

All-Canadian Product

It is now announced that all-Canadian cod liver oil is to be manufactured in Halifax. This is one of the fruits of the Imperial Conference at Ottawa, and should be a cause of much rejoicing among the juvenile patriots. Hitherto most of this medicament has been produced in Norway, but in the Mother Country as well as in Canada a duty was placed upon the imported product. Possibly it will not taste any better than the foreign oil. It cannot, we hope, taste any worse.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

An Editor's Ideal

It is a truism that to-day's newspaper is to-morrow morning's kindling. But people who have anything to do with newspapers feel that they help to kindle something more than the kitchen fire. They like to think that the presentation of facts helps to kindle intelligence and interest; that the exposition of opinions stimulates readers into thinking things out for themselves, and that while the physical paper may be destroyed, the effect on the reader remains.—Edmonton Journal.

Warm Jobs

Service in the Canadian navy seems to be more attractive at this time of year than at others. The navy—both ships—is in Caribbean waters for "winter" manoeuvres.—Fort Erie Times-Review.

Reason For Optimism

Outside of our railway problem, Canada faces few public emergencies which are not found, to even a greater degree, in other countries. Our law courts are sane, and effective in their operation. Our financial institutions are founded upon the very bed rock of stability. Our people are industrious, law-abiding and progressive, and are demonstrating a fine restraint in the face of difficult and trying conditions.—Chatham News.

Fight For Existence

The extension of the war area is calculated to do injury to commerce far beyond the confines of China, but there is very little prospect of the present military government of Japan being overthrown. The outside world is faced with the prospect of bitter warfare between China and Japan perhaps for many years. It is an appalling conflict between nations for national existence.—Ottawa Citizen.

Price of History

W. Perkins Bull, of Brimpton, has just finished spending some 18 months compiling the history of Peel County for 200 years. He was assisted by 35 paid men and women secretaries; and the work cost him $18,000. Now, who would like to write a history of Wellington?—Fergus News-Record.

World's Greatest Apple Pie

Speaking of apples, the world's greatest apple pie as recently made at Birmingham, England, being 12 feet long, ten feet wide, two feet deep, containing 450 pounds of apples, 150 pounds of flour, 50 pounds of lard and 28 pounds of sugar and 3,000 portions were served from it.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

And It Did the Trick

Man in British Columbia has invented a machine which tells scholars if they are early or late for school. There used to be something like that in the red school on the tenth concession, only it was kept in the upper left hand drawer of the teacher's desk.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Calgary's Financial Position

What is the position? Apart from all other considerations, the city is faced with a total of over four million dollars of unpaid accounts. More than $500,000 is owing to the Glenmore Dam contractors. There are more than $2,600,000 of waterworks debentures pledged to the Bank of Montreal for monies advanced to complete that big project. The city has borrowed from the same bank this year $490,000 and has arranged for a further loan of $93,000 for current expenses. In addition there is owing to the Provincial Government the sum of $250,000, to the local sinking fund $400,000, and to the School Board $35,000. These are huge indebtednesses at a time when the tax-paying ability of citizens is steadily declining.—Calgary Herald.

THE UNITED STATES.

The Growth of Villages.

During the years from 1920 to 1930, when the strictly farming population was rapidly losing ground, the rural village population steadily gained. In 1920 there were approximately 20,000,000 Americans living in the villages. In 1930 this number has risen to 23,600,000. Meanwhile, the farms had lost only 1,300,000. So more than half the gain in village population came from elsewhere than the surrounding farms.—Philadelphia Ledger.

They Get Their Man

Nineteen of twenty-one murders committed within the precincts of Greater London were solved by the Metropolitan police last year. This is a record the authorities of the great British metropolis may well be proud. Politics and slack court procedure are things that do not enter into the question of justice in the Old Country. Hence this notable achievement.—Guelph Mercury.

THE EMPIRE

War Clouds in Europe

The question is whether the world is to disarm or Germany to rearm. If anyone ever doubted the intention of a German Government to profit by the failure of the Allied countries to make good their pledges, he would be little likely to doubt it with a Hitler Administration in office. From that the sequence develops automatically. Germany rearms. In face of that real or supposed menace, even a Radical Government would fall immediately and M. Tardieu and M. Marin come in to rule in the Poincare tradition. The Little Entente could no more ignore the spectacle of a rearmed Germany than could France, while along another line of consequence Italy would, of course, increase her army and fleet and air force pari passu with the French bloc. What in the face of those developments would be the use of convening any World Economic Conference at all?—Spectator (London).

Gold or Sterling?

A constructive movement by Great Britain to establish a working headquarters for sterling is what half the world is waiting for. There is no reason to defer action until the World Economic Conference meets. Not only the Empire, but all the countries now in convoy with sterling would respond readily to a lead which offered a stable foundation for the restoration of their trade. The events which followed Great Britain's departure from gold make it clear that the interests of these countries are linked so closely to Great Britain's purchasing power that if we find a stable medium of exchange they will conform to it. The most practical immediate step would be the establishment of an Empire Exchange Base, or conceivably even an International Sterling Bank, which would act as a general headquarters or pooling centre for the Central Banks of the countries taking part. It would, in other words, bear exactly the same relation to the Central Banks of the nations on sterling as the Bank of England bears today to the joint stock banks of Great Britain.—Sir John Wardlaw-Milne in The Nineteenth Century (London).

The Little Entente

The Foreign Ministers of Yugoslavia, Rumania, and Czecho-Slovakia, have signed a treaty at Geneva. They have set up an institution without precedent in European history. A "Permanent Council" of the "Little Entente" is to consist of all three Foreign Ministers, and will direct a common foreign and economic policy for all three Powers. Thus on the basis of a common foreign policy, an "international community" has been founded, as powerful as any war more strongly armed than pre-war Austria-Hungary. It is self-evident that such extraordinary measures do not spring from ordinary situations. Europe is ailing physically and morally. The revelations of the last few months have shown the world that those who want revision of the territorial settlement are getting ready to support their claims by force.—Manchester Guardian.

Fifteen Worshipers Lose Lives In $500,000 Montreal Church Fire

Montreal.—Pandemonium succeeded prayers in St. Jacques Roman Catholic Church here Sunday when a $500,000 fire—presumably the work of an incendiary—swept the edifice during mass, causing injury to 15 persons. Two arrests followed.

Worshippers leapt from the gallery in terror, dashed to the doors and crowded the stairways as flames enveloped the St. Catharine and St. Denis Street building in the fourth recent church fire in Quebec province.

Previously under guard following reported threats to set it afire, the ruined church was still smoking Sunday night when the police arrested a husband and wife in connection with the blaze. The woman, according to the police, is the same one who last Friday warned the church authorities that her husband might try to burn the building.

Guards were quietly watching the interior of the edifice at the very moment when, during 10 o'clock mass, flames burst out in the top gallery and spread fear—and in some cases panic—among the worshippers who filled the pews on the main floor and lower gallery.

The voices of clergy and ushers rose at once above the rising tumult of the frightened parishioners, urging courage and coolness in place of the panic which threatened to jam the doorways and cause a holocaust.

Three or four women hurled themselves from the lower gallery—the upper one was unoccupied—and crashed to the floor among the jostling crowd below.

Baby Abandoned

Men slid down the balcony supports. Children fell and were trampled in the rush for the exits, their frightened cries drowned in the clamor, to which the roar of the spreading flames was adding a momentarily increasing note of menace.

Purses, coats and hats—even a tiny infant in arms—were thoughtlessly abandoned as pew-holders dashed for safety. The baby was later rescued.

One little girl had both shoes torn from her feet. In the rush, and was picked up some time later on the street, trying to find her way home in her bare feet.

Abbe Oscar Valliquette, who had just descended from the pulpit when the first cry of fire shattered the stillness, led in trying to quiet the worshippers, while the parish priest, Rev. Father Pierre Richard, ran from the presbytery to aid the celebrant of the Mass in saving the sacred vessels.

The Fire Department was by this time on the scene, and six firemen were soon added to the list of nine other injured as the work of fighting the roaring blaze began.

By this time the last of the worshippers were out of the building, the injured receiving medical attention and the remainder swelling the crowd which packed the street outside, fearful of loss of life and vociferously indignant as the rumor of incendiarism spread.

Detectives set to work while the fire was still burning, to trace the woman who, on Friday, had interviewed clergy and, it is alleged, suggested that her husband should be watched lest he set the church afire. The woman whom the detectives arrested a few hours later was located in a rooming house. Her husband, it is reported denied all complicity in the fire.

Previous Outbreak

The theory that the fire was set deliberately was supported by the fact that on March 6 a previous outbreak occurred in the church, causing only minor loss. It broke out on the main floor below the balcony.

Sunday's damage is set at approaching $500,000. Insurance of only $200,000 is carried.

All of the 15 injured were not identified, as a number received medical attention on the spot and did not give their names. Those listed included: Mrs. Lorenzo Perron, 51, the most seriously injured, who was taken to St. Luke's Hospital—she was one of those who jumped from the balcony; and the following firemen: V. Hebert, Masson, Maille, Atlenne, Bedard and Vincent.

Theories Advanced

One theory was the firebug had remained in the church after an earlier mass and had set the blaze in the wall at the back of the gallery. Criminality of the act was intensified, police pointed out, by the knowledge he must have had that the outbreak would occur when the church was filled with worshippers.

The fire rushed up through the second gallery and into the roof. The second gallery was not being used, but had it been occupied many would certainly have lost their lives, according to firemen.

Half an hour after the first alarm the roof fell through and carried the floor into the cellar. District Fire Chief P. Doolan, who was in charge, said the roof had already begun to weaken as his men rushed in to make sure every one had left the blazing structure.

The steeple, over 300 feet high and the tallest in Montreal, was thought liable to fall and several streams of water were poured on it for hours. The flames burned in another direction, however, and it was saved.

$2,952,000 Deficit For 1933 Says Premier Geo. S. Henry

The present fiscal year, it is estimated, will show a deficit of $2,952,000, announced Premier George S. Henry in delivering the budget address last week. The deficit for the last fiscal year, which closed October 31 was $2,060,798.

The Premier estimated the cost of exchange in U.S. funds for the year at $1,200,000, while the cost last year was $2,333,000. Other expenditures show that the Dept. of Education with an expenditure of $10,525,000 for the year, is decreased by $1,233,000 while the Dept. of Highways will expend $3,115,000 or a decrease from the previous year of $765,000. No mention is made of provision for unemployment direct relief, while miscellaneous expenditures under the Welfare Dept. are abolished, the amount last year being $299,000.

The Dept. of Agriculture will have an expenditure of $1,753,000, a decrease of $289,000, while miscellaneous expenditures of this department are reduced by $389,000, the figure to be expended being $200,000 as compared with $589,000 in 1932.

Total ordinary expenditures are $53,285,000 as compared with $56,459,000 in 1932, making the decrease of $3,174,000.

Ordinary revenue is placed at $50,338,000 as compared with $54,398,000 in 1932, or a decrease of $4,065,000. Profits from the liquor control board are estimated at $5,500,000 as compared with $9,260,000 in 1932, a decrease of $3,760,000; lands and forests, expenditure, $1,218,000, a decrease of $1,240,000, while succession duties are expected to rise, the estimated figure being $8,500,000 as compared with $6,137,000 last year, or an increase of $2,363,000.

$250,000 Surplus In Postal Service

Ottawa.—A surplus of about $250,000 will be shown on the operations of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending March 31. This has been made possible, it is stated, by affecting economies wherever possible without sacrificing the high standards of the service.

The extent of the economies is illustrated by a comparison with the year ending March 31, 1931, when the department showed a deficit of $6,000,000. This deficit was cut down to $2,000,000 last year. Turning of the deficit into a surplus was accomplished despite falling revenues from the postal service.

Ohio River On Rampage

When the water in the Ohio River rose five feet above normal flood level many cities and towns in the upper Mississippi valley were inundated. Numerous house boats were marooned.

China's Great Wall

With loops and spurs it measures 1,560 miles—one-tenth the circumference of the earth. Chin the Unifier, who began construction of the wall in the third century, B.C., is credited with having had, at one time, 700,000 men under forced labor on this and other works. Those who died under the lash or of starvation he ordered thrown into the mud core of the wall or sealed up in the masonry. The winding barrier supported about 20,000 superstructures, each of which was a barracks. It was once garrisoned by 3,000,000 soldiers. It is protected by 10,000 outlying signal towers, themselves as romantic as the wall. Standing in open spaces or on mountain tops, square, thirty to fifty feet high, bored through with arches at the bottom, solid above, usually with no access to the top save by a ladder to be pulled up, these towers were fitted with elaborate bronze instruments for smoke puffs, furnaces for flame signals and probably mirrors. They enabled the old Chinese watchers to "telegraph" movements of the enemy scores of miles ahead of their progress and to mass their forces at the threatened points.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Falkland Islands

If the Falkland Islands had not recently had a centenary and if the British had not issued special stamps in honor of the occasion, few people would have remembered that Argentina still claims the islands and believes Britain is a usurper. Every now and again the Argentine Government lets the British Government know it is annoyed about the Union Jack floating over the Falkland Islands, but the matter is allowed to drop with the formal protest.

The islands of East and West Falklands are 1,000 miles south of Buenos Aires in the South Atlantic and 300 miles east of the Straits of Magellan. One hundred years ago Commander Onslow of the British Navy sailed into what was then the Port of Luis de Soledad. He took possession in the name of King William IV., and sent the Argentine schooner Sarandi, which was there, back home to Buenos Aires.—Border Cities Star.

Two Huge British Iron Firms to Join

London, Eng.—Provisional agreement has been secured for the long-considered merger of the two greatest iron and steel works, the Dorman Long Company and the South Durham Steel and Iron Company. The merger will involve capital of $20,000,000.

The scheme completes the unification of the iron and steel industry along the whole side of the river Tees which was intimated three years ago when the Dorman Long Company absorbed the Blockow Vaughan Company.

It is pointed out by one observer of the merger that the tariff advisory committee has made the reorganization of the iron and steel industry a condition of continuance of duties on imported iron and steel.

In idle wishes fools supinely stay; be there a will, and wisdom finds a way.—Crabbe.

A Thousand Island Holiday

Before going to bed we sat in the stern and watched the stars grow brighter and brighter while the lights of Gananoque faded in the distance. Once during the night we woke to see the crescent moon rising, the color of a golden orange, swinging low in the sky and casting a long trail of light across the water. Again, at dawn, we looked and saw the red light brighten in the east, and the moon, now silver, shining above it. In the morning we steamed through the Cornwall canal. We could see the river flowing alongside nearly all the way, its calm blue water broken sometimes by foamy rapids. The canal ran between fields fenced in with poles laid criss-cross, forming an angle every few yards so that the line of the fence bent sharply all across the fields. The locks were very trim, with green lawns and flower beds ablaze with color.

The long journey across three thousand miles of ocean, up the St. Lawrence to Montreal, and thence by train to Gananoque, a thousand miles from the sea, was nearly at an end.

With the bell clanging, the train moved slowly through the streets of the little town and stopped at the wharf. We had reached the point where the St. Lawrence is ten miles wide, and a row boat carried us out into the Lake of the Thousand Islands to Sagastawaka—"the home full of sunshine"—where we were to spend the summer. It is a thickly wooded island, standing high in the water. On one side red granite cliffs catch the sunlight, and in the middle there is a little valley where the golden rod grows shoulder high and tall silver birches shine radiant against the cloudless blue sky.

Days spent among the Islands are like rainbows which have spilt their colors over the world—morning of gold and green and blue—evenings when sky and water glow with rose and yellow and amethyst. I have never seen sun sunsets. The water catches the rays of light and plays with them, shifting and twisting and blending the colors, while the Islands deepen into shadow, and the trees stand out black against the sky.

Nearly every day there was a fringe, like a chain of little islands flung across the horizon; and on one strangely beautiful evening it lingered after sundown, its outlines clear as before, its color dimmed to mist-blue against a flaming sky.

When the night was very still, sky and river were full of shining points of light. The islands mirrored in the water, and in the starlight the trees and their reflections merged into one. On such nights we used to go out in a canoe, glide into the open where there was no sound save the rhythmic, al drip-drip of water from the pat-

... dies, or push through shallow channels, where the silence was broken by the swish of reeds and water-lily pads, or the whirr of a heron, rising from the rushes.

The days passed all too quickly in rowing, sailing, canoeing, picnics on the island and swimming. Sometimes Red Indians came to offer us baskets made of sweet hay or birch bark or porcupine quills.

On Sunday evenings we went to service in a bay shaped like a half-moon. The pulpit was a block of granite on the shore; and the congregation sat in boats packed closely together. — From "That Friend of Mine," by Josephine Kellet. (London: The Swarthmore Press.)

With a Sigh of Content

The great moment of the day is come. One stands watching the last sweep of violet into dun above the line of the hill, one sees how the flowers are falling one and all into a grey mist of confusion through which the little evening wind faintly whispers. Beyond the gate on the rough among the bracken, that has been amber-colored all day and now is stretching a pale cloud to the horizon, two farmers are talking:

"Well, good-night."

"Good-night."

Now the only sound in all the world is the running stream, you turn down the path, open the door, find your way by the light of the fire to the lamp, light it, and then turn. The books crowd in upon you, they are pressing, urgent, upon every side. As you stand by one of the bookcases there is a glorious instant of indecision that you would prolong if nature would but allow it, then the book, almost without deliberate consciousness, is in your hand, your chair is drawn to the blaze, and with a sigh of content you are off and away.—Hugh Walpole, in "Reading." (New York: Harpers.)

"I didn't cry at the dentist's, dad," informed Willie on his return.
"Good," said Dad. "I like a brave boy. I must give you a shilling. Did he hurt you much?"
"No, dad; he was out," answered Willie.

Clay Mudd, editor of The Brushville Bugle, received from a lady who lives in Pea Ridge, a little poem entitled: "I Wonder if You Miss Me" After reading it, Mr. Mudd returned the poem to the lady, with the following note: "Dear Madam: If he does, he ought never to be trusted with firearms again."

"Did you like the last part?"
"Yes."
"Well, what part didn't you like?"
"Oh," said she, "there was too much middle."

"Did you keep to the diet I prescribed for you?"
"I've tried to, doctor, but it hasn't been easy."

"Nonsense! I said you were to eat what your three-year-old baby-boy eats."
"Yes, doctor, I know. Candles, pieces of coal, shoe-laces, india-rubber."

Ever notice that the fellow who sits in the back seat at church usually lands in a front seat at the show?

Loose Change

It is as hard to drag an old fellow out at night as it is to keep a young fellow in. Remember the robin, he sings in the rain. The only thing that travels faster than light, to a woman's mind, is a run in her new chiffon hose. Asked what he did when his wife started to give him a lecture, a man said: "I listen." Arguments make few friends. The man who comes home whipped at night is usually the man who went out whipped in the morning. Fools rush in where wise girls fear to wed. The more a man really knows, the less certain he is that he really knows anything.

Blessed is the man who can disagree with me without getting mad about it.

They gave us short addresses on the four principles of our Society, namely: Worship, Work, Edification and Fellowship. These addresses were enjoyed by all, and we hope for another visit in the near future.—Com.

—A large number of those receiving relief seem of the opinion that their needs should be supplied by the municipality without any effort on their part. Municipalities should help only those who help themselves. The majority of those on relief feel humiliated when depending on charity for their living, and accept it only as something unavoidable. Oakley Township in Mankoka has advised that they will give relief to none who will not take advantage next summer to grow vegetables on land loaned them.

—Babe Ruth, the King of Swat, is feeling the depression keenly. Last year he was paid $75,000, but this year he is compelled to accept only $52,000.

—Mrs. John T. Stephenson and son, Morley, have moved into Garnet Courtice's dwelling on Elizabeth Street, which has just been vacated by Mr. Wonnacott, who has moved on to Mr. Ruddy's farm, known as the Quinlan farm.

—On Saturday last six inches of snow fell in London and other parts of south western Ontario. In Tilsonburg the town snow-plows were ordered out for the first time in two years. Motor traffic suffered in consequence and several serious accidents occurred. Farmers, however, welcomed the snow as it will benefit the fall wheat and clover. It will also prolong the maple syrup season.

—The interest taken in amateur sports was shown one evening last week when nearly 14,000 hockey fans paid for admission to the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, to see the match between Newmarket and Sudbury, in which Newmarket won by one goal. The interest in the game was not confined to those who paid for admission, but many thousand other fans can keep in touch with the progress of the game by listening in to the radio. It is claimed that those listening in can get a better idea of the game than many who pay their dollar or dollar and a half and are forced to stand some place where they get a poor view of the players.

—About two weeks ago ten hockey fans from Sudbury who were anxious to see the match between Sudbury and Newmarket, and not having the necessary cash to buy their railway tickets, decided to ride the rods on a freight train to Toronto, where the game was to be played. They reached Toronto all right, but were immediately arrested and fined $10 and costs, or two days in jail. Having no money they were taken to the Don jail, and would have missed the game had not some of their fellow townsmen, who had heard of their plight, come to their rescue, and paid their fines and hotel bills. We doubt very much if they would show the same determination to get to church to hear a good sermon.

—The Hydro Commission, through the Public Utility Commission, is about to instal electric water heaters in the Town of Whitby, free of charge in the homes of water users, certain fixed charges to be made for the amount of power used. This service is made possible on account of the large amount of power that has remained unused. Ontario has an abundance of water power, a large amount of which is not utilized for want of customers, and its uses can be greatly extended in the homes when the cost is made within the reach of house holders, which seems to be the case now. Electricity is now used extensively in homes for lighting, heating, cooking, ironing, washing, toasting etc. If this had been predicted fifty years ago, the idea would have been ridiculed.

—According to the reports of the Toronto Observatory, there was less snow fall in this district this past winter than in any winter during the past ninety years, this being the period during which records have been taken. The amount of snow that fell was 28.2 inches, the next lowest being 30.2 inches, which fell in 1877-8 and in 1885-6. The greatest fall was in the winter of 1869-70 when 123 inches fell. The average for the 90 years was 66 inches, so that the fall this past winter was only a little above one-third the average. Of there is a possibility of there being a heavy fall of snow before the winter is over. The chart at the Observatory also shows that the winter has been an exceptionally mild one, there being only two cold dips, one in February, when it fell to 6 degrees below zero, and another in March, when it was not quite so cold.

—The Salvation Army is celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of its coming to Whitby this week. It was about this time that the Army came to Pickering where it had a barracks and a large number of members. They had many difficulties to overcome, but they have surmounted these and are now firmly established over the whole world, and now command the respect of all classes from royalty to the humblest member of society. They are accomplishing a great deal toward reclaiming the lost, and those who are down and out through crime. Their work in the police courts in the cities is well known. They work hand in hand with the officers of the law, and in many cases the officers of the Army are asked to look after those who otherwise would be sent to prison. In this way they save a great many and make them honored members of society.

—L. B. Tapeson, of Bowmanville, will be in town shortly to tune pianos. Any orders left at THE NEWS office will receive prompt and careful attention.

—The Men's Brotherhood met on Monday evening last with a fair attendance. Rev. H. G. Crozier was the speaker, leading in a study of the Test of a Nation.

—George Elliott, who had an attack of flu some weeks ago, is now confined to his bed suffering from the after effects of the disease. We hope that he may soon recover.

—Dr. Carmichael will be in charge of the service of the Presbyterian Church, at the Friends' Meeting House on Sunday next at 2.30 p. m. Everybody welcome. The Bible Class and Sunday School will meet at 1.30.

—Mrs. J. Muirhead, who conducts the "Madeline" beauty salon in Clarendon, will be in Pickering, and will conduct her beauty parlor in St. J. Davis' residence on Church St. Hours, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Phone 5600.

—Now is the time to be thinking of auto and accident insurance in time for the greater hazard of heavy spring traffic. Rates are lower, and it is a pleasure to quote them. A. E. Richardson, phone Pickering 6000.

—Dr. H. and Mrs. Carmichael and Miss Lillian Murray, of Whitby; F. F. Baledon and family, of Burford; A. H. Clark, of Lakefield; H. J. Clark and M. C. Marquis, of Toronto, and H. W. and Mrs. Boyes and family were guests of W. J. and Mrs. Clark on Sunday, upon the occasion of the forty third anniversary of their wedding.

—The Council of Pickering Township are releasing for immediate use, copies of By-law No. 1402 recently passed, controlling the building and erection of all dwelling houses and other buildings. Those contemplating construction are cautioned to obtain particulars before commencing. W. H. Chester, of Highland Creek, Building Inspector, should be consulted.

—A number of young and old boys from here attended the dinner and program given in the Whitevale United Church on Friday evening last, under the auspices of the Boys' Work Board of the township. John Hunter, of Peterboro, boy premier in 1932, was the principal speaker, whose address on the "Jig-saw Puzzle of Life" was very much appreciated, and given in language that made an impression on even the youngest member of his audience. A number from here provided the musical program.

—Down in Kansas there is a robin that has been fighting its reflection in a window pane for over two weeks, and is becoming exhausted with its continued efforts. There are a great many people who are doing the same thing. They have imaginary grievances over which they lose much sleep and in making public their complaints they lose many of their friends. They imagine that the whole world is against them and they make themselves miserable. Like the robin the trouble comes from within themselves and not from without.

The Big Store!

"Pickering's Leader Store"

AND NOW

Let's talk to the ladies about the "Hosiery" Question:

We have just placed in stock a large shipment of "Clin-Knit" Hosiery. The lot includes hosiery for children and boys and girls in "Sun Back" and "Sun Brown." A very nice fine ribbed mercerized cotton in sizes from 6 1/2 to 9 1/2, all going on sale at one price, marvelous value. Only 25c per pair, 3 pairs for 68c

Then there is also a line of every day Hosiery for ladies in "white and grey" heather and "white and brown" heather mixtures and also gun metal, very nice fine cotton with shaped legs, in sizes 9, 9 1/2, 10 and 10 1/2, at the same price as the kiddies. They're going over "Big" at 25 cents, 3 pairs 69 cents.

Then we have Artificial Silk hose at 29c per pair, 3 pair for $1 and pure thread silk full fashioned hosiery in all sizes of leading shades at 99c per pair. Yes they're "Holesproof" quality and wonderful value too. Then there are other two lines in silk at $1 and $1.50 pair.

We want you to see these lines and let us endeavor to supply your wants. You'll do that, won't you? Thanks so much.
