A deputation has been appointed to interview the minister at Toronto demanding the cement sidewalk be replaced and on a level with the pavement, thereby making it possible to use the walk, something that has not been possible since the highway was built. THE ... Mysterious Masquerade

By J. R. WILMOT

SYNOPSIS.

At a London dance club Molly Carstairs meets Roger Barling, who promises to get her a job. The following morning Molly is stopped by a policeman and taken to the station, where she is identified by a Mr. and Mrs. Silver as their missing niece. She discovers she is being used as a decoy in a gambling house. The Silvers next tell Molly that Major Carstairs her father is returning from India. Molly meets her supposed father and they take a flat in town. Roger Barling attends a dinner given by her father. She uses her loss of memory as an explanation of her silence. The real Molly Carstairs writes demanding money and silence.

CHAPTER XXV.

Paul Silver had faced many crises in his life but none of them had been so critical as the present.

Three days had gone by since the visit of Major Carstairs and his presumed daughter—days of panic and agony. He had sensed that beneath Major Carstairs' veneer there was a menace. The panic side of his nature had persuaded him thus.

On the other side there was Carstairs' last words as they stood together in the hall: "When I come back, old man, Molly and I are going away into the country. I've grown a little weary of London and so I think has she. We're going to settle down, and it may be a long time before we meet again. So I have been thinking that before we go I ought to make you and Flora a little present—a small expression of my thanks to you both—or all you have done for Molly during my absence. I am not a wealthy man, Paul, but I have some negotiable securities lodged at the Bank of France in Paris. They represent a thousand pounds. I hope you will not refuse them because I feel that I owe you a great deal. I have mentioned this now, the hopes that you will remain in London until I return."

Those words had remained indelibly limned on the tablet of Silver's mind. He had told himself many times that it was a nice idea, but what Paul Silver did not like were the Major's last words—"that you will remain in London until I return." That, to Paul Silver, represented the nag. It sounded ominously like a threat, especially if, while the Major was in Paris, he took it into his head to inquire at the school where Molly was supposed to have finished her education.

But that was not all. Certainly the prospect of obtaining a cool thousand on top of everything else he had had, was not to be ignored. There were other things. Silver had not yet recovered from the menace which Roger Barling represented, the menace which had prevented his indulging in any further little "parties" at the house until the affair had blown over. He had mentioned the matter repeatedly to Judson, but the fellow appeared to be more sullen than usual; sometimes he was openly incoherent, and Silver felt that he could no longer trust Mr. Judson further, especially as he had, as yet, failed to hear that the dead body of Roger Barling had been discovered lying around anywhere.

Silver might have surmised these tribulations with his old philosophic ease had it not been for a third menace. Yesterday he had received an anonymous communication which hinted that the writer knew all about the fraudulent Molly Carstairs; that he (or she) was actually in touch with the rightful daughter of Major Carstairs, and that if he, Paul Silver, did not immediately post three thousand pounds in notes to an address in Greenwich within three days, an interested gentleman at Scotland Yard would be put into possession of certain information.

It was not the first anonymous letter Paul Silver had received during his career. This one unnerved him. Tomorrow Major Carstairs would return from Paris. If all was well, Paul Silver had every intention of skipping the county inside twelve hours. His wife, on hearing what had occurred, was all for going immediately.

"And let a thousand slip by?" he sneered. "Not on your sweet life. I'm no quitter at this game. As soon as I've got my hands on the goods—that will be time enough. You always were one for being scared, Flora. You leave this matter to me. I know how to handle the big situations." So it had been left at that. Paul Silver had certainly no intention of paying over three thousand pounds to some unknown person in Greenwich. He was too old a hand for that.

Meanwhile Molly had been enjoying Major Carstairs' absence in Paris. Roger Barling had been deputed to "look after her," and as a custodian of young ladies in the absence of their responsible parents he was such a success that he vowed that, if ever he fell upon evil times, he would take the business up professionally.

Yet all the time he was with Molly—and they had some really jolly times down in the country and elsewhere—he was conscious that he was entertaining a fraud, an imposter. But that thought only made it all the jollier for Roger. He was firmly convinced that, somewhere, there was a ghastly mistake, and that this sweetly attractive girl was no willing party to the fraud she was perpetrating.

He had discussed the matter quite fully with Cleveland, whose knowledge of psychology was something to be admired profoundly.

"As I see it, sir," Cleveland had said, "the young lady is acting under duress. She is the victim of a more powerful mind, an evil mind. I believe it is termed a condition of hypnosis. For some reason best known to the principal behind the plot, the Major must be hoodwinked into believing that the young lady is his daughter, until such time as the principal deems it necessary to dispense with her."

And for once Roger had not smiled. He believed there was a great deal of truth behind Cleveland's extravagant language. No girl of Molly's disposition could ever have been guilty of wilful personation in this glaring and cruel manner.

If Molly could only be brought to confide in him; he knew it would help him considerably. At the moment he was working in the dark. For he did not want to do anything which would at all endanger the girl he loved. If she chose to remain silent, he could respect her attitude—would continue to respect it.

As for Molly, while she knew she was drifting into a deep love for Roger, she knew also the delicacy of her position. She had heard nothing from Molly Carstairs. She had written to say that the Major was in Paris and that she would like to meet her to discuss things; but she had received no reply. Dearly she wanted to open her heart to Roger and tell him everything, but rather than lose his love for her she knew that she must remain silent.

Molly and Roger had been down into Surrey that afternoon in Roger's car. He had taken her to Dalton Towers and she had immediately fallen in love with the delightful old place. It was after ten o'clock when they arrived back in London.

Molly, tired after her day's outing, felt she must go to bed. Someone rang the front door bell.

On the landing stood Molly Carstairs, an angry glint in her eyes.

"What have you done with him? Where is he?" she demanded, menacingly.

The girl pushed her way past into the flat.

"I don't know what you mean," faltered Molly.

"You're trying to double-cross me," accused the other girl. "You've done away with him. You've killed my father."

Molly sank down on to a divan.

"You wrote me that he had gone to Paris. I don't believe a word of it. You're in league with Silver. I've threatened Silver and apparently there's nothing doing. Why? Because between you, you've put him away. When did he make his will?" she demanded, her eyes like fire.

Molly felt calmer now. "I really don't know what you're talking about," she answered quietly. "Major Carstairs is due back probably in the morning. He told me he went there on business. What that business was he did not tell me. But I do know this," Molly's voice rose in an almost hysterical crescendo, "as soon as he does return I am going to tell him everything."

"Fine words," sneered the girl. "But you can't fool me. Either you give me a hundred pounds now or I go straight to the police. How does that suit you?"

"Seeing that I haven't a hundred pounds it suits me quite well," Molly told her calmly. She felt suddenly glad. "There's the telephone on that table beside the bureau; or shall I call Scotland Yard myself?"

Insist on it

The angry gleam had vanished from the other girl's eyes. A warm smile came to her lips.

"I'm sorry," she apologized, "but I've been through hell since last we met. I've been battling with myself, as to what is the right thing to do. I've thought of fading out altogether... letting this damnable world swallow me up. It's been torturing me long enough. By doing that I won't be disillusioning my father, for he will be horribly shocked when he knows what I've been through. I've tried to intimidate Silver, but he's still too strong for me, just as he always was. Some men are like that," she added, bitterly. "A woman has no chance with them."

The girl flung herself on to the divan beside Molly, and there were tears in her blue eyes. "You see," she went on, "if I do that, you'll be able to go on as if I were dead. Perhaps I shall be by that time; no one knows. Everything will be smoothed out and Father need never know."

Molly clutched the girl's hand desperately. "No, not that," she cried. "Not that! I want you to promise that you will leave this affair to me. That you will go home now and that you will stay there until I send for you. As you say, you've had a hell of a life. Well, the Fates owe you something, and I'm going to see that you're not cheated."

The girl beside her began to sob. "I'll do it," she assented.

"THESE HARD TIMES"

"The hard times and scarcity of money makes it more important than ever to economize. One way I save on clothes is by renewing the color of faded or out-of-style dresses, coats, stockings, and underwear. For dyeing, or tinting, I always use Diamond Dyes. They are the most economical ones by far because they never fail to produce results that make you proud. Why, things look better than new when re-dyed with Diamond Dyes. They never spot, streak, or run. They go on smoothly and evenly, when in the hands of even a ten-year-old child. Another thing, Diamond Dyes never take the life out of cloth or leave it limp as some dyes do. They deserve to be called 'the world's finest dyes!'"

S.B.G., Quebec.

As the two girls embraced, the telephone in the corner tinkled.

"Who was it?" asked the girl, as Molly came back to her.

"Your father," Molly told her. "He says he wants to see me at the Silvers. Silver is sending a car around in half an hour."

"Then I'm coming with you," announced the girl.

But Molly was adamant. "No," she countered, "not yet. Remember, you promised to leave this to me."

Quick Relief Now From Neuralgia

JACK, I'M TO SEE CLARK ABOUT THAT BIG ORDER IN 40 MINUTES AND I HAVE TERRIFIC NEURITIS... WHAT CAN I DO?

DON'T WORRY! GET SOME ASPIRIN. TWO TABLETS WILL STOP THAT PAIN IN A FEW MINUTES.

2 LATER
WELL, JACK, I GOT THE ORDER! YES, FELT FIT AS A FIDDLE... YOU BET, I'LL ALWAYS GET ASPIRIN WHEN I WANT QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Real ASPIRIN Starts Taking Hold in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN'S quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

WHY ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop an Aspirin Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

Can't Insure Hall's 3 Singing Voices

There's a limit to the variety of unusual contingencies that even Lloyd's of London will insure you against, it seems, that the sponsors of Wendell Hall, the "Red Headed Music Maker" seems to have run into something of a stone wall in their attempt to insure the voices of the lanky Red Head. Note the plural, "voices," for Wendell sings in three distinct pitches, and his sponsors wanted to insure all three voices for $100,000—against mishap. They made application with the A. F. Shaw & Co., Chicago agents of London Lloyd's, for the insurance but for once the renowned London firm was stumped, according to the Chicago agency. And that's no reflection on the permanency of Wendell's three voices, either, for he's had them all for a good many years now, and the chances are that he'll have them for a good many years to come.

Snapshots

Eddie Cantor, shortly before his return to the air channels, was being interviewed by a Hollywood girl for her high school paper. He had just come off the set fatigued from an exhausting scene. "Why, Mr. Cantor," she queried, "what makes you look so old?" "Trying to keep young," wearily replied Eddie. "Trying to keep young?" repeated the puzzled youngster. "Yes — four of 'em," explained Eddie. Phil Baker, the Armour Jester, while playing a New York vaudeville theatre years ago, gave each of the Neil Sisters, fellow artists on the bill, a $5-gold piece as a luck charm. Promptly the Neil Sisters' booking went wrong and it wasn't until necessity forced them to liquidate the "charms" that luck changed for the better.

Ben is Mournful

Ben Bernie and his cigar form one of the most inseparable teams in the show business and it is a slow day when the "Old Maestro" destroys fewer than thirty "heaters." But the pace has been telling on Ben and he finally consulted a doctor as a result, Ben has been on the diet of "nicotineless" cigars for an indefinite period. And—as the "Old Maestro" puts it—"Am I suffering?"

Cricket banjos in a geld Of rustling corn tipples; Apples on the ground beneath A row of pippin trees. The arrogance of summer Subdued somehow and sober— Smoke and bonfires, falling leaves, One last rose—October. —Ethel Romie Fuller. Gt. Rare flowers bloom in gardens In man's immediate care: The glory of the Autumn Grows freely everywhere

No loveliness, no vision More wonderful could be Than this rich, changing colour Breathed out from every tree.

EXCESS FAT DUE TO RHEUMATISM

One Remedy for the Two Troubles

Having rheumatism so badly that she could scarcely walk, this woman began to put on a load of superfluous flesh. In a letter just received, she writes:—

"I had a severe attack of rheumatism in both knees. It was so bad that for three weeks I could not put my feet to the ground. I was also getting terribly fat—through not getting my usual exercise. I started taking Kruschen, and persevered. The first thing I noticed was the tonic effect it had; the next that my rheumatism went, and—better than anything—I lost the wretched fat. I am a woman of 50, and when I tell you I do exactly the same work as women half my age without the least difficulty, I think you will understand why I swear by Kruschen Salts and recommend them wherever I go."—M.E.

The six salts of Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the waste and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely. The rheumatism and headaches disappear. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life.

Woman's Chatter...

By MAIR M. MORGAN

FOR DAILY LIVING:

R. M. N. Tisdall, British Olympic Champion has some very definite rules which he follows in his daily routine of keeping fit. On looking these rules over, it is quite apparent, that this business of keeping on your toes, is simple and demands no expenditure other than the development of sheer commonsense, which so many of us lack in our daily living. Here they are:

1. Never jump out of bed immediately upon awakening. Have a good stretch first, then get up without delay.
2. Never take violent exercise before breakfast. A little systematic stretching, copying the movements of the domestic cat, and a few minutes' deep breathing at an open window are sufficient.
3. Have a cold shower and a brisk rub-down if your constitution will stand it; if cold water fails to induce a warm glow however, try a tepid shower instead, followed by plenty of friction.
4. Don't fuss about food. Eat whatever suits you, but rigidly avoid whatever does not. Always stop as soon as you feel your appetite is beginning to wane; enough is better than a feast. Drink plenty of cold water between meals. Smoke if it soothes your nerves, but inhale as little as possible.
5. Don't indulge in violent exertion until two hours after a meal; never go in for any exercise that bores you—choose something you can enjoy or it will do you no good.
6. Let the sun and air get to your body as much as possible; see that your clothing is loose and light. Tight collars and shoes should be avoided.
7. Take an occasional rest-pause during the day. Sink into an easy chair and recline on a couch and relax your mind and body completely; it is Nature's finest tonic. When you are "off-color" spend a day in bed if you can afford it; it will often work wonders.
8. Don't worry over things until they happen; then it will be too late.
9. If you go in for physical exercise, perform them just before you go to bed; they will help you to induce sound sleep. Don't indulge in them when you are feeling "dog-tired," however; instead, simply stretch your limbs and run your hands over the surface of the body with a brisk rubbing motion towards the heart. But be careful to distinguish between tiredness and laziness.
10. Common sense and moderation in all things.

With winter and the accompanying ills—colds, influenza, nerves, etc., and above all the lack of the life-giving sun, these rules might well be followed by everyone and a comfortable winter insured. Knowing how easy it is to slip back into sluggardly habits, I would suggest pasting these rules on a piece of cardboard and placing in a prominent position in the household!

ON SMACKING

New York's magistrate, Jonah J. Goldstein, last week upheld the right of a neglected wife to smack "the other woman." A nice point! In dismissing assault charges preferred against the defendant, the Magistrate said: "Laws were enacted by human beings to regulate the conduct of human beings. With this in mind, I hold that a person is not required to be superhuman in the control of his or her conduct in this case, the defendant, a wife and mother of three children, failing to receive support from her husband, looked for and found him in the apartment he was occupying with the other woman.

"A wife meeting the other woman, the natural result is a clash and unpleasant words. I hold that the result of the natural impulse in this case is not a violation of the criminal law."

BOOKS

"Valerie Hathaway" by Claudius Gregory (McClelland and Stewart, Toronto), $2.50, is a story which will appeal to those who are interested in the deeper aspect of love; the relation between mental and physical love and the part they play in the life of a man or a woman. While the subject dealt with offers the author a chance to become wordy and heavy, perhaps, Mr. Gregory, escapes such an accusation, and offers a novel that can be read by everyone, from the flapper to the professor. As books are always acceptable as gifts—and the season is drawing near, it would not be amiss to put this book on your gift book list.

The Royal Family and the British Taxpayer

There was a surplus revenue in 1922-23 from the crown estates (which King George handed over to the nation on his accession) of £900,000, being a net sum from which no deductions have to be made for administration. The annuities payable from this surplus to the King and Queen and for salaries and expenses of the household, amount to £47,000, while the additional annuities to the King's mother, uncle and aunts and sisters, and to the King's children (except the Prince of Wales), amount to £163,666—a total civil list of £210,666. The nation, therefore, profits to the extent of £266,334, instead of being taxed for the support of the reigning house. The Prince of Wales' income is derived from rent of lands in the Duchy of Cornwall, which was created a duchy by Edward III., for the support of his eldest son. Since that time the eldest son of the sovereign has been born Duke of Cornwall.

Minnows solved a serious problem for the Italian engineers who wished to develop Istra, on the east shore of the Adriatic. The place was full of stagnant ponds in which malaria-bearing mosquitoes flourished. The place was conquered by introducing a special type of minnow from Carolina, U.S.A., which eats mosquito eggs greedily.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The most modest people in the world are heroes, those who have risked their lives in rescuing others from drowning or some other unnatural death. A hero is the person who ignores his or her own safety in the anxiety to save another person in great danger. The true heroes will not boast of their achievements, but will rather belittle what they have done and will say they have done only their duty, and what any other person would have done under similar circumstances. A hero is not only one who saves lives of fellow-men, but may run great risks in saving the lives of dumb animals, or running great risks in their efforts to save a burning building. During the past week two cases of heroism, performed by young women, was brought to the attention of the public. In one case a young woman saved another from drowning in the Rideau Canal by jumping into the dark, cold water, having taken off only her shoes. The other took place in a Muskoka Lake when a lady teacher from Toronto, saved the lives of several passengers in a motor boat, which burst out in flames. Both of these young women exhibited the true characteristics of a hero by minimizing the importance of their acts.

Two Toronto doctors have produced a new anesthetic which promises to be superior to any now in use. It has been tested out in one of the hospitals in the United States with very satisfactory results. At present the cost of production is very high, but that objection will likely soon be removed. As in all new medical discoveries, the profession will not be hasty in bringing it into general use until it has been thoroughly proved to be what is hoped of it. Toronto University has won a great name for itself for the many valuable discoveries made in medical science. Its fame has spread over the whole world, and speaks well for our great Provincial seat of learning. Not only in medical science has Toronto men won fame, but also in other branches, such men as Prof. McLennan, and others, have brought fame to Toronto University. It is one of the largest, if not the largest, university in the British Empire, and the money spent by the country, so that these men of learning may engage in their research work, is money well spent. The people of Toronto, as well as the whole province, have reason to feel proud of their great seat of learning.

We occasionally hear a young man or woman who have spent all their lives in the village, with the exception of a brief period spent in a large city visiting relatives or seeing the sights and when they return, belittle their home town for being "slow," and having no attractions worth seeing. They do not seem to know that the majority of those taking a part in the affairs of the country, were brought up and received the foundation of their future success in the humble village or small town, but more frequently on a farm. The most of the leading statesmen, merchants, lawyers, ministers, and many others occupying prominent positions in the country, are men and women brought up in the country, and when going to school in the summer would go barefooted, which of course is no disgrace. The clothes which they wore were made of home made cloth which would stand a great amount of wear, and in most cases were made by their mothers. It is true that the farm or country village does not possess as many attractions as the city, but instead of this being a disadvantage it is an advantage to the young man or woman who in the process of development for taking his or her part in life's struggles. Country life to-day possesses many more advantages than it did forty or fifty years ago. Modern machinery makes farm work lighter than that experienced by our ancestors, who did not have motor cars, telephone, rural mail delivery, radios and many other attractions. Too many attractions, however, are not conducive to the best interests of the young. Hard work very seldom kills any person, but too little work is an injury and kills thousands, as "satan always finds something for idle hands to do." Exercise is necessary for proper physical and mental development, and lack of sufficient exercise is detrimental. Country life may be "slow," but it is sure, in bringing out what is best in the young man or woman.

Westney for several years has severed his connection and intends going back to England for a holiday.

There was no church here on Sunday last owing to the anniversary services at Pickering. Many attended these Sunday and Tuesday meetings and were well repaid.

The Club met at the home of R. and Mrs. Hedze a week ago and had a splendid time. Mrs. Hedge had the house decorated with colored autumn leaves. It was decided to have a masquerade at the home of Gard. and Mrs. Winters on Friday evening, Oct. 27th. Everyone must come in costume or be fined.

The Masters of 1932 Masonic Lodges of Toronto, District B, to the number of fifteen or more with their wives paid a friendly visit to E. M. and Mrs. Chapman on Wednesday of last week and enjoyed an evening of social pleasure. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Downs the new D. D. G. M.

A quiet wedding took place on Friday the 13th, when Miss Jean Annan, eldest daughter of Theo. and Mrs. Annan, was united in marriage to Sydney R. Wonnacott, of Grasmere Farm. They were married at the Manse at Carleton Place by the Rev. J. S. Ferguson, a former pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Pickering. A short honeymoon trip to the Capital and its many noted places of interest was enjoyed. Their friends and associates extend every good wish to the newly married couple for a happy and prosperous life.

We are reminded that once again the hunting season draws near. Arrangements for this year's outing were made at the meeting on Saturday night. Our village always obtains its full share of the wild game which is to be found in our north-land.

On Sunday and Monday, Oct. 29th and 30th, Centennial Church is holding its Harvest Home Services and Social Evening. There will be visiting clergymen and Sunday with special music at both services and on Monday night a good program by local talent will be followed by refreshments including plenty of pumpkin pie. Further notice next week.

The orchestra which was recently organized under the leadership of Mr. Leo Barnes, for service in the Sunday School at Centennial, is doing good work. Mr. Barnes is an experienced conductor, and has played with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. Barnes is also an accomplished musician. Practice is held in the church every Thursday at 8 p. m., to which anyone who is interested is welcome. This is an excellent opportunity for those who desire to have orchestral training.

Mr. Aitken, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, has been suffering a severe illness since the holiday, when they visited Lockport, N. Y., and has been relieved by Mr. Rose, of Toronto. Mr. Aitken has now recovered somewhat, but the services of Mr. Rose are being retained while Mr. Aitken has been called for jury duty at the Court House, Whitby.

Claremont is this week being honored again in her business section, in the opening in the Bundy premises a pharmacy, under the management of W. L. Douglas. Local citizens will appreciate the service and facilities provided in the establishment of this venture, and the support and patronage of the local and surrounding community should be directed in a manner that will insure its success. We welcome Mr. Douglas to our community.

The marriage took place quietly on Saturday, Oct. 14th, at Markham, Rev. Mr. Fuller, officiating, of Kathleen Irene, only daughter of Fred and Mrs. Cowie, of Claremont, to Thos. G. The Oshawa Presbytery Young People's Union of the United Church held their annual fall convention in Claremont on the afternoon and evening of Friday, Oct. 13th. The afternoon session opened at 3.30, with the Ebenezer Young People in charge of the Worship Service. The greater part of the afternoon was spent in discussion, led by Rev. H. G. Crozier, Pickering; Rev. W. Rackham, Hampton; and Rev. P. L. Jull, Brooklyn. Supper was served at 6.00 o'clock by the Claremont ladies to about one hundred and twenty five young people. The Orons Young People opened the evening session by leading in the Worship Service. Stephen Saywell, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People, bought greetings from the Conference, and urged as many as possible to attend the Conference Convention, which is to be held in Cobourg on Oct. 27, 28 and 29. Rev. W. Tanton, of Oshawa, as special speaker, gave a very interesting and thought provoking address to the young people. Splendid music by the different Societies was rendered at both sessions.

The Eyes in Modern Life
by C. H. Tuck, Opt.

PROTECTION Part 9

It must be remembered that the cataract is not simple growth on the eye, but is a growth of a much more serious nature in the eye and because of its seriousness should not in any way be neglected or overlooked. There is also room for doubt in some cases at first pronounced cataract, because it is admitted by some authorities that the tyaloid artery which gave nutrition to the eye before birth in clearing away later leaves in some cases a natural opacity which never becomes any worse. Then again other diseases may for a time affect the lens and leave a mark upon it but when the disease is cleared up this mark will never become any worse. The reason some of these cases remain more fixed is because they are but scars on the outer surface of the lens, but should they become of sufficiently serious a nature as to affect the inner layers of the lens, then a more progressive form of cataract is really brought into existence. This then may be brought about by disease or by injury as before mentioned.

Anniversary Services of the United Church, Pickering this week

Anniversary Services in the United Church on Sunday last were unusually successful in every way. Dr. Laidlaw, of Erakine Church, Toronto, preached two remarkable addresses and was heard at each service by a large congregation, the auditorium in the evening being filled. He was assisted in the morning by the home choir and in the evening by that of the United Church, Claremont, whose presentations were very well received. The supper and program on Tuesday evening were very fine, the ladies provided an excellent chicken dinner, accompanied by the usual tasty jellies, salads, pumpkin, apple pie and cake galore. The program by the Toronto Vocal Ensemble, under the direction of Don. S Linden was the best yet. One man (a good judge) declared it the best program in Pickering for years. Their group of eight vocalists (all Radio Commission Artists) provided a group of numbers in which all of the required technique, coloring etc., appeared to be recognized, as all genuine artists do, and particularly radio entertainers. Miss Margaret Fullerton elocutionist, gave several new numbers in a new way to many Pickering listeners. It was reported in Toronto recently, by one of the staff conducting the auditions for the C. T. C. that this group was the finest of its kind he had ever heard. Frank Houston, of Toronto, accompanied the Ensemble. Mr. Bell and daughter, of Oshawa, gave two loudly applauded numbers in violin and guitar accompaniment.

Two People Asphyxiated In London Garage

Dr. Roland Jarvis and Daughter Found Dead in Car— Engine Left On

London, Ont., Oct. 15.—Shortly before 11 o'clock to-night Dr. Roland D. Jarvis, 63 Elmwood Avenue, and his daughter Beatrice, aged 20, were found dead in their garage, asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes from their automobile.

The doctor, for over 30 years one of the most prominent dentists in the city, and his daughter apparently had been sitting in the car talking, and failed to realize that they had left the engine of the auto running.

Doctors Kelly and Graham and Coroner Dr. J. C. Wilson were called. For almost an hour the physicians worked over the two, but without reviving a spark of life.

Coroner Wilson was informed that Dr. Jarvis and his daughter had left their home about 8 o'clock this evening after telling his sister, Miss Bertha Jarvis, that they intended to go for a drive. She was somewhat disturbed when they had not returned, and decided to investigate. They were found lifeless in the car in the garage.

Robert P. Haskett, a neighbor, summoned by Miss Jarvis, entered the garage and pulled both bodies into the open air, but subsequent examination showed they had been dead for about five hours.

No inquest will be held.

A son of the late Dewitt Jarvis of this city, Dr. Jarvis was born here. He attended London schools and graduated from the Ontario Dental College in Toronto. He had practiced here ever since.

Dr. Jarvis is survived by two brothers, Covert in Philadelphia and Clifford in Western Canada, and a sister, Bertha.

Geneva Speakers Attack Germany

Lord Cecil Accuses Country of Obstructing Disarmament

Geneva, Oct. 15.—German was subjected to a bitter attack by speakers before a huge peace manifestation to-night. The mass meeting passed a resolution expressing its "earnest desire for a successful issue of the disarmament conference."

Lord Cecil of England, heading the battery of orators, declared to the crowd which packed the hall of the reformation that failure of the conference would, perhaps, "irretrievably wreck world peace." He flatly accused Germany of obstructing disarmament.

"Germany has done her best," he said, "to prevent disarmament, but her attitude is one which must not be permitted to paralyze the action of any other."

He urged that the rest of the nations should draft a convention and give Germany the chance to accept or "shoulder responsibility for the rejection." He said the state of anxiety already existing in Europe was rendered acute by Germany's withdrawal from the conference.

"It is no exaggeration to say," he declared, "that if the disarmament conference fails war will be brought definitely nearer."

Prolonged applause followed Lord Cecil's declaration that the glorification of militarism "cannot be allowed to turn the world into a human shambles."

The manifestation was organized by the international consultative group for disarmament which is composed of the federation of the League of Nations Societies, the inter-parliamentary union, and several similar organizations.

Brief messages of greetings from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, President Roosevelt and other statesmen were read.

Ottawa.—A consolidation of the Customs Act, together with all amendments to the tariff, has been completed by officials of the National Revenue Department in a comprehensive volume just issued. The book contains all the Canadian trade treaties and interpretative notes for the guidance of importers. A number of explanatory appendices also add to the elucidation of that complex element of fiscal administration—the tariff.

New Trinidad Stamps

Trinidad, B.W.I.—Trinidad may soon have a new issue of postage stamps to take the place of the present issue, which was brought out in 1922. A committee has been appointed by the Government to prepare a design, which is expected to be based on drawings depicting local agricultural products.

Obeying a Dare Man Loses Life

Climbs Tree at Port Burwell, Touches Hydro Wire

St. Thomas, Oct. 15.—Clyde Ashburn, a young married man of Port Burwell, was killed about 4.30 o'clock this afternoon when his hand came in contact with a live Hydro wire running through the limbs of a tree near his home.

The victim fell from the tree a distance of 15 or 20 feet. Employees of the rural Hydro Department, experienced in resuscitation, worked on the body for an hour. The victim's right hand and one foot were burned. An inquest has not been deemed necessary.

According to the report made, Ashburn climbed a maple tree in a spirit of fun, at the suggestion of one of the young men with whom he was walking. As he reached up to the clutch of a limb, his hand touched the high voltage wire. He was 31 years old, and leaves a young wife and child.

Poultry Thieves Take Big Risks in London

London.—Catching a robber of hen-roosts by making him take his own photograph in the act was so ingenious the magistrate who tried the culprit complimented the complainant.

The thief wisely said he had no defence.

The accused, Frederick Barnwell, charged with stealing two eggs from a hen house, had to face the photograph of himself in court.

William Norbury, complainant, said the photograph had been "taken by the prisoner himself." He said that owing to losses from his fowl house he fixed a camera which worked automatically.

The magistrate, Sir William Rice, complimented Mr. Norbury on his ingenuity, and remarked to the police inspector: "Have you a vacancy in the force for a young man of promise?" "I must have him around at my place," Sir William added.

Mr. Norbury had arranged his camera so that when anyone entered the fowl-house the shutter of the camera would open. A second device produced a click. Thereupon the intruder turned his face toward the camera and the photograph was taken.

Prince Is Eulogized By New Paris Paper

Paris.—The new Parisian daily newspaper Le Jour, appears with an eulogistic editorial on the Prince of Wales. "The Prince, with the physical resistance of an athlete, endowed with extremely keen intellectual faculties, possessing unshakable moral stability, is the master of himself as he will one day be the master of half the globe," it said. "What one likes about him is that besides being the heir to a vast Empire, he is a man strong and independent, sure of himself and silently watching his destiny approaching him."

Hamilton Firestone Plant Increase Wages 10 P.C.

Hamilton.—Effective as of Oct. 9, wages at the local plant of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company were increased 10 per cent. All employees are included.

Confirming the report, William H. Funston, president and general manager, said the revision would mean payment of an additional $100,000 per year.

427 Left Service On September 1

One-Third of Veterans Retired Were Employed at Ottawa

Ottawa.—Only 427 were retired from the Civil Service as of September 1 last under the new Government order making 65 years the retirement age. Less than half, probably about one-third of the number were in the service in Ottawa, the remainder scattered throughout the rest of the Dominion.

The total net saving to the country in respect to salaries will be $827,500 annually after the periods of retirement leave with full pay have lapsed. These periods extend from one or two months up to six months, dating in the cases of all the 427 retired from September 1.

There had been all sorts of estimates as to the effect of the order with predictions that it would mean 1,500 or more leaving the service. While there is that number if not more at or past the age of 65, the Government applied the order only in respect to those whose positions could be abolished. Others, who would have had to be replaced, were not affected.

The order was dated July 31 and applied only to civil servants who were 65 years of age on September 1. It does not apply to any reaching 65 in then and it is learned that there is no disposition to do so since there has been a fairly thorough canvass of departments in Ottawa and Government offices elsewhere and it is felt that retirements have covered most of the positions that could be abolished.

Friday the Thirteenth Fatal For Cat, Sparrow

Winnipeg.—Seven sparrows pecked at a dribble of oat grains which fell from the feed bag of a tired milkman's horse early Friday. A cat leaped through the air and six flew away while the seventh lay in the cat's jaws. Frightened by the flutter of wings, the horse sprang forward and a wheel passed over the cat's body. "Some folks don't take any stock in this Friday the 13th stuff," muttered the milkman, as he watched the performance.

Busy Day For Stork

Kitchener.—What a trouncing the Friday the 13th hoodoo took from the Bowman brothers! Alfred, Norman and Richard Bowman won't forget it, ever. All three are fathers. Unable to carry the three youngsters to three different homes in one day, the stork got away to a fast start by leaving a baby son at the home of Richard. He completed the triple blessing by delivering a son to Alfred's home and a daughter to Norman's house at Shantz Station. The other two brothers live at Winterbourne.

Rice Lake Hunters Report Season Good

Cobourg.—Duck hunters returning from Rice Lake report the best of luck. They say the majority of hunters secured their full allowance of birds. It is stated that the abundant crop of wild rice and celery has been the great attraction for these birds this season. The past three or four years the shooting has been very poor on account of the feed shortage.

Charges of Insincerity In Disarming Unfounded

Statesmen of Four Big Powers Confer Throughout Sunday on Outcome of German Withdrawal

Berlin.—Germany, in bitter anger, announced her withdrawal from the League of Nations and the World Disarmament Conference.

Although two years' notice is required before Germany ceases to be a member of the League, her delegates were instructed not to attend a Council meeting and to return home.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—Under the dictatorial control of Adolf Hitler, her Reichstag and state parliaments dissolved, Germany stood tonight divorced in intention from the family of nations at Geneva and outside the disarmament conference.

On November 12 elections to the Reichstag and a plebiscite will be held in order to enable the people to express their approval of the course of the Nazi regime. Indications are that only Nazi names will appear on the ballots against which the voters may write "yea" or "nay."

Apple and Rifle Used by Bowmanville Lads, and Game Ends in Death

Bowmanville, Oct. 15.—Shot through the head by a charge from a 22-calibre rifle in the hands of his brother-in-law, Arthur Hockett, Arthur E. Lewis, a 15-year-old Bowmanville lad, was fatally injured in the presence of his father on Saturday afternoon.

The father, son and Hockett had gone out shooting after dinner near the Goodyear plant flats and were returning when the Lewis lad is said to have challenged Hockett to hit his hat as he threw it in the air. Placing an apple in it, he threw it, and Hockett fired and missed. Taking the apple out, the lad threw it in the air again, and Hockett aimed and fired as it came down. Just as he pulled the trigger, the latter told Chief Constable Sydney Venton, he saw young Lewis either step or trip in front of him, and the charge hit him just behind the temple, coming out at the back of the head.

Seeing his son fall to the ground shot, Fred Lewis fainted, and it was not until Hockett had revived him that the two were able to carry the lad half a mile to the Goodyear plant, where Dr. C. W. Slemon was called to attend him. He was taken to Bowmanville Hospital, but he died seven hours later, at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening. Coroner Dr. V. H. Storey, after questioning the two who witnessed the accident, decided that an inquest was not necessary. Arthur Lewis, an only son, is survived by his parents and two sisters.

Tiger Footballer Has Neck Broken

Raymond Roach of Cubs in Cast—Hurt at Half-time

Hamilton, Oct. 15.—Raymond Roach, a half-back on the Hamilton Tiger Cubs football team, had his neck broken in the game with Balm Beach here on Saturday afternoon.

Catching a kick a yard behind his own goal-line just before the half-time whistle, Roach was trying to run the ball out when two Balm Beach wing-men closed in on him. He went down, dropped the ball and the play coasted to a safety touch.

Carried from the field on a stretcher, Roach was found by Dr. J. W. Tice, the club physician, and Dr. J. K. McGregor, to be paralyzed in one arm. He is in a cast at St. Joseph's Hospital, where physicians predict his recovery.

$1,750,000 Elevator

Contract for the 2,000,000 bushel elevator to be built at Erie Beach, near Fort Erie, has been let to a Toronto firm. Estimated cost is $1,750,000. Plans for the elevator were made after the British Government agreed to allow six-cents-a-bushel tariff preference on wheat shipped through Empire ports.

Honored By France

Montreal.—Pierre Charton, councillor of foreign trade, has been named knight of the Legion of Honor, one of the highest honors bestowed by the French Government. He received the distinction in recognition of his efforts in promoting trade between France and Canada.

No More Sulphur!

Simcoe.—For years a spring has spouted sulphurous water for generations of Simcoe people. Recently it suddenly ran dry, its underground course presumably blocked or diverted. Now, just as suddenly, it has started to gush again—but there is not a trace of sulphur in its water.

Late Potatoes Yielding Better

Root Crops Improve—Recent Rains Encourage Planting of Fall Wheat

New Road.—The frequent rains have encouraged a number of farmers to put in some fall wheat even at this late date. Owing to the dry weather unless the ground has been plowed early, working the soil was found impossible, so the last week or so has seen quite an acreage sown following the rains.

Apple picking is well under way but the reports from the orchards are not promising a very heavy yield of good fruit.

There is still a small amount of barn threshing to be done; also some buckwheat and millet outside, but as most of the threshing is from the stook only a few farmers put their grain in the barn and this week will nearly finish the threshing.

The roots begin to show the effects of the rains and if fine weather continues there will still be a fair crop of turnips and other roots. The late potatoes are also much better than the early ones but not of as good quality as is usual in these parts. Beans are not yielding the usual crop.

The tobacco is now harvested and in the barns awaiting the buyers.

Woman Accidentally Shot by Husband While Hunting

Parry Sound, Oct. 15.—Mrs. H. Polkinghorne is in hospital here recovering from wounds inflicted when she stepped in front of her husband just as he was firing a shotgun. With four others, Mr. and Mrs. Polkinghorne were hunting. The party had spread out, and just as her husband fired she stepped from behind a large rock. A number of pellets struck her in the back. Her condition is regarded as favorable.

Blame Bear for Killing Sheep at Glasgow Farm

Glasgow, Ont.—Following the killing of a sheep at the farm of Henry Simpson here, and the sighting of a big black bear believed to be the killer, residents of this district were on a hunt for the marauder. Car loads of armed men scattered throughout the vicinity of the Simpson farm watching for Mr. Bruin.

Severe Weather Is Predicted

Fort Erie Weather Prophet Gives Reason for His Forecast of Cold Weather

Fort Erie, Ont.—The annual goose-bone prophecy for the Niagara peninsula has been issued by Joey O'Connor, 60-year-old resident of Fort Erie south. Mr. O'Connor has been prognosticating for 12 years in Fort Erie, and claims never to have made a wrong prediction.

Here are his reasons: the coming winter will be a cold and harsh one; The thickness of bark on the north sides of elm trees, size of bush in the tails of squirrels and the earliness of dogs in shedding their coats. The height of the weeds will be the depth of the amount of snow to fall and are said to be unusually high. Prior to coming to Fort Erie O'Connor obtained a wide reputation as a goosebone prophet in Ridgeway, Pa., where folk ordered their coal supply in accordance with his prediction, he claims.

Growth of the Reading Habit in the Old Country

Public libraries in the Old Country have shown a remarkable growth in recent years, observes the Toronto Mail and Empire in this editorial. On the eve of the opening of the Library Association Conference at Harrogate, the London Sunday Observer published an interview on the subject with Mr. L. J. Packington, chief librarian at Lambeth, a copy of which has been forwarded to us by Dr. George H. Locke, chief librarian, Toronto Public Library.

"The county libraries," Mr. Packington said, "now supply books to about 18,000,000 persons in rural and small urban districts. In 1931-32 there were 34,000,000 book issues in 110 counties in Great Britain and Ireland, and the cost of the service was only £255,000—a decrease of £12,000 as compared with the preceding twelve months. In the case of tiny villages, it is always possible to fit up a library in a school, or to get at the people by means of a traveling van, and the books are always welcome. I may add that the provision of library facilities in these rural areas has in many instances been made possible only by the generosity of the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust, which has made extensive grants to library authorities throughout the country. The figures I have given do not, of course, take into account the London libraries and those of the larger towns throughout the country as these are not under the jurisdiction of the county authorities. The following figures of issues for home reading purposes, however, show the growth of the reading habit among the people of London: 1910-11, 7,855,962; 1920-21, 8,559,745; 1931-32, 19,412,462."

Taking his own borough of Lambeth as an illustration, Mr. Packington mentioned that in 1927 the six lending libraries were issuing some 800,000 books annually, but last year the issue amounted to 1,500,000. The percentage of novels read tends to decrease. The public are certainly turning more and more to modern travel, history, and biography; and that change in taste may be explained by the fact that, in these branches, considered merely as recreational literature, books are written in a much more readable and attractive form than in the past.

How to Learn

When the old world blames and slanders us, our business is not to be vexed at it, but rather to consider whether there is any foundation for it, any truth at the bottom, though there be exaggeration and mistake. I conceive a person may always gain good to his own soul, gain instruction and useful suggestion, by the mistakes of the world about him."—J. H. Newman.

Toys and games are available in a novel free lending library for children recently opened in New York.

Brother of Peer is London Meat Buyer

He strides among the crowd of over-alled, straw-hatted buyers in Smithfield Meat Market, a tall man of military bearing.

Courteous always, yet as keen as any in his choice of the meat which presently will be carried away for sale in London butcher shops.

Some of the other buyers know him by sight and nod in greeting. But they do not know his name.

Their co-buyer is Lord Victor Paget, brother of the Marquis of Anglesey, and a member of one of Britain's oldest families.

Lord Victor has entered the meat trade with a friend. For the past few weeks he has been learning the ropes in Smithfield Market when the rest of London is asleep.

Those who know him say his progress has been rapid.

Lord Victor said: "My part of the business will be the actual buying and selling at Smithfield."

"My experience of meat was gained years ago in Canada," he said.

"I punched cows in the summer months and spent the winter months as a trapper—both professions giving a great deal of instruction in raw meat."

A new package for apples consisting of a corrugated paper carton holding a dozen apples has been devised by the Dominion Experimental Station at Fredricton, N.B. The top is covered with cellophane, exposing every apple to view.

Why So Serious? She laid the still white form beside those which had gone before. No sob, no sigh, forced its way from her heart, throbbing as though it would burst. Suddenly a cry broke the stillness of the place—one heart-breaking shriek. Then another cry. More silence. Then all silent but for a guttural murmur, which seemed to well up from the very soul. She left the place. She would lay another egg to-morrow.

—It has been announced by scientists that they expect in a few years to be able to predict the kind of weather we will have several days in advance, as they are convinced that sun spots play a great part in determining the kind of weather that we have. Special music will be rendered by the united choir of St. Andrew's, Whitby, and St. Andrew's, Pickering, at the Sunday service. —Traffic officers are insisting that the brakes on motor cars and trucks shall be in perfect working order, and quite a number have been served with summonses to appear in court to answer to a charge of operating a car with defective brakes. The fine for violating this law is from $10.00 to $50.00 for the first offence, so it will be well for motorists to have their brakes tested and have them attended to if they are found to be defective. It is a dangerous thing to have defective brakes, not only to the occupants of the car but also to other cars, especially in the city where traffic is heavy.

—The Dominion Government floated a refunding loan of $225,000,000, and in five days the loan was oversubscribed, which is a convincing evidence that there is plenty of money in the country, and that the people have abundant faith in the financial strength of the country. If this money could only be put into general circulation the people of Canada would be happy.

—Not since 1914 has there been greater unrest and fear of war than there has been throughout Europe and America during the past few weeks. This unrest is due to the attitude of Germany who, it is stated by the French government, has been secretly preparing for war for months. The allies have been acting generously with them, but Germany, apparently, wants to be treated as if they were the victors in the great world war instead of being the vanquished. It looks now as if another world war will be precipitated. Evidently they do not want to be treated in the same manner as they treated the French at the close of the Franco Prussian war in 1871.

—Massey Hall in Toronto, was re-opened on Tuesday last after undergoing extensive changes and redecoration during the summer months. This hall was erected about forty years ago, and it has been the scene of many great gatherings, and large audiences have been thrilled by the world's greatest singers and musicians. The remodelled building has won the admiration of the critics and all others who have seen it. The great singers have always praised the hall for its excellent acoustical properties, which have not suffered from the changes made. The presentation of this wonderful building to the City of Toronto by the late Mr. Massey was a great gift, and it has done much to make Toronto one of the great musical centres of the world, the building being recognized as having no superior on the American continent.

—The W. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church held a most successful meeting on Wednesday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. W. J. Miller, when about seventy ladies were present, including a number from the Whitby and West Hill societies. The president, Mrs. R. H. Cronk, presided. The chief feature of the program was an address by Mrs. Steinmetz, whose husband, Mr. Chas. Steinmetz, a student, is in charge of The First Hungarian Presbyterian Church, of Toronto. Mrs. Steinmetz, who is a Hungarian, has a splendid command of the English language, and with an entire absence of a foreign accent. She gave a most interesting address on the work carried on among the Hungarians in the Toronto church, and of their various activities and their struggles. Her talk was much enjoyed by all those present. Miss Little, of West Hill, and Mrs. F. Matheson, of Whitby, contributed solos that were much appreciated, and Mrs. Carmichael, of Whitby, and Mrs. Little, of West Hill, led in the devotional exercises. At the conclusion of the program a delightful lunch was served to those present.

—After many months of painful illness from rheumatic fever of the heart, Kenneth Gordon, younger son of Mrs. Gordon and the late James Gordon, died on Friday, Oct. 13th, in the Toronto East General Hospital, in his 38th year. Deceased, for many years, was in the employ of the Toronto General Electric, where he was held in very high esteem. About a year ago, he was stricken with rheumatic fever and, almost continually since that time has been confined to his bed. He seemed to be recovering, but on Thursday last he had a relapse and was taken to the hospital where he was given two blood transfusions as a last resort, but these were ineffectual, as he succumbed to the disease that night. His funeral took place on Monday afternoon, interment being in Erskine Cemetery. The service was conducted by the Rev. E. G. Robinson, assisted by Rev. Mr. Toye, of Kingston Road United Church, and the pallbearers were young men with whom he was closely associated in his younger days. He is survived by a sorrowing wife and daughter, also his mother, one brother Robin, of Pickering, and two sisters, Mrs. Paul Knifton, of Parry Sound, and Mrs. George Martin, of Pickering, for whom the deepest sympathy is expressed.

—Thomas and Mrs. Douglas, of Toronto, visited the latter's mother, Mrs. A. Barrell, on Sunday.

—COMING—F. E. Luke, Optometrist, of 187 Yonge Street, Toronto will be at Allin's drug store, at Whitby, to test eyes, on Tuesday, Oct. 31st.

—Premier George S. Henry has announced that a provincial election will be held within twelve months, and he has promised a beer and wine policy that will satisfy all classes. When the Liquor Control Act came into force it was promised that it would satisfy all. Evidently it has not done so, or why make a change. Neither will the proposed change be likely to give satisfaction to all classes. We believe that this new liquor policy has been forced on Premier Henry, as we do not think that it is his personal desire to make a change of this character.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A letter from the Representative Meeting of Canada Yearly meeting of Friends has been sent to Wm. E. N. Sinclair M. P. P. as well as to representatives from various other ridings throughout the Province, and is being published in local papers in the hope that other organizations, and individuals holding similar views may be encouraged to make their influence felt in the same way. The letter is as follows:

W. E. N. Sinclair M. P. P.
Oshawa, Ont.

Dear Friend:

We wish to send a protest against permitting more liberties in the sale of beer and wine, especially in allowing beer-parlors to be opened in increasing numbers.

Believing, as we do, that "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people" we earnestly desire that the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating drinks be totally prohibited.

Signed on behalf of Canada Yearly Meeting of Friends (Quakers)
Arthur E. Clayton,
Clerk of Representative Meeting
Retirement of S. S. Supt.

On occasion of the retirement of Mr. John Poynter from the session of St. Andrew's Church and from the office of Superintendent of the church school the Session desires to place on record their appreciation of his services.

Affiliating with St. Andrew's on its reorganization he was elected to the session and to the superintendency of the school. With deep zeal and untiring devotion he gave of time and strength to the fulfillment of the duties connected therewith. The prosperity of the Lord's cause lay upon his heart, and with prayer and labour he sought diligently to further the work of the Kingdom.

Assured that wherever the Lord may order his lot that he will be found eagerly engaged in the work that lays at his hand to do, the session commends him to the grace of God and prays that divine protection, comfort and fellowship may ever attend him and his.

H. CARMICHAEL, J. G. BAXTER,
Moderator, Clerk of Session.
