Here and There WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

In recently winning the Leon-ard Shield, in the provincial junior first aid competitions conducted by the St. John Ambulance Association, the first aid team representing the 10th Brantford Boy Scout Troop was repeating for the third time in four years. Windsor and Toronto Scouts first aid teams tied for second place.

An enrolment in Scouting of nearly three out of every four boys of the Church of Latter Day Saints was announced at the quarterly conference at Raymond, Alta. It was stated that the church had adopted the Scout Movement as a permanent feature of its programme. Declared the Elder Bullard: "It is just as important in this church as the Sunday school or any other auxiliary organization and we intend to promote it to the fullest."

"I cannot think of any better education and training for the youth of Canada than the Scouting Movement."—Hon. Gilbert Layton, Minister without Portfolio, Quebec.

London Sea Scouts having headquarters on the River Thames have enrolled in the Port of London Authority's River Emergency Service, being organized to protect shipping in wartime. Their duties will include rescue work and maintenance of communication by speed boats and a series of signalling stations, in case of telephone disruption.

A Boy Scout first aid squad maintained for the third year at St. George's Island Park, Calgary, by the 4th Calgary (Elks' Own) Boy Scout Troop, last summer took care of 81 cases of injury, according to the Annual Report of the Park Superintendent. The Scout first aiders were on duty 48 days, including week-ends and public holidays. The equipment for the station was supplied by the Canadian Red Cross. Medical necessities for the first aid chest are maintained by the Calgary Parks Department.

As a headquarters for Saskatchewan's training centre for Boy Scout leaders, plans are under way for building a replica of the old Hudson's Bay trading post at Fort Qu'Appelle. Duplicates of the ancient blockhouse and the group of log cabins will be constructed, and surrounded by a fence of palings. It is planned also to erect a provincial museum for Indian relics.

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

1.—When a secretary is introducing a caller to her employer, should she say, "Mr. Morgan (the caller), this is Mr. Gibson (employer)?"

2.—Which is better, to have a dozen real close friends, or be like some people who seem to be a friend of everybody?

3.—When a husband and wife are giving a dinner at their home, and have no servants, who should greet the guests at the door as they arrive?

4.—Isn't it all right to send out written wedding invitations?

5.—Is a woman permitted to be the first to suggest that a man call on her?

6.—Must the fork be used for cutting salad?

Answers

1. No. She should mention her employer's name first: "Mr. Gibson, this is Mr. Morgan, who telephoned you for an appointment." 2. It is preferable to have a dozen real genuine friends. "A friend to everybody is a friend to nobody." 3. The husband. 4. Yes. Informal notes, written on one's personal stationery, are all right, but engraved invitations and announcements is the better form. 5. Yes; she has that privilege. 6. Yes; one should not use the knife.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I keep the parts together when using a cement to repair broken glass?

A.—After using a cement to repair broken glass or china, place a strip of adhesive tape over the repair, temporarily. The parts will be kept together until the cement is thoroughly dry.

Q.—How can I prevent waste, and save time, when grating cheese?

A.—Time and labor can be saved when using cheese for au gratin potatoes and macaroni, if the cheese is put through the food chopper. By doing this, all the small pieces of cheese which are so difficult to grate, can be utilized.

Q.—How can I soften glue that has hardened in its container?

Q.—How can I clean white window shades?

A.—One method is to use finely powdered bath brick. Apply with a dry, clean nail brush. Brush the soiled spots briskly until the stains disappear.

Q.—How can I make a good acid for the manicure?

A.—Put one teaspoonful of lemon juice into a cup of warm water. Stains will be removed from the fingers and nails, and it will also loosen the cuticle.

What Science * Is Doing *

TOUGH MEATS "TENDERIZED"

A process of "tenderizing" meat through the use of ultra-violet rays—which makes cheap cuts as toothsome as prime sirloin has been invented.

The method, which soon will go into commercial use in Cleveland, supplants the costly, centuries-old process of "ripening" or "hanging" choice meats for weeks to achieve tenderness.

TO MAKE MEN STRONG

A new drink that makes men strong has been tested at the Long Island College of Medicine.

The drink is about one-third of a cupful daily of ordinary dry gelatine dissolved in orange and lemon juice.

Results, six men doubled their muscular endurance in about a month and a half training at bicycle riding. On women there was no effect.

CURE FOR FLU MENINGITIS

The case of a two-year-old baby who apparently was cured of influenza meningitis by the use of sulfapyridine, a new anti-pneumonia drug, was reported at University of Kansas Hospital last week.

EARLY CANCER TEST

A diagnostic test for early cancer in human beings—a development that would be a great aid in combating the disease—is reported in Science, official organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

LESSON II

PAUL PREACHES THE RISEN CHRIST (Easter Lesson)

Acts 13; 1 Corinthians 15.
Printed Text—Acts 13:16, 23-31,
38, 39; 1 Cor. 15:19-22.

Golden Text—But now hath Christ been raised from the dead, the first-fruits of them that are asleep. I Cor. 15:20.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—St. Paul began his first missionary journey during the summer of A.D. 47. He wrote the First Epistle to the Corinthians from Ephesus about A.D. 56.

Place.—The apostles set forth on their first journey from Antioch to Syria; they spent considerable time on the island of Cyprus. Paul's first recorded sermon was delivered in the synagogue of Antioch, the city of Corinth, to which the First Epistle to the Corinthians was addressed, was located in central Greece.

We come in this chapter to one of the epochal periods in the history of the Christian church, the beginning of Paul's great missionary journeys, by which the gospel was carried to the uttermost parts of the Mediterranean world.

Not long before this, the Lord told Ananias that Paul would stand before kings. This promise is now fulfilled, and the first-fruits begin to be harvested. Wherever the gospel has gone, there has been victory over every evil power, and the emancipation of men from the chains and bondage of superstition and sin.

Paul At Antioch

Acts 13:14-43. From Paphos Paul set sail for the coast of Asia Minor, and, landing at Perga in Pamphylia, he and Barnabas went the province of Pisidia, where were the province of Pisidia, where were living a considerable number of Jews, sufficient to require the building of a synagogue. To this synagogue on the Sabbath day Paul and those who were with him repaired; before the service was over the city had heard a great sermon from the greatest preacher of the first century concerning a subject about which probably none of them had ever heard before, the gospel of Jesus Christ.

16. And Paul stood up, and beckoning with the hand said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, hearken.

23. Of this man's seed God according to promise brought unto Israel a Saviour, Jesus. That God would raise up One from the line of David to be a Savior, all the Old Testament testified. What Paul is about to tell them, however, is not only that their Scriptures promised that such a person would come, but that he had come, in the person of Jesus of Nazareth, born and crucified in their very generation.

24. When John had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel. 25. And as John was fulfilling his course, he said, What suppose ye that I am? I am not he. But behold, there cometh one after me the shoes of whose feet I am not worthy to unloose. 26. Brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and those among you that fear God, to us is the word of this salvation sent forth.

27. For they that dwell in Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath, fulfilled them by condemning him. 28. And though they found no cause of death in him, yet asked they of Pilate that he should be slain. 29. And when they had fulfilled all things that were written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a tomb.

30. But God raised him from the dead. Here was the most astonishing statement that could have possibly fallen upon the ears of these people. Paul says that God, his God and their God, had raised this man from the dead, a double miracle, a miracle in nature and a miracle in divine government. He goes on to present further evidence to prove this astonishing fact that he has just announced. First, he declares that this person raised from the dead was actually seen, and that some who had seen the Lord were still living in Palestine and witnessing to this fact. 31. And he was seen for many days of them that came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are now his witnesses unto the people.

38. Be it known unto you therefore, brethren, that through this man is proclaimed unto you remission of sins: 39. and by him every one that believeth is justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses. The most important part of his first recorded sermon Paul lays stress on his favorite doctrine of justification, or the declared acquittal from the guilt of sin, a thing not obtained through the Mosaic law, but only through the death and rising again of Christ, and through it sinners trust on his saving work.

Heart Of Christian Message
In this glorious chapter in First Corinthians "we find the central, classic passage dealing with the subject of resurrection in the New Testament.

After proving the historic reality of Christ's physical resurrection Paul proceeds to emphasize the tremendous importance of such a fact. If a man does not believe in the resurrection of Christ, he does not have the Christian message; he does not have anything to preach of any value; and he most certainly cannot talk about salvation in Jesus Christ. Christ's resurrection is, among other things, an indisputable testimony to God's full acceptance of Christ's work for us on the cross.

19. If we have only hoped in Christ in this life, we are of all men most pitiable. 20. But now hath Christ been raised from the dead, the first-fruits of them that are asleep. 21. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. 22. For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive. Paul proceeds from a discussion of Christ's resurrection as a historic fact to an application of the fact to our own lives. On the one hand, Christ's resurrection is a guarantee of ours: he is the first-fruits; we shall follow.

On the other hand, Paul says that this truth, instead of giving us an excuse for carelessness in our daily life, should prove a tremendous incentive to holy living here, now, daily.

No Ontario Dog Gets Free Bite

Even If He Has Been The Victim Of Teasing He Must Spend 14 Days In Canine Jail.

The old creed that every dog is entitled to one free nip is considered by Ontario authorities as granting the mutts too much freedom, officials of the humane society and the Toronto dog license department announced last week. They were commenting on the defeat of a bill introduced by New York State mail carriers before the state senate to permit recovery of damages from a dog's owner for the first bite. New York allows each dog the privilege of one free nip, says the Toronto Daily Star.

"In Ontario," said J. M. Wilson, managing director of the Toronto Humane Society, "any dog that is reported to have bitten a person is subject to 14 days' observation for rabies. If it is found that he is free, he goes back to his owner.

"We find that the majority of dogs have been wrongfully accused," he added.

"Perhaps a pup has been playing with children," Mr. Wilson explained. "The play develops into a teasing session and the pup takes a nip with a 'now, I've-stood-enough, stop-it' attitude. If the nip draws blood, even from a scratch, a parent might become alarmed and report the dog.

Royal appreciation of the book "Canadian Mosaic," a recently published study of Canadian racial origins, by John Murray Gibbon, has been expressed to the author through Alan Lascelles, assistant private secretary to King George VI, who writes from Buckingham

JOHN MUKKAR, Proprietor.

To the Editor:

In reference to the play-offs of the Pickering Twp. Hockey League, might I first offer my sincere congratulations to the Brougham entry in winning the final game against a team that was not on the ice. The large score of 1-0 clearly indicates the hard fought battle the Broughamites put up against their conscience in accepting a cup that was not played for. Hockey rules clearly stipulate that a final game must be played until one team is declared the victor, but apparently the President thought the game was a Christmas celebration when gifts are handed out. On the day of the supposed final game the ice was certainly not conducive to good hockey, having had two inches of water on it the day before the game, and not until nearly six o'clock in the evening was anyone in authority notified that a game could be played at all; certainly not much time for a manager to notify his players and get them to Markham in time to play. However, some of the facts are: Brougham have the cup—Brougham players had their pictures taken, (your correspondent does not state whether the picture was taken while scoring the winning goal or not)—The President presented the cup, (empty)—and lastly, the cup should not have been presented without one team or the other having won it. Pickering was the only team in the playoffs with all their players living within the limits.

I hope, Sir, this little item will clarify the situation and leave no room for any further controversy.

THE GROOM WAS SHY~

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERY

Every one knew Mike had been put out of two prep schools the year before. His father was the owner of the local theatre and once Marlie's mother had seen Mike sitting in the drug store with a painted up chorus girl. That had finished her in so far as the Telling boy was concerned.

But Marlie felt that he had to show up, so he opened the gate and in a cold sweat, went up the walk and rang the bell. He was ill-prepared for the vision that opened the door.

In a daze, Marlborough faced a tall, willowy blonde, with the most gorgeous blue eyes in the world smiling out at him like twin cornflowers. She was in something all blue and flowing that just matched her eyes and when she parted her little mouth she dimpled and exposed the most dazzling set of pearls Mother Nature had ever handed out.

Marlie gulped and found his voice, but it sounded off key to him.

"C — could you tell me — is Miss Loring in, please?"

The golden-haired vision looked as though she were staring admiringly into the eyes of Clark Gable.

"Oh-h," she cooed. "You're Marlborough Jones. I jus' know you must be Mistah Jones."

"Yeah — why, yes ma'am," Marlie struggled for composure.

"I'm Tucky Louellen." The girl held out her little warm hand. "And Lisa said I was to introduce myself, on account of she isn't quite ready yet. Why, the minute I laid eyes on you I knew who you must be."

Marlie found himself in the big porch swing, with the belle of Dixie beside him. His face was the color of a beet.

"Yeah!" he repeated, floundering hopelessly. "How'd you know it was me?"

"Why, I knew you'd look like an artist. Lisa told me you were artistic and I just ador artists."

"I'm — I'm not an artist." Marlie put his hands in his pockets because they felt so large. "I've never painted a picture in my life. Lisa is just talking."

"Oh, no, I don't mean a painter." Tucky stifled her amusement. "You're a violinist, and musicians are artists, too."

Marlie wriggled. "I'm not a real musician."

Tucky's laugh was like the tinkling of little silver bells.

"Big men are always modest. You probly are a genius. Lisa says you are."

Marlie's embarrassment was so acute it took some time for him to change back to anywhere near a normal color. For the fraction of a moment Tucky was puzzled almost into believing her best friend had made a mistake, and invited the wrong man. But suddenly the light dawned. Lisa was playing a joke on her.

Lisa had invited this big bashful goof because she didn't want her to share any of the boy friends that mattered to her. Lisa was jealous because she'd taken a boy away from her the winter before.

Compliments Fly

For a few seconds Tucky fumed and was silent. Marlie sat miserably, waiting for her to say something to break the deadlock. Then Tucky's sense of humor got the better of her, and she made a very quick decision. Lisa must never know — never, never — that Tucky saw through her scheme. Lisa must think that she thought Marlborough Jones was the nicest boy she had ever met.

Marlie was scarcely prepared for the sudden warm smile Tucky had turned on.

"I'm going to to say all summer." She put a hand on his arm. "And I do hope we're going to be friends. I'm awful bashful with most people. But somehow when I saw you I felt there was a man I could really be myself with. I hate people who aren't real, don't you, Marlie? I'm going to call you by your first name right now, and you call me Tucky."

Marlborough felt a little of the numbness leaving his bones. He managed to answer, "I guess you city girls do get kind of tired of the people that just want to know you because you're somebody."

Tucky pouted. "And when you are a poor little nobody like me, with so many rich-and-beautiful women all around you, it's pretty sad."

"I'll bet you have so many fellows after you, you have to have a secretary to keep track of your engagements." Marlborough surprised even himself by his long, complimentary speech. Tucky rewarded him by showing the dimple in her left cheek that came out only on the rarest of occasions.

"Now don't you go sweet talkin' to me," she begged softly in her rich Southern dialect, and Marlie wished she'd go on talking all the night without stopping.

It was amazing how his self-consciousness was leaving him. In five minutes he was talking to her in a perfectly natural voice, on his favorite subject poetry. Much to his amazement she too read poetry every night before she went to bed.

Lisa was unprepared for the different scene which greeted her eyes when she joined them on the porch. Tucky and Marlie discoursing like two old friends! She veiled her green eyes and tried to just sound perfectly natural.

"I see you two got acquainted." She swept along the porch in a green ruffled organdie that impressed even Marlie.

"Oh, yes, honey." Tucky's dulcet tones dripped sweetness. "We have so much in common. I declare, I do not see how you evah managed to do so well by me, Lisa. Mostly my blind dates turn out so bad I just dread 'em. I really do."

"I'm a good picker." Lisa threw herself into a chair.

To The Red Rooster

Marlie was saved the task of thinking up something to say when Mike Telling hove into view in his new sports runabout.

"Here's Mike." Lisa jumped up. "I forgot to tell you, Marlie. We're going to the Red Rooster Inn."

Marlborough's heart turned over. The Red Rooster Inn! If his mother ever heard about that. They sold liquor and sometimes there was a fight. But gosh, what was he to do? Tucky had tucked her arm in his and they were halfway down the walk. Nothing to do then but go. Once wouldn't kill him — maybe.

Mostly Women Burned Fatally

Although Children Under Five Are Frequent Victims Of Carelessness

About 45 per cent. of fatal burns occur during the first five years of life, says Dr. John W. S. McCullough, of the Health League of Canada. Why is this? Chiefly because of the carelessness of parents, nurses and servants. Three out of five death-dealing burns occur in women and girls. From the fourth to the thirty-fifth year, there is a relatively high death-rate in females. Between the ages of five and nine, twice as many girls as boys die from burns. After thirty-five there is a higher death-rate from this cause in men than in women. In old age the rate is again higher in women. Burns in women are more frequent because of the type of dress they wear. These fatalities in women usually occur in the home. They are commoner in winter than in summer.

Apply Tea in Emergency

The danger of a burn usually depends upon the extent of surface skin involved. The simplest and most convenient household remedy for a burn of, say, the first two degrees is the application of a strong infusion of tea. This remedy has been used by the Chinese for 5,000 years. In all cases of any severity the aid of a doctor is necessary, but the use of tea as an emergency measure will relieve the pain and make the victim of a burn comfortable.

They get them early in Georgian Bay, Ont.—William Braithwaite, fishing through the ice, hooked a 15-pound (at least) whitefish, too big to pull through. While he reached for his axe to extend the hole, it got away.

What To Wear If You're Short

Hints To Help You Dress Flat-teringly

If you are short, says Josephine Lowman:

1. Wear unbroken lines. Dresses fitted in at the waist and without belts are best. No breaks should be made in the long lines even by color differences.

2. Wear a short waistline. This will make your legs seem longer.

3. Buttons, designs, stripes and all trimming and detail should go up and down and never across the body.

4. Wear small accessories. Your jewelry, your bags and your furs should not be large. Nothing looks more comical than a very short woman with a large fox fur.

5. Jackets and capes are not good for you. If you do wear them be sure that they are shorter than the waistline.

6. Wear skirts on the long side.

7. Wear small hats, particularly those that give you height.

If you are tall, follow rules which are the exact opposite.

Parliamentary Doings

With Ontario's Legislators, Spring, 1939
BY EEDY

To talk or not to talk . . . that has been the chief question confronting Conservative members of Ontario's House this session ever since the opening of the Throne Speech debate . . . Liberal M.L.A.'s, too, are harassed by a great deal of newspaper-sponsored comment about how every time you draw an extra breath in Parliament it costs the country money . . .

Premier Hepburn, dissenting from the view expressed by Conservative Leader George Drew that the Throne Speech debate is a waste of time, says that it is in this debate that the Government learns what the country is thinking and is enabled to base its fiscal policies in public opinion . . . Depends again on who's doing the talking . . . It makes some people mad to see all the chewing done by lawyer members of the House . . . "Farmers want a look-in, too" complained R. A. McEwing, Liberal (Wellington North) in his maiden speech . . . "it's high time they had more to say on the floor of the House" . . .

Fuel to the fires of dissension between Ontario's Liberal Premier and the Liberal head of the Canadian Government was added last week by the sheaf of resolutions made ready in the Ontario Legislature to be forwarded to Ottawa . . . particularly the one asking the Federal Government to repeal the Canada Temperance Act as is applies to the counties of Peel, Perth and Huron, and Manitoulin Island . . . This follows repeated defeats in the courts of the contestation of Attorney-General Conant and Premier Hepburn that the provincial Liquor Control Act overrides the federal statute . . . The passing of the resolution may be a deliberate move on the part of the Provincial Government to "pass the buck" to Ottawa on this ticklish question, knowing full well that probably nothing will come of it . . .

Action demanded of the Dominion Government to secure Ontario farmers lower freight rates on wheat also embarrasses Ottawa . . . but it doesn't embarass Ontario farmers, who have "practically lost access to the export market for wheat owing to the preferential rates accorded to Western Canada and United States wheat, wheat flour and wheat products moving by rail from bay ports through Ontario for export".

We really feel sorry for Prime Minister Mackenzie King, (whose hesitating stand in the last two international crises has borne the brunt of so much criticism), now that every man in the Ontario House has voted to support a resolution calling for the conscription of wealth and man power of Canada in the event of war . . . this Ontario resolution, however, may have been a little premature, in view of the fact that the National Government of Great Britain and Hitler are far from being enemies and not likely to fly at each other's throats for a long time to come . . . but maybe the reports of Nazis establishing airbases on Iceland put a little of the "fear" into us . . .

Looks like a short session and an early rising for the House . . . in time for the visit of the King and Queen, mayhap.

After a diet of rusty screws, nails and pieces of wire, three of M. Olivier's cows died from indigestion near Bloemfontein, South Africa, and the fourth was struck dead by lightning.

OUTDOORS

WITH VIC BAKER

1939 TO BE BIG YEAR FOR ONTARIO ANGLERS

Isaac Waltons of Ontario will have 7,000,000 more speckled trout to angle for this year and next in the lakes and the streams of their province, in addition to the regular 1,000,000 small-mouth black bass stocked annually by the provincial fish and game authorities, D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries of Ontario, stated recently in an address before the members of the Toronto Anglers' Association.

This information should serve as a reminder and as an inspiration to the readers of this column that March 21st—the first day of Spring—has already arrived and the opening of the trout season on May 1st will follow closely behind. Do not be caught napping when the fishing season arrives and start preparing your fishing gear right away so as to be ready when the bright morning sunshine heralds in the first official fishing day of 1939. Varnish those bamboo rods, clean the reels, reverse the silk lines, check carefully those wading boots, make the odd new lure in your spare time, either fly or artificial bait plug, and check carefully every part of your fishing outfit and then you will be ready and waiting for the time when you can take those week-end fishing trips.

WONDERLAND OF OZ

"I congratulate you," said Lord High Chigglewitz, speaking in a cheerful voice. "You are certainly the cleverest people who visited us. I was never matched so quickly in all my life. I am considered a great puzzle usually." "Well," said Dorothy, "there used to be a Jig-saw puzzle craze at home, so I've had some experience matching puzzles, but the pictures were flat, while you are round, and that makes you hard to figure out."

"Thank you, my dear," replied old Larry, "wore I not a good puzzle, there would be no object in my scattering myself." "Why do you do it?" asked Aunt Em, severely. "Why don't you behave yourself and stay together?" The Lord High Chigglewitz replied politely: "Madam, you have perhaps noticed that every person has some peculiarity. Mine is to scatter myself. What yours is I will not say, but I shall never find fault with you whatever you do."

"Now you got your diploma, Em," said Uncle Henry. "This is a queer country and we may as well take people as we find them." "If we did that we'd leave these folks scattered," was the reply. Just then Dorothy discovered a hand with a knitting needle in it and then began to put Grandmother Gnit together. She proved an easier puzzle than old Larry, and when she was completed they found her a pleasant old lady who treated them cordially.

Then the cook came to call them for dinner, and they found an inviting meal prepared for them. Afterwards they went out into the yard and matched several other people together, and this work was so interesting they might have spent the entire day at Fuddlecumif had not the wizard suggested that they resume their journey. "But I don't like to leave all these poor people scattered," said Dorothy, undecided what to do.

DIED DISILLUSIONED

Sally Rose, an Indian woman reported to have been 105, who remembered the time when the Indians of Northern Canada thought that the white man was a god, has died at Lepas, Manitoba.—London (England) Times.

SPUDS IN THIRD PLACE

Did you know that potatoes are the third most valuable crop in Canada? Wheat comes first, then oats and then potatoes. Latest returns show wheat to have a value of $204,000,000; oats, $110,000,000; and potatoes, $44,000,000.—Windsor Star.

ALL AVOIDABLE

There were 242 accidents at unprotected railroad crossings in Canada last year, causing 96 deaths and injuries to 300 persons—40 of the accidents occurring at crossings where there were protective devices. And every last one of the 242 could have been avoided if the drivers concerned had used caution and common sense.—Ottawa Journal.

TOO MANY REVOLVERS

This is also a good time for those Canadians who do not really need revolvers or automatics to ask themselves whether they and the country would not be better off if they turned them in to the police. Records show that criminals often secure such guns during robberies of private homes. If owners feel they must keep them as souvenirs or for other sentimental reasons, they might remove the firing pin or otherwise make them useless as lethal weapons.—Edmonton Journal.

Gentleman's Code

Testifying at Superior, Wisconsin, last week, before a committee investigating the County Welfare Department, an 80-year-old pensioner declared he had to write to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt before he could get enough old-age assistance to live on. When asked to divulge the contents of the letter he received in reply, the octogenarian reared himself to his full height, looked his inquisitors in the eye, and remarked: "I never reveal the contents of any letter I receive from another man's wife."

Some views on Twp. Hockey

To the hockey fans of the local league, we would like to say we cannot see anything mysterious about the way Brougham won the championship, as that is an exact duplicate of the manner in which Pickering eliminated Dunbarton.
