Winning Midgets To Be Officially Recognized By Community At Dinner

For the first time in the history of the village, a Pickering athletic team won an Ontario Championship, when the Midget D. hockey team carried off the Provincial Honors at Paris last Friday night.

Pickering lost the game by one goal, but won the "round" of two games 13 - 10. Almost as many people from Pickering went to Paris as to Stouffville on Tuesday night. It was a great night for Pickering as the fans gave rousing cheers at the closing bell. While the fans were happy, no one was happier than the members of the team, the Coach "Dink" Bie, manager Ray Dobie and sponsor Jack Boyes.

Goal-getters for Pickering were: Bill Jones, Bernie Beemer, Harry Scott, Elwood White, Pete Dawson and Bert White.

There were many tense moments throughout the game, when Ayr had Pickering down to a one-goal lead, but the locals always managed to come back with a flourish and keep ahead of them.

At the opening bell, Pickering scored a goal, but Ayr was right back to tie it up. Both teams fought hard all the way. As one Ayr fan stated "it was better hockey to watch than the Intermediates, who played the previous week".

A great deal of credit for time, expenses and hard work is due the men who worked with the team as well as those who willingly provided the regular transportation when the boys played away from home.

Plans are now under way by the village authorities and the many other interested groups in the community for a suitable recognition to take place within the next few weeks of which more will be said when details are complete. Everyone in the village is quite proud of the boys for the honors they have brought to Pickering and are equally anxious to see that their performances are properly recognized.

The accompanying photo was taken at a one-hour practice at Stouffville rink on the Friday night before the first Ayr game, and as the rink had been rented for sixty minutes, the rink manager chased the boys and photographer off the ice before a satisfactory shot could be taken.

St. George's Women's Guild

St. George's Women's Guild will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. MacDonald, on Thursday, April 5, at 2:30 p. m. With the members please try to attend this meeting which is of great importance.

Sarah Catharine Mariatt

The death took place over the past week-end of Pickering's oldest resident. Mrs. Sarah Catharine Mariatt in her 94th year.

Mrs. Mariatt, formerly of Shelburne, has been living here for some time with her daughter, Mrs. Anthony Lawson, Church St.

A loveable, Christian lady, known possibly to only a few in Pickering, one of the fine virtues attributed to her by those who did know her, was that she insisted on never being told about any undesirable qualities of her neighbors, she just did not want to hear anything about it, and formed her own opinions of her neighbors and friends. Her husband predeceased her some years ago. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Lawson; son Arthur, of Toronto. Sons Joseph W. and John H. predeceased her some years ago.

Service was held at the home here on Monday evening, with interment at the Shelburne Cemetery on Tuesday at 1:30 p. m.

Girl Recovering After Dog Attack

Patricia Thibert, aged 7, of the Third Concession is recovering following a vicious attack on Tuesday by her pet dog King. The dog tore most of her hair out and mangled horribly, her right arm. Mrs. Thibert kicked the dog off, but it still attacked. The girl needed thirteen stitches in her head and two in the arm.

Dr. P. W. Loos stated to the News on Tuesday the dog will be kept alive for ten days to determine if it has rabies. He asked "that in future all dogs that have bitten someone, be kept alive so they can be tested for infection."

The Thibert dog, part Husky and part German Shepherd will be destroyed at the end of ten days. Another dog, a fox terrier stood by and watched the spectacle without moving. Mrs. Thibert said "they would have no more big dogs on the place."

And so once again "man's best friend has forgotten his stuff, and became normal."

"S. S. Ajax" Musical At Ajax Recreation Hall Thursday, Friday And Saturday

With a cast of thirty-five, including twenty beautiful chorus girls, the Ajax Little Theatre is presenting a musical review in the Ajax Recreation Hall this Thursday, Friday and matinee on Saturday afternoon.

Proceeds from the show will be turned over to the Ajax Recreation Committee to further the work of recreation for all ages in the community.

The musical extravaganza has been written, including several musical scores, by members of the Ajax Little Theatre, and talent from the whole district has been welded into a professional like-show.

The theme of the evening centres around a group of girls who have spent a year at Miss Malady's Finishing School on the Continent, and are on board the ship "S. S. Ajax" returning to their homes in Canada. Several sets of sea shanties by a male chorus add the salt tang to the humorous skits, ballads and novelty numbers which intersperse the main theme.

Whitevale Has Self-Serve Now

Mr. Grant Van Blaricom, who lost his store and home in a $20,000 fire last Wednesday, at Whitevale, has set up a temporary self-serve grocery in the Oddfellows' Hall there. The fire started in a storehouse at the rear of the store and soon swept through the buildings. Some furniture and merchandise was saved. Pickering and Brougham fire trucks worked nearly half the day helping save adjoining buildings. Stamps, money orders and mail were saved. Mr. and Mrs. Van Blaricom and the four children came from Eastern Ontario to Whitevale six years ago.

Women's Institute To Co-operate In Reception To Midget Hockey Team

The March meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Presbyterian Church basement with a fine attendance of nearly thirty.

Various items of business were disposed of including further arrangements for the bazaar on April 21; a letter of thanks from the Children's Aid Society for a donation of used clothing, and the appointment of Mrs. Pyette to act as our representative in co-operating with other groups for the hockey boys' banquet.

A very pleasing feature of the program was an address on "Information to Women about Banking", given by Miss Mary Boyes.

The various services given by the bank were outlined, showing it to be a very necessary and valuable institution.

The appointment of managers is made with great care, and a periodic and careful scrutiny of the business of a bank is made by qualified auditors, in order to safe-guard depositors and share-holders.

Three things about a safe-deposit box should be noted - neither cash nor jewellery should be kept in one. All bonds should be registered and a list of them with their serial numbers should be kept at home. The meeting adjourned after a social half-hour with refreshments.

Fire Department Called Wednesday Noon

The local Fire Company was called on Wednesday noon to a grass fire east of the local school. While the grass fire itself was of no great concern, it was feared that a change in the wind might give some trouble among a growth of young trees in the area, and was therefore a "precautionary move". No damage was done.

As announced elsewhere on this page, Village Authorities, with the Rotary Club have set in motion plans for a community reception for the boys of the Midget Hockey Champions. Expenses will of course have to be met, and the invitation is therefore extended to any and all groups, organizations or individuals who would like to contribute to a fund set-up for this purpose to leave same with Mr. N. R. Shortreed, Can. Bank of Commerce here.

Two Dishes Easy on Purse and Palate

BY EDNA MILES

WITH soaring food prices threatening to pop the lid off the food budget each week, dishes that combine economy, nutrition and taste appeal find an important spot in the meal-planner's book. Macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodle dishes fit this category and because they lend themselves to wide variation with sauces, cheese, leftover meat, fish and vegetables, may be repeated often without loss of savor.

This spaghetti with white clam sauce is a quickie, too. Less than 15 minutes preparation should do it.

Spaghetti With White Clam Sauce (four servings)

Two tablespoons chopped fresh parsley, 1 chopped clove garlic, 1 chopped onion, ¼ cup olive oil, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 large can minced clams, 1 package thin spaghetti. Brown parsley, onion and garlic in hot olive oil until ingredients are cooked. Season with salt and pepper. Add clams and simmer for about 5 minutes. Don't overcook or clams will become hard. Drop spaghetti in boiling salted water. Keep water boiling. Stir occasionally. When tender, run cold water into hot water. Drain and serve with sauce.

Macaroni and Cheese Supreme (six servings)

One pound jumbo macaroni, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 cups milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 package thin spaghetti. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water. Drain and place in casserole. Melt butter in sauce pan, add flour and blend. Add milk and stir slowly until sauce thickens. Season. Flake cheese and scatter over macaroni. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs. Pour sauce over all and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes.

HOW CAN I?

By Anns Ashley

Q. How can I treat leather which has faded?

A. Give it several coats of water-colour paint, choosing of course, the shade of the leather. After the paint has thoroughly dried, rub the surface well with a good furniture polish, and the result will be pleasing.

Q. How can I prevent table-candles from dripping excessively?

A. If the candles are varnished with a good clear shellac, it will not only add to their appearance, but will prevent them from dripping on the table cover, or wherever the candles may be placed.

Q. How can I treat fingernails that are too brittle?

A. Rub the fingernails with olive oil every night before retiring. Wear an old pair of gloves to protect the bed clothing.

Q. How can I remove stains from a tile hearth?

A. Stains on a tile hearth can be removed with a strong solution of washing soda, mixed with fuller's earth. Apply in a thick paste and allow to remain for about an hour, then wash with hot soapy water.

Q. How can I make a good soap jelly?

A. This can be made from the scraps of soap around the house. Dissolve these small pieces of soap in just enough water to cover them. Add one teaspoonful of borax for each pint of the mixture.

Q. How can I prevent pies from overflowing in the oven?

A. Insert a short piece of uncooked macaroni in the top of the crust. This will stop the overflow. Or do this at the start to prevent overflowing.

Q. How can I restore wilted lettuce?

A. Wash carefully in a basin of water to which has been added two tablespoonfuls of vinegar or lemon juice. Allow it to stand for about an hour, then wash in cold water, and it will be restored to its former freshness.

Q. How can I measure out drops of any liquid if I have no dropper?

A. Dip the finger in water and moisten the rim of the bottle in one place. If this place is used from which to drop the liquid, it will drop evenly and easily.

Q. How can I treat celery to insure its being tender when served?

A. Allow the celery to lie in water for about seven or eight hours before serving, and it will be very tender.

Q. How can I make a temporary repair to a leak in a gas pipe?

A. Moisten some common soap and press it tightly over the leak. Or use a paste made of whiting and yellow soap mixed with water. Never have a lighted match, candle or other flame near the leak.

TABLE TALKS

Jane Andrews

By this time you've all probably familiar with those semi-sweet "chocolate bits" and have used them for cookies and the like. But perhaps you haven't realized how versatile they are, and the wide variety of uses to which they can be put. The following recipes are all well worth a trial.

ORANGE CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
¼ cup orange marmalade
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice

Method: Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, blending together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in marmalade and orange rind. Add flour alternately with orange juice, mixing well, ending with flour. Turn batter into well greased pan (10 x 15½ inches). Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Cut cake in squares, top with slice of ice cream and serve with chocolate sauce, or frost cake with chocolate frosting. If desired, top with whole or chopped nuts. Makes 24 squares.

CHOCOLATE DUET (Frosting or Sauce)

1 package of semi-sweet chocolate
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
3 to 5 tablespoons hot milk for frosting
¾ cup hot milk for sauce
1 teaspoon vanilla

Method: In top of double boiler put semi-sweet chocolate and butter. Heat until melted and mix until smooth. Remove from heat. For frosting, add milk and sugar alternately, adding enough milk to make a spreadable consistency. Stir in vanilla.

For sauce, increase milk to ½ cup. Makes enough frosting for top of 10 x 15-inch cake or 1½ cups chocolate sauce.

SEMI-SWEET SYRUP

1 package semi-sweet chocolate
¼ cup sugar
1 cup hot water
¼ teaspoon salt

Method: Melt chocolate morsels over hot water and stir until smooth. Add remaining ingredients, blending well. Place over direct heat and boil 3 minutes. Makes 2 cups syrup. Store in cool place.

CHOCOLATE-RIPPLE COOKIES

¾ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 package semi-sweet chocolate melted

Method: Cream shortening, sugar, and vanilla thoroughly. Add eggs and beat until light and fluffy. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to egg mixture, blending well. Swirl the melted chocolate, which has been cooled, through cookie mixture, giving marbled effect. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 12-15 minutes. Makes 36 cookies.

FUDGE NUT BARS

1 package semi-sweet chocolate
¼ cup shortening
2 eggs
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped nuts

Method: Melt chocolate and shortening over hot water. Beat eggs, add sugar and vanilla and beat until light and fluffy. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to egg mixture. Stir in melted chocolate mixture which has been cooled. Add nuts and blend thoroughly. Pour into grated 8-inch square pan. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Makes 16 bars.

Now let's get away from the chocolate theme for a moment. With Lent over, perhaps a fish recipe won't strike you as very timely. But this is such a good one that I'm going to pass it along, timely or not.

SALMON SURPRISE

1 16-ounce can salmon
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup grated sharp cheese

Method: Drain and flake salmon. Melt butter, add flour, salt and pepper, and cook about 1 minute. Gradually add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir mustard into white sauce. Add flaked salmon and egg slices. Pour the creamed fish into individual baking dishes or shells. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Put under pre-heated broiler about 3 minutes, or until cheese is lightly browned. Serves 6.

LONG DISTANCE CALL

From Wellington, New Zealand, comes this odd story about Police Constable Bertie Kidd, an enthusiastic radio amateur, who was working his transmitter in a cell at his station some time ago when someone accidentally slammed the door and locked him in.

When he realized what had happened he found there was no one to release him, but he knew exactly what to do. He sent a radio S.O.S. about his plight to another amateur in Brisbane (1,500 miles away). The Brisbane man acted promptly. He called up a third amateur he chanced to know in Wellington, who at once phoned the police. And the constable who had accidentally slammed the door walked about fifty yards along corridors and opened it to let P.C. Kidd out!

USING HER NOODLES

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — Mme. Valentine Welter doesn't know the old expression, but nevertheless she's using her noodle. Also her husband's noodle, and any other noodle she can lay her hands on.

The "noodles" she uses are the edible kind. She makes things with them, things like necklaces, ear-rings, hair ornaments and the like.

Mme. Welter is a graduate of the Beaux Arts and is a well-known Parisian interior decorator. But her doctor condemned her to a long diet of noodles. After she'd been decorating her own interior with noodles for a while, she became fascinated by the slippery little things.

She discovered that they come in many tricky shapes and sizes.

Her artistic sense prompted her to fashion them into different forms, then enamel them in gay colors.

"There are something like 80 different kinds of noodles," says Mme. Welter. "I use them all."

When noodles were rationed in France, Mme. Welter would exchange her precious ration tickets for other things, getting noodle tickets in exchange. For people who preferred steak, it was a good deal all around.

Now she finds her noodly knick-knacks have become a good source of income. Don't tell anybody, but a bride at a fashionable Paris wedding wore a diadem made out of solid noodle. Everybody thought it was ivory.

MME. VALENTINE WELTER: The guests thought it ivory

Model Airplane Fans Afloat—HMCS Cayuga boasts one of the most up to date collections of model airplanes in the Royal Canadian Navy thanks to the carving talents of Able Seaman Fred Hughes, of Winnipeg. As a result of his handicraft, the Cayuga has 15 models of the latest Russian type aircraft and their corresponding Allied planes.

AB Hughes started carving model airplanes at the age of ten. He has made all the model planes aboard the Cayuga from scrap wood gathered from boxes in which the ship's supplies are received. For blueprints he uses photos or diagrams in aircraft recognition journals.

In the above photo, AB Hughes, right, holding a model of a Russian MIG-15, compares it with an American F-86 held by Ldg. Sea. Glen Clemmet, of Vancouver.

WHEN you consider the men, women and money needed to operate 3,700 branches—you see what is involved in looking after the greatly increased demands made by busy Canadians upon their chartered banks.

In ten years... with bigger staffs and higher wages, payrolls have jumped from $40 million a year to $102 million

... taxes, federal, provincial and municipal, have risen from $9.5 million to $20.7 million a year

... interest paid to depositors has increased from $22 million to $57.8 million a year.

And these are only three of many expense items. Yes, today more than ever, it costs money to run a bank.

Pickering District High School
Home Economics

Original courses of this nature called, Domestic Science limited the training largely to Cookery and Sewing. Today a modern course in Home Economics simulates more closely the social and domestic training necessary for the mistress of the home.

The room itself presents a home-like atmosphere and is modernly equipped and decorated. It is subdivided into units and has everything required for a kitchen, dining-room, living room, sewing room, bedroom and laundry.

All girls get experience in all of the divisions by sharing in the work and rotating through the jobs. Elementary work is taken in Grade Nine and more work is taken in Grade Twelve.

The Course in Home Economics includes:

1. Selection and making of clothing.
2. Preparation and serving meals.
3. Social duties of a hostess and family.
4. Home care of the sick.
5. Food and nutrition.
6. Consumer education.

The above is good training for home making as well as a career. In years gone by, the daughter learned these skills and arts by precept, example and apprenticeship with mother in the home. Today this is a most difficult task when mother is also coping with social duties, scientific dietetics, mechanical gadgets, packaged provisions and a sixty-cent dollar. One could almost say that a girl's training for home-making in the home is, of necessity, being neglected these days.

A Course in Home Economics provides a systematic method for training girls to take their place in the homes of today and tomorrow. This is a big job in a scientific world. It is a job that can be done most efficiently and effectively in school. On top of that, girls just love it.

Dumbarton United Church

As with most other churches, our Easter morning service was like an anniversary occasion with almost every pew occupied. Our own choir rendered appropriate Easter music in a very acceptable way, and beside our choir we had the children's choir from East Woodlands Sunday School. These young girls gave us two numbers and their sweet voices rang out clearly and joyously with the Easter message.

We are hoping to have these young people with us again next Sunday evening when they will give us the Easter Story in tableau form. The service will be in charge of the session and we believe will be of exceptional interest. We extend an invitation to all who can come, to be with us - morning at 11.00 and evening at 7.30.

W. M. S. Pickering United Church

will be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Murkar, at 7.30 p. m. on Thursday, April 5th. Devotional period will be in charge of Mrs. Fraak Baker; the study in charge of Mrs. George Shaver.

A special collection and donations of new, or good used clothing for girls from eight to eighteen years of age will be appreciated. Everyone welcome, including visitors.

Centennial United Church

For the first time in forty years we had an overflow congregation on Easter Sunday and found it necessary to put chairs in the aisles. It certainly was a grand sight to see so many folk out on this glorious day in the Christian Church. The Primary Dept. retired before the sermon and we are glad to say we had fifty-five of them; since the older group remained for the church service we are unable to give a true picture of school attendance, but it must have been near the one hundred mark again.

Good Friday service was also well attended when pictures of the Life of Jesus and of Westminster Abbey were shown.

Next Sunday morning is our quarterly Communion service and we hope to see a full church again. There will be a reception of new members at this service.

The following week, April 8, the W. M. S. are holding their Easter Thankoffering Service when the special speaker will be Mrs. Bonis of West Hill. Mrs. Bonis is the daughter of a missionary and wife of the Rector at St. Margaret's Anglican Church, and the ladies would like to see a large group on hand to hear her message and help us meet our Allocation through the special envelopes which will be found in the local pews.

Our present big effort is the financial campaign for funds with which to build the manse. This week letters and pledge cards will be mailed to all members and adherents and we hope you will read them carefully and return the cards as soon as possible. We hope most of the cards will come in on the offering plates Sunday mornings during the next couple of weeks, but if you are unable to attend, kindly mail them to W. H. Irvine, Port Union P. O., who is treasurer of the Building Fund. Messrs. H. Brumwell and Carl Walker are co-chairmen of the Committee.

"SALADA" TEA

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

by Gwendolene P. Clarke

These are housecleaning days—and my hands proclaim it! Some folk can use strong cleaning powders without any ill effects, whereas it leaves my hands rough, red and raw—and this week there is an Institute quilting to go to! But still I have two bedrooms and a closet of the Fibber McGee variety, all clean as a new pin, so my hands won't have suffered in vain.

Apparently not many housewives have started housecleaning as fires and furnaces are still going strong. I hardly know what gave me the idea... maybe the crows flying back and forth; or the flies buzzing around the windows—or maybe I just couldn't stand the look of the house any longer. Anyway, if the weather is cold to start with it will probably be hot enough when I get through housecleaning.

Now if I just went into a room and cleaned it that wouldn't be so bad. But no, I make work for myself. I wonder... "would these two rooms look nicer if I changed the dressers around?" And the beds... "I think I'll have two single beds in this room and take the double bed into the other room." And so I change things around, lugging the stuff from one room to another myself because if I asked Partner to help that would immediately start an argument—"Why move this, why move that?" No man yet has been able to understand why a woman likes to rearrange furniture every little while. Maybe no woman can explain it either—but there it is. The average man, of course, likes furniture as immovable as the Rock of Gibraltar.

While we are on the subject, I have found that moving fairly heavy furniture requires knack more than strength. Suppose you have a big cupboard without casters. Too heavy to move? Oh no, it can be done quite easily. You need a couple of wooden rollers—old-fashioned curtain poles will do quite nicely. Tip one end of your cupboard and with your foot, slip a roller underneath. Now do the same the other end—you will find that cupboard will move as easily as a toy wagon—except that you must watch and adjust the rollers from time to time. Even a kitchen stove can be moved this way—but not by one woman!

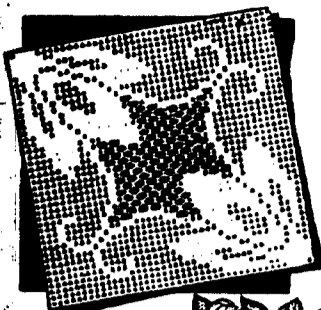

Dressers are not trick at all to move alone. Take out the drawers and there is very little weight left to push around. Felt that tresses can be rooled up and tied for easy handling. Spring mattresses are another proposition—there, I am afraid, you do need help. Old-fashioned beds can be taken down and reassembled quite easily with the aid of a hammer. I wouldn't know about new ones as we haven't any. It is a good idea to find out what you can do alone because help isn't always available. But for goodness sake, don't take chances. If you need help wait until you can get it. And if you have ceilings and walls to wash, use a step-ladder to reach them. One farmer's wife, whose kitchen ceiling is very high, used to make a practice of putting a chair on the kitchen table to stand on while washing the ceiling. It took a broken arm and a few cracked ribs to make her change that little habit. As a matter of fact she had no business washing ceilings anyway—not with her high blood pressure. Some women do the craziest things. Are you among the glibly?

Generally we think of housecleaning along practical lines, but it has its sentimental side. For instance, cleaning out that out-of-the-way cupboard. The things you take out... and the things you put back again because you can't bear to destroy them! Last week I opened a box from just such a cupboard. Its contents... a child's tea-set; a bag of marbles; a tiny mechanical toy and a poor, dilapidated doll—with no arms, a patched up head, faded complexion and moth-eaten clothes.

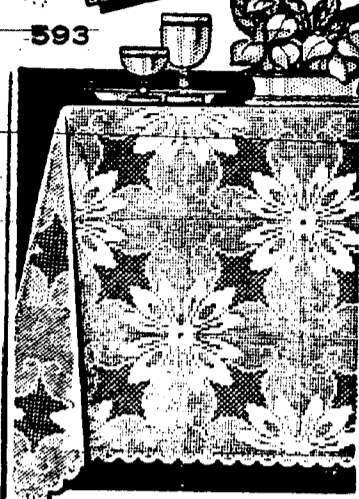

Why had I saved it all these years. Daughter probably didn't even know it was there. I think every mother knows the answer. With one's family grown up there is so little left to remind us of when they were small. I realised I was being ridiculous so this time I took the poor old doll down to the cellar. As I shut the furnace door I thought of a little poem Daughter used to love—

"I once had a dear little doll, dears,
Just the loveliest doll in the world.
Her cheeks were so red and so white, dears,
And her hair was so beautifully curled.
But I lost my dear little doll, dears,
As I played on the heath one day."
For my own satisfaction, I made up a different version—just for myself—
"I lost my dear little doll, dears
As I cleaned up the attic one day.
Ah! me, how foolish can we mothers be?"

"What's the difference between valor and discretion?"
"Well, to go to a swell restaurant without tipping the waiter would be valor."
"I see. And discretion?"
"That would be to eat at a different restaurant the next day."

ANNE HIRST

"Dear Anne Hirst: 'I'm 25, and for eight months I've been going with a girl of 28. We want to get married, but we keep on having one continual argument—finances.

"She wants a handsome engagement ring. A new home. Expensive furniture... She says she'll be willing to work for two or three years, to help get these. But she states plainly that she would never be happy if she had to do without her good clothes, etc.

"She doesn't come from a well-to-do family, though I think they have a clean, comfortable, and happy home. (She calls it poverty.) She makes $1,000 more a year than I do, and she has money saved.

"She says it is the man's job to buy the furniture, though she knows I haven't any cash on hand. To give us a start, I'm willing to sell my car, and cash all my bonds—about $2,500.

"Should I marry the girl? Or am I blindly in love? She says she loves me, and I honestly think she does. C. J. M."

BLIND INDEED

Suppose you sell everything you have, and start the girl off in the style she demands?

How can you keep it up?

As the children come, your wife will have to give up her job. With no money ahead, how do you expect to pay the bills? Does your position give any certainty that in, say, three years, your income will be doubled? Houses need repairs, furniture and clothes wear out, raising children is costly. Yet your wife will expect to continue to live on the same luxurious scale on which her marriage began. How could you support that, and allow for the unforeseen emergencies which every couple must provide against?

I have no doubt the girl loves you as much as she is capable of loving anybody but herself. To me she seems one who puts the fleshpots first; she is frank to say that without material things she could never be happy.

To be fair, however, maybe she makes these demands to stimulate your ambition, spur you on to greater productive heights, for both your sakes. Or, if through her childhood years she lacked the necessities of life, she may have vowed she will never repeat the experience.

A girl who really loves a man loves him for himself, not for what he provides. She is even eager to sacrifice the comforts that she always had, just to live with him and make him happy. That, she counts as her highest privilege. Unless this girl you love is willing to take you "for richer, for poorer," and be a loyal and loving partner in whatever fortunes or misfortunes await, I cannot feel she is the one for you. If she cannot be happy with our riches, let her find them with somebody else.

If the girl you love demands luxuries you feel you cannot provide, see her as she is—and be thankful you found her out in time.

... Anne Hirst is here to listen to your problems, and try to help you solve them. Write her at Box 1, 123 Eighteenth St., New Toronto, Ontario.

SPORTS & C

by A SIXBIT CRITIC

Each year there comes a time when every sports writer worthy of his salt—and a whole lot of us who would be overpaid even in that commodity—feels it incumbent upon him to let go all holds and predict the winners of the National and American League baseball races. Just why this should be is more than we can say, but it's an ancient baseball custom like rising and stretching before the home team's half of the seventh inning, or giving the raspberry when the umpire's name are announced over the loud-squawkers.

Well, that time has rolled around once again, and like the character who was met on his way down to Bangor to get pie-eyed, "Gosh how we do dread it!"

For we, personally, would much rather rest on the laurels won last year when, as nobody remembers, we came within one game of calling both winners, the Philadelphia Phillies just nosing out our Brooklyn Dodgers pick in a photo finish. We did, however, select the New York Yankees, a team which the majority of prophets couldn't see winding up better than third.

Still, duty is duty, so once more into the breach, dear friends, dread it as we may. Besides, there is a hunk of space to be filled up, the dead-line fast approaches, so here goes—but with the warning that anybody rash enough to wager on these selections would be taking far less of a chance betting on wrestling matches.

In the National League, Brooklyn looks to be a cinch. They should have won last year, and probably would have done so but for a late-season slump occasioned, in all probability, by some of the Dodgers getting the not-unusual notion that press clippings can win ball games.

Anyway, the figures show the Dodgers winning by a fairly comfortable margin, their keenest contention coming from the Philadelphia Phillies, who figure to sag a bit from their 1950 drive—a drive that amazed everybody, including themselves.

So that's the way the dope reads—Brooklyn Dodgers, first, Philadelphia Phillies second. Therefore, with our customary mule-like consistency, we are selecting neither of the two. Our pick for the National League Pennant—and, when it comes to that, for the World Series—is the New York Giants.

(We now pause briefly so that you can all get the laughs out of your system over such a ridiculous choice.)

We turn next to the American League and here we find that the figures make it even easier for a prognosticator to choose the winner, Boston Red Sox, by as far as a circus press agent can toss the ball, is what it looks like. Steve O'Neill has the pitchers; he has the hitters; and in addition to one of the best infields in baseball—Pesky, Stephens, Doerr and Dropo—he now has added Lou Boudreau—a very handy guy to have around at all times.

Yes, indeed, it looks as if Mr. O'Neill might be suffering from what one word-painter described as "a plethora of riches." In fact, Steve might be like the egg who found himself with five aces in his hand in a poker game—on his own deal—and was puzzled about how to get rid of the extra one.

So Boston Red Sox it is, according to the crystal ball, and if they have any trouble at all making the grade it should come from the direction of Detroit, where Red Rolfe has a team that should improve on last season's form—which wasn't so bad after all.

But if you think we're predicting a World Series between Boston Red Sox and New York Giants, you aren't aware of the way our reputed mind works. No, we can't seem to see Boston, or even the Detroit Tigers. Along about next October we look for an all-New York series—Giants versus Yankees—with Leo Durocher's club finally taking it all.

Having written that we were just about to announce another time-out—this one of the purpose of calling up a bookmaker and inquiring the price against such a double. However, we suddenly remembered that bookmaking has been declared highly illegal on both sides of the border, so we'll just have to try and imagine the odds. Something around a thousand to one, we would think. Well, we just wish we had a dollar riding on the two New York Clubs at such odds. For that matter, we just wish we had a dollar period.

As for our opinion of the Stanley Cup results, which somebody has just called to inquire about, surely that is one event that doesn't require any deep thought. From start to finish of the present season the Detroit Red Wings have looked a mile the best. They've been practically all the way. They have hockey's best front line. They have hockey's leading goal-scorer. They have by far the best defence in the league and a goal-tender who, at this writing, appears to have the Vezina Trophy right in his mitts.

So a man rash enough to pick against Detroit for the Stanley Cup would be a fair prospect for a lunacy commission, wouldn't you think? Well—come on then, Commission: for we're taking the Toronto Maple Leafs.

THE FARM FRONT

by John Russell

"I can think of no quicker way to ruin the quality of a good egg than to pack it little end up," says a well known poultryman. Yet far too many poultrymen fail to use this simple method for keeping a good egg good.

When eggs are packed with the points up, the air cells have a tendency to weaken and the yolks to rise. These eggs will go down in quality to either B or C Grade. At certain times in the year this can mean a loss of as much as 20 cents a dozen under the Grade A price.

High temperatures also are more disastrous to eggs packed with the little end up. Above 30 degrees, the yolk begins to rise until it touches the shell and is then more likely to go bad from bacterial action than when completely surrounded by egg white. But an egg packed little end down has a better chance of keeping the yolk surrounded by white and cushioned by an air cell.

Eggs packed little end down also are less liable to shell breakage in handling. And the customer is less likely to break the yolk when he breaks the shell.

If you have good-quality hay, silage or pasture, the protein concentrate in your dairy-cow ration may be an unnecessary expense. Tests conducted over a four-year period have shown that levels of protein usually recommended can be cut 3 or 4 per cent without loss of production. A ration of high-quality roughage, supplemented with farm grains, contains enough protein to maintain a cow with above average production.

Three groups of cows were compared on a ration which differed only in protein content. Corn, wheat, beet pulp and 41 per cent soybean meal were included in the concentrate; while corn silage, alfalfa and timothy were fed as roughage. Levels of protein feeding were 10, 14 and 18 per cent. When milk records were added at the end of the tests, there was no significant difference in production between the three groups.

The man in charge of the tests, figures a 1200-lb. cow producing 70 pounds of 4 per cent milk daily can get along on farm grains and 30 pounds per day of good alfalfa hay, legume pasture or silage. Even if she eats only 25 pounds of roughage per day, she ought to be able to maintain body weight and produce 60 pounds of milk.

Red clover hay has less protein, and on 30 pounds per day, a cow probably could remain in good condition while producing 45 pounds of milk. At the 25-pound rate, she would need extra protein at milking rates above 35 pounds per day. Timothy and other poor-quality grass hays are low in protein and are not attractive to dairy cows. Only an occasional cow would eat 25 or 30 pounds roughage of this type and even then she would need large amounts of extra protein to produce at a profitable level.

On high-quality legume-grass pasture, cows can get more than enough protein for maintenance and high production. Alfalfa, an alfalfa-brome mixture, ladino and other clovers are high in protein when young and succulent. In another set of tests, cows were able to get 2½ times their normal protein requirements from rotationally grazed legume and rye-grass pasture.

If pastures are made up of low-quality grasses, extra protein probably will be needed. On pastures of this type or on legume mixtures subjected to midsummer heat and drought, a grain ration with a protein level of 12 per cent probably would be needed to be supplemented with 20 per cent soybean-oil meal to meet maintenance and production requirements.

Iron-curtain Kiss

The scene is a train compartment in Rumania. The characters: A Russian officer, a Rumanian officer, an old lady and an extremely attractive girl.

The train enters a tunnel. The passengers hear first a kiss, then a vicious slap. The train emerges into the light again. Everyone remains silent, but the Russian officer has a black eye.

The old lady thinks: "What a good girl she is. Such good manners, such a fine moral character." The girl thinks: "Isn't it strange that the Russian tried to kiss the old lady and not me?"

The Russian thinks: "That Rumanian is a smart fellow. He steals a kiss and I get hit."

The Rumanian thinks: "I am a brilliant fellow. I kiss the back of my hand, hit a Russian officer and get away with it!"
